Charlevoix buried under decade's worst storm

Northern Michigan's worst snow storm (or prettiest, depending on your view point) in ten years paralyzed traffic Friday and Saturday, December 27 and 28.

High winds and an estimated 18 inches of snow clogged roads with drifts. By late Friday evening many county roads and local roads were shut.

The season's heaviest influx of skiers made problems worse for snow removal crews, who found trunklines jammed with stuck downstate cars, often making snowplowing impossible until wreckers could be called.

By Saturday afternoon the Charlevoix County Road Commission pulled its plows off county roads and turned its full effort on battling drifts on M-32, M-66, US-31, US-131 and M-75. Plow crews were on the road through the night, often fighting a losing battle.

In Charlevoix streets became drifted and in many instances impassable by Saturday afternoon.

Saturday evening brought out snowmobilers, who appeared to be the only ones on city streets.

Road Commission foreman Gene Towsley said the storm was the worse the area has had since the disasterous winter of 1958-59.

Fortunately, the wind and snow slacked off late Saturday night. Had there been one more day of blowing, Towsley said, it would have been worse than 1958-59.

Early Sunday morning county and city road crews began clearing operations. By mid-morning city streets and major county roads were cleared. A few county side roads were still plugged Monday morning as exhausted crews kept battering away at the snow.

Friday's storm fails to halt final run for boat

Many epic confrontations between men and ships go on untold on upper Lake Michigan.

This year's final trip of the Beaver Island, December 27, might be such a tale.

Involved was a gamble that men and boat could win one more round with Lake Michigan's notorious December temper.

The element of risk was accepted because the men who make the decision are Islanders who know how dependent their neighbors are on that final shipment of supplies before winter locks the island in its desolate grip for 120, or so, days.

The cargo included a mish-mash of vital items, such as cases of fresh milk, canned foods, a high-powered snowmobile for Walt Wojan, a bathtub, grain for Department of Natural Resources fire officer Bill Wagner's cattle, a bathtub and building materials. When the fresh milk is gone most Island children will drink canned or powdered milk for the rest of the winter. Fresh milk brought over on the plane will become a real treat.

There were also 30 mineral enriched salt blocks. Members of the island game club will scatter the blocks in selected remote areas for deer.

Most of the last boatload of supplies went to the two general stores--Dick LaFreniere's and Lloyd and Bud McDonough's.

For more than two months the boat has been heavily loaded nearly every trip with winter supplies for the stores and building materials.

It took more than an hour to unload the boat. Snow clogged the dock and made maneuvering pickups difficult.

The boat had left Charlevoix with its previous cargo at 9 a.m. sharp Friday, December 27, for its 299th trip of the 1968 season. More than ever before. The previous record was 286.

Since making the first crossing on April 19 skipper Lawrence McDonough and his shipmates, Johnny Gallagher, engineer, and Russ Green, first mate, had averaged more than one trip a day. Each trip took a little over five hours. Tending to the boat took nearly as much time.

With hundreds of more tourists flocking to the island, some of them building cottages, and all requiring food and other items hauled on the Islander, the schedule was the most demanding in history.

The end of the tourist season did not bring an end to the need for the boat's services.

St. James Township Supervisor Lloyd McDonough estimates the island's year-round population is up to around 225 this winter. In 1960 it was 211. But in the early 1960s it declined to less than 200. Dick LaFreniere estimates it might even be a shade higher than 225 this winter.

There are two new homes this winter in the village. They are owned by Jerry LaFreniere and Doyle Fitzpatrick. There are many new cottages scattered around the island. Work will continue throughout the winter at some cottages, thanks to snowmobiles.

Other additions to the village this winter include a new telephone building and a new home for the Catholic sisters who teach at the "public" school. For the first times telephone service has been extended to the south end of the island.

There is talk, discounted by many, that upwards of 100 cottages will be built next spring and summer for people who bought land from American Central Division.

Perhaps the most tangible indication of the island's improving economy is the existence of 18 or 20 snowmobiles. James Gallagher, boat company manager, reports Islanders bought a dozen new ones this fall.

An indication of something, perhaps that working on finishing cottages this winter will keep people busy, is the fact that less booze was shipped during the last few weeks than in previous years.

When Capt. McDonough turned the Islander out of Charlevoix's harbor Friday morning for its last trip visibility was perfect. A passenger in an airplane 500 feet above Charlevoix could readily distinguish characteristics of the island shoreline.

By the time the boat was unloaded at St. James about 12:30 p.m. Friday's vicious storm had socked the harbor in. An angry east wind was pelting wind into the 100-foot ship's nose as McDonough turned her for the final return crossing toward her winter berth in Round Lake.

The dozen or so persons still on the docks turned their backs to wind and ship almost before McDonough had her away from the dock. Winter had arrived with finality for the Islanders!

Within seconds of leaving the dock the real drama started to unfold.

The long, relentless season hadn't been too much for the crew. But it had taken a heavy toll on equipment. The radar was out of business and in for repairs. There was no working radio direction finder. The depth sounder was out of business. Even the windshield wiper was tempermental.

Ice formed on the windshield. McDonough and Green were joined by a couple of passengers in searching the gray-white nothing for the harbor buoys. First one, then the second was found.

Now McDonough could turn on his course for the tiny speck of Charlevoix's harbor lights across 32 miles of white, surging blindness.

City ponders objections to Round Lake apartments

For the third time in three years efforts are being made to block construction of an apartment building on Charlevoix's waterfront.

A citizens group has asked the City Council to squash architect Jack Begrow's plan to develop a 32-36 unit condominium-type building on the south shore of Round Lake.

Lead by John Makel and represented by attorney Norm Ance, the group contends Begrow's apartment building would cause congestion on Belvedere Ave., infringe on their view of Round Lake and is in violation of the zoning ordinance.

The protest group consists of homeowners living in the first block of Hurlbut east of Bridge St. Their homes now have a view of Round Lake and their address is Belvedere Ave., though the houses are actually on Hurlbut.

City Councilmen, acting as the Zoning Board of Appeals, made no decision on Begrow's request for a building permit to begin construction of the first ten apartments units.

After hearing the protest group, Councilmen are reported considering hiring an outside attorney to determine if the apartment building would be in violation of the zoning ordinance.

City attorney John Michael recommended that an outside attorney be asked to resolve the question because his law partner, Don Berlage, represents Begrow.

The basic legal question is whether Begrow's building would be taller than the 35-feet allowed under the property's industrial 1 zoning.

According to Begrow, the building will be an average of 26-feet above the level of Belvedere Ave. and 52-feet above the sub-basement footings, which are considerably lower than Belvedere Ave. because the property slopes rapidly from the street to the lake front.

Berlage contends that the 35-foot height limit means above street level. Opponents of the plan argue it should be measured from the ground level on which the building stands.

Begrow said his plan also meets zoning requirements for property setback from the street and sides.

The property is owned by Robert Schleman and is between Ward's and Beilinger's marinas. It is 287 feet long and between 145 and 90 feet deep.

Begrow has an option to buy the property from Schleman. He is anxious to get the zoning question resolved before the option expires and in time to begin construction early in the spring.

He estimates the project will have a total value of more than $1 million.

Earlier this year Begrow's plans for a six-unit condominium on the Pine River channel next to the Weathervane Inn were blocked by a lawsuit started by owners of the Inn.

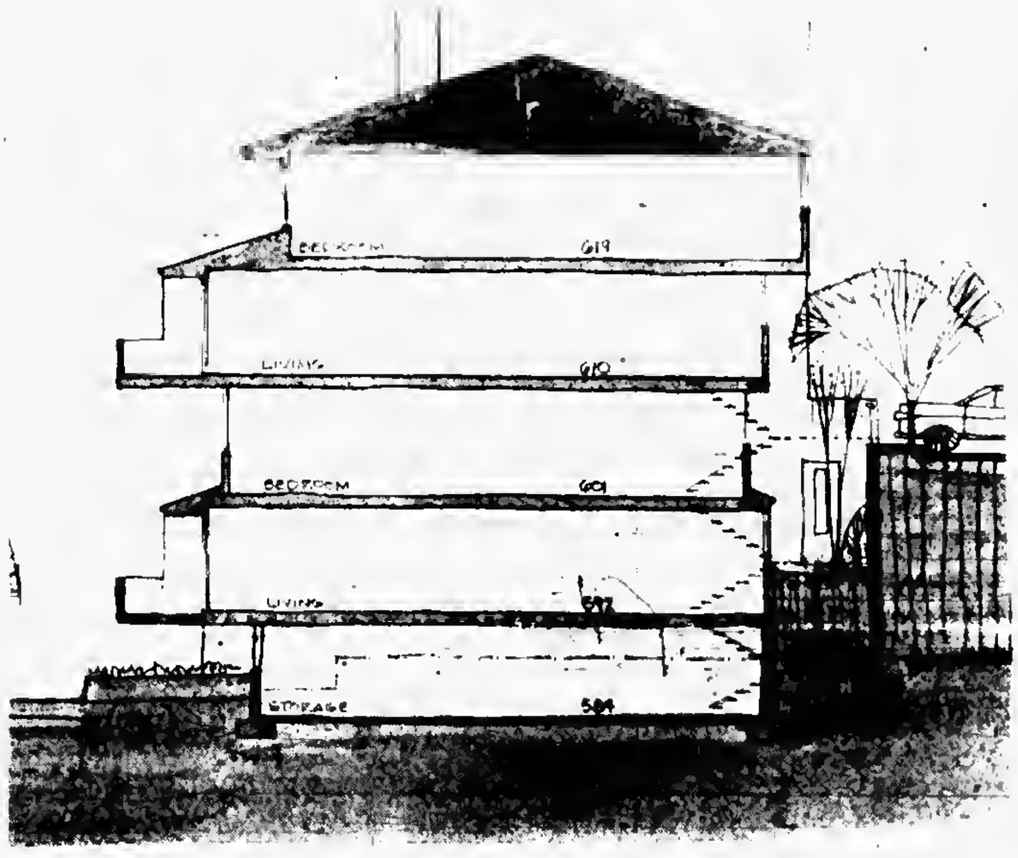
The lawsuit claimed the building would be in violation of the zoning ordinance. Because of the rapid slope from the street to the waterfront, the same legal question as on Round Lake was involved.

The lawsuit was never settled because Begrow sold the property to attorney Art Reibel and picked up an option on Schleman's property. Delays caused by the lawsuit were given as Begrow's reason for abandoning the project.

In 1966 citizens protested a plan by the late Jim Davis to build an apartment building on the north shore of Round Lake directly west of the Chicago Club. Objections to it were similar to those against Begrow's two plans.

Begrow's request for a building permit was brought to the City Council's attention due to the possibility of a lawsuit by the protest group.

Schleman reportedly has had the property for sale for several years but has found no one willing to buy it for marina use.



THIS SKETCH by architect Jack Begrow gives perspective to the argument about the heighth of his proposed condominium on Round Lake. As seen on the right the building will be about 26 feet above the level of Belvedere Ave. The view on the right shows that it will be about 50 feet above the ground on the lake side. Begrow contends the 35-foot height limitation in the zoning ordinance should be measured from the street level. Those protesting the plan contend it should be measured from the lake front level.

Seniors seek permission for first class trip since 1956

The Charlevoix School board last week agreed to re-consider its 12-year-old policy of not allowing senior trips and the advise of its attorney against such pre-graduation junkets.

Three seniors -- Beth Baldwin, Debbie Potter and Larry Straw -- asked the board to allow it to take a two-night "educational" trip to Lansing.

The seniors described their proposal as an "extension of the classroom."

All seniors, they explained, must take government and while in Lansing they would concentrate on learning how state government works. They would also tour Michigan State University and the Oldsmobile plant.

Miss Baldwin said government teacher Max Novak has endorsed the plan and agreed to go along as chaperone and sponsor.

Supt. Rex Milligan at first appeared to favor a one-night trip to Lansing. The class would leave early in the morning, stay over night in a hotel and return to Charlevoix the next evening.

Miss Baldwin, however, pleaded for a two-night stay. She said she doubts the students can absorb everything of value about state government, MSU and Oldsmobile in 1½ days.

The school board's attorney, John Thomas of Flint, a specialist in school affairs, emphatically advised against a senior trip. If seniors are determined to take a trip, he suggested their parents organize it after graduation.

Milligan was firm in advising that the two-night trip not be considered until board members Burr Blanchard and Jack Rader stated they feel the seniors should be allowed to come up with a more detailed itinerary before the prolonged stay is ruled out.

The students pointed out they need a decision as soon as possible so they can begin raising funds for the trip.

Board member Fran Hooper suggested that any children who misbehave on such a trip not be allowed to graduate.

Milligan suggested that in the future such an "educational" trip would have more value if taken at the beginning of the school-year so students could study what they had learned after returning.

Thomas, in stating his reasons for advising against the trip, wrote:

"Field trips by undergraduates are extensions of the classroom, and the same rules of liability are present as controlling the teacher's action in a classroom. Generally speaking, the teacher has the power of a parent, and the duty of the parent to save the child from harm. The test has always been if a parent would have warned against a danger, then it is the teacher's obligation to give equal warning. The teacher's liability is personal.

"The school district will not be liable because of its governmental immunity. The liability is personal with the administrator, or teacher, or human being involved.

"Michigan schools have generally taken the position that senior trips are no longer needed, and are discontinued.

"Senior trips arose in an era of our civ-

CHS survey shows 59% enter college

A Charlevoix High School survey reveals that 59% of the graduating class of 1968 went on to colleges and universities, according to Principal Ray Carr.

The survey showed that 27 students enrolled at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey; two at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City; 11 at Ferris State College; 17 students chose to attend college out of Michigan and two are being educated abroad. Twenty three students have gone on to take jobs, 15% are married, 11% are in the armed services and 6% of the class went on to technical schools.

Others attending colleges and universities are: Kathy Milligan, Ellen Arville, Erin Arvilla and Beth Lyons, Michigan State University; Brad Carey and Tom Webb, Alma College; Diana Bartlett and David Graf, Central Michigan College; Nancy Green, Nancy Neff and Laureen Wilson, Northwestern Michigan College; Kris Lieberman, Roger Zuidema and Jon Schmidt, Grand Valley State College; John Loucks, Wayne State University; Dave MacDougall and Charles Paterka, Michigan Technological University; James Martin, Sams Technical Institute; Thurlow McClellan, Detroit, Business Institute; Carol Parsel, Kendall School of Design; Janet Pease, University of Kentucky; Joy Ann Pierce and Diane Winnell, Western Michigan University; Pat Skelton, Albion College; William Smith, Georgia State College and Sandra Sundquist, Ringling School of Art.

Serving in the armed forces are: Roger Sharrow, Robert Wojan, James Gengle, Fred Wabanimkee and Jerry Graham.

Chamber Chat
BY WALLY LODER

We should like to hear from any private home owners who anticipate renting rooms this winter, especially on weekends for the skiers and otherwise winter sports men.

This morning, (December 27) we tried to contact several of our guest houses, so called, however, received no answer. We are, of course, trying to establish some idea where rooms will be available in addition to our regular motels, etc. This weekend truly is the first weekend in the so called ski season, which appears to be a good one. You all understand it is our hope to assist as much as possible, the inquiries we have, and in turn will assist you folks.

West Michigan Tourist Association accumulate on Wednesday of each week skiing conditions, etc., at the various ski resorts, many of which are within very easy reach of Charlevoix, which point many persons use as a focal point. This report, and by the way, is generally received in Thursday morning's mail. Of course, this information is available to anyone contacting this office.

A family formerly of Michigan, and for the past five years of St. Petersburg, Florida have been communicating having to do with moving back to Michigan, and this time they chose Charlevoix. We have not been able as yet to help these people to locate a premise, however, there is hope. They are concerned with renting or leasing for a year during which time they will explore and decide whether or not to build a home. In a most recent letter, they enclosed a sizable clipping from the St. Petersburg Times dated December 17, which included quite a bit of information on the unfavorable winter weather there so far this season, and this gentleman points out is one of the reasons for wanting to come back to Michigan. This article is available if you choose to read it.

It is good to know that Mt. McSauba skiing facility is open today at noon (December 27). It seems we are having more contacts this year for more information on Mt. McSauba, in fact, two this morning.

A JUDGE'S WARNING -- "When the time comes that public employees can strike against the government with impunity, then that is the end of our democracy and the beginning of anarchy." Justice Saul S. Streit, New York Supreme Court, referring to the February Sanitation Worker's strike.

Also in the Washington Report by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it is indicated that Pennsylvania is the first state to adopt a uniform Monday holiday law that is in step with the new federal Uniform Monday Holiday Act. The landmark state law establishes Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Columbus Day, and Veterans Day as Monday holidays and, like the federal law, goes into effect on January 1, 1971.

In case some of you folks do not know, be advised that on last November 15, the 47 year old Michigan Department of Conservation became the Department of Natural Resources, which director Ralph A. MacMullan believes better describes the activities and programs of this division of the state government.

Although the name changed, the same organization pattern and responsibilities remain.

It was interesting to observe an article which stated that statistics show that this season fishermen caught about 100,000 Cohos and jack Chinooks and another 1.5 million pounds went into the commercial market, according to Ralph A. MacMullan, director, Michigan Department of Natural Resources. "These are pretty impressive figures, considering that three years ago there wasn't a single Pacific Salmon in the Great Lakes," the director observed.

I have today from Frank J. Kelly, Attorney General's office at Lansing so called "Consumer's Fraud Newsletter." This has to do with what appears to me to be a type of promotion by Chinchilla Breeders. It might be well if any of you are approached to come down here and review this letter.

Special report received from Michigan State Chamber of Commerce Natural Resources, a story of wise resource use and community development of Gaylord, Michigan, very interesting and factual. During the up grading, etc., 15 vacant stores have disappeared, 49 establishments have been built new, remodeled, all have adopted the Alpine motif. This alone represents the investment of two and a half million of private finance and individual enterprise, and property value has doubled. It further states employment is running at an all time high. The merchants have created a special assessment and share with the city in paying for a 222 car off street facility. During 1967 Michigan Week, Gaylord, as a result of state-wide competition received the Community Pride Award. They go all out for the Alpine Festival which is held in July. Over 1,000 Gaylord citizens dress in Alpine costumes for the occasion. Gaylord's population has increased from 2500 in 1958 to 3200 at present. During 1968, 94 new families have moved into Gaylord.

In conclusion, it is related, that Gaylord's community development program is a success story. The imagination and perserverance of its residents has seen to that.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of this Chamber is held the first Tuesday of each month. The first regular meeting of 1969, will be Tuesday evening, 7:30 p.m., January 7 at this Chamber office. The first item on the agenda will be election of officers for 1969.

In closing, all of you are sincerely wished a very happy, healthy, and successful New Year.

Santa had an unexpected committment

SSHHHHH. Don't tell the little ones.

Santa (the real McCoy) had an emergency call Saturday, December 21. He had to rush over to the Rogers City area about 1 p.m. and couldn't get back to Charlevoix in time for his appointment with Charlevoix children at 2 p.m.

Charlevoix's volunteer firemen, however, are always prepared for the unexpected. Though they were counting on the real Santa to preside at their annual childrens' party at the foot of Clinton St., the volunteers promptly rounded up a replacement.

Don Megglson (above) agreed to fill the Santa suit St. Nick left. He did such a good job that the next generation or so of Charlevoix toddlers will probably be telling him, their Christmas wishes.

Another Christmas is over and we hope you had a merry one. Our little village is beautiful with its many colored lights. Our decorating winner is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wagner on the north beach road which is really shining with lights, a Star and a beautiful, large decorated tree shining through the living room window. Also several others, Jack Jentzen's, Tom Neilsen's, Pete Bennett's, Wm. Vanderwall's and the Cross on the rear of the Church sending out holiday greetings to everyone.

The Christmas Service last Sunday evening was enjoyed by a full house. The Sunday School Program was really outstanding with local young talent. Carols were sung by everyone and special Anthem by the choir, "In the Stillness of the Night," was most appropriate for the occasion. After the service the young people were outsinging carols through the community with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vogler and even Santa Claus took time off from his busy schedule to join them.

The lake is frozen and the Ferry discontinued its service the day before Christmas. Enos Bacon has his new Fish shanty on the ice near the island so now we can all settle back for the usual winters nap or join the snowmobilers, fishermen and those who love to ski. We are getting plenty of snow for whatever you choose to do.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnum and their son Bruce who is a student at the University in Seattle, Washington with them several days this holiday season.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crowe and Mrs. Effie Arthur are in Detroit with relatives and enjoying the bright city lights but will return after the New Year.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jentzen had their children and Grandchildren from Jackson with them Christmas.

Rev. and Mrs. Harmon spent Christmas with their parents and children in and near Indianapolis, Indiana.

County cancer crusade exceeds campaign goal

The Charlevoix County Board of the American Cancer Society met Thursday evening, December 12, at the Char-Boyne in Boyne City for their annual dinner-meeting.

Present were, Mrs. LeRoy Sorenson, president; Mrs. Maurice Dixon, treasurer, Mrs. Lawrence Martin, educational chairman; Mrs. Harry Tompkins, dressings chairman; Mrs. Harvey Varnum, crusade chairman for Boyne City, Mrs. Kenneth Wojan and Mrs. Edward Vogler, joint crusade chairmen for Charlevoix.

Reports were received on the 1968 Crusade. The treasurer reported the total amount collected in the county was $5,634.00, which was well over the $5,000 quota.

A budget of $2,804.65 was approved. These funds will stay in the County to assist cancer patients with expenses incurred for drugs, transportation, and dressings. Anyone needing assistance should call their local crusade chairman or the American Cancer Society number listed in your local telephone directory.

This past year, nine patients have received assistance for drug bills. Transportation expenses for treatment were provided to five patients. One hundred Pads, made by the VFW Auxiliary in Charlevoix, were taken to Grandvue Medical Facility. Two cancer patients in private homes also received a total of 39 pads.

The educational chairman reported on the scholarships awarded. Two scholarships are awarded every year to girls going into the nursing profession. However, only one was applied for this year. The recipient of the $150 scholarship this year was Vicky Ann Ulvund of East Jordan.

ACCOMPAINED BY A PRAYER

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mail box. It is often a prayer by a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best suits you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active particiaption in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

Cage wars renewed

Rayders face hot Petoskey squad

The Red Rayders, recuperating from the long holiday vacation will tangle with the Petoskey Northmen Friday night on the Charlevoix court.

Petoskey has a 4-1 record, and are 5-1 overall. The Northmen edged by Cadillac, 93-89 behind a 38 point performance from Dick Swenor two weeks ago in a non-league contest, then the following night battled TCSF before winning the league affair, 61-54. In a contest played in Petoskey last week, Petoskey defeated Boyne City, 80-62.

Petoskey is loaded with talent this season, with its entire first five (Swenor, Vratanina, McKnight, Rice, and Annis) averaging in double figures. The Northmen are big across the front line, and the Rayders may have to hit from outside to keep in contention.

Kraag Lieberman still is in third place in scoring, averaging 18.4 ppg, and hot-shot, Stewart Coleman is in the top 20 with a 11.4 average. Don Ward and Bruce Meggison need to be at their best for this game. It looks like the Northmen are favored, but look for a close game.

St. Ignace is expected to win at Rogers City. The Saints are looking better all the time, and since the return of Leo Donovan, a 6-2 junior, who averaged 16 ppg last season hit 17 and 22 in his only appearances so far this season.

The Saints have waltzed through four straight games, with the only opposition coming from Petoskey, while Rogers City is 2-3 and has defeated only Boyne City, Gaylord and Alpena CC.

Alpena CC has to travel to Bay City to play the All Saints, a newly organized school, composed of students from three now defunct parochial schools from that city. The All Saints are undefeated; no one has come close, and should win with ease.

Gaylord will be in Traverse City to play the St. Francis Crusaders in a return match. In their last meeting, Gaylord won 81-67 behind a tremendous performance of Rick Catt and Tom Johnson who combined for 62 points. Gaylord is now 4-2 and should be favored in this match.

Ellsworth puts unbeaten mark on line this week

ELLSWORTH--All eyes will be focused on the results of the Ellsworth-Suttons Bay game played Friday night on the Suttons Bay floor.

Ellsworth is currently in first place in the league, and sports a 3-0 mark compared to Suttons Bay with a 1-1 record. The Bays have won all of their non-conference games.

Last week, Inland Lakes upset the applecart, and defeated Suttons Bay, 53-52 in Indian River.

The Lancers are a real aggressive team, and real tough on the boards. They also have the league's top scorer in Dennis Drenth, averaging better than 20 ppg, and Ron Boss who is in third place with a 15 ppg average.

Suttons Bay, one of the top Class D teams in the state last year, has the two Bahle brothers, both 6-4, to go along with Kurt Raftshol and Jim Hawley. Craig Bahle is an 1968 All-Stater, and probably one of the best again this year in the state. Stopping him is the only chance for an Ellsworth win. The home court advantage will prevail, and the Norsemen will win by 10.

Inland Lakes will be at home when they face Bellaire, and after their win against Suttons Bay, what can we say. With a 1-2 record, they can't afford to lose another ball game, and they will probably feast on Bellaire, winless in league play.

Inland Lakes is paced by Roger Waldron and Rocky Freed, both averaging better than 13 ppg, and with the return of Walt Ellis (recuperating from a broken hand) the team should be boosted considerably.

The Snowbirds will be at Vanderbilt to face the Class D powerful Yellowjackets. The Vanderbilt-game is small, giving a home court edge, but without 6-5 Greg Sides, the Yellowjackets are weaker. St. Mary's has a fine young squad, losing only to Ellsworth, and could throw an upset Friday. St. Mary's by five points.

Central Lake, with a 3-3 record will tangle with the Snowbirds on Saturday night at Gaylord. Even Ralph Payton won't be able to stop the Snowbird fast break on the Gaylord floor. Coach Dave Lowe is looking for a fine season in his fourth year at St. Mary's, and will have to win Saturday to have any intention for a league title.

The following Tuesday finds three teams from the conference playing outsiders. Suttons Bay is a slight favorite over Maple City Glen Lake, Inland Lakes is a 20 point favorite over Mackinaw City. Harbor Springs plays at Central Lake. The Rams defeated the Trojans, 76-55, but will win by much less this time.

Jim Shorter opens new air charter at Pellston

James Shorter, a 13 year flyer with 6,000 hours of time in flight experience, has returned from Southeast Asia and announces the opening of Shorter Airways, Inc., out of Pellston Airport.

Shorter is starting his charter service with a twin engine six-seat Piper-Aztec aircraft. The plane has complete de-icing equipment as well as a radar transponder, a device used for positive identification of aircraft.

Shorter plans to have flight instruction, maintenance, service as well as aircraft sales and eventually hopes to offer commuter airlines service from the north to metropolitan areas.

Shorter spent the past three and a half years as a pilot with Air America and lived in Vientiane, Laos, with his wife and three children. Prior to that he flew for North Central, Frontier and Mohawk commercial airlines.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shorter of Petoskey and started flying before he drove a car. He would hitchhike to take flying lessons and got his pilot's license as soon as the law allows -- at age 16. He got commercial license from Phillips Flying Service, has instrument license in Chicago, his twin engine license in Muskegon and completed his air transport rating license while with Frontier out of Denver. This is the highest rating for a commercial pilot in the U.S.

He has built a new hangar at Pellston for his new air business and is offering 24 hours service.

Library Notes

The library has benefited from several gifts of books from patrons who wish to pass along books which they have read. Often these gift books fill a real need in the library. In case they are not needed they are either passed on to some other library or are put into the stock being accumulated for the next Friends of the Library book sale. Some recent library additions, which were given by patrons are:

The Accidental President, by Robert Sherrill. A frankly anti-Johnson book, written about Lyndon Johnson before his decision not to run in '68.

How to Defend Yourself, Your Family and Your Home, by George Hunter. A practical guide to self-protection for the average person. Unfortunately this is becoming an increasingly important problem because of the sky-rocketing crime rate. The emphasis is on the avoidance of potentially dangerous situations.

Up Against It, by Mike Royko. A collection of the writings of the Chicago Daily News Columnist who has been delighting readers by publicly rebuking Chicago's politicians, disconcerting it's untouchables and canonizing certain hitherto unknown characters he has found on the city's variegated backstreets.

Red Giants and White Dwarfs, by Robert Jastrow. The evolution of stars, planets and life, written by a geophysicist well known for his lectures, articles and TV programs on science for the layman. This is the scientific story of the creation.

Of Men and Not of Law, by Lyman A. Garber. Mr. Garber, a practicising lawyer and student of the American judiciary system, contends that the courts are usurping the political function by releasing an ever-swelling flood of decisions that undermine the foundations on which this nation is built.

The Intruders, by Senator Edward V. Long. As chairman of the senate sub-committee which conducted extensive hearings on wiretapping, bugging and other forms of snooping, Senator Long asks "What does the law really say about the invasion of privacy and why is the law continually flouted, not merely by private investigators, but by lawenforcers themselves?"

The Swiss Banks, by T. R. Fehrenbach. In recent years, the Swiss banking establishment has been charged with helping Nazis hide millions, depriving the heirs of concentration camp victims of the inheritances, assisting notorious proxy raiders to undermine sound corporate management, aiding Communist agents to buy up America's defense industry and hiding the Big Money of the underworld. In searching for the try facts behind these legends, Mr. Fehrenbach has written a book that reads like a suspense story.

Schweigert to address Jordan meet

EAST JORDAN--The first annual meeting of the Jordan River Watershed Commission will be held Monday, Jan. 6, 8 p.m. in the East Jordan Elementary School gym.

All area persons interested in the "Save the Jordan" effort are invited. Sen. Thomas Schweigert will be the speaker.

The Jordan River Watershed Commission is a legally organized conservation group empowered to seek laws and programs to protect the Jordan River. The Commission was organized after the series of Save the Jordan meetings in the spring of 1967.

Nine townships and two cities appoint members to the Commission.

DUMPS AND REGULATIONS THEREOF
EVELINE TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. ___

EVELINE TOWNSHIP DUMPING GROUND ORDINANCE

PURPOSE AND INTENT

This Ordinance has been enacted to insure the public health, safety, welfare and to secure the convenience of the residents and property owners of the Township of Eveline, Charlevoix County, Michigan. It is to the advantage of all citizens to promote the best use of Township lands which use shall be in accordance with such character and adaptability as best suits the said lands. The purpose of this Ordinance is to regulate the disposal of waste, rubbish, junk and debris. Such disposal areas and operations which shall be both municipally and privately owned and operated shall be subject to these regulations, and all persons performing such operations within said County shall be subject to the penalties as provided herein. The provisions of this Ordinance hereby repeals all prior ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict therewith.

THE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EVELINE TOWNSHIP, CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN, ORDAINS:

1 - TITLE

This Ordinance shall be known and cited as the "EVELINE TOWNSHIP DUMPING GROUND ORDINANCE."

2 - REGULATIONS

A. No person, firm, co-partnership or corporation shall dump any waste, rubbish, junk or debris in any area of the Township of Eveline, Charlevoix County, unless the same is zoned to permit such use of property, under the Eveline Township ordinances, or unless the same is municipally maintained and operated for such dumping ground purposes or a permit is obtained therefor from the Township Board, to be granted only in situations where such dumping would not be a nuisance or a hazzard to the health, welfare and safety of adjoining property owners and the public.

B. Privately operated dumping grounds which comply with the provisions of Section "A" of the Regulations will be permitted subject to the approval of the Township Board. Licenses will be granted for a one year period subject to yearly review and renewal by the Township Board. The annual license fee shall be FIVE DOLLARS ($5.00) subject to adjustment by the discretion of the Township Board. All vehicles licensed and utilized for rubbish operations must be covered on the sides, top, front and rear. The purpose and intent of this section is to rest control of privately owned dumping grounds within the reasonable discretion of the Township Board.

C. No such dumping of waste, rubbish, junk, or debris shall hereafter be allowed between sunset and sunup of each day.

D. No tree trunks or branches larger than four (4) inches in diameter and no paper-manufacturing or pharmaceutical-manufacturing waste, explosives, human or animal excretion nor odoriferous materials shall be dumped in any municipally or privately operated dumping grounds. Any brush or parts of trees of less than four (4) inches in diameter dumpen in a municipally or privately operated dump shall be dumped in the particular area designated therefor, according to signs posted on the premises.

E. Dumping in water is prohibited. Wherever such signs, holes or directions are partially or totally submerged with surface waters, such areas are not to be utilized for continued dumping until the water subsides. Such conditions will require temporary dumping in adjacent areas within the limits of the landfill section.

F. The burning of any dumping ground area, or the waste materials therein, shall be prohibited and forbidden, without the prior written approval of the supervisor and fire chief of said Township and in no case shall be allowed within fifty (50) feet of the utility poles or towers of any public utility company; approval to be granted only when it is determined by the said supervisor and fire chief that such burning would not constitute a nuisance or hazzard to the health, welfare and safety of the surrounding locality and to the public.

G. Burning shall be limited to brush and lumber except where otherwise expressly and explicitely approved by the Township Board and the fire chief.

H. No Municipally operated dump shall be used by any person, firm, or corporation which is not a resident, property owner, or tenant within said Eveline Township.

I. The material dumped in any such dumping grounds shall be substantially covered over with fill dirt periodically, as the degree of dumping requires to maintain the dumping area in as neat a condition as possible and free from odors, and in accordance with the orders of the Eveline Township Supervisor; it being the intent of this section to regulate the dumping area in such a manner that same is not obnoxious or injurious to the health and welfare of the surrounding locality and the public by reason of odors, fumes, smoke, noise or sight.

J. The control of litter shall be rigidly observed. The dumping area shall be policed for litter and movable debris every two-three (2-3) days. All dumping shall be confined to area designed for each class of waste, rubbish, junk or debris. All dumping must be in such designated area except when water prohibits same subject to Section "E".

K. Salvage shall be maintained in a fenced area. The salvage shall be confined behind opaque fencing which shall be of a sufficient height to prevent such salvage from ground-level view.

L. Any dumping in municipally or privately operated dumps shall be accomplished by depositing the waste material over the bank of the dump, and no such waste material shall be allowed by the dumper to remain on the approachway to such bank. This section is subject to Section "E".

M. No dumping of waste, rubbish, junk or debris shall be allowed in any area within twenty-five (25) feet of the nearest point of the base of the towers, poles, supports or other structures of any public utility company, or within fifty (50) feet of any public road or one-hundred (100) feet from the edge of the licensed acreage.

N. Any person, firm or corporation dumping in any municipally or privately operated dump shall do so at his, its or their own risk and the Township of Eveline shall not be held liable for any injury or damages occurring therein.

O. No municipally or privately operated dump shall be used for any purpose other than for dumping operations permitted under this Ordinance. No picking or scavergering of any municipally or privately operated dump shall be permitted by any person, firm or corporation other than those duly licensed, registered with and approved by the Eveline Township Board. No loitering shall be allowed within the municipally or privately operated dump.

P. The Township of Eveline shall not be liable for any damage to property adjoining a municipally or privately operated dump caused by fires within said dump.

3 - PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS.

Any persons, firm, or corporation which violates any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than One-hundred ($100.00) Dollars or by imprisonment in the County Jail, not to exceed ninety (90) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Each day that a violation occurs shall constitute a separate offense punishable upon conviction and in the manner prescribed in this section.

4 - CONSTRUCTION OF DUMPING ORDINANCE.

This Ordinance and the various parts, sections and clauses thereof are hereby declared to be severable. If any parts, sections, paragraph, sentence, clause, phrase or word is judged unconstitutional or invalid by any Court of competant jurisdiction it is hereby provided that such adjudication shall not affect, impare or invalidate the remainder of this Ordinance.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The provisions of this Ordinance are hereby declared to be necessary for the public welfare, health, peace and safety and shall become effective on and after thirty (30) days following the first publication thereof.

ADOPTED BY THE TOWNSHIP BOARD, EVELINE TOWNSHIP, CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, on Dec. 19, 1968.

Garden Club to meet January 14

The Charlevoix Garden Club met for its Christmas Meeting at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Rader with Mrs. Connie Raymer as co-hostess.

Flower arrangements with candles, which were made at the club's workshop, were shown.

A most interesting lesson was given by Mrs. Eleanor Freedman on Christmas giving and wrapping. Eleanor gave many new ideas on wrapping, covering boxes, and making gift bags, and also decorating packages that are thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Each one brought their handmade tray favors for the Hospital on Christmas Day.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Eleanor Terrill with a lesson on the "Evolution of Perfume" by Beverly Espich Tuesday afternoon January 14.

Council Proceedings

December 23, 1968

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Fochtman presiding.

Aldermen present: Gill, Mol, Sundberg, & Webb.

Absent: Whitley & Boss.

The Minutes of the December 9, 1968 meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes book.

Enter Alderman Whitley.

After hearing interested parties regarding the rezoning of certain North Side properties bounded by Petoskey Ave., Division St., And Meech St., the matter was referred to the Ordinance Committee for study and present their recommendations at the next regular Council meeting.

The Ordinance Committee recommended the denial of Mr. Robert Schloman's request for a building permit to build a dog run-way on Cherry St.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $67,311.17 find them correct and recommend they be allowed.

Moved by Alderman Gill and supported by Alderman Mol that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Mol, Sundberg, Webb, & Whitley.

Nays: None

Absent: Alderman Boss.

Correspondence for Charlevoix Township was read in which they asked the Charlevoix Common Council to petition the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors for annexation of Charlevoix Township in its entirety to the City of Charlevoix.

On motion the Council adjourned.

Hugh Mayne, City Clerk

Obituary

Mrs. R Yonkman

Funeral services for Mrs. Robert J. (Phyllis A.) Yonkman, 50 wife of the Rev. Fr. Yonkman, former rector of Christ Episcopal church here, were held at Grace Episcopal church in Grand Rapids Tuesday. Burial was in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mrs. Yonkman died Friday at her home in Shawnee, Kans., following a long illness. Prior to moving to Shawnee 13 months ago, she had lived in Negaunee and Gladstone after leaving Charlevoix.

Surviving besides Rev. Yonkman are a daughter, Laura D. at home; her mother, Mrs. John C. Feeney of Denver, Colo.; a sister, Mrs. W.B. Jordan of Houston, Tex.

The body will be at the Metcalf Mortuary in Grand Rapids until the hour of the service.

Those wishing to pay tribute may make memorials to the Cancer Fund or to the Junior Mary Free Bed Guild in Grand Rapids.

Mr. & MRS. Norman Ernstein, 776 Crafton Ave., Redlands, Calif. are making a nationwide appeal through newspapers for information about their 15 - year - old daughter, Elizabeth (picture above), who disappeared March 18, 1968. Elizabeth is five - feet five - inches tall, weighs 105 pounds and has brown hair and eyes. A $5,000 reward has been posted for information leading to solving the mystery. Any information concerning Liz should be reported to Capt. Charles Callahan, San Bernardino, Calif. Sheriff's Dept. (714) 889-0111.

Wright home blends stylish furniture

by PAT BEGROW

From the moment you enter the home of Byron and Colleen Wright at 200 Lewis, you see that Mrs. Wright's home is her hobby. She has a real feeling for decorating and has made every nook and corner into a little showpiece.

Homes of Charlevoix by PAT BEGROW

For instance she has a desk that was made by her grandfather many years ago. It was a mahogany desk and at the time quite fashionable, but not for the Wright's home today. So Mrs. Wright decided to do something about that. She took off the knobs and antiqued the dark desk in a pale green to blend with the sunny pale shades of her living room. With new knobs and a light tone the old desk now is not simply a sentimental relic, but a stylish piece of furniture.

Mrs. Wright is the kind of shopper who knows if a piece of furniture, picture or bunch of flowers is right for her room. She knows and appreciates good antiques and can make an immediate decision on what to buy.

As any antique shopper knows, this quality is an essential of antique shopping for if you wait to decide a good piece may be gone.

The Wrights have a cherished Victorian loveseat that Mrs. Wright bought over the telephone. Amazingly enough it is covered in the original ivory sateen.

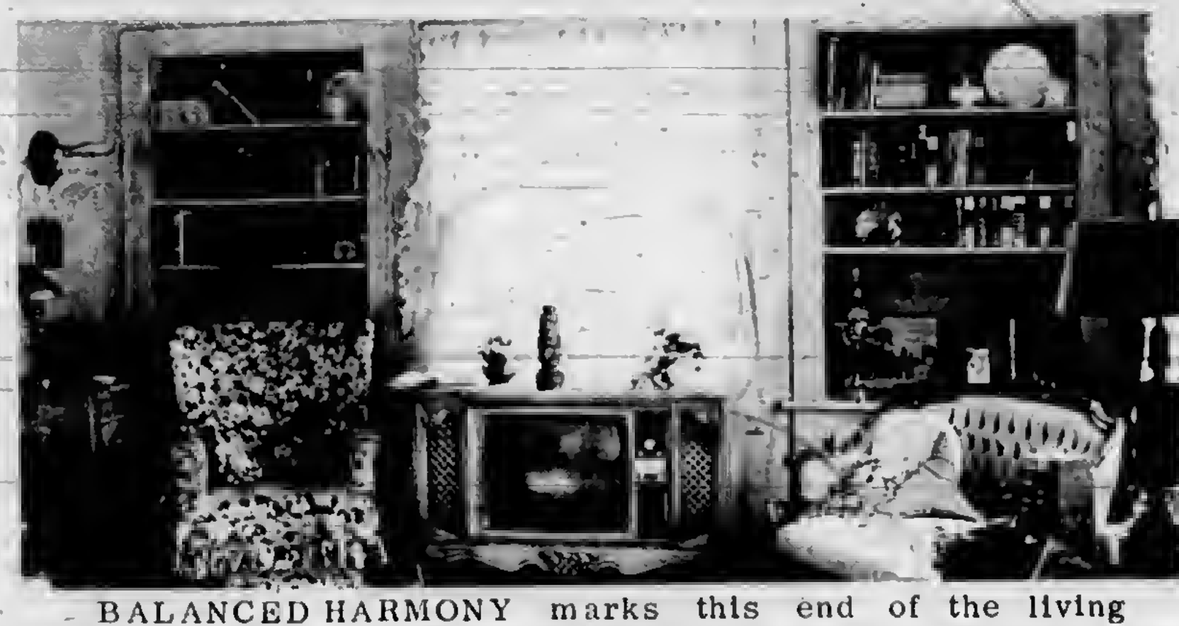
But having the ability to see the right thing for your home is far more than shopping for big pieces. Mrs. Wright believes that it is the ability to choose the dimestore wastebasket that will be perfect in your living room or framing the perfect one-dollar print from a stack of twenty passable ones. Mrs. Wright has this sense of appropriateness, which is why her house is such a delight.

The Wrights' living room is one of those rooms that you don't see at the first glance. It takes quite a bit of looking to discover the many pretty things that are collected in the room. Many items are those that the Wrights bought during the time they lived in England. Pictures and bookends are from the Dickens era and thin Haviland plates grace the China cupboard.

Since Byron Wright's avocation is music one room is really for him for it houses his bass viol and a piano. There is a lounge here for easy listening, making it a natural place for musicians to gather.

The Wrights have a six year old daughter, Wendy, and her room is the kind of room that little girls anywhere would love.

The Wrights' house was built for Dr. and Mrs. Saltonstall shortly after they were married. They loved it and lived there for many years. Briefly it had another owner but 14 years ago the Wrights bought the house and enjoy it so much that they never intend to leave.



BALANCED HARMONY marks this end of the living room. Different periods of furniture are mixed here in a most attractive manner.

IN ONE CORNER of the living room is a Victorian loveseat. Shades of gold and ivory mark this room.

THIS DESK WAS crafted by Mrs. Wright's grandfather. It is used to form a pretty study corner in the living room.

Local State Police give drunk tests

Police Breathalyzer operators for Charlevoix County were recently brought up to date on the latest techniques in breath testing of suspected drunk drivers in a one-day refresher program conducted at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City.

According to State Police Sgt. Blake, Cpl. Burke, Countryman, Lowinski, and Tpr. Berghuis, Hancock, have completed a recertification course at Northwestern Michigan College and continue to be fully qualified to administer the breath test for drunk driving.

Over 940 Breathalyzer operators were trained and qualified last year at Michigan State University's Highway Traffic Safety Center in East Lansing.

The recertification program, which is consistent with the National Highway Safety Bureau standard on Alcohol and Highway Safety, is in support of Michigan's "Implied Consent" law which went into effect in November, 1967.

In order to recertify all 60 police Breathalyzer operators in upper lower Michigan, four one-day sessions were required. Classes averaged about 15-20 officers per day.

The program is being operated jointly by a team from the Michigan Department of Public Health, the Department of State Police and MSU's Highway Traffic Safety Center.

According to Dr. Edgar Kivela, chief, State Crime Detection Laboratory, the program consists of laboratory and classroom sessions as well as written examinations. Kivela stated that a continued high level of competency is needed in testing suspected drunk drivers and testifying in court cases.

William Barber, program director and Law Enforcement Specialist for the Highway Traffic Safety Center, said the annual recertification programs will enable police operators to become familiar with changes in the law, new testing techniques and problems which have arisen since enactment of the law.

The program at Traverse City is being coordinated by Dr. Milton Hagelberg, MSU's regional director of Continuing Education and is the second in a series which will be conducted at various locations throughout the state.

Evangel College

Lucinda Ouderkirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ouderkirk, 3754 Lake St., Ironton, is one of 881 students enrolled this fall at Evangel College, Springfield, Mo.

A sophomore, she is majoring in elementary education. She is a graduate of Charlevoix High School.

Evangel is a four-year college of arts, sciences, and humanities. A church-related institution, Evangel's parent denomination is the Assemblies of God.

Students from 49 states and five foreign countries are enrolled at Evangel this year. A new residence hall housing 216 women students was dedicated this fall during homecoming.

VANDALS STOLE and broke so many of the Christmas bulbs around the outside of the Chamber of Commerce building that Chamber manager Wally Loder took the string of lights down Friday, December 20. He estimated that more than 400 lights were stolen or destroyed during the ten nights they were up. Some bulbs, he said, were taken into the public restroom in the building and smashed against the walls. Police could not nab the culprits.

Group forms to save Elk River watershed

by Louise Bral

ELLSWORTH — Many people in this area are interested in maintaining the Intermediate Chain of Lakes at a high standard. This was assured by the fine attendance of our local governmental representatives, interested groups and people, at the Elk Watershed Drainage Basin meeting held in the Bellaire School December 16.

Several supervisors, village presidents and soil conservation people, expressed interest and promised cooperation.

Mark Hargitt, Water Resources, instructed the group in coverage of Acts 200 and 253, and answered questions concerning their application.

Robert S. Fellows, soil conservationist, explained the Sediment problems and explained how they effect conservation of the whole drainage basin area, and the need for a complete conservation program for the basin.

Mr. James Callison, Project coordinator, for N.W. Mich. Resources Conservation and Development Project, explained the organization of RC&D and its objectives. Many of its objectives relate to the needs and will be applicable to the problems of land and water used and conservation in our area.

Callison expressed the hope that the people of the area would, through the combined efforts of Soil Conservation Districts, local government representatives and interested groups such as lakes associations, chambers of commerce, 4-H and others, analyze their needs and express their views to his office.

The group took an active and forward step, and immediately, by unanimous approval, appointed Bryce Vance chairman of Elk Watershed Drainage Basin Project. Some members to the committee were appointed at this meeting and other appointments are to be made later.

A meeting of the Steering Committee is scheduled for Monday, Jan. 13, at 8 p.m. in the Bellaire School.

School survey misses point

ELSEWHERE IN this week's Courier we report the results of a Charlevoix High School post - graduate survey which indicates 59% of our 1968 grads went on to colleges or universities.

Over the years school officials and parents have often referred to the high number of our high school grads who enter colleges and universities to suggest our education program is top-flight.

The Courier, while hoping every student will get every bit of education they need and can make use of, questions the validity of surveys which show how many students enter colleges. We would like to know how many complete college.

A survey we have never seen is one which would show us how many of our 1964 CHS graduates, for instance, graduated with bachelors degrees last spring. Or how many of our 1966 high school grads are still enrolled in college.

Some educators (not the official spokesmen for the system) tell us the number who complete college is something like ten percent.

While this ten percent figures may be low, we all know that a minority of the 59% who entered college last fall will receive degrees in the spring of 1972.

More important than knowing the actual figure of how many who entered college will complete, we would like to know why they didn't continue to graduation or why they were ever advised to go to college.

We suspect parental and school counseling sends many youngsters off to college who should have entered apprenticeship programs, or who should have taken jobs in business or technical fields and learned a skill for which they are better adapted than those taught in colleges.

Furthermore, we suspect that too many young people leave high school without a commitment to a specific vocational field. This, too, indicates poor preparation at home and school.

It should be fully understood that this situation is not unique to Charlevoix's schools. It prevails almost everywhere. That, however, is no reason our local educators should not be looking for the answers.

Commercial Fishing

THE Dept. of Natural Resources (Conservation Dept.) will continue its less than adequate regulation of commercial fishing, according to a news story in last week's Courier.

More than a year ago the department was given legal authority to regulate commercial fishing in the best interest of the overall use and development of the Great Lakes' fish population. This "limited entry" concept was aimed primarily at eliminating many part-time fishermen who set their nets only when the fish were most vulnerable, resulting in overly large catches.

The department, we felt, had a good thing going. Then it backed down. Instead of requiring that a fisherman must have marketed at least $5,000 worth of fish during the preceeding year to qualify for a 1968 permit, the requirement was lowered to $1,000 -- opening the door to every opportunist with nets and a skiff.

It should be stated that the $5,000 requirement, too, was absurdly low. No legitimate fulltime fisherman can operate a boat, pay for nets and meet payroll on a gross income of $5,000.

The results of these lowered entry qualifications were especially evident in Charlevoix. With whitefish, chubs and lake trout more abundant in nearby Lake Michigan waters we had up to six fish tugs operating out of Charlevoix last summer, instead of the two or three of past summers. In other words, just about everybody was moving in to get in on the good fishing.

We believe it has been reasonably established that men with a long - term, full-time commitment to commercial fishing are far less apt to overexploit their source of livelihood than those who are in it for the fast buck.

Fisheries biologists tell us there are and will continue to be enough fish in the lakes to support a limited commercial fishery and a high - quality sports fishery.

Based on these two factors we continue to feel that fishermen such as Charlevoix's Cross and White families should be allowed and encouraged to continue fishing within the limitations of what is good for the long-range interests of the majority of citizens, to whom, it must be remembered, the lakes and fish belong.

The department's biologists recommend tighter controls which would reduce or eliminate part - time fishermen. Legitimate fishermen make the same recommendation. It's time the department's politicians started listening to those who know the lakes and fish best.

Condominiums

THE objections of a group of citizens who live on Hurlbut to plans to build an apartment building below them on Round Lake appears to have become a matter of city-wide interest.

Those protesting Jack Begrow's apartment plan have forwarded every conceivable objection. It has even been suggested that the apartment dwellers would put too much additional pressure on our city parks and would bring unwanted dogs into the neighborhood.

These are hardly legitimate points. The issue is whether or not the proposed structure meets the zoning requirements. The City Council, City Superintendent and City Attorney do not have the answer. Hopefully they will get it soon.

However, because this is the third attempt to develop apartment-type buildings in the harbor which citizens have fought it appears that an even broader question is involved.

Is this type of harbor-front development desirable or isn't it?

The Courier is inclined to feel development of high-grade, attractively designed, apartments around the shore of Round Lake would upgrade much of the lake shore. However, we hasten to add the matter should have more thorough study than we have given it.

Unless construction of Begrow's apartment building is illegal or is proven contrary to the best interest of Charlevoix's future, it should not be blocked because a handful of citizens object to its curtailment of their view of Round Lake.

Shoot 'em dead, but not on Christmas

by JIM FITZGERALD

On my first Christmas in the newspaper business, not long after the original production in Bethlehem, I decided I should write a modern Christmas story.

You know, one of those tinsel-teared fables where reindeer talk and an unmeltable snowman rescues a Barbie doll from the clutches of the meanest man in the supermarket. Most newspapers publish such stories during the holiday season, in the same section with the 1,234,567th reprint of the famous column assuring Virginia yes, there is a Santa Claus.

I thought I'd write a parody on the three wise men, maybe something called The 3 Wise Guys. Instead of kings on camels, I'd have hoods on motorcycles. Instead of following a star, they'd be zeroing in on one of those huge spotlights which swish across the sky, magnificently heralding the opening of a new shopping center.

The 3 wise guys wouldn't be bringing gifts to an infant. They would be doing their Christmas shoplifting.

Trouble would come when a floorwalker spotted a portable TV hanging out of a wise guy's black leather jacket. He screams for the cops and the 3 hoods head for the door. This is where the plot gets fat. There's a pregnant woman stuck in the revolving door with her husband.

Wednesday, January 1, 1969 Page 9

There was no room for them in the door. Get it? Ok. So right then I would have the woman's 9 months come to pass.

Here is where the world's apathy comes into the story. You've heard about that. A baby is about to be born but no one cares except the parents, Joe and Mary Schultz. People just curse and move on to the next door. At Christmas dinner the next day they'll get laughs with the story about "the fat dame stuck in the revolving door."

Anyway, the fleeing wise guys would be in too big a hurry to switch doors. They burst right through, unplugging Mary and Joe and throwing them into a snowbank.

"Oh, Joe," says Mary.

"Oh, Mary," says Joe.

"Oh-oh," says one of the 3 wise guys. "He's Joseph and she's Mary and she's pregnant and this is Christmas eve. I think this is some kind of a test."

"Let's help 'em," says another wise guy. "It could mean time off for good behavior in that big Alcatraz in the sky."

Fortunately, in my story there would be a plastic Nativity scene set up in the shopping center. The 3 wise guys quickly evict the statues and move Joe and Mary in. The infant is born, warmed by the breath of 1,000 ogling shoppers.

"I tell ya," says one lady, "it is amazing what they can do with robots these days. This is better than Disneyland."

I tried to come up with a happy ending to this modern Christmas story. Something like the 3 wise guys becoming better men for their experience and growing up to be Hart, Schaffner & Marx. But it wouldn't ring modern.

Instead, I saw the Schultzes suing the shopping center for not providing a doctor in their Nativity scene. The 3 wise guys are jailed by the American Medical Association for practicing without a license. Blue Cross refuses to pay for an outdoor birth. Fame ruins the Schultze's marriage and they end up getting divorced on the Ed Sullivan show. Their kid grows up conceited and drowns trying to walk on water.

That's how my modern Christmas story would have gone, 18 years ago, if I had written it. But I didn't. I was afraid some readers might think there were 4 wise guys. I didn't want to become known as a Christmas Cynic. I might not get any presents.

So why mention it now? Partly to amuse, I guess, but mainly to see if such kindergarten synicism could possibly bug anyone in the civilization that hardly blinks at the most outrageous cynicism of all. Another Christmas truce has been called in Vietnam. Shoot that guy in the head on Dec. 24. If he's still wiggling Dec. 26, shoot him again. But hold your fire on the 25th, it is Christ's birthday.

That's the really modern Christmas story. Just don't read it on the 25th. It could ruin your day.

Beaver Islander's last trip

Holding the boat on the Charlevoix course -- 160 degrees (just east of due south) would have been a near impossible task due to the roll of the sea. But could it have been done it wouldn't have taken the Islander home.

Wind and sea were driving the boat south of her mark. How much east of 160 degrees the boat had to be steered to come out on the mark could only be guessed by the almost instinctive knowledge and reflexes of lake and boat honed by a lifetime on the lakes.

By listening to the marine radio McDonough knew there were at least two steamboats in the treacherous shoal passage between Beaver Island and the Straits of Mackinac. Without radar he did not know if there were others, perhaps on a collision course. Sharp ears were tuned for the sound of a fog horn.

In the deck house several passengers were miserably sick due to the 30-degree or more roll caused by the heavy sea. Going outside gulps of air was nearly impossible due to the icy decks.

In the pilot house McDonough stuck to the wheel without relief. Though his eyes and face never betrayed concern or the hard work of fighting the wheel, sweat started to show through his shirt in the chill temperatures.

When his watch told him he should be nearing Charlevoix he eased back on the throttles of the two Caterpiller diesel engines. All hands fell out on the icy foredeck to search the snow-filled nothingness for Medusa's tall stack. Joining Green and Gallagher in looking for the stack and listening for the foghorn were passengers Walt Wojan and Bud McDonough.

First the foghorn's wail was heard. Then the stack was seen. Minutes later the Islander was tied up for her three or four month rest.

Jake White, they say, and not without proof, can smell his way across Lake Michigan. Capt. Lawrence McDonough and his crew would have welcomed Jake's nose Friday.

While there was never any doubt the Islander would make her berth without incident, it wasn't the kind of conditions lesser men would chance to make winter bearable for 225 neighbors.

ilization in which our typical senior finished high school and had yet to experience his first train ride, his first departure from the boundaries of his county, the first departure from the boundaries of his State, the first visit to his Capitol, etc. Thus, the senior trip was a coming out process for the child to enter life.

In today's civilization within 24 hours every child in the school district knows by radio and television, not alone the events of the world's history, but has seen it replayed on television, and has heard the experts expert it, and knows these events far better than their parents do. Therefore, the need of senior trips has evidently melted away.

"Unfortunately, today undergraduates feel that their senior trip is a coming out party for them to behave with alcohol and sex in improper manners. Several Michigan schools have found out that their last senior trip was a coming out party for their seniors to practice the rights of married life.

"Actual cases have arisen where an appendicitis attack, discipline or other event has left the sponsor with an impossible situation in a strange city, or in a strange hospital. How do you get the right to operate from the parents of the sick child? Does the sponsor stay with the sick child in the hospital, or go on with the students for the rest of the senior trip? When the bus departs the head count shows that one child is still missing. What does the sponsor do? Stay in the strange city and wait for the child to reappear, or go on with the train, or bus or plane?"

In other matters the board:

- Discussed the possibility of collecting school taxes from city residents in the summer. The Legislature has authorized such a move to give schools revenue with which to start the school-year in September. Schools now receive no property taxes until December, with most of it coming in January and February.
- Heard a report on tentative plans for remodeling the present elementary school into a middle school.
- Asked that District Health Dept. Director Dr. Robert Libke suggest a policy for closing school in the event of a flu epidemic or other health problem.
- Placed part-time teachers Mrs. Sally McNamara and Mrs. Geraldine Goss one step higher on the salary schedule because they have completed 20 hours of additional college work toward their Master's degrees.

First meet

Charlevoix County's reapportioned Board of Supervisors will hold its first meeting Thursday, January 2 at 10 a.m. in the County Building.

The new 15 - man all - Republican board was elected at the November 5 general election.

County GOP to elect delegates

Charlevoix County's Republican convention will be Wednesday, Jan. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Charlevoix county courthouse, according to GOP Chairman Oscar Stroud.

Main order of business will be election of four delegates and four alternates to the state GOP convention in Grand Rapids' civic auditorium Feb. 14 and 15.

Stroud said all county GOP delegates elected in the August primary and everyone interested in local GOP activities are welcome to attend the Charlevoix meeting.

County tangled in bureaucracy's web on planning grant

Fairy tales do come true.

At least the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors must be believing they do.

The tale outlined last week by County Agricultural Extension Agent Ed Rebman has to be some kind of fairy tale. And it is true.

Ed's yarn went like this.

In January of 1967 the County Board applied for a county-wide utilities study grant from the Farmers' Home Administration. The application was made through the Charlevoix County Planning Commission, created by the supervisors October 18, 1963.

Anyway, the application was submitted to the area Farmers' Home office in January of 1967.

Ed, who is secretary of the Planning Commission, heard nothing about the application until August of 1968. The word he got then was that the County's five-year-old Planning Commission could not apply for the grant because it was not legally created.

The Farmers' Home red tape machine spewed out some business about the Commission being illegal because the ordinance creating it had not been signed by the governor and published in a newspaper.

Ed turned the matter over to Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varnum. Harvey researched the law. It says nothing about a requirement that the governor get involved in the act of creating a county planning group.

Ed sent this information back to the Farmers' Home people in Chicago. Farmers' Home bureaucrats referred him to a different law. Harvey looked it up. Still nothing about the governor's signature.

Farmers' Home was again notified that the law does not require the governor's signature.

This time Farmers' Home set the record straight: Either the County create a planning commission with the governor's signature on the ordinance or the two-year-old grant will not be considered.

Regardless of the Michigan Legislature's intention in passing the law, the Farmers' Home Administration decided Michigan law requires the governor's ok before a planning commission can be seated.

So, making no effort to hide his befuddlement, Ed last week asked the County Board of Supervisors to re-pass the Planning Commission Ordinance it passed October 18, 1963. He also asked that it be printed in the newspaper (on the classified page of this week's Courier) and be signed by the governor.

The County Board went along.

Because the original ordinance and the Commission which has been working for five years was suddenly declared, in effect, to have never existed, the County Board also appointed all of the present members of the non - existent planning commission to the new commission.

Commission members are Frank Ceiner, Tom Wieland and Dr. Howard Messmore of Charlevoix; Walter Thorsen and Robert Prebble of East Jordan; Art Steinbrecher, Ed Rebman and Ira L. Davis of Boyne City, and Alfred Haas of Walloon Lake.

When the governor signs the new ordinance (which is considered routine) the planning commission will re-apply for the Farmer's Home Administration utilities study grant it applied for two years ago.

And that just has to be a fairy tale!

Hoffmann takes on mayor; Vogler, Wojan challenge Sundberg

Two incumbent city officials are being challenged in February's primary election.

Dr. Walter Hoffmann is challenging Mayor Bill Fochtman. Mrs. Edward Vogler and Ken Wojan are challenging incumbent Third Ward Councilman Clifton Sundberg.

Dr. Hoffmann, a Charlevoix dentist for the past 16 years, lives at 103 Park Ave. he is a former councilman from the Second Ward. Dr. Hoffmann lost to Fochtman in 1966.

Fochtman served on the Council from the First Ward for five years before being elected mayor in 1966. He is seeking his fourth one-year term as the city's mayor. Fochtman and his brother Dick own Charlevoix Oil Co., which his father founded.

Sundberg was appointed to the City Council to replace Del Terrill, who resigned. He works for Petgas.

Wojan operates Charlevoix Aluminum Products. This is his first bid for city office.

Mrs. Vogler challenged Third Ward Councilman Jerry Whitley last year and was beaten. A 36-year-old housewife, she has been active in community affairs and a regular visitor at City Council meetings for two years.

Because all candidates filed on the Republican ballot, whoever wins the primary election February 17 will become the winner, unless a write-in develops in the April 7 general election.

Tom Hanna, 35, an engineer at Medusa's South Point plant, has filed as a candidate for the First Ward Council seat Mrs. Marie Webb is not seeking reelection to. Mrs. Webb defeated Hanna two years ago. He is unopposed.

Others unopposed are incumbents Second Ward Councilman Bob Gill, a Penn Dixie employee; City Clerk Hugh Mayne and City Treasurer . . . Anne Cunningham.

Snow slows ice skating

We've had too much winter for ice skaters.

City employees have been working without success for several weeks to get ice on the public rink at the elementary school. Carl Mitchell and his crew have scraped a huge pile of snow off the rink.

According to City Supt. James Taylor the snow provided so much insulation that the ground has been slow in freezing.

Since the ground has frozen it has snowed so much that it ruined efforts to make skating ice.

However, Taylor pointed out, the city isn't as far behind schedule in getting the rink open as some people think. It usually doesn't open until sometime between January 1 and 10, he explained.

To make good ice the city needs a couple of nights of near zero temperatures without snow after the ground is frozen.

Bob Potter Marion Super

Robert Potter, 42, has been appointed Supervisor of Marion Township.

Potter, a Barnard Rd. dairy farmer, was named to the position by the Township Board. He replaces Clyde Cunningham who resigned when elected to the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors.

A native of Charlevoix, Mr. and Mrs. Potter have six daughters. He served on the Marion Township Board of Review and was an unsuccessful candidate for the Charlevoix School Board in 1967.

Offer reward

The Lodge is offering a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest of the thief who stole an estimated $100 worth of floodlights.

The outdoor lights were stolen from the motel during the holiday season. Several other establishments, including the Chamber of Commerce, reported Christmas light bulbs stolen from their outside displays.

Ski lessons

Free childrens ski lessons begin at Mt. McSauba Saturday, January 11.

Mt. McSauba manager Chuck Meier will give the lessons to children age 6-13. Instruction begins at 12:30 p.m. Saturday. Children should register at the lodge building.

Instruction groups will be divided into children 6 through 9 and 10 through 13.

Boosts Supers pay

GOP in full command

Unfettered by Democrats new Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors members voted unanimously last week to hike their wages $10 a day.

The 15-man board boosted pay to $35 a day for each member, from $25. The board meets a minimum of 16 days a year.

Board members also increased their pay to $35 for each special committee meeting attended. Members were receiving $20 for committee meetings. In the past there have been few committee meetings.

Pay for attending meetings of the state's Supervisors Association was left at $20 a day. Travel expenses were left at ten cents a mile.

In approving the $35 a day per diem pay, supervisors rejected suggestions that their pay be set at $40 or $50 a day.

In an unexpected move the board elected John Kujawski, Boyne City Supervisor, as its chairman. Kujawski works at Electra Machine Co. in Charlevoix.

Former Board Chairman Clyde Cunningham of Marion Township was defeated by Kujawski 7-6.

Cunningham is the only former township supervisor on the board. All other former township supervisors were either beaten in their bid for election to County Supervisor jobs or did not run.

Under the new system township supervisors do not sit on the County Board. Each area or district elects a County Supervisor who is independent from the Township Supervisor.

Except for Cunningham the only experienced County Supervisors at last week's first meeting of the re-apportioned board came from the county's three cities.

Ken Staley of Charlevoix was elected Board vice chairman, in another surprise move. Staley has lead efforts to block plans for a proposed $500,000 County Jail.

Though Republican Ralph Richardson was present, he was not allowed a vote in last week's meeting. Richardson apparently defeated Democrat John Vrondran in District 5 (Eveline and Wilson Townships) 295-228 in November's election.

Vrondran has called for a recount. It will be held January 17. Until then there is no official supervisor from District 5.

In another Development last week Boyne City Manager Forbes Tompkins resigned from the County Board. Tompkins said he cannot legally sit on the County Board and also be Boyne's assessor.

Al Kassin was appointed to replace Tompkins.

Organization of the new board resulted in major committee re-alignments.

Perhaps the major change was Kujawski's appointment of Ken Staley as chairman of the Sheriff's Committee. Clarence Rabach, the county's new clerk, had been chairman of the Sheriff's Committee.

Chairman of all committee's having major influence on county policy and spending were members of the former board.

These are Kit Carson, Charlevoix, Building and Grounds Committee; Staley, Sheriff's Committee; Lee Moerland, Charlevoix, Finance Committee; Bill Taylor, East Jordan, Officers' Salaries Committee; Clyde Cunningham, Equalization Committee.

Chairman of the other committees are Clyton Smith, Charlevoix and Hayes Townships (District 3), District Health and County Welfare Committee; Harry Griffin, Melrose and Chandler Townships (District 6), Child Guidance Committee; Bill Carson, Boyne Valley and Hudson Townships (District 7), Agricultural, Conservation and County Planning Committee;

Robert Davis, Bay and Evangeline Townships (District 4), Settlement with County Treasurer Committee; Al Kassin, Boyne City, Apportionment Committee; Delbert Ingalls, South Arm Township (District 1), Township and City Clerks Committee; Harry Tompkins, Boyne City, Resolutions, Veterans Affairs and Claims Committee; Barney Milstein, East Jordan, Insurance, Advertising and Printing Committee.

Last week's meeting marked the first time in history that Beaver Island has not had a member elected to the County Board of Supervisors.

In the past the Island has had the supervisors of St. James and Peaine Township on the board. St. James Supervisor Lloyd McDonough and Peaine Township Supervisor Frank Schnaudigel did not seek election to the County Board.

The Island is now part of District 2, represented by Cunningham. The district also includes Marion and Norwood Townships.

Board wary of 12-month school; doubt immediate need in North

Some school board members around Michigan may be eager to experiment with year-round classes, but Charlevoix's board members are not.

A poll of five Charlevoix board members indicates varying opinions on continuing school through the summer months, solid opposition to making any such move in the immediate future.

The State Board of Education recently approved paying additional state aid to school's which operate on a year-round basis.

Under the state plan schools are eligible for 25% more state aid if they hold classes 240 days a year, instead of the 180 now required.

However, each student would continue to attend classes 180 days. Meaning vacations would be rotated, some getting off in the summer, spring, winter and fall terms.

The State Board's move does not require school districts to operate the additional 60 days. It, instead, leaves it up to the local school board's option.

The purpose for the 12-month school year is to get maximum use of school facilities and reduce the need for additional classrooms.

Charlevoix board President Glenn Kenney agrees with the logic of the plan, but adds, "I don't think we have to pioneer it here."

"I am in hope that eventually our facilities will be in use more than three-quarters of the year," he said.

The school board, Kenney explained, is attempting to get more use from its facilities by developing adult education and summer school programs.

He also pointed out that he feels Charlevoix's schools have bigger problems in other areas than in utilization of facilities.

Board member Dale Boss was emphatically opposed to keeping students in classrooms during the summer.

"I don't think we have to do things here like they do in Europe," Boss said.

"We live in a resort area," he added. "I think people need a chance to go on vacations. The resort industry needs high school students and summer is the time of year for the kids to have fun. . . I think they should have fun."

Board member Jack Rader is not in favor of year-round school operation in Charlevoix, but agrees that it might be a good answer for big city schools.

"I don't think we're going to be faced with it here," Rader said. "I don't agree with it here," he added, but it may be ok in the larger cities where they don't have the recreational opportunities offered in Charlevoix. "Our area is different," he pointed out.

Rader also pointed out that many of Charlevoix's older students get summer jobs, which give them both experience and income.

Jerry Redeker, the board's newest member, admits he doesn't personally like the idea, but adds, "What I like personally and what we may have to do may be two different things."

50% more snow so far than city had year ago this time

If you're pretty sure we've had a lot of snow in the last couple weeks but don't trust your memory, figures compiled at the city's sewage plant will convince you.

So far this winter 60.5 inches of snow has been measured. This compared to 40.5 at the same time last winter.

Through January 5 there has been 16 inches of snow so far this year. In December 38 inches were recorded. November logged 6.5 inches.

Day-after-day of heavy snow has accounted for the massive build-up, according to the records. On December 29 eight inches fell. On January 3 we got another seven inches.

Following is the day-by-day snowfall recorded (in inches) this winter:

Sunday, January 5, attracted what manager Chuck Meier described as a record turnout at Mt. McSauba ski hill.

However, major commercial ski hills in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties reportedly have an over-snow problem. Too much snow is making it difficult for them to groom slopes for good skiing and the highway conditions have discouraged some skiers from making the trip north.

City sits on merger

Charlevoix's City Council is sitting on the Charlevoix Township Board's request than an annexation election be held.

Councilman have refused to act on the township's request. There is no indication when Councilmen will move on the matter.

The Township Board last month asked the Council set the stage for an election on the merger question.

The Township's proposal calls for merging all of the township and city into an enlarged city of approximately eight square miles.

Unless the merger is approved in the near future, township officials have stated they will be forced to begin constructing their own public utility, probably ruling out merger permanently.

At Monday's City Council meeting Township Trustee Oscar Stroud again prodded Councilmen to move on the matter. "We've got to do something!" Stroud told Councilmen.

If the Council won't act on the merger proposal, Stroud asked if it would consider selling the township water. The township, he said, will pay for running water lines from the end of the city's lines on US-31 to Pine Point and North Point.

Mayor Bill Fochtman said the City would not give the township an answer on the merger or sale of water in time for the Township Board to begin moving now.

Stroud said the township has to have a solution to its need for water within six months or a year.

Early this year the township asked the City Council to begin studying the merger proposal in preparation for positive action late in 1968.

If the Council ever acts on the Township's proposal and calls for an election the matter must further be approved by the county Board of Supervisors.

School bus fleet star attraction

The Charlevoix School Board will show off its bus fleet Sunday, January 12, at an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. in the bus garage on May St.

"We've got a real good fleet and we're proud of it!" Dale Boss, board transportation chairman, said.

All persons attending the open house will be taken for a ride in the school's new $20,000-plus coach-type bus, Boss said. The bus will leave every half hour for a trip to the elementary school construction site on Division Ave.

"Charlevoix Red Rayders" is painted above the windows of the 41-passenger bus, which was purchased primarily to transport athletes to games.

The school's 13 buses and two automobiles will be on display. The difference between buses and safety features will be explained.

Coffee and donuts will be served by women bus drivers.

DUMPS AND REGULATIONS THEREOF
EVELINE TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE NO. ___

EVELINE TOWNSHIP DUMPING GROUND ORDINANCE

PURPOSE AND INTENT

This Ordinance has been enacted to insure the public health, safety, welfare and to secure the convenience of the residents and property owners of the Township of Eveline, Charlevoix County, Michigan. It is to the advantage of all citizens to promote the best use of Township lands which use shall be in accordance with such character and adaptability as best suits the said lands. The purpose of this Ordinance is to regulate the disposal of waste, rubbish, junk and debris. Such disposal areas and operations which shall be both municipally and privately owned and operated shall be subject to these regulations, and all persons performing such operations within said County shall be subject to the penalties as provided herein. The provisions of this Ordinance hereby repeals all prior ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict therewith.

THE TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EVELINE TOWNSHIP, CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN, ORDAINS:

1 - TITLE

This Ordinance shall be known and cited as the "EVELINE TOWNSHIP DUMPING GROUND ORDINANCE."

2 - REGULATIONS

A. No person, firm, co-partnership or corporation shall dump any waste, rubbish, junk or debris in any area of the Township of Eveline, Charlevoix County, unless the same is zoned to permit such use of property, under the Eveline Township ordinances, or unless the same is municipally maintained and operated for such dumping ground purposes or a permit is obtained therefor from the Township Board, to be granted only in situations where such dumping would not be a nuisance or a hazzard to the health, welfare and safety of adjoining property owners and the public.

B. Privately operated dumping grounds which comply with the provisions of Section "A" of the Regulations will be permitted subject to the approval of the Township Board. Licenses will be granted for e one year period subject to yearly review and renewal by the Township Board. The annual license fee shall be FIVE DOLLARS ($5.00) subject to adjustment by the discretion of the Township Board. All vehicles licensed and utilized for rubbish operations must be covered on the sides, top, front and rear. The purpose and intent of this section is to rest control of privately owned dumping grounds within the reasonable discretion of the Township Board.

C. No such dumping of waste, rubbish, junk, or debris shall hereafter be allowed between sunset and sunup of each day.

D. No tree trunks or branches lerger than four (4) inches in diameter and no paper-manufacturing or pharmaceutical-manufacturing waste, explosives, human or animal excretion nor ordoriferous materials shall be dumped in any municipally or privately operated dumping grounds. Any brush or parts of trees of less then four (4) inches in diameter dumpen in a municipally or privately opereted dump shall be dumped in the particular area designated therefor, according to signs posted on the premises.

E. Dumping in water is prohibited. Wherever such signs, holes or directions are partially or totally submerged with surface waters, such areas ere not to be utilized for continued dumping until the weter subsides. Such conditions will require temporary dumping in adjacent areas within the limits of the landfill section.

F. The burning of any dumping ground area, or the waste materials therein, shall be prohibited and forbidden, without the prior written approval of the supervisor and fire chief of said Township and in no case shall be allowed within fifty (50) feet of the utility poles or towers of any public utility company; approval to be granted only when it is determined by the said supervisor and fire chief that such burning would not constitute e nuisance or hazzard to the health, welfare and safety of the surrounding locality and to the public.

G. Burning shall be limited to brush and lumber except where otherwise expressly and explicitely approved by the Township Board and the fire chief.

H. No Municipally operated dump shall be used by any person, firm, or corporation which is not a resident, property owner, or tenant within said Eveline Township.

I. The material dumped in any such dumping grounds shall be substantially covered over with fill dirt periodically, as the degree of dumping requires to maintain the dumping area in as neat a condition as possible and free from odors, and in accordance with the orders of the Eveline Township Supervisor; it being the intent of this section to regulate the dumping aree in such a manner thet same is not obnoxious or injurious to the heelth and welfare of the surrounding locality and the public by reason of odors, fumes, smoke, noise or sight.

J. The control of litter shall be rigidly observed. The dumping area shall be policed for litter and movable debris every two-three (2-3) days. All dumping shall be confined to area designed for each class of waste, rubbish, junk or debris. All dumping must be in such designated area except when water prohibits same subject to Section "E".

K. Salvage shall be maintained in a fenced area. The selvage shall be confined behind opaque fencing which shall be of a sufficient height to prevent such salvage from ground-level view.

L. Any dumping in municipally or privately operated dumps shall be accomplished by depositing the waste material over the bank of the dump, end no such waste material shall be allowed by the dumper to remain on the approachway to such bank. This section is subject to Section "E".

M. No dumping of waste, rubbish, junk or debris shall be allowed in any area within twenty-five (25) feet of the nearest point of the base of the towers, poles, supports or other structures of any public utility compeny, or within fifty (50) feet of any public road or one-hundred (100) feet from the edge of the licensed acreage.

N. Any person, firm or corporation dumping in any municipally or privately operated dump shall do so at his, its or their own risk and the Township of Eveline shall not be held liable for any injury or damages occurring therein.

O. No municipally or privately operated dump shall be used for eny purpose other than for dumping operations permitted under this Ordinance. No picking or scavergering of any municipally or privately operated dump shall be permitted by any person, firm or corporation other than those duly licensed, registered with and approved by the Eveline Township Board. No loitering shall be allowed within the municipally or privately operated dump.

P. The Township of Eveline shall not be liable for any damage to property adjoining a municipally or privately operated dump caused by fires within said dump.

3 - PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS.

Any persons, firm, or corporation which violates any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than One-hundred ($100.00) Dollars or by imprisonment in the County Jail, not to exceed ninety (90) days, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Each day that e violation occurs shall constitute a separate offense punishable upon conviction and in the manner prescribed in this section.

4 - CONSTRUCTION OF DUMPING ORDINANCE.

This Ordinance and the various parts, sections and clauses thereof are hereby declared to be severable. If any parts, sections, paragraph, sentence, clause, phrase or word is judged unconstitutional or invalid by any Court of compitant jurisdiction it is hereby provided that such adjudication shall not affect, impare or invalidate the remainder of this Ordinance.

EFFECTIVE DATE

The provisions of this Ordinance are hereby declared to be necessary for the public welfare, health, peace and safety and shall become effective on and after thirty (30) days following the first publication thereof.

Adults shirking call for help from Scouts

By PAT BEGROW

With all of this snow and cold-weather snowmobilers and skiers are really in their glory, but if you're the kind of person who abhors the thought of donning heavy clothes and boots and sporting around in a blizzard then the next few months can really be a bore.

Let's not kid ourselves, in Charlevoix it's e long wait until spring. In spite of the fact that pussywillows and daffodils are supposed to herald spring in March, it's usually the end of April before any temperatures resembling spring arrive in Charlevoix. In fact I keep a warm jacket handy until the first of June.

But aside from winter sports there is lots of action and something to do if you only want to do it. Many worthy community activities are crying for help, but communication seems to be so bad that people who are able and willing to help simply don't hear this desperate plea.

The Boy Scout and Girl Scout programs of Charlevoix are fine programs, but there are many boys and girls who cannot become Scouts simply because there are not enough adults to direct them. Boys and girls from eight to 18 would like to be a part of scouting if there were only enough adults to form new groups either as leaders or on troop committees.

Mrs. Alex Moore who is the Service Team Chairman for the Girl Scouts says that most people don't help simply because they don't feel qualified to help.

Mrs. Moore emphasizes, "The only qualification is genuine interest."

Two leaders are needed to form a new cadet troop for girls in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades, but men and women are needed for auxiliary activities as well. Right now the cadets need someone who could help them to earn merit badges in folk dancing or square dancing. This person need not be an expert, just someone who likes and knows enough about square dancing to assist a leader at a few meetings.

Another person needed is a woman who would invite a small number of girls into her home and teach them something about cooking. She need not be a trained economist or a professional cook, just a person who cared enough about girls to help them earn their merit badge in cooking. If you are that someone, contact Mrs. Alex Moore, 547-9084.

Louis Edwards is doing a good job with the Boy Scouts as Scoutmaster. He has been doing it for eleven years, but he doesn't want to quit he just wants some help to get a new troop started.

There used to be about 25 boys in his Boy Scout troop. Thirty-two is the maximum number that a troop should have. The Charlevoix troop now has 45 boys. These boys have not been solicited for membership, they have sought out the troop and asked to join.

Think how many boys could profit from Scouts if they were only encouraged to join. Half of the families of boys in the present troop did not live in Charlevoix ten years ago. Surely it's time for a new troop.

The Charlevoix Lions Club has agreed to sponsor a new group. What the Boy Scouts need now is simply a scoutmaster and five men who are willing to serve on a troop committee.

An Explorer Scout Troop of older boys is needed too. Larry Anders is the only Eagle Scout in Charlevoix, but eight or nine boys are within reach of this goal. All they need is adult help.

Any man who has a special skill might be able to help a boy win his merit badge. Merit badges encompass activities from plumbing to sheep raising. No Charlevoix boy has ever earned a badge in skiing. Doesn't that seem strange to you?

If you could help with the Boy Scout program contact Louis Edwards or someone on the Boy Scout troop committee, Vane Smith, Leonard Burns, Douglas Wilks, Val Avery or Orin Bergeon.

In Cub Scouting there are nine boys who cannot be Cub Scouts because no one is willing to be a leader. To be a cub scout leader all you need is interest, and about two or three hours a week. Because these boys are young, their young mothers are often trapped at home with preschool children and are simply unable to help. A man or woman who could be a den leader should contact Tom Hanna at 547-9738. Your reward will be the happiness of these left-out boys.

So if you still think that winter is going to be a drag, please think carefully about helping those children. There are all sorts of books and programs to help you. Those children can't help themselves without adults willing to help them.

E-J Co-op hit by explosion

EAST JORDAN -- A large portion of the East Jordan Co-op building was destroyed by a gas explosion Thursday, Jan. 2, according to Fire Chief Bernie Hammond.

The Co-op's gas pumps and office area was reported completely destroyed by the 9:30 p.m. blast which shook the downtown area of East Jordan.

Due to the intense heat from the fuel, extensive damage occurred rapidly, Hammond explained. Firemen remained at the Co-op until early Friday morning.

ACCOMPAINED BY A PRAYER

Many a letter starts on its journey through the mails bearing a message that will not be found within the envelope. It accompanies the letter, nevertheless. Such messages are prayers offered by the sender when the letter is sealed or when it is dropped into the mail box. It is often a prayer by a parent for a son in the armed forces, a daughter in a hospital, or for those in anxiety from many causes.

Prayer, with a firm belief in its power, can accomplish wonders. The occasion may be a mass disaster or a purely personal and intimate matter.

How can you make your prayers effective? By first learning how to pray and practicing a faith. The church that best suits you can be of tremendous help in this direction. Here, through active particiaption in the services you can learn to pray effectively. Prayer is dynamic.

Library notes

More new books have come to the library as gifts of individuals and organizations. For example, two books published by the Sierra Club;

THE MEANING OF WILDERNESS TO SCIENCE, edited by David Brower. The Sierra Club is concerned with enjoying our wilderness areas and with preserving them. This book is particularly concerned with the need to preserve wilderness areas for scientific study, as it relates to human ecology.

WILDLANDS IN OUR CIVILIZATION, edited by David Brower. The need to preserve some wilderness areas is a subject of increasing general interest that goes far beyond the relatively small group that founded the Sierra Club in 1949. This book is a collection of papers by various people, presented at Sierra Club conferences.

TODAY'S HEALTH GUIDE, published by the American Medical Association. This is not a "doctor book" in the old-fashioned sense, since medical knowledge has advanced to the point that the homemaker no longer has the knowledge to interpret symptoms, or the means to treat them. This is a book to help the layman to understand and communicate with his physician.

DEVOTIONS FOR CHURCH GROUPS, by William E. Vanden Berg. Written for his own congregation at Ebenezer Reformed Church, the brief devotions, based on scriptural texts, could be used for any church related program.

FITTING IN AS A NEW SERVICE WIFE, by Mary Kay Murphy and Carol Bowles Parker. A guide for the bride of a serviceman on how to manage her budget, shop on the post or base, become acquainted in new surroundings, understand the social life of the base, get along alone when her husband must be away or live in a foreign country if she can accompany him. In short, - it tells how to be a successful service wife.

WHAT EVERY AIR FORCE WIFE SHOULD KNOW, by Ester Wier. Similar to the book above, in purpose, this is designed particularly for the Air Force wife, and deals especially with the social problems, the unfamiliar titles, the protocol of rank etc. that can be so important to a husband's career.

INSIDE SOUTH AMERICA, by John Gunther. The eighth in Gunther's series of "Inside" books, this one came out in 1966. Like the others, it gives a wealth of information, in a most readable style. It is based on a year of travel and research and interviews in South America.

THE LAST BATTLE, by Cornelius Ryan. A suspenseful and dramatic account of the last three weeks before the fall of Berlin. Based on hundreds of interviews with people who participated in the actual events, it points up the reasons why Berlin is the potential source of a new world conflict.

JACKSON POLLACK, by Francis V. O'Connor. Published by the Museum of Modern Art in New York, this is a chronological history of Pollack's development as an artist and a catalog of his works, plus an interview with the man himself, in which he explains what his work is not while leaving one still in doubt as to just what it is.

GETTING THE MACHINERY of Charlevoix County's new District Court system in operation are, from left, John Talboys, John Connolly District Judge Dick Smith and Charles Landers. Connolly of Charlevoix and Landers of East Jordan, both former Justices of the Peace, will work part-time at $20 a day taking guilty pleas in traffic violation cases. Talboys, a retired Detroit policeman, will served Boyne City fulltime at $5,000 a year as a magistrate. Smith, Emmet County's former prosecuting attorney, will hear and decide all contested cases. He will hold court two days a week in the Charlevoix County Building. Smith's appointment of the three magistrates to handle routine matters was confirmed last week by the Board of Supervisors.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

Snow, snow, and more snow, all of which contributes to a variety of pleasures, accidents, and delays otherwise. After all, it is wintertime.

Now to the other extreme, I just received and executed a number of forms received from Michigan Tourist Council at Lansing scheduling for free publication in their "Calendar of Events for Spring and Summer", which is as follows for 1969:

-June 25 through June 29, the Michigan Amateur Golf Association Tournament at the Belvedere Club.

-July 26 and 27, Charlevoix Annual Venetian Festival.

-August 9, our Annual Waterfront Fair (Arts & Crafts).

-October 12, Chamber of Commerce Color Cruise aboard the MS Beaver Islander.

Now you have it well in advance, you may be planning accordingly, and I assure you our membership and other interested organizations, individuals, etc., will be contacted if necessary should we not have enough volunteer support.

In checking with things with different Chambers, I was flabbergasted to learn from Benton Harbor membership; Amusement, Automotive, Construction, Diversified, Financial, Food, Hotel-Motel, Insurance, Manufacturing and Processers, Printers, Professionals, Public Utilities, Radio, Real Estate, Restaurants, Retail, Services, Transportation, Wholesale, which totaled 495. Of course, there is a much larger community involved, however, in proportion, we here at Charlevoix are way off, and therefore there must be this year an all out effort made in fund raising and membership drive, and during that time, which will be scheduled at the first or second meeting of the year of the Board of Directors. There will be an appeal for individual citizens contributions, which in many communities, by the way, is outstanding and helps considerably.

The first directors meeting of 1969 will be Tuesday evening at the Chamber office, January 7. Election of three new officers is the first on the agenda. Highlights of this meeting will be in next issue.

During our recent snows, this office had a variety of contacts, of course, and I will mention a few; New Year's Day at home, I was contacted by a perturbed visitor who indicated he had no difficulty getting lodging, but they could not eat in Charlevoix, as the food emporiums were closed. I later learned that two of the establishments apparently had some agreement that one or the other would be open for sure. Apparently there lacked contact and co-operation when it developed the one who agreed to be open was not open. You know, folks, the word gets around.

The City parking lot on Mason Street running through to the alley off Bridge Street, I was asked how come the type of parking for storing of wrecked cars was tolerated along with certain other parking. This prevents the City from plowing out the yard so it could be used as originally intended. This yard has served a better purpose, that is for shoppers and employees. I referred the caller to the City Superintendent, Mr. Jim Taylor.

Not only did I observe, but so did a caller, that on New Year's Day afternoon and evening, there seemed to be sort of a little rally of snowmobiles using the straight of way from Meech Avenue between Petoskey Avenue and Division Street, and these vehicles were not moving at a dog trot, either. I referred the caller to the Police Department.

There has not been much said recently about the stepped up fishery about to blossom in 1969. Therefore, be reminded that in season I feel it is safe to remind you to anticipate a fishery here different than we have had for some time. I do not anticipate, however, a blow up and the mess that several other communities farther south on Lake Michigan experienced in 1967 and a bit in 1968, due to the fact that the plantings, especially of salmon, has since been spread out. Like the Boy Scout's motto, "be prepared", it might be well for others to be planning to one degree or another.

You should not lose sight that the one phase of pollution we must combat also is Water. Dave Julleret, one of our Directors, is a member of a sort of Charlevoix County group or committee, from whom, I anticipate, we will be having word from, as to the progress. The City was well represented a few weeks ago at a public hearing with the Water Resource Commission of the Department of Natural Resources of Michigan at Traverse City. Without much further adeiu, and there are laws already on the books, and known situations to be explored and existing laws enforced, this would be a good start.

The skiers and other winter sportsmen are on the march, naturally because of all the white stuff made available. Probably not all of an avalanche fashion as we have experienced before, but they are started. In addition, we have had considerable contact having to do with winter sports, but during the last week or ten days there were many personal contacts at this office, and there chief concern was, that is strangers, the lodging and eat places and how to get to the various ski slopes. Just remember, folks, there is more to it than just having a place to sleep, and if the situation doesn't become more balanced, something might result not very satisfactory.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Gilbert Ferris

Services for Mrs. Gilbert Ferris, 88, who died Friday at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, where she had been a patient for the past six months, were held Monday, January 6, at the Winchester Funeral Home. Rev. George L. Majors officiated and burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Ferris, the former Eva Tooley, was born in Eveline township, Charlevoix County May 12, 1880.

She married Gilbert Ferris and they made their home in Hayes township until moving to Charlevoix about 1936. Mr. Ferris died in 1948.

She was a member of the Church of God.

Survivors include one adopted son, William, of Overland Park, Kansas; one foster son, Custer Howe, of Kalamazoo and a sister, living in Georgia.

Raymond Sharrow

Word has been received of the death of Raymond (Pete) Sharrow, 54, who died unexpectedly of a heart attack at his home in Miami. Funeral services were held in Miami on Tuesday.

He is survived by his wife, the former Madeline Gatti, one one, Peter and a daughter, Pamela.

Mr. Sharrow was a native of Vermont and had lived in the south for over 30 years. The family had been Charlevoix summer residents until recent years.

5 Injured in storm

Five persons were reported injured New Year's Eve in two highway accidents on US-31 north of Charlevoix.

According to police the two accidents happened late Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 31, and early in the evening and were due to blinding snow.

The first occurred at 4:10 p.m. and involved four cars. The second happened two hours later and involved two cars in a headon collision.

The first accident occurred 3½ miles north of the city when a tanker truck driven by Burton Bennett, 38, of Petoskey slowed because of poor visibility caused by flying snow.

Anthony Engler, 26, of Charlevoix, following the truck in a 1960 Valiant, crashed into the rear of the tanker trailer. A second car, a '68 Dodge driven by Don Edward Wagner, 25, of 549½ Petoskey Ave. plowed into the rear of the Engler car and a third car, a Volkswagen driven by John F. Dexter, 19, of Midland struck the rear of the Wagner car.

Engler was admitted to the Charlevoix Hospital for treatment of severe facial lacerations which resulted when his car crashed under the truck's trailer. His condition is reported as satisfactory. He is a foreman at the Lexalite Corp. north of the city.

Wagner was treated in the out - patient department for minor injuries. Both were taken to the hospital by the city's emergency unit. Bennett and Dexter were uninjured.

In the second accident which occurred three miles northeast of the city near the entrance to the Rod and Gun Club, a 1968 Pontiac driven by Edward Roe, 64, of Harbor Springs, enroute to his home, and a second car, a 1968 Mercury driven by Maurice Seaman, 26, of Charlevoix, collided almost headon when the drivers were blinded by the snow. Riding with Seaman was his father, Maurice Seaman, sr. 54.

All were taken to the hospital for examination before returning to their homes.

Russell wins two seconds

Bobby Russell of Charlevoix a member of the "Toddler" class of the Petoskey speed skating club took second place in the meet at Mt. Pleasant on Saturday, January 4. He won another second place Sunday, January 5 when he skated in Bay City.

Public Notice

PUBLIC NOTICE

Resolution adopting Ordinance No. 309 made by Alderman Mol, supported by Alderman Sundberg.

Ordinance No. 309

An ordinance establishing a Parking Violations Bureau for the City of Charlevoix.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

SECTION 1.

Pursuant to Section 8395 of the Revised Judicature Act, State of Michigan, as amended by Public Act 154 of 1968, a Parking Violations Bureau, for the purpose of handling alleged parking violations within the city, is hereby established. The Parking Violations Bureau shall be under the supervision and control of the CHIEF OF POLICE.

SECTION 2.

The CHIEF OF POLICE shall, subject to the approval of the City Council, establish a convenient location for the Parking Violations Bureau, appoint qualified city employees to administer the bureau and adopt rules and regulations for the operation thereof.

SECTION 3.

No violation not scheduled in Section 6 of this ordinance shall be disposed of by the Parking Violations Bureau. The scheduling of a particular violation herein shall not entitle the violator to disposition of the violation at the bureau and in any event the person in charge of such bureau may refuse to dispose of such violation in which case any person having knowledge of the facts may make a sworn complaint before any court of proper jurisdiction as provided by law.

SECTION 4.

No violation may be settled at the Parking Violations Bureau except at the specific request of the violator. No penalty for any violation shall be accepted from any person who denies having committed the offense and in no case shall the person who is in charge of the bureau determine, or attempt to determine, the truth or falsity of any fact or matter relating to such alleged violation. No person shall be required to dispose of a parking violation at the Parking Violations Bureau and any person shall be entitled to have any such violation processed before a court having jurisdiction thereof if he so desires. The unwillingness of any person to dispose of any violation at the Parking Violations Bureau shall not prejudice him or in any way diminish the rights, privileges and protection accorded to him by law.

SECTION 5.

The issuance of a traffic ticket or notice of violation by a police officer of the city shall be deemed an allegation of a parking violation. Such traffic ticket or notice of violation shall indicate the length of time in which the person to whom the same was issued must respond before the Parking Violations Bureau. It shall also indicate the address of the bureau, the hours during which the bureau is open, the amount of the penalty scheduled for the offense for which the ticket was issued and advise that a warrant for the arrest of the person to whom the ticket was issued will be sought if such person fails to respond within the time limited.

SECTION 6.

The following schedule of offenses and fines is hereby adopted:

Offense
(a) Parking Meter Violation
If paid within 0-24 hrs.	$ .25
after 72 hours	1.00
Excessive Meter Violation	1.00
after 72 hours	2.00
(b) Overtime Parking	1.00
(c) Double Parking	1.00
(d) No Parking Zone	1.00
(e) Parking Too Far From Curb	1.00
(f) Angle Parking Violation	1.00
(g) Obstructing Traffic	1.00
(h) Parking on Sidewalk	1.00
(i) Parking in Front of Driveway	1.00
(j) Parking Within Intersection	1.00
(k) Parking Within 15 ft. of Fire Hydrant	1.00
(l) Parking on Cross Walk	1.00
(m) Blocking Alley	1.00
(n) Parking Wrong Side of Street on Designated Streets	1.00
(o) Improper Parking	1.00
(p) No Parking 2:00 a.m. to 6:00 a.m. Dec. to April	1.00

SECTION 7.

All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed.

SECTION 8.

This ordinance shall become effective 20 days following its adoption.

Adopted by the City Council of the City of Charlevoix, Michigan this 6th day of January A.D. 1969.

Adopted by the following vote:

Yea - Gill, Webb, Sundberg, Mol.

Nay-None.

Absent - Whitley, Boss.

Boyne, Rayders clash

The Charlevoix Red Rayders' record has dropped to a miserable 2-4 in league play, but their spirits haven't dampened.

After last week's loss to Petoskey by a 82-65 count, especially without the services of ace, Kraag Lieberman (injured in the opening minutes of play) they showed area fans that there is still steam left in their pipes.

The Rayders kept in good pace for the first half, leading all the way before running out of steam in the second half. The loss was by 17 points, and just to speculate, Lieberman was averaging 18 points a game. A bit of arithmetic here.....well that's foolish too....

Boyne City, one of the preseason powers have dropped five games, but also must be respected when it meets Charlevoix this week. Mike Mueller, their 6-5 center is their top scorer, and has to be contended with as well as Brad Price, Bill Korthase, and Jeff Belford. Too many fans still remember Boyne's tournament win over Charlevoix last year.

Bruce Meggison and Bob DeYoung had a fine showing last week, and should Lieberman still be nursing his injuries, the Rayders will want revenge. The big Red prevails.

Rogers City will make the long cross-state trip to play the Petoskey Northmen. With five Northmen averaging in double figures, and Dick Swenor having the highest scoring average in the North --who else but Petoskey.

The big game will be played at Gaylord, where Alpena Catholic comes to town. Taking the thrills from the varsity contest will be the JV game. Both junior teams are undefeated, and that will pack'em in from the rafters.

The varsity game could also be a toss-up. Gaylord is still trying to regain composure from their very poor performance at TCSF last week where they managed only 39 points. The big guns of Catt and Johnson, who together were averaging 40 points a game were completely silenced, and there were icicles hanging from the Gaylord rim all night long.

Being on home grounds in Gaylord is worth at least 20 points. Gaylord behind Catt and Johnson should win this one.

St. Ignace, still on shakey grounds after slipping by Rogers City, 49-47 in the final minute of play will be at home when they face TCSF, and that should be a blessing. The Saints, destined on becoming one of the powers in the state, had a real bad night at Rogers City, and didn't get any scoring performances out of their big three. Only Leo Donovan's 14 points gave them the winning touch.

St. Francis with Larry Truelove breaking into the Top 10 in scoring, along with John Wambold and Kerry Glaesmer have proved them to be the surprise team of the conference, but it would be a greater surprise if they upset the Saints. Such nonsense cannot be tolerated; St. Ignace by 20.

On Saturday, Alpena CC will play at Cheboygan, in what should be a whale of a game. The Chiefs split their Christmas vacation games in the Motor City, defeating Avondale, 84-53, then losing to powerful Troy, 63-31.

Joe Beatty, Dick Rentz, and Greg Johnson have been hitting in double figures all year long. Alpena Catholic won the first game, 61-57, but this time things will be reversed. Look forward to Cheboygan to win, but by a slim margin.

Rayders lose lead as Lieberman hurt

The Rayders lost their top-scorer early in the first period Friday, but held the lead until the third period in Friday's contest with Petoskey. Petoskey won 82-65.

Kraag Lieberman, who had been averaging 18 points a game, severely sprained an ankle in the first two minutes of the game, after putting four points on the scoreboard. He may not be back in the Rayder lineup for three or four weeks.

With Lieberman out, Bruce Meggison went on to play one of the finest games seen by Rayder fans this year. Meggison poured 25 points through the hoop.

Not far behind Meggison was Bob DeYoung who scored 17 points.

The Rayders moved to a comfortable 20-10 lead in the first period. By halftime they lead 39-31. Petoskey edged ahead 55-53 by the end of the third period.

Twenty-three fouls were called on Charlevoix to 16 on Petoskey. The Rayders missed 12 free throws. Petoskey missed 11.

Others scoring for the Rayders were Stewart Colemn, 8; Don Ward, 5; Don Livingston, 4; and Kevin Swanson, 2.

JVs route Petoskey

The Rayder JVs trounced Petoskey 73-53 Friday with Bill Carey pacing the Charlevoix scoring. Carey scored 22 points on 11 field goals.

The little Rayders led all the way, moving to a 16-15 first period lead and then going ahead 36-29 at halftime. Petoskey folded in the third period as Charlevoix scored 24 points to its 9.

The JVs missed ten free throws to Petoskey's 19 misses. Twenty-one fouls were called on Charlevoix to 18 on Petoskey.

Others scoring for the Charlevoix JVs were Tom Bergmann, 12 Tim Carey, 11; Ron Bindi, 9; Dave Swanson, 8; Larry Potter 7; and Mike Bergmann, 4.

Councilmen report

Charlevoix City Councilmen Monday evening discussed snowmobile traffic problems and passed a new ordinance on parking violations.

Second Ward Councilman Bob Gill said he has heard complaints about snowmobiles making noise late at night and reckless operation.

City Attorney John Michael, who said he has heard the same complaints, said the City may need a law limiting the speed snowmobiles may be operated at and setting "curfew" for them.

There have been several minor accidents and Councilmen indicated concern that unless snowmobile operators are more careful someone will be seriously injured in a collision with a car.

The new parking ordinance merely reestablishes the city's parking fine rate. It was needed so the city can obtain fines from parking violators rather than the money going to the new District Court.

Attorney Don Berlage appeared at the meeting and asked that Councilmen move on Architect Jack Begrow's application for a building permit to construct a condominium on the south shore of Round Lake between Ward's and Bellinger's marinas.

Peace Corps testing set

Charlevoix area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 P.M. on Saturday, January 18 at the Traverse City Post Office.

The Peace Corps uses the Placement Test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

Mrs. Ross Alexander

Now that the holidays are over and time to put everything away for another year I thought it would be in interest for you to know that the first decorated tree in our Community was in 1938 which was the Evergreen growing for many years in the front yard of the Lottie Tumath residence and now the home of N.C. Christensen by the school. It was covered by many colored lights put on by the late J.C. Dissette and Ross Alexander and the electric cord was run through the culvert from Roy Meyers Gas Station on the corner and Roy turned the electricity on each evening and it was a beautiful and unusual sight for everyone. The following year the late George Hemingway donated two beautiful evergreens from his Nursery one being placed on the East Ferry Dock and was covered with all blue lights by the late Frank Milward and the one on the west ferry dock with all colored lights by Ross Alexander and was enjoyed by many people as the Ferry was still running. That same year the Church Choir and the young people had a Sleigh ride through the country side singing Christmas Carols which was followed by a party near midnight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hanson who now live in Clarkston, Michigan.

In 1940 a Large Cross covered with evergreens and all Blue Lights was near the south side of the Church and was shining bright the whole night through. The next year everything was in darkness for we were in World War II and not a light shining anywhere, but the Ferry ran that year most of the month of January and one could also cross on the seven inches of ice on the south side of the Channel that year.

We extend our sympathy to Mrs. Evelyn Alexander on the death of her mother, Mrs. R. E. Miller, New Year's Day in Petoskey Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital. Mrs. Miller had returned home from the hospital Sunday where she had been a patient from breaking her arm a few days before Christmas. Ruth Campbell was a Social Worker for the Welfare Department in Petoskey several years before becoming Mrs. Miller and had made many friends with her work. The Services were Saturday afternoon at the Stone Funeral Home in Petoskey.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gilbert have returned home after spending the holidays with their children in Detroit.

Donald Johnson of Detroit spent the several days over New Year's at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Johnson.

Snow, snow and more snow. But I have seen much more in years gone by and I still think this is a pretty good place to live with friends all around us. We wish to thank Phil Myner for widening the road and making a parking place for the Church Morning Service this Sunday.

New Jordan hatchery still being studied

Opponents of the state's tentative plan to construct a salmon hatchery on the Jordan River are pre-mature in demanding a public hearing, according to Dr. Wayne Tody, Michigan's fisheries chief.

In a letter read at last week's Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors' meeting, Tody said the Dept. of Natural Resources has not firmly decided it wants to build the multi-million-dollar hatchery on the Jordan.

Due to its temperature, flow and purity, Tody explained, the Jordan is one of the sites being given top consideration for another hatchery. However, he said, other sites are also being considered. Construction will not begin before 1970.

Strong opposition to the hatchery has been proclaimed by the Jordan River Watershed Commission and East Jordan area conservationists. They fear pollution from the hatchery.

Tody promised that the DNR will take into consideration the feelings of local residents and said he understands and agrees with the desire to maintain the Jordan's water quality. He added that he does not believe the proposed hatchery would be a pollution source.

East Jordan area people, Tody recognized in his letter, are being led by Michigan State University's Natural Resources Dept. in fearing pollution from the hatchery. The MSU department is directed by Today's predecessor, Dr. Howard Tanner.

If, after studying all possibilities, the DNR decides the Jordan River is the best location for the hatchery, Tody said the request for a public hearing will be given further consideration.

ARMY SGT. E5 Mitchel L. Coates, RA68011185 of Charlevoix returned for a 30 day leave after eight months in Germany.

He took basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. and took further training at Fort Ord, Calif.

He is to report to New Jersey January 12 for one week of training. He will then report to Vietnam for 18 months active duty.

Fire hits home

The Ted Browe home on May St. was damaged by flames, smoke and water 5:45 p.m. Monday, Dec. 30.

Charlevoix firemen confined the flames to an upstairs bedroom. Water and smoke damage spread through other portions of the home.

Police make first arrests in marihuana case

A several months-long investigation by area police has confirmed earlier citizens reports that Charlevoix young people are smoking marihuana.

A 19-year-old mother and a 20-year-old youth have been charged with selling marihuana in Charlevoix. According to Prosecuting Attorney a juvenile, whose name was not released, faces the same charge.

Arraigned in District Court was Mrs. Gail E. Englehart, 19, of Wojan's apartments. She demanded examination, which will be held January 23, Varnum said.

Arrested Tuesday on the same charge was Steven L. Ager, 20, of Charlevoix. He will be arraigned in District Court Thursday at 10 a.m.

Ager is out of jail on $5,000 bond, Undersheriff Byron Stockwell said. Mrs. Englehart is being held in jail in lieu of $5,000 bond, Stockwell said.

Minimum penalty for selling marihuana is 20 years in prison. Maximum penalty is life.

The arrests came as the result of police investigations into alleged use of marihuana by some Charlevoix High School students and older youths.

Varnum said the investigation is continuing. Because of this he asked that information on how the marihuana is brought into the area, how it is sold, where it is used and how many persons are involved not be disclosed at this time.

The Courier reported in mid-November that several area parents were concerned about the suspected use of marihuana by high school and older youths.

Disclosure by some students that the drug is being used were also reported.

Several citizens' organizations and individuals then began pressing for effective police action.

Varnum said Monday that police were working on the problem before it became a widespread public concern. City police, State police and the Sheriff's Dept. are cooperating in the investigation, he said.

He indicated more arrests may be pending.

Taxpayers get bonus on local investment in special education

Charlevoix collected a pretty fair dividend on the $13,923 in property taxes it paid into the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District special education fund last year.

The intermediate district spent $38,704 on special education in Charlevoix during the 1967-68 school year, according to special education director Dale Fassett.

That figures to about 245% more than the $13,923 Charlevoix school district property owners paid into the special education fund. (The intermediate district levies a half-mill tax for special education.)

Of the 1,099 children in the intermediate district who received special education help, 106-or 14.6%--were from Charlevoix.

Charlevoix's 1,465 students represent 13% of the 10,627 total Intermediate district school enrollment; meaning Charlevoix had a higher percentage of students served than its enrollment represents in the intermediate district.

The Intermediate district collects approximately 75% of special education costs from the state. The other 25% is raised through the half-mill property tax levy.

Throughout the Intermediate district (Charlevoix, Emmet and part of Antrim Counties) the half-mill raised $70,000. Charlevoix's $13,923 contribution represents about 20% of the total amount raised.

Intermediate district provided special education services to 1,099 students attending local schools during the 1967-1968 school year, Fassett said.

The intermediate district supported ten rooms for the mentally handicapped; nine for students with slight mental retardation and one for students with more severe learning problems. In addition one room for the physically handicapped was also supported. These rooms were operated by local districts but financially supported by the Intermediate District through the special education millage, Fassett explained.

Other services provided directly by the Intermediate District were; school social work; speech correction; diagnostic services; teacher-counselor for the hard of hearing; and Type "C" consultant services for the educable mentally handicapped who are not being served in a classroom program.

The total cost of the Intermediate District sponsored special education programs for the 1967-68 school year, not including summer programs, was $262,072.

Of the total amount, Fassett said, the state was supposed to contribute approximately $170,490. However, because of a ceiling set by the state legislature only $158,190 was contributed, leaving the Intermediate District approximately $104,000 to pay.

The special education charter millage, approved by voters of the Intermediate District in June of 1964, brought in approximately $70,000 during the 1967-1968 school year.

This means Fassett said, that special education program costs exceeded the revenues by nearly $34,000.

Prior to the 1967-1968 school year more money had been levied than had been spent, leaving a surplus to accumulate, Fassett explained. Without this surplus money the services offered last year could not have been provided, he added.

If the special education services and programs offered this school year cost no more than the services and programs offered last year, the surplus of funds in the special education account will be depleted, he pointed out.

Hearing Friday on state plan to lease Bells Bay to Medusa

The Conservation Dept. will hold a public hearing Friday, Jan. 17, 7:30 p.m. on its proposal to lease a major portion of the public land at Bells Bay to Medusa Portland Cement Co.

The hearing is open to all concerned persons. It will be held in the Community Room of City Hall.

At Medusa's request, Conservation Dept. top officials have recommended that 216 acres of the Bells Bay section of the Jordan River State Forest be leased for a limestone quarry.

The proposed lease area is adjacent to Medusa's South Point property. As outlined by department Director Dr. Ralph MacMullan, quarrying would not be allowed in a 200-yard strip along the beach, where campsite are located.

Dr. MacMullan was prepared to ask the Conservation Commission to approve leasing the Bells Bay property at its November meeting. Under pressure from Charlevoix area people, the department agreed to hold off on the plan until a public hearing was held in Charlevoix.

Persons wishing to may speak at Friday's hearing. Written statements may also be submitted at the hearing or with Charlevoix attorney John Michael ahead of the hearing.

Joe Stephansky, chief of the department's Lands Division, later toured the Bells Bay area and admitted to the Courier he had not realized its recreational value. Stephansky also said quarrying the property would permanently destroy it for public use.

As justification for his recommendation, MacMullan pointed out the property was acquired by the state in 1924 for use as a limestone quarry in building roads. He added that this plan was abandoned.

The land has been dedicated as a part of the State Forest for years. State Forester Jack Lockwood and his superiors were not consulted concerning the proposed lease.

In 1963 Charlevoix city and township joined with the State Forest division to supply money for development of campsites at Bells Bay. The camping area has been enlarged and improved since then with funds and manpower from the state, city and township.

The Bells Bay area is the only undeveloped publicly - owned frontage remaining in the Charlevoix area. Through the Fisherman's Island area south of Bells Bay remains unspoiled, it is owned by a Detroit-based group which intends to develop it into a vacation and year-round subdivision.

At the suggestion of several local persons and Lockwood the department is considering a proposal to give Medusa the land it seeks for a quarry if Medusa would in turn buy and give to the state the privately-owned Fisherman's Island tract.

Stephansky told the Courier the state is checking with owners of the Fisherman's Island area to see if such a swap would be possible. He has not reported on his findings.

Lockwood and other conservationists have described the Fisherman's Island tract as some of the most desirable unspoiled lake frontage left in the Midwest for preservation as a publicly - owned natural area. About 600 acres is involved.

Stephansky said he is studying the possibility of letting Medusa keep part of the "back" portion of the Fisherman's Island tract for quarrying if it purchased the majority of the property for the state.

Both federal and state parks officials have several times recommended that the Fisherman's Island tract be obtained for public use. No action has ever been taken on these proposals.

Former Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach endorsed the Fisherman's Island plan and sharply opposed the Bells Bay lease proposal. (Rabach become Charlevoix County Clerk Jan. 1.)

State Rep. Bob Davis is expected to chair Friday's public hearing. Conservation Dept. officials expected to attend the hearing include Stephansky; Robert Wood, chief of oil and mineral leasing; Jerry Eddy, Geological Survey Division chief and former department director, and Norm Smith, Recreation Resource Planning chief.

There has been no explanation from the department as to why no one from the Forestry Division--which manages the Bells Bay area--is expected to attend. Foresters have indicated opposition to the lease.

Lyle Miles to head Chamber during 1969

Lyle Miles is the new president of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

A member of the Chamber Board of Directors for one year, Miles has been active in Chamber work for more than 20 years. He served as chairman of the Venetian Festival boat parade for years and is a lifelong Charlevoixian.

Miles said that during 1969 he hopes to see the Chamber continue to progress and develop as it did last year under President Chuck Carey and as it has in the past.

He pointed out several matters will require considerable Chamber attention in 1969. Among them, he feels, will be coho fishing and the growing demand for campgrounds.

In other action the Chamber Board of Directors last week elected Tom Acton vice president and Gordon Neff treasurer.

Miles works at Erber Auto Co. Acton is employed at Lexalite and Neff is part owner of Neff Bros. Grocery store.

City buried again

Snow already tops last winter

Charlevoix was buried under its biggest snow storm of the decade last Friday, December 10, setting what local weather observers report as the winter's second record.

According to Lloyd Kuebler, who takes the official snowfall measurements at the city sewage treatment plant, 14 inches of snow fell during a little more than a 24 hour period.

On the weekend between Christmas and New Year's weathermen logged about 11 inches of snow, which until last week was thought to be the worst snow storm since the winter of 1958-59.

Kuebler's records Monday morning, January 13, showed that 82.5 inches of snow have fallen so far this winter, compared to a total of 79.5 all last winter.

Friday's snow storm literally isolated Charlevoix and Antrim counties. All county schools were closed and both major north-south federal highways in the counties were closed for a large part of the day.

US-31 from Charlevoix to Traverse City was closed all day Friday, with the worst conditions reported between Charlevoix and Eastport. US-131 was closed for several hours at a time in sections betweeo Elmira and Kalkaska.

However, 17 miles north of Charlevoix in Petoskey persons contacted by telephone Friday said their weather was clear with little snow and no road problems. Persons driving to Petoskey said the storm disappeared between Big Rock Point and Bay Shore.

The storm was so bad that Gordon Neff of Neff Brothers grocery said the store was unable to make deliveries for the first time in 20 years.

Even in town streets were closed. New County Clerk Clarence Rabach was unable to reach retiring clerk Pete Bulow's home at 508 Meadow Lane. The Marion Center Rd. (Ellsworth Rd.) was not plowed until Saturday morning.

Friday night's Rayder basketball game at Boyne City was postponed to this Thursday.

In and out of town snowplow crews had all they could handle keeping main streets and highways open. Antrim County at one point called all of its snowplows off the roads because they could not keep up with the drifting snow and several nearly became lost in the blinding storm.

A transit bus southbound to Chicago was pulled off the highway in Charlevoix. Passengers waited until the storm abated Friday evening.

Fish culturists assigned to the Charlevoix hatchery could not get into town from their homes south of Charlevoix to care for the more than 800,000 coho eggs and fry. A fisheries worker from Oden, some 24 miles north of Charlevoix had little trouble getting through.

During the height of Friday's storm a few snowmobilers used their machines on Bridge St.

Several stores on Bridge St. closed early or did not open all day.

THIS snowmobiler Friday figured out the best way to get around in downtown Charlevoix, which resembled the arctic wilderness.

DEEP SNOW and high banks can make little folks feel pretty big, as these two tykes demonstrate as they tower above the stop sign at the corner of Clinton and Grant. Some traffic signs were completely buried by last week's storm.

Planners explain reason for comprehensive plan

Introduction

The primary purpose of the comprehensive planning program is to formulate a set of guidelines for future development. A number of fundamental processes and steps are necessary before such a program can be formulated. The first of these steps is what is commonly termed the basic studies and is, in many ways, the most important step, for this is the actual start of the program. It is a study of the trends of the region with an attempt to determine what and how the community is comprised at present and why and how it came to develop in the manner it did.

Plans to guide orderly development are useless unto themselves if they are not properly implemented. Likewise, plans to guide a region's growth are meaningless unless substantiated by a basic fund of existing information concerning the area. For example, without a study of the history of the area, little can be learned to those causative factors which created the existing spatial form, population characteristics or economy of the region. Similarly, basic studies of natural resources, population and the economy are fundamental in determining what makes-up the region and why it developed as it did.

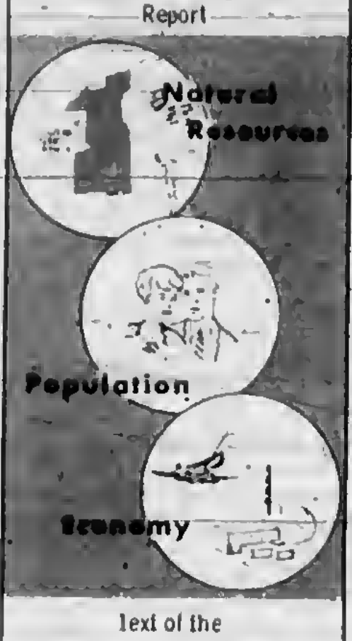
This report, then, is concerned with a determination and also an analysis of those causative factors which have led to the existing spatial form of the Charlevoix Region. In addition to investigating past and present trends, this report also investigates certain trend possibilities which may affect the development of the area. It is hoped this will show what has happened, why it has happened, what is likely to happen, and that these basic studies, when combined with the other detailed studies and plans, will provide a framework for a reasonable and feasible future development plan for the Charlevoix Region.

Natural Resources

Man's natural environment in the Charlevoix regional setting has proved a vital asset to him. Primarily related to resort and recreational activities, weather and climate are also important elements affecting a wide gamut of economic activities ranging from fruit growing to retail trade. Similarly, geologic features of the terrain, created by glacial action, have had a major effect on the area. The principal benefit bestowed on the area by glaciers is the multitude of inland lakes as well as a natural harbor at Charlevoix. The level-to-undulating plains of the region provide favorable conditions for agriculture, recreational activities, or industrial development.

Sandy and loam soils are generally well-drained and, in most cases, will support all types of development. Only in certain portions of the county-one of which is directly in line with future residential growth (north of Charlevoix), are soil conditions not conducive to surface development.

A Courier Continuing Report



Text of the Planning Commission's Report

One of the single greatest distinguishing characteristics of the Charlevoix Region's natural resources is its abundant surface water supplies. This abundance of lakes and streams, however, is not to be taken for granted. Increasingly intensive use of water resources may impair this most valuable resource, if conscientious programs of conservation and good planning are not applied.

The quality of surface and ground water today is good and it remains for the residents of the region to maintain this quality. Recent growth has indicated a number of prime examples of careless use of this resource.

Lake Michigan and the many inland lakes are a major characteristic of the region upon which the economy depends. The nearly total development of lakefront property evidences this fact. Round Lake, because of its location and proximity to Charlevoix and Lake Michigan, is a principal natural resource asset of the region. The same is true of Lake Charlevoix, chiefly due to its size.

Today's demand for lakefront property has also created a prime asset in smaller lakes, some of which are located in Marion Township. The demand can further be satisfied by high density use of present low density lakefront property. Water pollution is only one of a number of problems which can arise if new growth is unplanned.

Population

Within Charlevoix County, population has shown no significant increases in the past 50 years. The region has only been able to grow because the City of Charlevoix and the Township of Charlevoix adjacent to the city have grown. Age-sex ratios characterize the population of various civil divisions of the region. Within each division, especially the City of Charlevoix, fewer children and more older people are the general rule. This might be explained by the fact that young families do not settle in the area but rather leave it in search of better jobs, while retirees seek the region's serenity and slower pace of living.

Educational, occupational and income trends between 1950 and 1960 indicate that a reverse may be starting. Educational attainments among area residents rose, new employment gains were made, especially in professional and technical occupations, and incomes more than doubled during the decade of the fifties.

Population estimates indicate that between 1960 and 1967 the population of the region had increased from 3,557 to 4,181-a 15% rise. This is three times the ratio of increase experienced by the region between 1950 and 1960.

Projecting this rate of growth, a 1980 population of 8,410 seems reasonable. Other methods of projection, however, provide somewhat lower estimates. For the purposes of the report, it is estimated the region will have 5,800 residents by 1980; 3,600 in the City of Charlevoix, 1,400 in Charlevoix Township, and 800 in Marion Township.

Economic Base

The Charlevoix Region, after progressing through a number of economic periods, has emerged today retaining many former economic characteristics while at the same time taking on a new outlook. Tourism and the emerging industrialization of the region have created a diverse economy, much more sound, stable and progressive than was the case in the past.

As the population of Charlevoix County has begun to increase in the sixties, the Charlevoix Region had experienced more than its proportionate share of the gain. Employment gains have likewise taken place, principally in the manufacturing and retail and service trades, while agricultural employment and production have decreased.

The commercial base of the region's economy has experienced growing pains from within and outside the region. Analysis of trade centers and trade areas in the northern Lower Peninsula indicates that four basic retail trade areas and a number of commercial centers exist in the area. Two of the principal retail trade centers-Traverse City and Petoskey-are of primary importance to retail sales in the region. Residents in the region are drawn to Petoskey in search of retail comparison goods, with Traverse City a secondary comparison goods center.

The Retail Trade Area of Charlevoix, primarily a convenience trade center, includes all of western Charlevoix County and a portion of northwestern Antrim County. The major strength of the Charlevoix retail market is the central business district of Charlevoix which offers not only a full line of convenience goods and services but a number of comparison items such as apparel, furniture and automobiles. Convenience items, such as food and gasoline, experienced increased sales between 1963 and 1986 primarily due to the increasing importance of tourism in the region. A number of comparison goods items, chiefly furniture and apparel, experienced sales losses in the past.

Comparisons of effective buying income and actual retail sales in Charlevoix County and the region evidence the fact that both the county and region are losing sales to outside competition, primarily in comparison goods categories. Only 20% of the total purchasing power for general merchandise is expended in either the region or county. At the other extreme is the lumber and hardware business which retained over 200% of the available purchasing power of the Charlevoix Retail Trade Area.

It is estimated that about one-third of retail sales and services in Charlevoix County are a direct result of tourist spending; thus, retained retail sales are substantially higher than would be the case otherwise. While 40% of county retail sales took place in the Charlevoix Region in 1966, the region accounted for only 27% of the tourist business. The majority of tourist business takes place in August and September, however, winter sports distinctly influence winter sales.

3 students earn honors

Letters of Commendation honoring them for their high performance on the 1968 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT) have been awarded to three students at Charlevoix High School, according to Principal Ray Carr.

The students are Elizabeth Davison, Richard Fochtman and Deborah Potter.

They are among 39,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper two percent of those who will graduate from high school in 1969. The Commended students rank just below the 15,000 Semifinalists announced in September by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

Harrington earns medal

Yeoman Third Class Richard D. Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.T. Harrington of 101 Lake St., Charlevoix, was awarded the Navy Achievement Medal during ceremonies aboard the heavy cruiser USS Saint Paul at San Diego, Calif.

He earned the award while serving aboard the cruiser off the coast of Vietnam from April 10 to October 1 of this year.

BRENDA KAY Hamlin was four years old January 10. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Hamlin of Boyne City and the granddaughter of Mrs. Jane Fiedler of Charlevoix.

Dawn Marie Gennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Gennett of Charlevoix, was two years old January 7. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Gennett of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Elverton Hunt of Afton, Mich.

Dems meet

Charlevoix County Democrats will meet at the county building at 8 p.m. Friday to elect delegates to the spring convention of the party to be held in Detroit Feb. 1 and 2.

Delegates elected last August will be eligible to vote for delegates to the state convention, according to Peter Johnson, county chairman.

The meeting will be held in the supervisors' room.

Air safety hearing set

TRAVERSE CITY--An air safety conference sponsored by the Federal Aviation Administration will be held at Northwestern Michigan College Friday 7:30 p.m. January 17. The program, in room 217 of the college science building, will offer information of particular interest to pilots in the northwestern Michigan area.

The session is under the direction of Jack T. Parrish, aviation safety officer of the FAA general aviation district office in Grand Rapids.

Program highlights will include a movie on air safety, followed by a panel discussion; a talk by a representative of the Coast Guard air station at Traverse City on search and rescue operations; and a discussion of local flying conditions, dealing particularly with winter weather flight problems, led by Robert Evans, flight service specialist with the Traverse City FAA office.

Service Address

Marine Pfc. Richard D. Dennis, formerly of Charlevoix, grandson of Mrs. Effie Reid of Charlevoix is serving in Vietnam with the 3rd Marine Division. His present address if Pfc. Dennis, R.D. 2451222, 3rd Marine Div. FPO San Francisco, Calif. 96602.

Ironton

Mrs. Ross Alexander
LI 7-2037

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper are spending the winter in Fort Pierce, Florida.

Mrs. Pauline Canfield is in Niles and Benton Harbor for several weeks before leaving to spend the balance of the winter in St. Petersburg, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fiske and son of Alma, Michigan have been spending several days in their local home.

Once again we are taking our hats off to Phil Myner getting out with his tractor and plow Saturday morning and opening our Ironton roads and local driveways so the mail could get here and also that we could get out to M-66 for weekly shopping which everyone deeply appreciated and also made another parking space for the Church Service this Sunday morning as we are always certain that Rev. and Mrs. Harmon will get here from their home in Cheboygan after our storm of several days this past week.

We haven't much to say about the fishing although some perch and smelt are being caught the fisherman are having difficulty moving their shanties due to slush and snow on the ice.

The annual Church business meeting will be next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. Each member and those interested are urged to be present.

Enos Bacon purchased a new snowmobile this week and has been giving it a workout this Sunday afternoon.

Several have been ill with the flu. We missed Sally Saunders, our Church Organist, this Sunday. Their daughter Virginia took over on the piano and did a beautiful job filling her mother's place. We feel real fortunate having so much talent and willingness to help among our local young people.

Evelyn Vanderwall has been watching a lively spider on the outside of their dining room window this Sunday afternoon. Our grandparents always said that was a sure sign of a thaw so perhaps our usual one for January is not far off. Although the Farmers Almanac predicts another storm for the end of this week. So far we have had about 92 inches of snow but with several mild days we now have about 40 inches on the level which is still not as much as we had at one time in 1958 and '59.

The Ladies fellowship will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Church.

Mr. and Mrs. William Crowe, Mrs. Effie Arthur and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harrison have returned home after spending the past three weeks in Detroit.

Engaged

TO MARRY--Dr. and Mrs. William J. Hooker of East Lansing, Michigan announce the engagement of their daughter Joanne Hope Hooker to Sgt. Franklyn L. Curtis son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Curtis of Charlevoix. The bride-elect is a graduate of East Lansing High School and is presently enrolled at Michigan State University in Home Economics. Sgt. Curtis is a graduate of Charlevoix High School, attended Michigan State University and is stationed at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base near Marquette. A summer wedding is planned.

Bill Peck heads Community Chest

William Peck of Ironton is the new president of the Charlevoix Community Chest.

Peck and other new officers were elected at the Chest Board of Directors' annual meeting.

Tom LaBlance, last year's president, was elected vice president. Mrs. James Williams is secretary and Ed McNamara, treasurer.

Three new directors were welcomed at the meeting. They are Peck, McNamara and Mrs. Wayne Rank. Retiring directors are Mrs. Robert Martin, Ralph Doan and Dr. John Lignell.

Committee chairmen for 1969 are Pat Hawley, budget; LaBlance, campaign; Bob Clock, publicity; Peck, special requests, and Mrs. Williams, nominations.

The 1968 Chest drive raised $17,154. The goal was $16,512.

If You Would Be Master

Perhaps if each of us carried
The badge of a jester or clown,
To act as a kind of deflator
When we feel ourselves coming down,
With attacks of self-importance
That need cutting by half,
We'd take our little scepter
And at our own expense have a laugh.

We'd remember then the precept
Laid down by the Master when,
"If you would be master," He said,
"You must first be servant to men."
Your church is a sort of master
It calls on all to serve,
Yet those who give to it service
Discover they too are served.

Library Notes

Charlevoix students have been taking advantage of a current two-shelf collection of books on Careers in the library. The books range from up-to-date material on nursing to such specialized subjects as Graphic Reproduction, Transportation and the Foreign Service.

Included in the Collection, are attractive and authoritative books on Law Enforcement, Library Work, Fashions and Home Economics.

"THE EVER - CHANGING SEA" is a recent book of interest to young oceanographers. Written by David B. Ericson and Goesta Wollin, both of whom are distinguished oceanographers, this book contains valuable and stimulating advice on the problems of deep-sea research.

"JOBS THAT TAKE YOU PLACES", by Joseph Leeming deals with the hundreds of jobs in foreign countries that are available today to young American men and women. It is an occupational source book of importance, and it is good reading!

"ART CAREER GUIDE" by Donald Holden, deals with all phases of jobs connected with Art. It is the first Complete career guide for art students, covering such subjects as Industrial Design, Interior Design, Fabric Design, Photograph and Art Teaching.

"CAREERS IN AIRLINES OPERATIONS", by Raymond Nathan discusses the vast world of the airlines which employs more than 173,000 men and women. The book is a comprehensive and practical survey of a field of employment which by its very nature captivates the imagination of young people.

"HOW TO SERVE AND GET AHEAD IN THE ARMED FORCES," by Jack Raymond is a valuable guide to help young men determine which branch of the service is the right one. Jack Raymond, a newspaper man, is well qualified to write on this subject. He served four years in the Army after Pearl Harbor, was a combat correspondent with Stars and Stripes and spent six years in Germany. Anyone who faces military, anyone now in the armed forces, and anyone contemplating a military career will find this guide book both reassuring and helpful.

"WOMEN IN PHYSICAL EDUCATION" by Elizabeth Helsey deals with the role, work, home and history of the subject. The book is well illustrated with photographs and charts. It is written primarily for women who plan to major in physical education, although it is a useful reference for men's classes and co-educational courses in methods and principles at the junior and senior level.

SO YOU WANT TO GO INTO INDUSTRY" by Edward Hodnett asks the question: "What can you expect from your job in industry and what will be expected of you?" More high school and college graduates today enter industry than any other career field, yet few of them know in advance just what their jobs will be like. Mr. Hodnett covers the subject extensively and shows how fascinating the world of industry is and the wide range of career possibilities it offers.

State tax credit on income tax

Charlevoix area property owners are entitled to a credit on their property taxes averaging more than $32.50 when they file their state income tax returns this year, according to Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert (R-Petoskey).

"When the legislature adopted the state income tax two years ago, it promised a reduction in property taxes and provided for such a reduction in the law," Sen. Schweigert said.

"Because the income tax was not in effect the full 12 months in 1967, the property tax reduction did not take effect until the 1968 return.

"However, property owners making out their return this year may deduct a sliding scale percentage of their property tax from their state income tax.

"Under the schedule provided by the legislature, the reduction ranges from 20 percent of taxes paid up to $100 on property to four percent on property taxes paid in excess of $10,000.

Grandvue Report

New admittances since December 13th: Ernest Erfourth of Boyne City, December 23rd, and Ida M. Roso of Charlevoix, January 2, 1969. Discharges: Cortland Hayes, to Little Traverse Hospital, December 17th, and Mrs. Linnie Mills to Mrs. Miller's home in Boyne City, December 17th. Expired: Mrs. Eva Ferris on January 3, 1969.

We would like to thank the following individuals and organizations for their gifts to the patients at Christmastime: Dutchman's Bay Extension Club; Mrs. Hayes; East Jordan Study Club; East Jordan Garden Club; Sylvie Anderson; Mrs. Esther Porter; Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church, Charlevoix; Norwood W.S.C.S., Charlevoix; Gidley's Drug Store, East Jordan; Mary Burns Circle of the Congregational Church, Charlevoix; St. Ann's Altar Society, East Jordan; and Mildred and Marietta Quick, East Jordan. We would also like to give special thanks to the Future Nurses' Club, Boyne City, for addressing cards for the patients, to the Cub Scouts, Dens 2 and 3, Boyne City, for their caroling and room decorations; to the Girl Scouts and Mrs. Bowerman, East Jordan, for trimming the dining room for the patients; and the Boyne City Rotary Club and Barbershoppers for their Christmas party and barbershop singing. Your thoughtfulness in helping to make Christmas more merry for our residents is much appreciated by the patients and the staff.

The staff would also like to thank the following for their gifts of candy and other goodies: Mrs. Hayes, Jewell Bryan, Mrs. O'Neill, Hugh Gidley, Eva Mayville, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Manglos and Lorraine Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Raynor Wellman, Floyd and Elaine Dixon, Betty Robertson, Lou Gerdner, Mrs. George Pelton, Mrs. Charles H. Stevens and George Bergmann, Dr. and Mrs. Savory, and Dr. and Mrs. VanDellen.

On December 14th, the Congregational Church of Ironton had several members here to sing carols, and on December 18th, the Baptist Children's Choir of Charlevoix caroled.

Several patients spent Christmas Day with their families. Those going home for the day were: Harry Elzinga, Mabel Cummings, Bertha MacKenzie, Olive McKenzie, David Moby, Florence Bryan, Sarah McAllister, and Mary Lenosky.

Birthdays during the month of January will include Maud Kleinhans, January 2nd; Sylvia Gilson, January 6th; Wm. Spence, January 9th; Sarah McAllister, January 25th; and Emma Whiteford, January 29th.

Sunday evening Chapel services will be held as follows for the month of January: January 5th, Seventh Day Adventist Church, Boyne City; January 12th, Baptist Church, Charlevoix; January 19th, United Methodist Church, Boyne City; January 26th, Assembly of God Church, Boyne City.

The heavy snows and storms have made it difficult for employees to get to and from work on several occasions, and on December 28th, 10 girls had to spend the night at Grandvue because of the storm. We are hoping we don't have a full winter of this kind of weather.

We at Grandvue would like to take this opportunity to wish you a very Happy New Year.

Earl Young on job here fifty years

Charlevoix Realtor Earl Young has been licensed by the real estate board as a broker for 50 consecutive years.

Young's 1969 Michigan brokerage license is the 50th he has received.

Though the state awards no certificates recognizing brokers for 50 years of service, Young was congratulated in a letter from Carlton G. Golf, head of the real estate division of the Michigan Dept. of Licensing and Regulation.

Ellsworth squeaks by Alanson in 73-70 upset

By Joel Donaldson
and Dale Vander Slik

ELLSWORTH -- Coming through again in the last minutes seems to be getting a specialty for the Lancers as they won again in the last minutes, pulling through a 73-70 win over the red hot Alanson Vikings.

The game started with the Vikings taking an immediate lead over the Lancers and stubbornly hanging on to it until the final minutes.

The Ellsworth team had to use every defense thinkable to contain the Vikings. When they would use a zone defense the Vikings would score from outside and when they used a man-to-man defense the Vikings seemed to get the inside shots. The 70 points the Vikings scored was the highest score by 15 points that any team has received against the Lancer defense.

In the final minutes both teams suffered from the aggressive game and players from both team fouled out of the game. It seemed that the Ellsworth bench was the stronger and they came through and won the game.

With a minute and a half left the Lancers used stalling tactics with a lead of only and at the half 40-37. The third quarter score again showed the Vikings ahead 57-52, but in the end, which is the one that counts, the Lancers were ahead 73-70.

one point but the Vikings fouled them and they came through with a three point lead that was too much for the Vikings to make up. They had to force their offense and they could not make up the deficit.

The scores by quarters showed the Lancers ahead at the end but not any other time. The Vikings were ahead at the first quarter 20-16, Dennis Drenth had 31 points for the winning Lancers and Bob Clemens led all scorers with 32 points for the Vikings.

The game that everyone was waiting for between the Lancers and the Suttons Bay Norsemen had to be canceled because of the weather. It was rescheduled for January 25.

The Lancers were ranked 19 in the class D rankings throughout the state and with this victory they hope to advance some.

The Lancers next game is at home with the Inland Lakes team this Friday.

The Junior varsity came from behind in the fourth quarter and beat the Viking Junior varsity by the score of 39-33.

The Lancers were led by Ed De Groot and Ken Derenzy who both scored 10 points.

Rayders

Charlevoix's Rayders play two league basketball games in the next six days.

Thursday, January 16, the Rayders travel to Boyne City to make up the game cancelled due to last Friday's storm. Tuesday, January 21, the Rayders will be at Petoskey.

Friday, January 24, the Rayders will host Rogers City.

Obituary

L.T. Roundtree

BEAVER ISLAND--Lingard Trindale Roundtree, 86, retired president of Randolph Box and Label Co., of Chicago, died Saturday, January 11, at his home here where he lived in recent years.

Mr. Roundtree lived in Chicago, Ill. and Dune City, Ind. prior to moving to Beaver Island. He was a former commodore of the Chicago Yacht Club.

Survivors include his wife, the former Virginia Provancher; one daughter, Mrs. Constance Bennett, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; four grandchildren; six great grandchildren and four sisters.

Funeral services will be held on Beaver Island, with arrangements by the Winchester Funeral Home.

Sports Club plans grid field fence

The Charlevoix Sports Boosters Club organized three working committees at its meeting in the Weathervane Inn last week.

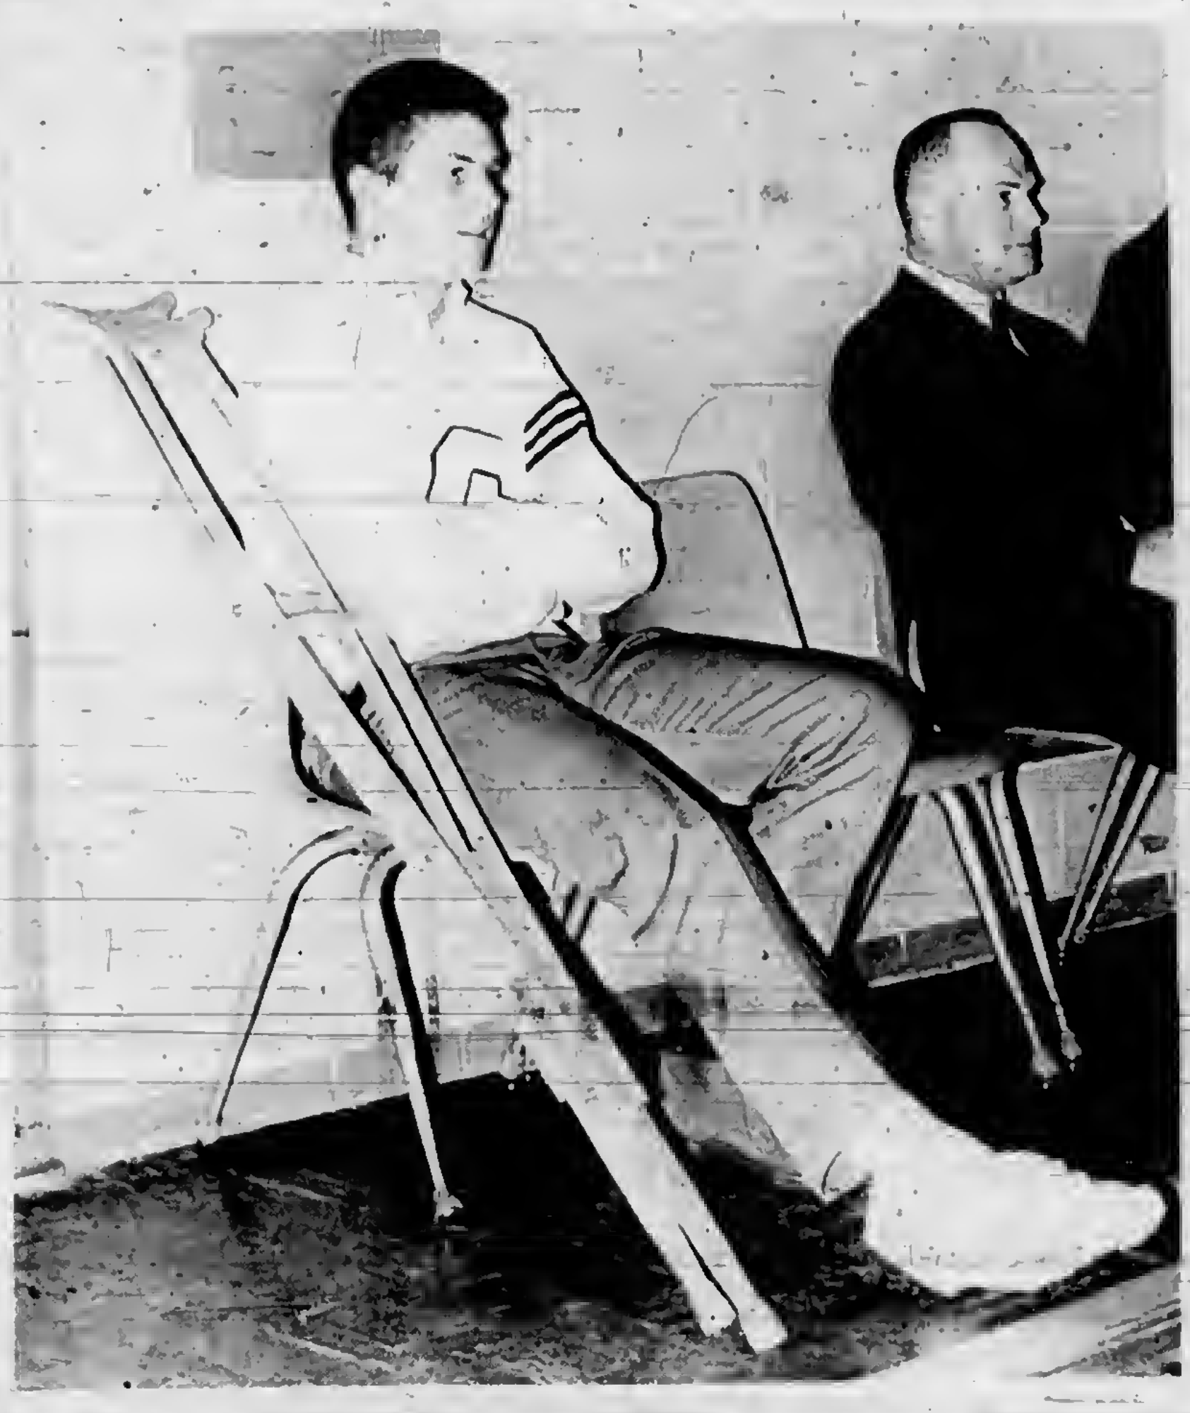
Approximately 30 club members saw films on 1968 football games and heard the high school's athletic needs outlined by coach Don Carey and Athletic Director Leonard Staley.

Names as a committee to develop fund raising projects to build a chain-link fence around the football field were Bill Carey, Hal Hill and Staley. Estimates are it would cost $5,000 to buy the fence and have it installed. If volunteer help can install the fence it is hoped it can be bought for $2,500.

Dick Donaldson was named chairman of the All-Sports Banquet Committee. Bill Supernaw was appointed to arrange for a banquet speaker. The banquet will be held in mid-April.

Bob Lieberman was appointed to obtain prices on maroon athletic blazers for varsity athletes. The Sports Boosters Club will buy the blazers.

Tom LaBiance, club president, said another meeting will be called when committees are ready to report.



KRAAG LIEBERMAN, Charlevoix's top scorer, sits on the sidelines after spraining his ankle. Lieberman had been averaging 18 points a game until the accident and was one of the conference's scoring leaders.

STEELHEAD SKIPPER Bill Palmer (in back) explains the incubators for salmon eggs at the Charlevoix hatchery to a group of visiting Cub Scouts. Some 800,000 salmon eggs are being hatched in these incubators.

THERE SEEM TO be some doubters among these visitors at the Charlevoix hatchery. It's pretty hard to believe that in three years nearly every one of those thousands of tiny eggs fish culturist Robert Cromwell (left) is handling will have grown into battling 10 to 20 pound coho salmon.

Incubator hatches salmon

A unique incubator is saving time, money and coho salmon eggs at the Great Lakes Fisheries Station.

The incubators at the hatchery, Myrt Keller, chief, explained are being used to rear about 850,000 salmon from eggs to fry.

The salmon eggs were moved to the Charlevoix hatchery from Wolf Lake hatchery. They were taken from mature fish at the Platte River this fall.

Last winter salmon eggs were hatched and the young fish reared to the fry stage in the large open tanks at the hatchery. This winter the eggs were placed in small trays about 18 inches square.

Dozens of the small trays are side-by-side and in stacks of about 16 trays deep.

Water is fed into the trays from a high intensity agitating system which increases the oxygen level from 5 parts to a million parts of water to 11 parts to a million parts of water. The increased oxygen level is credited with savings thousands of eggs and fry.

The incubators, Keller said, also make it much easier for fish culturists to handle the eggs and small fish. The amount of water used (and electricity to pump it) is also reduced.

About 400,000 of the eggs have already hatched into fry and grown enough that they were moved to the open tanks.

The Department of Natural Resources hopes about 800,000 of the salmon at Charlevoix survive the critical early stages.

Survivors will be moved to open ponds at other hatcheries this summer. They will be about three inches long when moved. In the Spring of 1970, when about six inches long, they will be planted in Great Lakes tributary streams.

Last winter the Charlevoix hatchery raised about 600,000 salmon and another 400,000 rainbow trout.

Boyne moves on federal housing plan

A federal government-financed $250,000 public housing project has been tentatively approved for Boyne City.

Construction of 20 low-cost three-bedroom homes and 20 apartment units for elderly persons were approved by the city's Housing Commission. Building is expected to start in the spring.

The federal government's investment in the project is to be paid back from rent.

The 20 three-bedroom homes will include 13 different types to avoid the sameness often found in housing projects. The homes will be built near the Boyne City High School.

The 20-unit apartment for elderly persons will be built at the northeast corner of St. Park and E. Division streets. The apartments are designed for the convenience of older persons.

Boyne City officials have been working on the public housing plan for nearly two years.

Don't put off changing to Gas heat for another six months.

Just put off the payments.

Before winter hits you with a lot of expensive misery again, convert to clean, economical Natural Gas heat. We'll remove your old oil tank free of charge, and pay you for any leftover oil or coal. There's no down payment, and you pay nothing for the installation for six months.

Then, if you like, you can pay on your Gas bill over a period of 36 months. Easy. And, you can save up to one third on present heating bills.

But using is believing. Just call us or your participating heating contractor today. You'll know it's the truth when they say: Gas makes the big difference . . . costs less, too!

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

CHAMBER MANAGER

Have you had enough yet? That is, snow? Make room, because there is more to come.

The regular monthly meeting of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors was held Tuesday evening, January 7, at this Chamber office.

It is policy for the retiring President to open the first meeting of the current year and request election of new officers for the one calendar year. Accordingly, past President Charles Carey called to order the meeting at 8 p.m., including himself, answering roll call were Lyle Miles, Tom Acton, Dave Juilleret, Don Sheets, and John Schroeder. New directors answering roll call were Gordon Neff, and Tom Hanna, and a little late arriving was Larry LaGrow.

Lyle Miles, former vice-president was nominated for president. Don Sheets so motioned, and this was seconded by John Schroeder. Mr. Carey recommended the nomination be closed. There was unanimous vote for Lyle Miles to be the 1969 President.

John Schroeder nominated Tom Acton for vice-president, who has just one year yet to serve on the Board.

Juilleret nominated Schroeder for treasurer, which was immediately followed by Schroeder's request to decline because of not being available for a couple of months in the winter due to his extended vacation in Florida. Schroeder then nominated Gordon Neff for the treasurer, as he felt Mr. Neff would be more available. Dave Juilleret made a motion for Mr. Neff as treasurer, which was seconded by John Schroeder.

The new President, Lyle Miles took over the meeting.

Secretary was called upon for a brief on finances. Accordingly it was indicated cash receipts for December, 1968 were, of course, low, $544.17, of which $354.17 was the usual amount from the City during the last six months, and $190 covered two voting right memberships and three $30 contributions, more or less late.

Disbursements for December, 1968 totaled $912.30, which covered mainly wages, certain withholding tax and social security, and Michigan Income tax withholding for the previous month, plus some miscellaneous items and $100 on the new Charlevoix brochure account. Details, of course, are carried currently in the records here at the Chamber office.

Secretary read from two work sheets compiled of 1968 information which will later be consolidated in to the financial report. Accordingly, gross receipts covering all cash inbound whatsoever, was $16,885.81, and that principally of this amount, was received from the City during the year, $4,860.04, and $6,671.25 was from voting right membership contributions, and non-voting right contributions of less than $40 each, totaled $815, the balance, of course, was from a variety of channels.

Gross disbursements for 1968, Loder indicated, totaled $17,069.18, of which $8,458.53 was employee's wages and the balances of a wide variety of normal necessities and/or fixed expenses.

Secretary also called to attention the bank balance of December 31 was approximately $1,000, and this amount would be reduced considerably in the very near future for payment of last quarter, 1968 Federal Income withholding tax and other related tax items.

Council Proceedings

COUNCIL MINUTES
JANUARY 6, 1969

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Fochtman presiding.

Aldermen present: Aldermen Gill, Mol, Sundberg and Webb.

Absent: Aldermen Boss and Whitley.

The Minutes of the December 23, 1968, meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Moved by Alderman Mol and supported by Alderman Sundberg that the request of Don Seelye for rezoning of certain properties located west of State Street in the City of Charlevoix, more particularly described in his petition to the Council for rezoning, be denied.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote. YEAS: Aldermen Gill, Mol, Sundberg and Webb. NAYS: None. ABSENT: Aldermen Boss and Whitley.

It was unanimously agreed to cash Electric-Time Certificate No. 884 in the amount of $25,000.00.

Parking Violation Ordinance No. 309

Offered by Alderman Mol and supported by Alderman Sundberg.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

SECTION 1. Pursuant to Section 8395 of the Revised Judicature Act, State of Michigan, as amended by Public Act 154 of 1968, a Parking Violations Bureau, for the purpose of handling alleged parking violations within the city, is hereby established. The Parking Violations Bureau shall be under the supervision and control of the CHIEF OF POLICE.

SECTION 2. The CHIEF OF POLICE shall, subject to the approval of the City Council, establish a convenient location for the Parking Violations Bureau, appoint qualified city employees to administer the bureau and adopt rules and regulations for the operation thereof.

SECTION 3. No violation not scheduled in Section 6 of this ordinance shall be disposed of by the Parking Violations Bureau. The scheduling of a particular violation herein shall not entitle the violator to disposition of the violation at the bureau and in any event the person in charge of such bureau may refuse to dispose of such violation in which case any person having knowledge of the facts may make a sworn complaint before any court of proper jurisdiction as provided by law.

SECTION 4. No violation may be settled at the Parking Violation Bureau except at the specific request of the violator. No penalty for any violation shall be accepted from any person who denies having committed the offense and in no case shall the person who is in charge of the bureau determine, or attempt to determine, the truth or falsity of any fact or matter relating to such alleged violation. No person shall be required to dispose of a parking violation at the Parking Violations Bureau and any person shall be entitled to have any such violation processed before a court having jurisdiction thereof if he so desires. The unwillingness of any person to dispose of any violation at the parking Violations Bureau shall not prejudice him or in any way diminish the rights, privileges and protection accorded to him by law.

SECTION 5. The issuance of a traffic ticket or notice of violation by a police officers of the city shall be deemed an allegation of a parking violation. Such traffic ticket or notice of violation shall indicate the length of time in which the person to whom the same was issued must respond before the Parking Violations Bureau. It shall also indicate the address of the bureau, the hours during which the bureau is open, the amount of the penalty scheduled for the offense for which the ticket was issued and advise that a warrant for the arrest of the person to whom the ticket was issued will be sought if such person fails to respond within the time limited.

SECTION 6. The following sechedule of offenses and fines is hereby adopted:

OFFENSE
(a) Parking Meter Violation if paid within 0-24 hrs.	$ .25
After 72 hours	1.00
Excessive Meter Violation	1.00
After 72 hours	2.00
(b) Overtime Parking	1.00
(e) Double Parking	1.00
(d) No Parking Zone	1.00
(e) Parking Too Far From Curb	1.00
(f) Angle Parking Violation	1.00
(g) Obstructing Traffic	1.00
(h) Parking On Sidewalk	1.00
(i) Parking In Front Of Driveway	1.00
(j) Parking Within Intersection	1.00
(k) Parking Within 15 ft. Of Fire Hydrant	1.00
(l) Parking On Cross Walk	1.00
(m) Blocking Alley	1.00
(n) Parking Wrong Side Of Street On Designated Streets	1.00
(o) Improper Parking	1.00
(p) No Parking 2:00 a.m. to 6:00 a.m. Dec. to April	1.00

SECTION 7. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed.

SECTION 8. This ordinance shall become effective 20 days following its adoption.

Offered by Alderman Mol and supported by Alderman Sundberg.

Adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Mol, Sundberg, & Webb;

Nays: None

Absent: Aldermen Boss & Whitley.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $71,470.22 find them correct and recommend they be allowed.

Moved by Alderman Gill and supported by Alderman Mol that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts.

Motion adopted by the following yea & nay vote:

Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Mol, Sundberg, & Webb.

Nays: None

Absent: Aldermen Boss & Whitley.

On motion the Council adjourned.

Propose plan for salmon patrol

The Great Lakes Fishery Station in Charlevoix may be the key to salvaging the coho salmon program.

Thousands of angry coho fishermen are fuming and spitting at the Department of Natural Resources this winter because the much-touted fishery, in their opinion, was a flop this fall.

Statistics compiled by the department support the complaints of anglers who could not hook a coho.

In 1967 Lake Michigan coho fishermen caught more than one silvery salmon for every three days they spent on the lake. This "astounding success" left fishermen throughout the nation goggle eyed.

In 1968 the rush was on. People came from all over the world to get in on what was expected to be the most fabulous sport fishing in modern times.

Fishermen, and the department had reason to believe 1968 would make 1967 look like a mere practice run.

In 1967 Lake Michigan fishermen were catching fish from the 1966 planting of 659,400 salmon. In 1968 anglers were after the 1,732,300 fish planted in 1967.

With nearly three times as many fish in the water in 1968 fishermen felt assured of even easier pickings than in 1967. In theory, the odds should have been even more in favor of the fisherman in 1968 because there were more people fishing and angling techniques were refined in 1967.

Armed with these plusses, fishermen bombed out last summer. Based on the department's figures, a man had to fish nearly five days in 1968 to catch a salmon, compared to less than three days in 1967.

Disappointed fishermen who had come hundreds of miles, scheduled their vacation for September or October instead of July of August and spent hundreds of dollars on tackle and other equipment turned into angry mobs in some cases.

The best explanation for what happened, Keller explained, is that abnormally warm water last summer kept the salmon off shore. In 1967 most of the coho caught were taken less than a mile off shore.

In several instances this summer the survey ship Steelhead, under Keller's direction and commanded by Bill Palmer, found the coho schooled six or more miles off shore. When this information was given to luckless fishermen near shore they moved out and started scoring.

The warm water, biologists are convinced, created a barrier along shore for salmon.

Also in 1967, most salmon were caught near the surface. So in 1968 anglers fished high.

However, due to the warm water, fish were as deep as 100 feet last summer. And, once again, fishermen didn't catch on and in many cases were not equipped for deep-water trolling.

Because the Steelhead is the only survey ship the DNR has, it was assigned to duties other than keeping track of salmon for much of the summer and fall. When it was given a chance to work salmon Keller pointed out it was able to direct fishermen to them.

If the Steelhead can be assigned virtually fulltime to salmon survey work this year, Keller is convinced it can direct fishermen to the fabulous catches they anticipated last year.

His tentative idea--which needs approval from Lansing--is to move the Steelhead into southern Lake Michigan in early spring and follow salmon throughout the season.

By keeping daily tabs on where and how deep the salmon are and getting this information to fishermen Keller doesn't see how they can help but score.

It may not be that simple, though, Keller admits. Instead of moving north in one major school the salmon may head up Lake Michigan in May or June in several large schools or in a widely dispersed loose mass.

If this happens, more than one boat would be needed to keep track of the fish.

It is also possible the coho will move faster than the Steelhead can. In this case at least two boats would also be needed.

Keller's plan is based on the just about faultless theory that if fishermen know where and how deep the fish are they can catch them.

After the dissatisfaction demonstrated this year by fishermen who didn't know where or how deep the salmon were, department chiefs in Lansing may decide it is worth the cost for the state to supply this basic information.

Another year like 1968 and the department could see public support for salmon fishing fade--and with it millions of dollars of money allocated from politicians under pressure from fishing constituents.

So Keller's plan could not only improve fishing but also save a few scalps.--Shep.

Sea Lamprey scars still under study

Studies are continuing to determine the seriousness of sea lamprey attacks on Lake Michigan lake trout.

In the spring of 1968 Department of Natural Resources field men found fresh lamprey scars on approximately 25% of 3,000 lake trout caught by commercial fishermen in the north end of the lake.

This touched off widespread alarm. For several years it had been generally believed that the lamprey were under control in Lake Michigan.

Statistics now being compiled by Great Lakes Fisheries Station chief Myrl Keller in Charlevoix indicate the spring figures were out of proportion with the broader picture.

The ratio of fresh scars on 10,000 Lake Michigan lake trout examined by department personnel in all of 1968 was about 10%, Keller said. Preliminary study, he said, has not revealed why the scarring ration was higher on fish caught in the north end of the lake.

One possible explanation being studied is the chance that sea lamprey from Lake Huron crossed over to prey on trout in the north end of Lake Michigan.

Keller is also trying to determine from the maze of statistics DNR men collected riding fish tugs if a large percentage of the fish examined later in the year and in other parts of the lake were too small to be lamprey victims.

Based on information now available, he said, it appears that survival of the planted lake trout is "actually phenomenal" up to about 17 inches, but after that it drops off.

Keller cited two obvious explanations for this. Trout are not generally subject to lamprey attack or to being taken in commercial fish nets until they are around 17 inches long. However, he added, not enough information is available to reach a conclusion.

If it is found that lamprey are again responsible for wholesale slaughter of lake trout after they reach 17 inches there is little chance of large-scale natural reproduction. The lakers, Keller said, do not spawn until they are approximately two feet long.

The DNR last year started regulating Lake Michigan commercial fishermen to cut down on their incidental take of lake trout. These restrictions are expected to be tightened in future years due to the number of lake trout commercial fishermen took in 1968, Keller said.

Personal Loans May Go up in Wake of New 7% Interest Hike

NEW YORK (UPI) -- With the prime rate on business loans pushed to a record seven percent, commercial banks waited today to see if a move would develop to send personal loan rates higher.

It's not an automatic process; personal loan rates don't go up every time the prime rate does, just as the prime rate doesn't go up automatically every time the Federal Reserve discount rate does.

But the commercial banks have pushed up their prime rate -- that charged large and most creditworthy commercial and business clients and from which other business loan rates are scaled upward -- three times in about six weeks. There is general agreement that the consumer loan rates must go higher this time.

Consumer loan rates were last advanced in June, 1968. In New York City, for instance, the rate on unsecured personal loans was raised 25 cents to $5.75 per $100. The legal ceiling in New York on such a loan, for 36 months, is $6 per $100, or in terms of simple interest 13.38 percent. The talk in banking circles is that the consumer loan rates will go up before the month is out.

Other consumer loan rates quite likely will go up when the unsecured loan rate does. Automobile loan rates, currently $5.50 per $100, deducted in advance, would go up to $5.75 per $100, banking sources said.

If you are a customer of our bank, you don't have to worry about PRIME Interest Rates. Our Rate is unchanged on consumer good financing

Now or never on Bells Bay

CONSERVATION Dept. officials in delaying a public hearing until this Friday have counted on Charlevoixians losing their ardor for saving a major portion of the Bells Bay area State Forest. We're counting on them being wrong.

One top official (Joe Stephansky) told the Courier more than a month ago that the public hearing would not be held until things cooled off a bit. Apparently he and his boss, Dr. Ralph MacMullan, figured Charlevoixians have only a fleeting interest in preserving a natural area for their grandchildren.

The Bells Bay controversy came to light in late October when Gregg Shadko discovered Dr. MacMullan was prepared to push through a plan to lease about 200 acres of the State Forest land at Bells Bay to Medusa. Medusa wants the land for its rich limestone deposits.

If Shadko hadn't almost accidentally uncovered Dr. MacMullan's plan this major portion of Charlevoix's only remaining publicly - owned natural area might have been destined to become a quarry before anyone in Charlevoix knew it.

When the Courier reported Shadko's findings Conservation Dept. headquarters in Lansing was flooded with protests from year-round and distant summer residents. The flood was so intense MacMullan agreed to delay action on the lease.

Then delaying tactics were initiated. Under pressure, department chiefs agreed to the public hearing demanded by citizens and the Courier. But no hearing was to be held while the citizenry was deeply concerned.

Or so Dr. MacMullan thought. Let's prove his wrong at 7:30 p.m. Friday, January 17, by signing petitions available at attorney John Michael's office and the Courier and submitting as many written letters of protest as possible. (Address the letters to the Conservation Commission, but drop them off or mail them to Michael and he'll see that they not overlooked.)

A large turnout at the public hearing has been made impossible by the department's choice of the small community room at City Hall. However, even if you submit your views in writing, your presence will have value at the hearing.

If the lease plan is allowed to go through, remember, the department will take its income from Medusa (about $250,000) and probably end up using it to buy public lands in another area. Further, Medusa wouldn't even pay taxes on the property it would get to exploit dirt cheap.

The Bells Bay forest area is the only undeveloped public property left for our children. Within a few years the area south of Bells Bay to Fisherman's Island will be developed by its owners.

We must save something. And Bells Bay is all we have left to save.

Blizzard renews faith in selves

OUR recent snow storms will be talked about for years. Everyone has some kind of tale to tell about the big storm. As memory nourishes the facts the snow and drifts will grow deeper.

But now that it is all over it was sort of fun. Especially Saturday night.

By late afternoon Dec. 28 most Charlevoixians realized they were going no where until the snow and wind relented. Most, probably, snuggled into the comfort of knowing all members of the family were home safe and the oil tank or gas line was well stocked.

But an unbelievably large number of others got their snowmobiles out. City streets Saturday were fit for but one kind of vehicle--snowmobiles. As many as a half-dozen of the little machines could be seen at a time on some streets. They came as family groups, pulling mother and children in cutters, or in groups of two or three or more couples.

For perhaps the first time we heard no complaints about the snowmobiles. They made a lot of sense.

But the big story of the storm was on the highways. Our snowplow crews once again proved their worth and won our applause.

Thousands of skiers, determined after a long day on the slopes to spend a social evening in one of Boyne Country's fun spots, had to settle with an evening in their motel room. Literally hundreds of cars, most of them appearing to be owned by skiers, were stuck on the shoulder, in ditches, or in drifts in the roadway. Many skiers slept on improvised beds.

County snowplow crews could not keep the highways unplugged. As Saturday evening wore on even major county roads (such as the Boyne City and Ellsworth roads) were abandoned. Keeping a hole open on the state highways was more than men and equipment could handle.

Yet hundreds of us awoke to a miracle Sunday morning. As soon as the storm relented city and county crews went at the job of clearing roads and streets. By church time just about everyone had a clear path to drive.

Probably more people were mad at the snowplows for plugging their driveways than were mad at nature for the storm. Late Sunday afternoon many families were still trying to break through from their drive to the street. However, as unfortunate as it may be, there still seems to be no way to avoid the driveway piles left by plows.

All in all, though, we relearned a lesson most of us have long known: We can survive a disasterous snowstorm without the chaos they create elsewhere. And we have retained enough of our sense of humor and appreciation for nature to enjoy it.

Problems we should solve

by GLEN SHEPPARD

We are two weeks into a new year and for the first time since I started beating a typewriter for a living 15 years ago there has been no effort to review the year past.

It is something of a ritual for newsmen to dig through the past year's files and replay in brief the last 12-month's headlines. However, in the case of Charlevoix in 1968 such a chore would be just that. So it won't be done.

There were, simply, too many opportunities lost on the local level to make it worth the bother to recall them in detail.

For instance, the City Council grossly neglected its responsibility and opportunity to move toward an end to pollution of Round Lake and Lakes Michigan and Charlevoix from our sewer treatment plant. The Council sat on its duff and played blind man's bluff (with it losing due to lack of leadership) on the merger of city and township.

Citizens did their part in 1968. But government leaders failed to show equal inspiration.

It was Charlevoix citizens who started demanding an end to air pollution from Medusa and answers on what is going on at the plant. We still lack satisfactory answers because our hired officials lack the sincerity and courage to follow through.

In education we did real well on one front. Our teachers finally started showing some militancy about the quality of education instead of focusing all their dissatisfaction on wages. And, once again, when the decision was left to the people they showed they are capable of making the right move by rejecting a bid to merge with East Jordan's schools.

But on another score we moved backwards in that construction started on the new lower elementary school, giving the community three school sites instead of the far more logical and efficient two.

Enough of the past. The subject here is supposed to be 1969. Not 1968.

What should we look for in 1969? Following is a collection of suggestions this editor feels citizens will support. . . if given a chance to by elected officials.

City-Township Merger

First we should act on the Charlevoix Township Board's request that the city set up an election on merging the city and township.

If the two units of government are not merged the city is going to be severely boxed in. The township is going to end up building a water and sewer system; one on the north side of the city and the other on the south side.

The hold-up to merger is the City Council. The Council has gained a deserved reputation for failure to look squarely at a problem with the horse sense to come to a logical solution.

Apparently the Council's failure to move on the annexation question is inspired by selfish concern that inclusion of the township in the city might upset their quack political balance. The township will provide us with much-needed new political leadership. As a city taxpayer I am eager to see some of these men sit on the city council.

All financial and similar questions concerning the merger can be obtained within a few days. Hopefully Councilmen will somewhere find the leadership to get these answers and move in the best interest of the community.

Whether or not merger becomes a reality, the city needs a home rule charter. This question should be put on the ballot in April.

City Council should also move sometime before spring to begin improvement on the Round Lake public dockage area from Clinton St. to the sewage treatment plant. The present rundown docks in this area are both an eyesore and a gross neglect of a valuable public property.

In planning to put the lake-front area to its best use the Council should consider docks for smaller boats than the present yacht docks are designed for.

Round Lake Pollution

The Council should also begin immediately (like five years ago) to replace the present sewage treatment plant with a lagoon system somewhere on the city's outskirts. Such a system will eliminate all possibility of pollution of our water. In the long run it will be cheaper than a modern sewage treatment facility.

Coupled with the new sewage disposal system should be an extension of water and sewer lines to all areas of the city and portions of the township. Another, much smaller, project which should be completed this year is construction of toilets for boaters and swimmers at Ferry Ave. beach.

And, before going any further, it should be understood that Charlevoix can afford these changes. The City has several hundred thousand in the bank and its credit rating for a general obligation or revenue bond issue is excellent. The cost would have been lower several years ago, but it won't be lower by putting it off another year.

The Chamber of Commerce, too, should start taking a more active role in the community's future. Chamber leaders should begin putting together and acting on a program to give the business district growing room.

A plan calling for removal of all non-public buildings between Bridge St. and State St. from Park Ave. to Antrim should be developed immediately.

Business leaders should go to the Council with a proposal on how such a project can be financed and seek immediate Council action. Councilmen should not be expected to take the initiative in such a project. It is the businessmen who must provide the leadership and that is what the Chamber is supposed to be all about.

County Jail Plan

On the county level it is hoped the new Board of Supervisors will set the machinery in motion to create a Home Rule County. I suspect that due to the changed complexion of the County Board a move in this direction is more likely than most people realize.

Also on the County level, an immediate and demanding move should be launched by supervisors to bludgeon the proposed construction of a half-million - dollar jail in favor of major improvements to the existing jail.

This editor still cannot comprehend anyone suggesting we spend something like $500,000 to lock-up 30 or fewer bad hats. Yet the planning goes on and on.

Bells Bay and South Point

An immediate objective must be to put the screws to Conservation Dept. Director Ralph MacMullan's plan to give a major portion of the public land at Bells Bay to Medusa Portland Cement Co.

We should demand that Medusa's lease proposal be given no consideration or that it obtain ownership to the property (leaving us a lake shore buffer zone) in exchange for the more than a mile of shoreline from the end of the present state property south to, and including, Fisherman's Island.

Preferably, we would keep all of the Bells Bay property and also obtain the Fisherman's Island section. However, the public will never get the almost unequaled Fisherman's Island strip unless it is worked out now through a Medusa exchange.

Furthermore, any property Medusa ends up quarrying it should own and pay property taxes on.

Also, this editor hopes that in 1969 Medusa will decide it doesn't wear the biggest and controlling britches in Charlevoix. If Medusa will recognize that the public is still the boss and do so by coming clean about its air pollution problems we can probably have peace on South Point.

Air pollution from South Point has been nagging this department for some five years. The threat can never be forgotten. But a policy of voluntary honesty and candor from the company would certainly make things more tolerable for both concerned citizens and company officials.

A far more serious and far less excusable pollution problem comes from the tannery at Boyne City. The tannery has for generations willfully killed acres of Lake Charlevoix.

I frequently point with pride to Charlevoix when an outsider starts picking on us for tolerating Medusa. Down the lake they have done nothing about the tannery. In Charlevoix we have the kind of people who would not tolerate such a thing--as evidenced by our concern about Medusa.

Three more hearty hurrahs for the people of Charlevoix!!!

Schools and crisis

And down the road a piece is a problem which we may ignore, but shouldn't. Ellsworth's school system has been rapidly deteriorating for the past two years.

There appears to be no solution at hand due to the Ellsworth's district's limited financial and human resources and dwindling student body. We may be asked to become partners. If so, this department is hoping Charlevoix will accept its responsibility as good neighbors.

On our own school scene we are destined to have a turbulent year.

While we have as capable and dedicated a school board as this editor has ever witnessed in action, our school has been moving from problem to problem as they develop. Granted that the board generally comes up with the best immediate solution to the immediate problem.

However, we are destined for a crisis unless we start anticipating the upcoming problems and eliminating them before they develop. Perhaps Supt. Rex Milligan needs additional administrative help to relieve him from day-to-day chores so that he can foresee and prepare for future needs before they become past needs and overwhelm us.

There are many more issues than those outlined here that are going to concern the public in 1969. But these are such obvious ones that they obviously need high priority treatment.

Sometime in 1969 this editor expects to start publishing a long - established state-wide outdoor recreation and conservation newspaper. Though he will continue to live and work in Charlevoix, he will no longer be responsible for this weekly editorial page. Which will make 1969 a happier year for some public officials.

Urges city buy lake property

Dear Editor:

I wish to call your attention to the article that you had in your January 1 paper which is very misleading. You say the protest Group consist of home owners that live on the first block of Hurlbut Street. Now this is very misleading as we live on the first block of Belvedere St. And if you don't know it we pay a higher tax than the ones that live on Hurlbut because the City says we have the view of Round Lake. Now We the People that live here on Belvedere St. have lived her twice as long as you or Mr. Begrow.

We paid a high price for the property we have and for the view of the lake. Now you are favoring Mr. Begrow and are willing to take away from us what we have worked for and what we are objecting to in this building program. You mention how this would improve the city with this condominium.

Now let's look at what the city did before. When they had the chance to buy property that would of added to the harbor but didn't buy when they could. This property of Mr. Schleman's is the last piece of property that ever can be bought to improve this harbor which the city needs. This would be an addition to what the city now has.

I live where I see what the need is for more boat dockage every day in the summer. This is what this city needs to improve what we already have and not by building a condominium next to the harbor. This ground would not support such a heavy building as the clay underneath is very soft and the building would settle in years to come. I have seen steel piling driven along the water edge and if there wouldn't have been a cable fastened to it it would of dropped out of sight.

If it Fitz

Fitz admits few rewards for writing

by JIM FITZGERALD

It was at a holiday party, around the punch bowl, that a friend suddenly asked me: "Why don't you get off the nigger kick? People like your column better when it's funny. You make them angry and uncomfortable with all that equal rights stuff. Why do you do it, anyway?"

"I'm certainly glad you asked," I answered. "Let me take a short swim across this bowl and I shall recite for you a poem which may help us to find an answer."

The poem was written by Countee Cullen and it goes like this:

Once riding in old Baltimore,

Heart-filled, head-filled with glee,

I saw a Baltimorean

Keep looking straight at me.

Now I was eight and very small,

And he was no whit bigger,

And so I smiled, but he poked out

His tongue, and called me, "Nigger."

I saw the whole of Baltimore

From May until December;

Of all the things that happened there

That's all that I remember.

It tears me up to see a little kid hurt. I don't care if he's yellow, green or mauve. It tears me up. I remember when the schools were integrated at Little Rock. TV had some pictures of a little black girl walking to school while white adults spat at her and called her names. Dear God. Things like that come back to haunt me years later.

So I sound off regularly and, if the thousands of words I write save one kid one hurt, that's good enough for me. And if I help no one, it's still a lot easier shaving every morning.

My friend at the punch bowl was dubious. He questioned how I feel about black adults. "You are not even very sociable with white adults," he charged, "so you probably don't like Negro adults around you anymore than the average white guy."

I didn't have a poetic answer to that one. So I hope there was a lot more reason than rhyme in my retort, which went like this:

I am stumping for the day when I can be rude to a Negro jerk without feeling guilty. It's not that I enjoy being rude to anyone. In fact, I'm all for good manners and my anti-social reputation results mostly from my efforts to avoid situations which might tempt me to be impolite (I avoid clubs and meetings because someone is always bringing up "new business" after the old business has already set my skin crawling toward the door.) However, life is too short, and I do reserve the right to be short with boors who might want to waste my time on foolishness while there's a good pool game waiting in the friendly tavern.

But I can't cross the street when I see a black nut headed my way. I keep thinking his grandfather was a slave, his father was lynched for looking at a white woman, and his kids have been bitten by rats. And it is all because most white men are racists. This man and his people have suffered untold and undeserved agony and humiliation. I cannot add one ounce to that suffering. In fact, I must do something to make up for it.

So that's it. And I won't be content until I can tell an NAACP official the same thing I'd tell the head of the DAR: "No, I can't go to your meeting Thursday, that's when the Winter Olympics is staged at Curley's Poolroom."

Back at the punch bowl, my friend conceded I might have something. "But really, is there any satisfaction in writing that brotherhood stuff? Do you get any reward?" he asked.

Ah, yes. The other day my daughter came home from junior high all excited about history class.

"We're studying about the underground railway during the Civil War, when white people broke the law to help slaves escape," she said. "I told the kids that I bet my dad would have worked on the underground railway."

She's learning. That's all the reward I want.

Ice rink busy

The city's ice skating rink at the elementary school finally opened last week. As these pictures show, it didn't take youngsters long to find out.

Upwards of 200 skaters have been enjoying the rink on weekend afternoons. A crowd of around 100 can be seen at the rink evenings.

No one can say there isn't anything to do in Charlevoix in the winter. With the ice rink, Mt. McSauba, roller skating in the school gym, swimming at the Lodge pool and Dodger Hill all open there's plenty for everyone.

Sawtelle Case

The third chapter in the Circuit Court story of James Sawtelle vs. Traverse Bay Corp.--or Traverse Bay Corp. vs. James Sawtelle--has started.

Last week Richard Tull of Pontiac started suit against Traverse Bay Corp. for $10,000. Tull claims Traverse Bay Corp. "willfully and maliciously" took a shipwreck furniture couch belonging to him from the Weathervane Inn.

Tull's suit further claims that Sawtelle sold him the couch for $500 on September 7. A copy of a cancelled check is presented as evidence. The couch is described as an "art object."

Traverse Bay Corp. on Sept. 18, 1968 started suit against Sawtelle to collect $2,097 it charged he owed it. At that time Traverse Bay took possession of several pieces of Sawtelle's shipwreck furniture in the bar of the Weathervane Inn.

Tull's suit claims that one of the pieces of furniture taken by Traverse Bay was owned by him and being stored in the inn.

Sawtelle in October initiated a $150,000 suit against Traverse Bay claiming it illegally took his furniture from the inn. He also made several charges against the corporation and its stockholders.

No court decision has been reached on either of the earlier suits.

Weather

Though the large accumulation of snow within a few hours is thought by many to be a near record, this winter's 82.5 inches is a long way from the total snowfall for 1958-59. That season Charlevoix County recorded an average total snowfall of around 180 inches.

So far this year the average is probably around 90 inches, with the Boyne Falls area having more than 100, Charlevoix 82.5 and Beaver Island less than 80.

Kuebler estimated there was about 35 inches accumulation of snow on the ground Monday.

County gets $10,873 from state lands

Charlevoix County has received $10,873 from the Michigan Dept. of Natural Resources in lieu of property taxes on state lands administered by the agency.

The DNR's payment represents a flat rate of 20 cents per acre on state lands. The payment will be shared by the county, township and school district in which the state-owned acreage is located.

Charlevoix County's payment is part of $807,000 paid to 75 counties.

Circuit Court

The January term of Circuit Court opens Monday, January 20.

New Circuit Judge James Fitzpatrick is expected to preside during at least part of the session. He now shares the Circuit Court bench with veteran Judge Charles Brown.

The Legislature authorized election of a second judge to the circuit due to the increasing caseload and large number of unresolved cases. Fitzpatrick was elected in November.

Agree to state's request

City to move on Round Lake pollution

Complying with state and federal demands for pollution control, Charlevoix's City Council Monday agreed to employ an engineer to design an improved community sewage treatment facility.

The council also agreed to commit itself to the State Water Resources Commission to have a sewage treatment plant which will eliminate phosphates (the chief cause of pollution) from the city's sewage effluent.

Councilmen hired an Ann Arbor engineering firm, McNamee, Porter and Seeley, to design the improved sewage treatment facility. The firm will be paid a minimum of $3,000 for designing the improved system.

If the engineering firm is retained to design and supervise construction of the improved sewage treatment plant it will be paid from 9.9% to 8% of the project's total cost.

In a separate action, the Council agreed to sign a commitment submitted by the Water Resources Commission that it will have a treatment plant in operation by December 1, 1972 which eliminates 80% of the phosphates (nutrients) from the city's sewage effluent.

Second Ward Councilmen Bob Gill asked what would happen if the city continued to refuse to make this commitment.

Gill was told the state may obtain a court order forcing the city to bond itself and build a better sewage treatment plant.

"There's more than one way to skin a cat!" Gill said.

City Supt. Jim Taylor recommended against continuing to hold out on the state's request that the city obligate itself to quit polluting Round Lake. He said doing so could jeopardize the city's chances of obtaining a portion of the $335 million bond issue for pollution control voters passed in 1968.

Mayor Bill Fochtman said he does not understand why the state should focus so much attention on the city's pollution contribution. He said neither Boyne City or East Jordan treat their sewage as fully as Charlevoix does and the tannery at Boyne City contributes heavily to pollution.

(Both Boyne and East Jordan several months ago agreed to comply with the state's request for improved sewage treatment. The tannery has been ordered to take action.

In other matters Monday the council heard a request from the Chamber of Commerce that it be given use of the office space in the harbor-front building at no cost. The city has been deducting $100 a month for rental of the office space from its contribution to the Chamber. The city donates about $5,000 a year to the Chamber.

The council received notice from the Michigan Dept. of Commerce that if it wants to obtain 75% state and federal support for airport improvements it must act by April 1.

Accepted Ralph Doan's resignation from the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission. A replacement, probably from the First Ward, will be appointed.

Clem Wagner named to school bd. post, replaces Jim Lewis

A veteran Medusa Portland Cement Co. executive and former Manitowac, Wis. civic leader has been appointed to the Charlevoix school board.

CLEM WAGNER

Clem Wagner, 49, 303 Dixon Ave., replaces Jim Lewis on the school board. Lewis resigned because he is being transferred by Consumers Power Co. from the Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

Wagner is office manager of Medusa's South Point plant. He has been with the company since he returned from World War II overseas duty in the service.

Wagner served three years on the Manitowac City Council, one year as president. His family has lived in Manitowac since 1837. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club and VFW.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagner have six children; three in Charlevoix schools, one at Ferris College and two out of school. They attended St. Mary's Church.

Pilots press city to move on airport

The Charlevoix Flying Club fears that city officials are delaying action on complaints about operation of the Charlevoix Airport until the issues are forgotten.

After years of grumbling, private pilots last August asked that City Council step in and establish rules so that all persons will have an equal opportunity to use the airport.

At that time City Council promised to act on a request from Jose Barnes to open a competitive flying service at the airport as soon as rules and regulations were drafted. Pilots were promised the tentative draft of rules and regulations would be aired at a public meeting.

Five months have gone by without the city producing a copy of proposed airport regulations or indicating they are seriously working on them.

The controversy was brought to public attention by two developments:

- Barnes' request to establish a charter flying service, airplane repair service, airplane sales and build hangars, and
- Airport Manager Joe McPhillips' efforts to stop Ray Wood from operating a part-time flying service and Lynn Porter from giving flying lessons. Both Wood and Porter are qualified to teach flying and Wood has a commercial pilot's rating.

These issues brought numerous other complaints from Flying Club members and other private pilots into the open.

Flying Club members at their January meeting re-stated their complaints and requests:

- Additional hangars are needed. The city now has four rental hangars, with McPhillips renting three of them. If the city would build the needed hangars club members contend they would pay for themselves.
- Since the 1950s various persons have sought to establish repair, sales and commercial flying services at the airport and have been denied permission. McPhillips does not offer repair or sales service.
- The new airport administration building is closed to the public and incoming pilots unless McPhillips is at the airport. The building, club members explain, was built with public funds for the convenience of all pilots.
- The club feels other qualified commercial flying operations should be authorized at the airport due to an increasing need which McPhillips is not able to completely fill. They also feel that if possible the airport manager should be separate from a competitive commercial operation.
- City Council, club members feel, should have an accounting of all income and expenses involved in operating the airport. Figures should also be available on airport use. In other words, they say, it should be run like other city operations, such as the golf course and boat docks.
- Uniform regulations are needed which conform with those at other airports around the nation.
- The airport's north-south runway continues to be used even though it is not Admit guilt on reduced dope charge

Two persons accused of selling marihuana in Charlevoix have plead guilty to a reduced charge in Circuit Court.

Mrs. Gail Englehart, 19, and Steve Ager, 20, plead guilty to possessing marihuana after the charge was reduced by Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varnum from selling marihuana.

The possession charge carries a maximum penalty of one year in prison, compared to a minimum penalty of 20 years for selling. Maximum penalty for selling is life.

Circuit Judge James Fitzpatrick referred Mrs. Englehart's and Ager's case to the probation officer for a sentence recommendation. They are both out of jail on bond.

A juvenile is awaiting disposition in probate court on a marihuana charge.

Standing room only in City Hall for Bells Bay hearing

Community voices unanimous objection to Bells Bay lease

Literally unanimous community opposition to leasing 194 acres of State Forest land for limestone quarrying was expressed at a public hearing in City Hall Friday, Jan. 17.

The hearing was held by the Department of Natural Resources to sound out public opinion on Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s request to lease the property at Bells Bay on Lake Michigan in the Jordan River State Forest. More than 100 persons attended the hearing.

The only person who did speak in favor of the lease was a Medusa representative.

K.C. Roberts, a company geologist, said the limestone deposits on Medusa's adjoining South Point property will not be exhausted for more than 50 years. He said Medusa earlier estimated the limestone on its property would last longer than current evaluations indicate.

Roberts said Medusa was further concerned that another cement company might seek to lease the state property in competition with Medusa.

Spokesmen for the DNR were Joseph Stephansky, lands division chief, and Gerry Eddy, chief geologist and former department director.

Eddy estimated the limestone and shale in the 194 acres will be worth $24 million when mined. The state, he said, would get about $600,000 from Medusa during the 75 year term of the lease.

Charlevoix attorney John Michael, chief spokesman for the community, said the state would be permanently destroying the entire 454 acre Bells Bay State Forest area if it allowed the quarrying. The proposed 220 yard buffer between the quarry and 23 lake Michigan shoreline campsites at Bells Bay would be a farce, he said.

"I cannot conceive of a more permanent destruction of real estate than quarrying," Michael said.

If the DNR allows Medusa to quarry the 194 acres, he said, it might as well give up the entire 454 acres because it will be of "virtually no use then."

He and several other citizens said more campsites are needed at Bells Bay. Charlevoix postmaster Dan Genett said many families wanting to camp at Bells Bay have to go elsewhere because the campsites are full.

Michael charged the DNR appears to be at a conflict of purposes.

The $100 million bond issue approved by voters November 5, 1968 was sold on the grounds that more recreation areas are needed, he explained. On the other hand, he added, the department is considering disposing of 194 acres of prime, semi-wild Lake Michigan forest property.

Medusa's interest in leasing the property, Michael said, is understandable. He added, though, that private land with similar limestone deposits is available for purchase next to Medusa's land.

The DNR's handling of the lease proposal upset many people, Michael said.

Director Ralph MacMullan had planned to seek Commission approval of putting the land up for lease without informing anyone in Charlevoix that their only remaining piece of undeveloped, publicly-owned lake front property was on the block, he explained.

The public, he pointed out, found out about Dr. MacMullan's plans in time to stop Commission action by accident--through a private letter.

Stephansky admitted the department had not realized the high recreation value the public places on the Bells Bay area.

Though he did not promise the lease proposal will be permanently dropped, Stephansky did say any future consideration of it will be brought to public attention.

The limestone deposit, Stephansky said, is estimated to be about 200 million years

City Council cool to plan for $50,000 beach toilet

Late in 1968 the City Council received a plan from a Cheboygan engineering firm for two more boat launching ramps and improved parking space at the Ferry Ave. beach. The estimated cost was $200,000.

Councilmen rejected the plan. It was sent back for revision due to the cost, lack of toilets and the fact that following it would have cut into the swimming beach area.

Monday night council received the revision.

The new plan's cost is estimated at $250,000. It includes toilets, but no other major changes.

Several councilmen said they feel the high cost and elaborate plan is the result of the engineer knowing the local cost will be only 10%, with the state and federal governments expected to pay 90%.

The expanded boat launching facility and toilets are sought by the council to serve the expected increased need due to coho fishing.

The council received a 50-50 matching grant from the Michigan Waterways Commission to employ United Associates, engineers of Cheboygan, to design additional facilities which would qualify for state and federal aid.

At Monday's council meeting it appeared unlikely councilmen will go for the revised plan. Ways to add two temporary launching ramps and toilets for swimmers and boaters were discussed.

Toy factory move here is unlikely

The possibility of a major plastic toy manufacturing factory locating in Charlevoix appears slight, according to indications from the Charlevoix Development Corp.

Late last year AMT Corp. of Troy queried the Chamber of Commerce about the community's interest in a new plant that would employ from 150-350 people. Chambers in Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Boyne City and East Jordan were also contacted.

Chamber Manager Wally Loder turned the matter over to the Charlevoix Development Corp.

Development Corp. Secretary Bill Carey reports several unsuccessful attempts have been made to arrange a personal interview in Charlevoix with AMT officials. The Development Corp., he explained, wants to be sure the community can accommodate another major industry before it makes an effort to attract one.

Dan S. Mayka, AMT vice president, said the company is looking for a northern Michigan community for an expansion program. He said the plant would have about 100,000 square feet and employ from 150 to 350 people.

The plant, he said, would cause no pollution.

AMT, Mayka said, builds plastic toy cars and other toy items.

He also said the company hopes to find a community in which it can obtain assistance in financing construction of the new plant.

Several Charlevoix industrialist, contacted by the Courier, privately expressed alarm at the prospect of another major industry coming to the area due to a shortage of manpower now.

GOP wins recount

Though his victory margin was cut considerably, Ralph Richardson is still the winner of the County Supervisor election in Eveline and Wilson Townships.

And the Republicans still hold 100% control of the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors.

Ballots in the Eveline-Wilson Supervisor District (District 5) were recounted last Friday at the request of Democratic loser John Vrondran.

Vrondran lost the November 5 election 298 to 228 to Republican Richardson, with Aaron Brock, another Republican, getting 87 write-in votes.

Claiming the votes were not properly tallied, Vrondran demanded a recount. Election officials held the Supervisor recount Friday, when they recounted county ballots on the Daylight Savings Time question.

The recount gave Vrondran and Brock more votes and cut sharply into Richardson's. However, Richardson came out the winner with 257 votes to Vrondran's 231 and Brock's 124. Making Richardson the winner by 26 votes, instead of the 70 originally reported.

Though he attended the January 2 County Board of Supervisors meeting, Richardson was not seated due to the recount. He will now be sworn in and serve as chairman of the County Roads, Ironton Ferry and Parks committee. He will be on the Buildings and Grounds and Sheriff and Civil Defense committees.

Pine Point suit being appealed

Five Pine Point property owners have decided to appeal their suit to obtain title to lake front property to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The plaintiffs, represented by attorney John Michael, contend that Lake Charlevoix property between their cottages and the lake should belong to them. The property in question was platted as a street in 1913, but never developed into a street by Hayes Township or the Charlevoix County Road Commission.

The road commission and township are named as defendants in the suit.

Plaintiffs are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Darnton, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Darnton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Philip Walters and Ransom Abel.

About 250 feet of lake frontage in Hayes Township is involved.

Circuit Judge Charles Brown dismissed the suit in December.

Dean's list

Five Charlevoix students were honored for academic excellence during the fall quarter at Ferris State College.

Placed on the Dean's List were Constance L. Currie, Division of Teacher Education; Robert A. Goodenough, Business; Nancy J. Hoffman, Health Sciences and Arts; John F. Ochs, Pharmacy; Virginia G. Ochs, Pharmacy.

Obituary

Frank J. Jaskierski

Services for Frank J. Jaskierski, 84, who died Thursday, January 16 at his Norwood Twp. home, were held at St. Mary's Church at 9 a.m. Saturday. The body was at the Winchester Funeral Home where the rosary was recited at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The body was taken to Chicago for burial in Resurrection Cemetery.

He was born in Poland July 15, 1884 and he came to Chicago in 1902 where he was a millwright at Swift and Co. until retirement. He came here to make his home about 10 years ago.

In 1918 he married the former Katherine Rapacz and she preceeded him in death in 1936.

Mr. Jaskierski was a member of St. Mary's Church.

He is survived by two sons, Frank J. of Charlevoix and John, of Chicago; three daughters, Mrs. Josephine Bindi, Mrs. Robert (Eleanor) Nowakowski, both of Charlevoix and Mrs. Charles (Mary) Jones, of Chicago, one sister, Nellie Jaskierski, of Miami, Fla. and two grandchildren.

Guild plans '69 projects

The Woman's Guild of Charlevoix Hospital is planning its summer fund raising projects.

Money raised is used to buy equipment for the hospital. Other Guild services include scholarships, the notion cart, puppets for young patients and layettes for needy families.

The Guild also has a memorial fund for anyone wishing to remember a friend's birthday or anniversary or honor a loved one. Mrs. E.D. Hawley should be contacted regarding the memorial fund.

The Guild is planning a sewing bee at the home of Mrs. Robert Neff to make layette garments.

Guild membership is open to all interested women. Meetings are held the second Monday of each month.

State orders pool change

State regulations have forced the Lodge to close its heated indoor swimming pool to general public use, according to Brian Seymour, manager.

The state, Seymour explained, has directed the motel to allow only room guests to use the pool.

For several years the pool was open to local families for week-night use at a minimal cost.

Hot water costs less with Gas.

Today you need more hot water than ever before. And you can have it. All the hot water you want. Oceans of it. Hot as you like it. For just pennies a day with Gas.

Only Gas gives you so much hot water for so little. Saves dollars over electricity. In fact, a Gas water heater turns out more hot water in one day than an electric one twice its size.

So, if you've been running short of hot water at your house, check into the new fast-action Gas water heaters at your plumber's or your plumbing and heating dealer's. Or, if you wish, call us. You can have all the hot water you want for less than you'd imagine.

Gas makes the big difference . . . costs less too!

School board accepts help to pick art gifts

The Charlevoix School Board has approved creation of a five-member citizens committee to accept gifts of art for the public library.

Formation of the committee was suggested by Mrs. Julius Gilbert of the Friends of the Library. The idea was presented to the school board by Rev. Hewitt Johnston, Friends of the Library president.

Rev. Johnston told the board Nathan Cummings, a wealthy Lake Charlevoix summer resident, is interested in giving the library another gift of art. He added the committee is intended to avoid the problem which developed when Cummings gave the library a piece of sculpture about a year ago.

At that time the board and school administration were caught off-guard by the gift. They did not know it had been given until it had been accepted by others and did not know if it was appropriate for the library. Cummings was upset that the board and administration expressed doubt about its need for the gift.

President Glenn Kenney told Rev. Johnston members of the board do not feel qualified to determine the appropriateness of art gifts and will appreciate having qualified citizens determine this.

Board member Jack Rader suggested members of the Waterfront Fair committee be appointed to the Library Art Committee. He pointed out Charlevoix has several persons qualified to work on such a committee.

Kenney added that all art gifts accepted by the committee must be given with no strings attached. This, he explained, means that after they are accepted by the committee the school board can decide to sell them or display them somewhere other than at the library.

Board Treasurer Dale Boss said that insurance on Cummings' earlier gift is costing the school district about $150 a year.

Board member Mrs. Fran Hooper said that due to its limited budget the board must consider the cost of insurance before deciding to keep art gifts.

IOOF leads in cribbage

The 1969 Oddfellows and Masons cribbage contest is underway, with play every Thursday evening in the Masonic Hall.

After two weeks of play the IOOF leads by 850 points. In the first week's play Albert Sharrow lead for 944 for the IOOF. Edwin Belfy was high for the Masons with 926.

In the second week's play George Smith had a perfect score, 968, for the Masons. George Wood was high for the Masons with 908.

Winter etches its own kind of Charlevoix beauty

SUNNY WINTER days give a different kind of beauty to Charlevoix's harbor. Now ice encrusted, the foghorn and light are majestically lonely. Lake Michigan has not yet shown signs of freezing. Despite heavy snowfall the area has not had extreme cold weather yet.

SNOWSCAPES ARE a favorite with photographers. Earl Young's stone creations prove ideal for setting off snow scenes.

DST gains 24 votes in county

Michigan's Daylight Savings Time advocates picked up 24 votes in their favor when election officials recounted the November 5 Charlevoix County ballots last Friday.

The recount of 22 Charlevoix County precincts produced seven more yes votes for Daylight Savings Time and 17 fewer no votes than were reported the morning of November 6.

The recount tally shows 3,442 persons opposing DST and 2,814 favoring it. The original vote count was 3,459 against to 2,807 in favor.

Library Notes

The holiday vacation brought groups of young patrons to the library to read, to study, to do research and just to explore the shelves. The younger boys searched for books about space ships and astronauts. The older boys sought out books on sports.

Football, still being the top seasonal sport, brought enthusiastic interest in two books: "Football's Unforgetable Games" by Harold Claassen who is the Football Editor for the Associated Press, and "The Complete Book of the I Formation" by Roy Kramer, Head Football coach at Central Michigan University. Duffy Daugherty, famed coach of Michigan State University, recommends the book highly. It is instructive with over 200 diagrams illustrating various plays and strategies.

"The Drive Within Me" is an inspiring story written by the high school substitute who became Pro - Basketball's first 20,000 point scorer, Bob Pettit. There are marvelous action -- shot photographs throughout the book.

"Invitation to Modern Skiing" is a complete, up-to-date and authoritative guide to skiing techniques and equipment. It is a large, handsome book with over 100 action and sequence photographs. Fred Iselin, one of the authors, is considered to be one of the most respected skiing instructors in the world. The co-author, A.C. Spectorsky, is an author and publisher, but his knowledge of physics and mathematics have made him an authority on the physical principles involved in skiing.

In spite of mid - winter weather, young readers showed interest in books on golfing, fishing, tenting and, of course skin diving. Homer Gramling has written an outstanding book on this popular sport. "Skin and Scuba Diving" is a basic guide for beginners with numerous photographs and diagrams.

"The Tactics of Small Boat Racing" is a collection of personal enecdotes by Dr. Stuart Walker from his own experience in sailing International 14's. The book is meant to be instructive and it contains valuable material for young readers.

And a final word about another handsome volume -- "An Illustrated History of the Olympics" by Richard Schaap. Although it is highly recommended for young sport-minded readers, it is a family book for all of those who enjoy fine art work and thrilling action photographs.

Browe heads Dev. Corp.

Ted Browe has been re-elected president of the Charlevoix Development Corp.

Other officers re-elected at last week's annual meeting were Bill Carey, secretary, and Ed Shanahan, treasurer. Max Novak was elected to the board of directors, replacing Robert Livingston. Jim Novotny was re-elected to the board of directors.

Deer move into yards month early

Conservation Officer Frank Dufon reports Charlevoix area deer went into snow-bound yards in swamps between Christmas and New Year's, about a month earlier than last year.

Unless there is a major thaw in early February Dufon predicted severe malnutrition losses in deer yards. Fawns and weak deer will have little chance to survive, he explained.

Estimates are that there is about three feet of snow in area swamps. Deer cannot move in such deep snow and are confined to a limited "yard" area where the browse is rapidly depleted, leaving them to starve.

Last year, Dufon said, most area deer did not go into yards until late January and were moving about again by mid-February.

If winter losses are high it will set back development of the Charlevoix area's deer herd, which for several years has been considered one of the North's healthiest by game biologists.

Lake 17 inches above average

The U. S. Lake Survey Monthly Bulletin of Lake Levels for December shows that the levels of the Great Lakes are all above their 10-year averages--Lake Superior 10 inches, Michigan and Huron 17 inches, St. Clair 12 inches, Erie 10 inches, and Ontario 3 inches.

With the exception of Lake Ontario, they are also above their November 1967 mean levels. Lake Superior, due to heavy precipitation and several severe storms, rose to 601.52 feet or about 11 inches above its 1967 level; Lakes Michigan and Huron at 578.40 feet were about 6 inches above; Lake St. Clair, 573.41 feet, about 3 inches above; and Lake Erie, 570.35 feet, about 2 inches above. Lake Ontario, the lone exception, dropped to 244.02 feet, or about 14 inches below its last year's November mean level, though it is still above its 10-year average.

The levels of all of the Lakes, including Ontario, are expected to remain above the 10-year average for the next six months, or until well into 1969.

A COMFORTER WHEN ONE IS NEEDED

It is mighty trying on "Little Fellow" to be confined to his home with a minor ailment and from the window watch his companions at play. In this dark hour he has but one comforter—his faithful dog.

In the eyes of God we are all children, all prone to error, but there is a comforter for each of us and that is the church of our faith, where we will find joy and solace, a mind and heart at ease, a spirit uplifted. But don't expect to find that inner peace we all seek by mere chance. It is given to those who avail themselves regularly to the many branches of the church's services.

There is a church for you! Use it! All of it!

Planners find more parking space needed

Natural Resources
Population
Economy

A Courier Continuing Report

Text of the Planning Commission's Report

While tourism influences retail sales, so does the efficiency with which retail space is utilized. Retail floor space is less than 90% efficient in Charlevoix. Less efficient establishments include apparel and general merchandise stores.

One of the basic problems evolving from a recent survey of retail businesses was the inadequacy of existing parking in Charlevoix. The central business district of Charlevoix at the present time requires twice the number of existing off-street spaces. By 1980, an additional 525 spaces will be needed over the present level.

Agriculture, forestry, and wholesale trade have a minor effect on the economy of the region; agriculture and forestry on a diminishing scale; but wholesale trade on an increasing scale as retail trade increases.

Manufacturing is relatively new to the Charlevoix Region. Certainly, the economic effects of it today are being felt as never before in the history of the area. Employment and payroll gains between 1958 and 1963 in Charlevoix County alone nearly doubled. The majority of industry in the region is light industry which produces a wide variety of products. Distance from product markets and access to these markets are major problems confronting the region. A state and U.S. highway, as well as Lake Michigan, provide avenues to southern markets. The major roads, however, are not primarily designed for trucking.

Fifteen industries are located in the Charlevoix Region—predominantly manufacturers of furniture, lumber, wood products and fabricated metals. The trend in industry in the region appears to be away from the smaller plant which employs under 20 or 30 persons.

Substantial gains were experienced in the skilled and semi-skilled occupations, while steady decreases were indicated between 1950 and 1960 in farm and other labor categories.

A planned industrial park is a pertinent consideration for the Charlevoix Region since it could alleviate many difficulties in the preliminary stages of industrialization in the region and prevent the unplanned blight in which many large cities find themselves today. The benefits to be derived from an industrial park far outweigh the losses which could occur without planning for industrial growth.

Regional Setting

The Charlevoix Regional planning area is located in the extreme northwestern portion of Michigan's Lower Peninsula and it includes the townships of Charlevoix and Marion and the City of Charlevoix, all of which are located in Charlevoix County.

The entire region has always been one of Michigan's leading resort and vacation areas. Located on Lake Michigan midway between Little and Grand Traverse bays, water has proven a prime stimulus in the area's popularity and many of the visitors to the region arrive via the Great Lakes.

The planning area is located at the intersection of US-31 and M-66. Although neither of these highways can be considered as truly major highways, they do provide reasonable accessibility to the region. This accessibility has been increased recently with the construction of the interstate highway system, which has lessened the driving times for major centers of population.

The local economy is primarily orientated to resort and vacation activities; however, local industry is adding substantially to the area's economy and self-reliance. In addition, Charlevoix serves as the trade and service area for the surrounding rural regions.

Climate

The Charlevoix Region is, because of its location, under the climatic influences of Lake Michigan. Prevailing westerly winds collect moisture and warmth while passing over the lake with a resultant instability, augmented by the air being forced over somewhat higher altitudes when it reaches the land surface. This then causes low cloudiness and considerable light drizzle of snow flurry activity during the late fall and early winter.

Precipitation is usually ample for growth and development of vegetation during the average annual growing season, which is approximately 130 days. An average of 57% of the annual total precipitation occurs during the April to September period. Heaviest rainfall is usually in September with an average of 3.97 inches. The greatest total monthly rainfall occurred in August, 1959, when 10.13 inches were recorded. February, 1929, with a total of only 0.22 inches, was the driest month of record. The heaviest of rainfall is recorded in connextion with thunderstorm activity and the heaviest recorded 24-hour amount is 3.59 inches on August 21, 1959. An hourly intensity of as much as 1 inch occurs with a frequency of once in two years.

Snowfall occurs from October through April with an average of nearly 80 inches for season. This is subject to great variation over the years. In the last 30 years, seasonal totals have ranged from 35 inches in the 1959-60 season up to 133 inches in the 1958-59 season. January has the highest average, 21.6 inches, although the heaviest recorded amount for a single day is 13.1 inches on March 15, 1959.

Temperatures have ranged from a high of 103 degrees on July 13, 1936, to a low of -39 degrees on February 9, 1934. Annual average temperature is approximately 45 degrees.

Climate and weather are very important elements in the local environment of the Charlevoix Region. Combined with other natural characteristics, these factors have a direct effect upon the type of cost of housing, the degree and cost of snow removal and various other elements of day-to-day living including a topic of conversation.

One of the most direct results of climate upon Charlevoix is its relationship to tourism and recreation, which comprise the major portion of the area's economic base. The amounts of snow for ski resorts and the duration of the navigation season are but two of the basics dependent upon the climate and the weather of the region.

The popularity of winter sports has been a continuing asset to the economy of the Charlevoix Region. Heavy snowfalls coupled with rolling and rugged topography have resulted in the region and areas east of it becoming a major winter sports paradise of Michigan. As will be elaborated upon in the final portion of the report entitled Economic Base Analysis, heavy snow accumulation is a major catalyst in promoting the year round tourist economy the area now enjoys.

Water Resources

A single characteristic of Northern Michigan distinguishes it from most other areas in America-it has an abundance of fresh water from the vast reaches of the Great Lakes to the myriad of inland lakes and streams.

This abundance of water, however, is too often taken for granted. Communities with shortages or acute water problems devote substantial energies to water, but areas which have adequate supplies or a surplus of the resource often appear to believe water will always be there, undiminished in quality and quantity. As urbanization and growth occur, however, such is seldom the case, and a most valuable resource may be seriously impaired. Industrial concerns often pollute water unless preventative measures are enforced. Perhaps the most serious threat to the water is not industry but the homes with septic tanks whose discharge ultimately flows into the lakes and streams and those who actually use the water, such as boaters who contaminate this resource with their uncontrolled refuse disposal.

The Charlevoix Region holds a prominant position in this "Water Wonderland". With several miles of Lake Michigan shoreline plus Round Lake, Charlevoix Lake, several small lakes and a limited length of streams, water is perhaps the single most important resource of the area. Once known as a prime commercial fishing grounds, the present local tourist-orientated economic base is founded primarily on the water assets of the region.

Heavy water-using industry such as Medusa Cement Company exemplify the continually more intensive use of the natural resource, water.

Increasingly intensive use of water resources by industry, as was pointed out earlier, is not by any means the principle consideration in good water resources planning. Improved highways to the region and Interstate 75 link more densely populated areas in southern Michigan to the region. As a result, lakefront property is rapidly developing along Lake Michigan and inland lakes. To prevent haphazard residential and accompanying commercial development, thoughtful planning must be undertaken in developing remaining water frontage. For example, special planning consideration should be given to the public and not just the land owner. Access to water at selected points with opportunities for fishing, swimming and camping are of prime importance to the thousands of tourists who are passing through the region or who have the financial means to spend time in the region but not purchase that "second home" on the lake. One half to three fourths of all tourists are estimated to be of this type.

The Charlevoix Region must, therefore, apply a conscientious program of conservation to this water resource if it wishes to maintain its desired position. Not only must the quality be protected but also serious consideration must be given to the uses and controls of the water and its shorelines.

Sensational news stunned Charlevoix 50 years ago

From the Courier
Feb. 20, 1918

Charlevoix was shocked last Friday morning at the report of another revolting suicide-this time a double one.

Richard Castle, whose trial last week for the attempted robbery and assault on Jack Brock August 14th last resulted in a verdict of guilty, and Prudence Bolton, a young Indian girl of 17 years, with whom Castle had been going ever since his return to this city last June, took strychnine together and died in fearful agony at the home of William Castle, on Hurlbut avenue at 7:00 o'clock on the morning of the 15th.

Castle was out on bail for stay of sentence, which was to have been pronounced the morning of the day he died, the delay being due to the illness of his attorney, A.L. Fitch. He was staying with his parents and Thursday night came home to supper, leaving shortly after for town from which he did not return until eight o'clock. When he came back, he had with him a bottle of strychnine tablets, which he showed to his father, to whom he had already announced his intention of doing away with himself, saying that he had changed his mind and was not going to use it. The old man, who has endeavored to dissuade him from his purpose, took the bottle from him and put it away in a drawer.

At about ten o'clock (as the story was related to the officer) Castle left the house and going to the home of Richard Bolton about a block away on Hurlbut avenue, pried up the window of the room in which the girl, Prudence Bolton, lay sleeping and entered, where he remained for about two hours. At 12:00 o'clock, Castle, having persuaded the girl to go with him, left the house with him and the couple returned to the Castle home, where they remained sitting on the sofa in the living room together until five o'clock Friday morning, where Mrs. William Castle who had gotten up to start the breakfast found them. As she passed through the room, she noticed them drinking something from a glass. A moment or two later, William Castle came down the young man told his father that they had taken the poison. Almost immediately, as the poison began to take affect, he and the girl went into terrible convulsions, locked in each others arms.

Mrs. Castle was unable to leave the house to get help on account of the deep snow, but by screaming managed to rouse one of the neighbors who phoned the court house. Deputy Charles Jeffries and Coroner Dunham were at once notified and arrived on the scene almost together. When they got there, the little squad lay dead on the floor near the sofa and Castle, who was still breathing, was in his bed to which his parents had but just removed him as the officers arrived. He died within a few minutes.

Castle had evidently spent the night trying to induce the girl to take the poison with him and the entrance of Mrs. Castle into the room brought matters to a climax. While the Bolton girl was not implicated in any way in the Brock Hold-up (which had already cost the life of Ruth McNeven, who was Castle's decoy on that occasion) she was supposed to be the victim of a statutory offense alleged to have been committed by Castle and it was the latter's plan that they should die together.

This is not the first time this desperate youth of 21 years has attempted to take his life. Three years ago, on the eve of his departure for the Ohio State Reformatory, to which he had been sentenced for robbery, Castle and his wife took poison and were only saved by the quick action of a doctor who happened to be near at hand with a stomach pump. A bottle of chloroform and one of ether were found in the Castle home Friday morning by the officers, as well as the strychnine which it is said he had purchased the evening before on the statement that he wanted them to kill a cat with.

Besides his father and mother, Richard Castle leaves a wife, who arrived at the Castle home shortly after the suicide. The funeral of the Indian girl was held Monday at 2:00 p.m. and that of Castle on Tuesday at the same time.

Bells Bay hearing

old. In view of this, he added, it does not seem necessary to make an immediate decision on its future.

Medusa, Stephansky said, has been asked to consider buying the privately-owned 570-acre Fisherman's Island property adjoining the Bells Bay forest land and exchanging it for the 194 acres it wants to quarry. State and federal parks officials consider the Fisherman's Island property as one of the finest undeveloped areas left on the east shore of Lake Michigan, Stephansky pointed out.

The Fisherman's Island property includes a 4.5-acre Lake Michigan Island about 100 yards offshore and nearly two miles of beach. It is owned by a group of Detroit area investors.

Stephansky held out little hope Medusa would agree to such a deal.

Eddy said he would favor such an exchange.

County Clerk Clarence Rabach spoke in opposition to the lease. He pointed out the Bells Bay campground was developed through the cooperative effort of the city, township and state. It was not built, he said, with any idea that a stone quarry would ever be operating only a few yards from it.

Others speaking in opposition to the lease included Bill Ratigan, Mrs. Joyce Hosmer, Dave Juilleret, Wally Loder and George Baldwin.

Juilleret said additional campground space is going to be needed for coho and steelhead fishermen.

Loder said the Chamber of Commerce opposes the lease.

Airport

approved by state and federal aeronautics officials. Club members want to see the runway improved so that it meets required standards. If this cannot be done, they say, it should be closed. If an accident occurred on the runway insurance would not cover it because it is not authorized for use.

●Several pilots with planes based here have complained about lack of cooperation and at least one has moved his plane to Harbor Springs due to these problems, according to the club.

●City officials, club members say, should make a more thorough and sincere effort to understand the needs and operation of a growing, modern smalltown airport and the problems faced by pilots.

Club member Bob Hoffman emphasized that the City has spent considerable money developing an outstanding airport. He pointed out, though, that much of this public expenditure is going to waste due to policies, or the lack of the, which keep the airport from being fully utilized.

The Flying Club owns a single engine, four-passenger plane, which is used by its members. There are other privately owned planes based at the airport.

Boaters to find facilities

Salmon fishermen and other watercraft users can look forward to $882,800 worth of new boating facilities in the Manistee, Arcadia, Frankfort, and Leland areas by the start of the 1969 summer season, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Projects totaling that figure are taking shape or are already completed in those 4 areas under a massive $8 million boating improvement program mobilized for the year by the Department's Waterways Division. No program has been authorized at Charlevoix.

The Division has parceled out state funds to local units of government to underwrite most of the program which covers boating developments on inland waters as well as those on the Great Lakes. Smaller amounts of federal and local monies have also been pumped into the total effort to help meet Michigan's boating boom.

Contracted by the City of Manistee under this cost-sharing arrangement and virtually completed are a $167,250 mooring development plus a $28,500 control building which will serve as a nerve center for this docking facility.

The mooring site will provide wells for 38 boats and feature such utilities as water, electricity, and lights. It will also offer gasoline and oil supplies and have a sewage pump-out service.

At the same site, finishing touches are being put to a mooring control building which includes a harbor master's office and restrooms with showers for public use.

Also figuring big in the Manistee area's new boating improvements is a $236,000 launching ramp in the vicinity of First and Cherry streets. Scheduled for completion next July 1, this project will be highlighted by 16 concrete boat launching ramps with 8 adjustable finger piers, a blacktopped parking area to accommodate 290 cars and trailers, and modern restrooms. The Arvid Johnson Company of Manistee is the contractor.

On the Manistee River, construction work is underway to upgrade and expand boat launching facilities at the Rainbow Bend site and West High Bridge. Both of these projects were directly contracted by the DNR's Waterways Division in Lansing.

Lancers in solid league lead

ELLSWORTH -- The Ellsworth Lancers now hold a firm two game lead over their opponents in the Ski-Valley League, and have a 7-0 overall record.

Now all the Lancers will have to do is defeat Suttons Bay Saturday night on the Norseman court. The Norsemen have a formible 7-1 record going for them; their sole loss coming from Inland Lakes, 53-52. By comparison, Ellsworth recently defeated Inland Lakes, 76-65.

The Lancers, behind the league's leading scorer, Dennis Drenth, will have to be on their toes, as Suttons Bay is hard to defeat in home territory. Craig Bahle, their 6-5 All-Stater has yet to unwind, and has been backed by Kurt Raftshol and Jim Hawley.

Should Ellsworth win, they will be ahead of the pack by at least two games. Its probably their biggest test of the season. Our pick, Ellsworth--why not!

The St. Mary's Snowbirds crippled by the loss of two starters. (John Holewinski suffered a broken neck in practice last week, and John Peterson a sprained ankle) managed only 22 points against Suttons Bay last week, and probably will be considered the underdog against Inland Lakes this Friday. You can probably look for Coach Dave Lowe's squad to use ball control once again, but the Bulldogs are looking for revenge from their earlier loss.

Thus, overnight, the outlook for the Snowbirds changes from sunny to dim. Inland Lakes goes into the game a 15 point favorite, but it could be closer than you think.

The next night, the Snowbirds will bounce right back, playing a non-conference game with Johannesburg. This could turn out to be a battle between Otsego County two high point men, Craig DeCorte of St. Mary's, and Ed Shannon of Johannesburg. The Snowbirds will win this one they tell me. . . by two points.

Central Lake played Buckley Tuesday night, then will prepare for Friday's game with Suttons Bay. The Trojans, still in the league race, cannot afford to lose any more ball games, but probably will drop a close decision on their home grounds.

The remaining game on the schedule matches lowly Bellaire playing at Alanson. The Vikings, victims of Bellaire earlier in the season, 52-51, will be looking for revenge, and they will get it, Alanson by 15 points.

The following Tuesday, Bellaire gets the nod over Boyne Falls, Suttons Bay over Lake Leelanau, and Onaway a slight edge over Inland Lakes.

GEORGE McCLELLAN wasn't running interference when he landed on the floor in Thursday's game against Boyne City.

Rayders chances good this week

Two games this week are hard to handle, especially after playing a strong Petoskey team Tuesday night, but the Rayders are expected to defeat the Rogers City Hurons in a game played on the Charlevoix floor Friday night.

The Hurons, after being stopped by the league leaders, are now 3-6 in league play, only a step behind Charlevoix in conference play. Their leading scorer, Archie Urban, is averaging around 14 points a game, and teammate, Jere Whitley, is just a pinch away, averaging 12.

Should Kraag Lieberman be ready for action, the Rayders should have little trouble. Steward Coleman and Bruce Meggison are averaging in double figures, and will add additional punch to the lineup.

Traverse City St. Francis is at Boyne City in what is expected to be another exciting game. This will be the first meeting of these two schools, and regardless of the records, Boyne is due for a victory. St. Francis dropped a Saturday contest last week to Petoskey, 71-45 and only Larry Truelove and John Wambold are their steady performers.

The St. Ignace Saints will continue on their merry way, as they are expected to handle Cheboygan with ease. The Chiefs, socked by Gaylord last week, 73-54, are hoping to make it a game, but would have to get a fine performance of their big three, Renz, Johnson, and Baatty, to make things tick. Leo Donavan and company are much too powerful this year to get upset. St. Ignace is looking to better last year's record-breaking season of 18-4 with an undefeated season. They are only halfway there. . . .

Alpena CC has little hope as they make the 108-mile trip from the shores of Lake Huron to the shores of Lake Michigan, but have to make the trip to take on the high scoring Northmen. It will be the first, and only meeting of these two ball clubs, so watch-out for the Northmen. Petoskey could hit the century mark Friday night, as Dick Swenor attempts to fatten his scoring average. The only consolation for the Alpena team will be in the JV contest.

Rayders topple Boyne 56 to 43

Charlevoix's Rayders took advantage of Boyne City's rough edges last Thursday to take a 56-43 Michigan-Huron Shores Conference victory.

Boyne City fouls sent Rayder cagers to the free throw line 23 times. The Rayders made 16 free throws and missed 18.

Boyne made only five free throws, missing 12, on the 13 fouls called against the Rayders.

Charlevoix scored on 20 field goals to Boyne City's 19.

Leading the Rayder scoring attack was Stewart Coleman, with four field goals and seven free throws, for 15 points. Coleman missed only one free throw during the game.

Bruce Meggison was close behind Coleman with 14 points on five field goals and four free throws. Meggison missed six free throws.

Don Ward put ten points through the hoop for the Red Rayders, with four field goals and two free throws.

The Rayders moved to a slim 17-15 first period lead. By halftime Charlevoix was six points ahead, 30-24. Boyne City cut one point from the Rayder lead by the end of the first period, when Charlevoix was out front 42-37.

Others scoring for the Rayders were Bob DeYoung, 7; Tim Doan, 5; Don Livingston, 3, and George McClellan, 2.

JVs lose 73-67 to Boyne City

Despite a double - figure performance by four players, Charlevoix's junior varsity squad lost 73-67 last Thursday to Boyne.

Bill Carey scored 17, Tim Carey 16 and Tom Bergmann and Larry Potter ten each for the Rayder JVs.

Boyne City capitalized on 28 Charlevoix fouls to win the game. While Charlevoix scored on 15 free throws and missed seven, Boyne City scored 21 free throws and missed 20 more.

Both Charlevoix and Boyne City score 26 field goals.

Charlevoix trailed all the way. When the first period ended Boyne was leading 23-13. By halftime Boyne still held a ten point margin, 37-27. At the end of the third quarter Boyne lead 52-44.

Others scoring for the Little Rayders were Dave Swanson, 8; Ron Bindi, 3; Bob Vreeland, 2, and Mike Bergmann, 1.

GOP picks delegates

Charlevoix County Republicans at their convention last week elected representatives to the state GOP convention in Lansing Feb. 14-15 and went on record as opposing the lease of State Forest land at Bells Bay to Medusa Portland Cement Co.

The party's opposition to the lease was presented at last Friday's public hearing in City Hall.

Elected delegates from Charlevoix County to the state convention were Robert Lieberman and Ken Wojan of Charlevoix, Art Rouse of Boyne City and Harry Watson of East Jordan.

Alternate delegates are Harry Griffin and Eva Stevens of Walloon Lake; Jean Vogler of Charlevoix and Eileen Rouse of Boyne City.

MORE THAN 10,000 coho eggs and just-hatched fry are in this incubator tray at the Charlevoix hatchery. Previously eggs and fry were reared during their early stages of development in the open tanks at the hatchery. The incubator in use this winter has saved space, water and handling time and reportedly resulted in more of the young fish surviving the first critical weeks.

Special Education need must be met

IT WAS ONLY three years ago that concerned area parents and educators were complaining because the Intermediate School District was not spending all the money available to serve children needing special education.

The Intermediate District at that time was serving only a small fraction of the area's students who qualified and, in many cases, desperately needed special education. Unspent money from the half-mill special education levy was being banked.

Since then, under the direction of new Special Education Director Dale Fassett, the surplus monies have been spent and about 50% of the children needing this specialized help are being served.

While local school districts, including Charlevoix, failed to provide a full quota of leadership to help children with mental and other problems requiring special education, Fassett took the initiative.

However, two factors are working against his program as he tries to reach more and more of the children who need help: The Legislature has sharply reduced its support of special education and costs are spiraling on all fronts. Where the state used to pay 75% of the cost of all special education programs it is now paying only 75% of the original 75%.

Due to the legislature's unanticipated cutback in state aid, Fassett estimates the Intermediate District will come up $41,000 short in paying its special education bills for 1968-69. This deficit will have to be shared by local school districts, whose students receive special education benefits.

More alarming than this, though, is the picture it paints for future years. Fassett will not continue to operate on a deficit. And the available money for this year's program will buy less next year.

To understand the special education dilemma fully it is somewhat necessary to understand Dale Fassett. Mr. and Mrs. Fassett (Mrs. Fassett teaches at Charlevoix High School) have a child who is severely handicapped. This helps to intensify his feeling for and undertanding of special education needs.

Ideally, Fassett would like to see most special education programs eliminated. He feels special education is the "practical" not the "right" solution to helping children with learning problems. And he makes no bones about saying so.

"It is a cardinal sin to put more than 15 or 20 students in a lower elementary classroom!" he declares. "If we could reduce class sizes to something like 15, teachers could give children the attention they need so that special education wouldn't be needed... and all of our children would get a better education."

Educators almost unanimously agree with Fassett. However, to do this in Charlevoix alone it has been estimated the additional cost would be something like $250,000.

To do the job for Charlevoix kids with special education through the cooperative organization of the Intermediate School District, on the other hand, will cost less than $100,000.

Maybe Fassett would be better off if he cared less. If he did he wouldn't be telling local school boards and administrators that they are neglecting the needs of some students who must have special education to fulfill their education potential.

Charlevoix, for instance, has one room for mentally handicapped educable children (Type A room). Fassett says it needs three. It also needs one or more rooms for children with lesser problems, but who cannot learn at the pace "average" students do; thus slowing down the classroom process for all students.

In the Twin Valley School District (Boyne City and East Jordan) at least four Type A rooms are needed. There now are none.

Until this year the children who need these special rooms were being ignored because local administrators and school boards failed to provide rooms and teachers. The Intermediate District had offered to pay the full cost of operating them, but is not authorized to provide the actual classroom space or hire the teachers, even though it pays their salaries.

Now, with money growing short, is appears that they never will have the opportunities a compassionate society should provide, unless voters are willing to pay the bill.

The Intermediate District, hopefully, will ask voters in June to approve more money for special education.

Let's be patient

TO BEGIN the new year the Courier resolves to be especially patient and understanding with two new public officials. County Clerk Clarence Rabach and District Judge Dick Smith are going to need patient constituents.

Rabach is stepping into a complex job which is growing more confusing by the day as state and federal bureaucrats create a mounting pile of red tape and paper work for county clerks. His job is also increased by the addition of Judge Smith and second Circuit Judge James Fitzpatrick.

Smith's role is that of a pioneer. No one knows how the new District courts are going to work. How the records will be kept? How the fine money will be handled? How the court's work will be scheduled? And many other unanswered questions which can only be worked out by trial and error.

Confusion in the District Court causes more problems for Rabach, who will handle most of the records and paper work.

Procedures for handling records for the new County Board of Supervisors are also expected to change.

It should be remembered that the amount of work being handled by the clerk's office and the courts is spiraling due to the county's growth.

Add up all of this and it is understandable that things are going to be mixed up for awhile.

School taxes annual dilema

by GLEN SHEPPARD

Less than a generation ago, when this editor started newspapering, school millage issues in the Detroit area were a rather routine thing for a school-beat reporter.

The reporter researched available facts, double checked to see if the administration and school board were trying to hoodwink the public about actual costs, and told it the way it was. Simple enough.

In those days, memory suggests, millage issued were only held every third or fifth year. However, because there was a maze of school districts in our area a reporter could count on reporting a coupla millage election proposals every spring.

There is no recollection that these were highly newsworthy. Once shown how much it was going to cost to buy their kids what they considered a satisfactory education parents paid the bill.

What's happened!

In this year of 1969 Charlevoix school district taxpayers can expect to be asked at least three times to approve more money for schools. At least once for a boost in the local school operating tax. And again for special education and a third time for vocational education.

Except that special education wasn't on any of our numerous ballots, we went through the same routine in 1968.

Furthermore, parents aren't nearly as inclined today to accept the school board's and administration's word for what constitutes satisfactory education. This has to be a good sign.

Let's look at some figures compiled by Supt. Rex Milligan to see Charlevoixians on high school operating taxes.

According to Milligan's figures Charlevoix this year will spend $535 to educate each student. Of this $357 will come from local property tax. The remaining $178 comes from state aid.

A comparison of Charlevoix's expenditure per student ($535) with that of other larger area school districts show Petoskey will spend $549 ($14 more than Charlevoix) and Twin Valley will spend $506. Some small districts, like Harbor Springs and Central Lake, will spend slightly more per pupil than Charlevoix because of the inefficiency inherent in small schools.

So when compared to other districts Charlevoix is about on par.

When tax rates are compared Charlevoix is getting by cheaper than other districts. Charlevoix's operating tax rate is 14.7 mills. Added to this is 5.25 mills for debt retirement, bringing the total to 19.95 mills.

The next lowest school tax rate in the area is Central Lake with 21.5 mills--all of it for operation.

Pellston has the second lowest operating tax rate, 16 mills. Added to this Pellston levies six mills for debt retirement, bringing its total to 22 mills.

Twin Valley levies 20.2 mills for operation and Petoskey levies 19.44 for operation.

However, Charlevoix's tax rate should be lower than anyone else's. We have $24,309 in taxable property valuation behind each student. This compared to $11,832 in Twin Valley--less than half of Charlevoix's--and $16,418 in Petoskey.

But now things get sticky. Because of our high property tax valuation we only get $178 in state aid for each student. Petoskey gets $230 and Twin Valley gets $239.

Charlevoix's teachers, compared to others from similar schools are well paid. Better paid than most in our area but not as well paid as those in larger downstate communities. (And, in fairness, we should remember that the cost of living is at least as high, here as in Ann Arbor or Livonia.)

Even with all of these comparisons a citizen is unable to make a meaningful evaluation.

If the school board and administration are going to compare our financial situation with other schools it should feel obligated to also tell us how much time is spent in our grades on, say, reading the history compared to the time spent on these subjects in other schools.

We should know how much of our budget goes for transportation, visual aids, text books, etc., compared to the other schools used in the above comparisons. We should be told how the reading, writing, spelling and math capability of our second graders compared to that in Petoskey and other schools.

There was a time, as noted, when parents didn't ask these questions. Maybe they are concerned now because education costs have risen so sharply. But we like to think parents are asking because they are more concerned and informed.

Whatever the school's budgetary and financial realities are the day is coming when taxpayers simply cannot afford more. Administrators should be preparing for this day.

The solutions can be found locally if educators are sincere, imaginative and bold enough.

Charlevoix's showdown on school taxes could come this year. We often hope it does. Not because we want to see less spent on education, but instead because we want to see the entire concept and system remodeled, with emphasis shifted from high school to lower elementary.

LAST YEAR Charlevoix taxpayers agreed to fork over the money for a $1.5 million school building program. This year they will be asked for higher taxes to pay for increased school operating costs. How long will taxpayers agree to the annual increases in education costs?

Charlevoix's airport is its front door

Dear Editor:

The way the City Council acts, or fails to act, on things pertaining to the airport is difficult to understand.

The investment of monies is substantial and the progress was fine, but there has been no follow up. It may seem to some people that it is money wasted, or money spent for someone's hobby, much as the boat docks are. Which is far from the truth.

The growth of aviation is taking tremendous strides. The Detroit Metro Airport, for one, is in a planned continuing project involving $150 million. And Metro is not listed as a major congested area, as is O'Hara, Kennedy and others.

What has this to do with Charlevoix Airport? Considerable! The airlines having a congestion problem in these areas in 1967 had 2,595 aircraft. That this is only a minor segment of the overall aviation picture is seen in the fact that general aviation (big jets to two-seaters) counted 114,186 planes in 1967. Many of these smaller planes are being moved out of the high density areas.

General aviation used smaller fields. Business firms located in towns with good air facilities. They fly their personnel direct to other small towns to do business. They air freight their products direct to their customers. They look to towns with good air facilities in which to branch out and expand.

Good facilities can grow with the need. But if they preceed the need the growth comes faster and costs less. The planning is better. The tax base broadens. There is a positive return on the investment monies spent. Wages rise and are spent within the area.

Charlevoix's councilmen must think of these things and plan for solid growth. That is why there were elected. They were chosen because they are constructive, thinking persons who don't let their personal feelings get involved. Men who can take the small irritations, complaints and, by study, arrive at answers that are for the good of all.

Our airport is in need of consideration. At present it is stagnant almost to the point of regression.

We must think of the airport as a service. It is our front door where we stand as host to the public and greet new business. We also must treat our family --- the local people --- as worthwhile persons who have a right to use the front door. That's why they are here!

Our city manager has a son who is a captain on the airlines. He realizes the need of air facilities, I'm sure. Our city attorney is award of the facts pertaining to air travel. If the City Council's airport committee isn't up to the facts it should, in fairness to the community, get busy and do some research and study.

The more aviation is pushed in Charlevoix by the Chamber of Commerce, businessmen, the flying clubs, the more we will prosper.

Why has Pellston, Bellaire, Traverse City, Gaylord and now Harbor Springs made expansions at their airports? Air growth is moving at such a tremendous rate that all facilities throughout the states are constantly expanding as rapidly as they can.

We can't afford to stand still. We should lead! We should advertise the city through the airport. Take advantage of what we have and make it constantly better.

Knuckleheads in politics miss the point

by JIM FITZGERALD

I can't imagine many things more silly than standing up in the public, in the nude, and reciting poetry. I wouldn't do it sitting down with my arms folded in my lap.

But there are some things more dangerous. Michigan State Senator Robert Huber (R-Troy), for instance. He really gives me goose bumps.

Let's start with the bare facts:

Lee Elbinger, a 21-year-old senior at Oakland University, gave a presentation on poet William Butler Yeats' concept of freedom. Elbinger got so enthused about freedom, he shed all that bound him, right on past his Fruit of the Looms. Several classmates and the professor looked on. None of them complained. If I had been there, I would have griped. Elbinger is a boy. He could have thrilled me more by reciting Little Bo Beep poolside at the YMCA. If I am going to be shocked, I want to enjoy it.

But then, I'm a dirty old man, not pure like Senator Huber. He did not see Elbinger strip, but he heard about it. It was not hard to hear about because the big city newspapers had the story spread all over their front pages. This is the type of story that always makes front pages of big newspapers. Only a public fight between Liz and Dick could have crowded Elbinger onto page 2. World War III couldn't have done it.

Anyway, Senator Huber was upset. He knew the voters would be upset, too. Oakland University is tax-supported. We can't have student showing their bodies in buildings built by taxpayers, for goodness sake. After all, if a guy could see unclothed flesh simply by going to school, who would buy all the Playboy magazines? And then what would happen to the nation's economy? The mind boggles.

Some stupid people just don't seem to understand that the human body is ugly and must be covered, especially where the fig leaves grow. Some clowns even think that man invented clothing simply to protect himself from weather, skinned knees and grass stains. And that clothing doesn't make much sense when none of these threats are present. None of these clowns is named Hart, Schaffner or Mr. John.

An indignant populace, spurred on by such statue inspectors as Senator Huber, is quick to protest any such move to popularize nudism. We must protect our children. Clothe your pet! Down with full length mirrows!

Senator Huber put it brilliantly, even scoring a slick dig into our marching clergy:

"It's a disgrace to tolerate something like this," he said. "I can't understand why the community is tolerating it and not standing up in open indignation. There are so many priests in the area who are quick to stand up with open housing placards, but they're silent on a real moral issue like this."

Yeah, take that, you stupid priests. You're wasting time demanding such silly things as an end to discrimination in housing. Who cares if a black man's money won't buy the same house a white man's money will buy? Forget it and join with Senator Huber in debating this REAL MORAL ISSUE. Let's keep Lee Elbinger's bare fanny out of public view.

But seriously, folks, Senator Huber obviously woudn't recognize a real moral issue if he woke up in bed with it. He is another public servant who gets excited about the wrong things.

It is easier to keep bare bodies out of state colleges than it is to keep knuckleheads out of the state capitol.

Detroit school plea Fails to move us

(Lapeer County Press)

In the upcoming session of the Legislature, we'll again hear desperate cries from Detroit, Wayne County and the Detroit area schools. Already heavily subsidized by outstate Michigan, they will want even more special aid programs.

At first look, they put up a good case. They point to the urgent needs of the ghetto, the rising crime rate, the growing welfare load.

With that, we don't argue. Yet, there's another side to the coin. Almost every new school in the Detroit area has a swimming pool. Some have indoor rifle ranges and theatres- none of which is enjoyed by any school in Lapeer County. Teachers in Detroit get $700 a year more than they do here-those teaching in quiet, all-white schools as well as those teaching in the ghetto. Circuit judges in Wayne County get $30,000 a year and are asking for $34,000. Nearly all of them work fewer days than outstate Michigan judges, most of whom get about $20,000 a year (The Wayne judges are asking for a salary that will put them above Federal judges and the heads of federal and state agencies).

Until Detroit - area governments learn to eat off the same table as outstate Michigan, we see no reason for the Legislature to vote them special subsidies.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

There are times when articles are, by mistake, left in the public restrooms here in the Harborside building. Accordingly, occasionally some honest person brings the article or articles to the Chamber office, which gladly holds them until the proper person appears, identifies and claims the article. Equally as often, however, this is not done. Temptation apparently is difficult to overcome for some.

It is about the time of the year that the Chamber has reason to be vitally concerned about early payment of membership dues and/or contributions. Folks, we call upon your co-operation and most certainly will appreciate your efforts earlier this year. There is no question but what this community needs a Chamber and the Chamber certainly needs you. Thanks to any of you who can act before our fund raising and membership drive gets underway. As indicated before, there is hope of more individual citizens support and interest in the Chamber with any amount they chose they can afford, other than the voting right membership, which is in larger amounts. The smaller ones add up, and these dollars go into the same fund and go to work.

According to a report from Michigan U.S. 31 Corridor Association the average daily traffic on U.S. 31 has increased 18% in two years. For example, in 1965 the average number of vehicles per 24 hours at Traverse City was 8,000; Charlevoix 3,100; Petoskey, 8,300, and in 1967 Traverse City, 10,000, an increase of 25%, Charlevoix 3,800, an increase of 22.5%, and Petoskey, 8,000, a decrease of 3.6%. The report indicated checking at 18 cities from the southern border to Mackinaw City the average ears overall in 24 hours in 1965 to be 5,922, and in 1967, 6,988, an increase of an average of 18%.

I was surprised, and maybe some of you interested citizens were, also, to read the one half page article in the Northland Press, Thursday, January 16, by the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, which indicated that unless there was needed financial support, including members paying their 1968 membership dues prior of January 31, 1969, they would close the doors. It is most unfortunate, indeed. There was also published a list of businesses who had paid in 1968, and a special notice that some of these had paid double, hoping, no doubt, the Chamber would be able to pull out and continue. There, like anywhere else, is a growing and stable community, much is dependent on the Chamber, and without it, there can not help but be, and it has been proven, a great loss. I think the article is worth reading and maybe it will give you something to think about.

At the annual meeting Loder reported all current bills have been paid with the exception of a loan balance with one of the banks, about $1,000 yet due on the new Charlevoix brochures, and an amount due the County Planning Commission not to exceed $1,000 for the new Charlevoix County map-brochures.

Boyne City and East Jordan Chambers, as was Charlevoix, called upon for $1,000, the same as the last issue about three years ago, and almost that figure for the one prior of that. He also called to attention needs for as much in advance as possible the $1,000 for this Chamber's share in bringing the Michigan Amateur Golfer's Association Tournament here in 1969.

The Secretary also pointed out the reduction in the budget last February of about $2,300 plus a reduction of $100 a month since we moved to the new and smaller office, which totaled about the same amount we are in the red for 1968. Secretary also reminded the importance of having in mind at all times fixed expenses, would be first in order we continue to carry on, and we continue to carry on, and secondly, ways and means to provide ways of finances for the annual events for 1969.

Lyle Miles requested the entire Board of Directors be the membership committee.

Having to do with other committees, Lyle Miles volunteered to again be chairman for the boat parade committee for the Venetian Festival. It should interest you to know that Lyle has brought life to this phase of the Festival, having been boat chairman for three or four years, and has brought the number of boat entries from 7 to 22 to 29 to 26.

Dave Juilleret volunteered to be queen's committee chairman to be assisted by Mrs. Billie Smith having to do with the queens, Miss Charlevoix and Venetian Queen. Dave expressed some good ideas, and like any others, don't overlook they all cost money.

Miles and Tom Acton volunteered to work as the committee having to do with the 1969 golf tournament.

Ways and means committee will include Schroeder and two of the new directors, Tom Hanna and Larry LaGrow. Here's hoping they get started pronto. Now then, other committees will be decided upon at the next meeting, to mention a few, two of them will be in connection with the Waterfront Fair and the Annual Chamber of Commerce Color Cruise aboard the Beaver Islander.

Dave Juilleret full of steam as usual, bit off another chunk, as he volunteered his service as chairman having to do with the arranging of the City Street parade float committee.

Loder volunteered his service and those of his office to help at all times.

I might add there was considerable interest appearing genuine for this coming year, but believe you me, it is going to take effort of the Board of Directors, this office, and outside support to bring about the success we should have, and the community is entitled to.

Having to do with charter boat service, the Co-operative Extension Service of Michigan State University locally headed by Ed Rebman, County Extension, Natural Resource Agent, at Boyne City, called to attention and invited as many as possible, who would be interested, to a charter boat business work shop to be held January 15, 7-10 p.m. at Traverse City, Michigan at the Consumer Power meeting rooms. Hope to see some of you down there. This is a dutch treat, so far as expense goes.

Social Security Tax Up 1000% is 30 years. What else can one expect in the cycle which we now live?

"Since the inception of Social Security, the maximum employee-employer tax per employee has skyrocketed from $60 in 1937 to $580.80 in 1967. It will be $686.40 in 1968. This rise in taxes of over 1000%, while Social Security benefits have risen only 400% -- Bethlehem Review, Bethlehem Steel Corp.

Do you know United States Civilian work force abroad is up 50% in five years? It was indicated by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in a recent release that the United State's government's civilian work force abroad has grown 71,234 during President Johnson's five years in the White House. In 1963, paid civilian government employees in foreign countries totaled 129,320. At the start of 1968, the work force had reached 200,554--an increase of about 50%. The size of the overseas staff had increased by fewer than 1,000 in each of the previous five years.

Fishing, hunting slow due to poor ice, snow

Hunting and fishing activity has been unseasonally slow throughout Charlevoix County so far this winter, according to Conservation Officer Frank Dufon of Boyne City.

Due to heavy snowfall, he explained, ice is still dangerous on larger lakes, and especially on the main portion of Lake Charlevoix. This has slowed ice fishing activity.

Some perch and pike, however, are being reported taken through the ice on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix near Ironton and Holy Island. Thumb Lake in the east end of the County is reported producing rainbows.

Ice has not yet formed on Lake Michigan, where fishermen have been predicting good fishing through the ice for lake trout.

Dufon was especially pointed in warning ice fishermen and snowmobilers to stay off Lake Charlevoix until it is safe.

Due to deep snow, he added, fishing for rabbits and fox with hounds has been almost impossible on land.

Worker sues for wages

A construction worker is suing the owners of the former Beach Hotel and Van Dorn Enterprises, construction company, for wages allegedly owed him.

William Jensen in a suit filed in Circuit Court claims he is owed $753 in wages for work he did for Van Dorn in partially razing the old hotel at the foot of W. Dixon Ave. overlooking Lake Michigan.

Jensen claims he worked for Van Dorn on the job from Sept. 14 to October 17, 1967. He is asking the court to award him his wages plus all interest and court costs in collecting them.

Named as defendants in addition to Van Dorn are Great Northern Land Development Co. and Charlevoix Properties, whom Jensen claims own the hotel site. Henry Hogan and Donald Parsons of Birmingham are the major investors in Charlevoix Properties.

The annual church meeting was postponed from this Sunday afternoon to a later date as Rev. Harmon has the flu and also Mrs. Earl Kroll the church clerk and several others have been entertaining the bug. We hope everyone will be better soon and back in circulation.

Mrs. Jennie Duffy and Mrs. Jessie Knudson of Charlevoix were dinner guests this Sunday at the home of the latter's son and daughter-in-law Douglas and Thelma Knudson.

Well the little spider brought the usual thaw this week we have lost about six inches of snow. Fishermen are still having difficulty moving on the ice to get a few perch and smelt. About the only ones having run are the snowmobilers. Regardless of the weather nothing seems to stop them.

Received a card from Mrs. Lydia Orvis who is enjoying the nice warm weather in Arcadia, Florida. I sometimes wonder how lucky one can get.

The weekly Club met with Mrs. Lorena Beene Wednesday afternoon.

Locals

June McCullough arrived Friday from Covingston, Georgia to spend ten days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Elzinga.

Weekend guests at the Julius Elzinga home were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Elzinga and twin sons, Kevin and Robert, of Kalamazoo.

Model library now on display

A model library for elementary and junior high schools is on public display at the Charlevoix High School library.

Parents can view the 1,600 books any school-day afternoon from 3:30 to 4:30 or at an open house from 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 22.

The model library display, sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, is intended to acquaint parents and teachers with books available for youngsters.

Kiwanis Club opens drive for swimming pool funds

Charlevoix's generation-old dream of a public indoor swimming pool is being reawakened by the Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanians at their Monday evening meeting announced an all-out campaign to build the pool and raise funds. The club has traditionally carried the brunt of the indoor pool project, which has been largely dormant since the new high school was built.

The proposed swimming pool would actually be a youth recreation center, with facilities for games, snacks, social activities, and meetings, Ralph Hamilton, co-chairman of the Kiwanis pool project with Don Anders.

Tentative costs for the pool and accompanying recreation facility have been estimated at $100,000. The club has $5,000 of the needed funds.

Two years ago Kiwanians donated $10,000 to the public library with the understanding it would be used to construct a downstairs area for youth meetings. Instead the downstairs space at the library has been used for classrooms, creating some disappointment with Kiwanians.

The Kiwanis Club's sole source of funds is through the sale of maple syrup it makes.

A public subscription drive has been launched by the club to obtain donations for the pool's construction. Escrow accounts have been set up at both the Charlevoix County State Bank and First State Bank of Charlevoix to which year-round and summer residents can make donations.

If the club's goal cannot be reached, Anders said all funds donated will be returned to the contributors.

The proposed recreation center would be 125 feet by 90 feet and contain a 98 by 33 foot heated pool. The pool would have facilities for waders as well as Olympic training area. There would be a one-meter and a three-meter diving board, plus five lanes for swim practice and races.

The Olympic area of the proposed pool could be used at the same time toddlers are using the pool due to a removable shield which would be installed for separation of the two areas.

The recreation facility, Hamilton explained, would contain pool tables, shuffleboard, and similar games, plus snack bar, dance area, and meeting area. Lockers and showers would be available for swimmers.

The club's plans are to employ a manager to oversee activities and operation

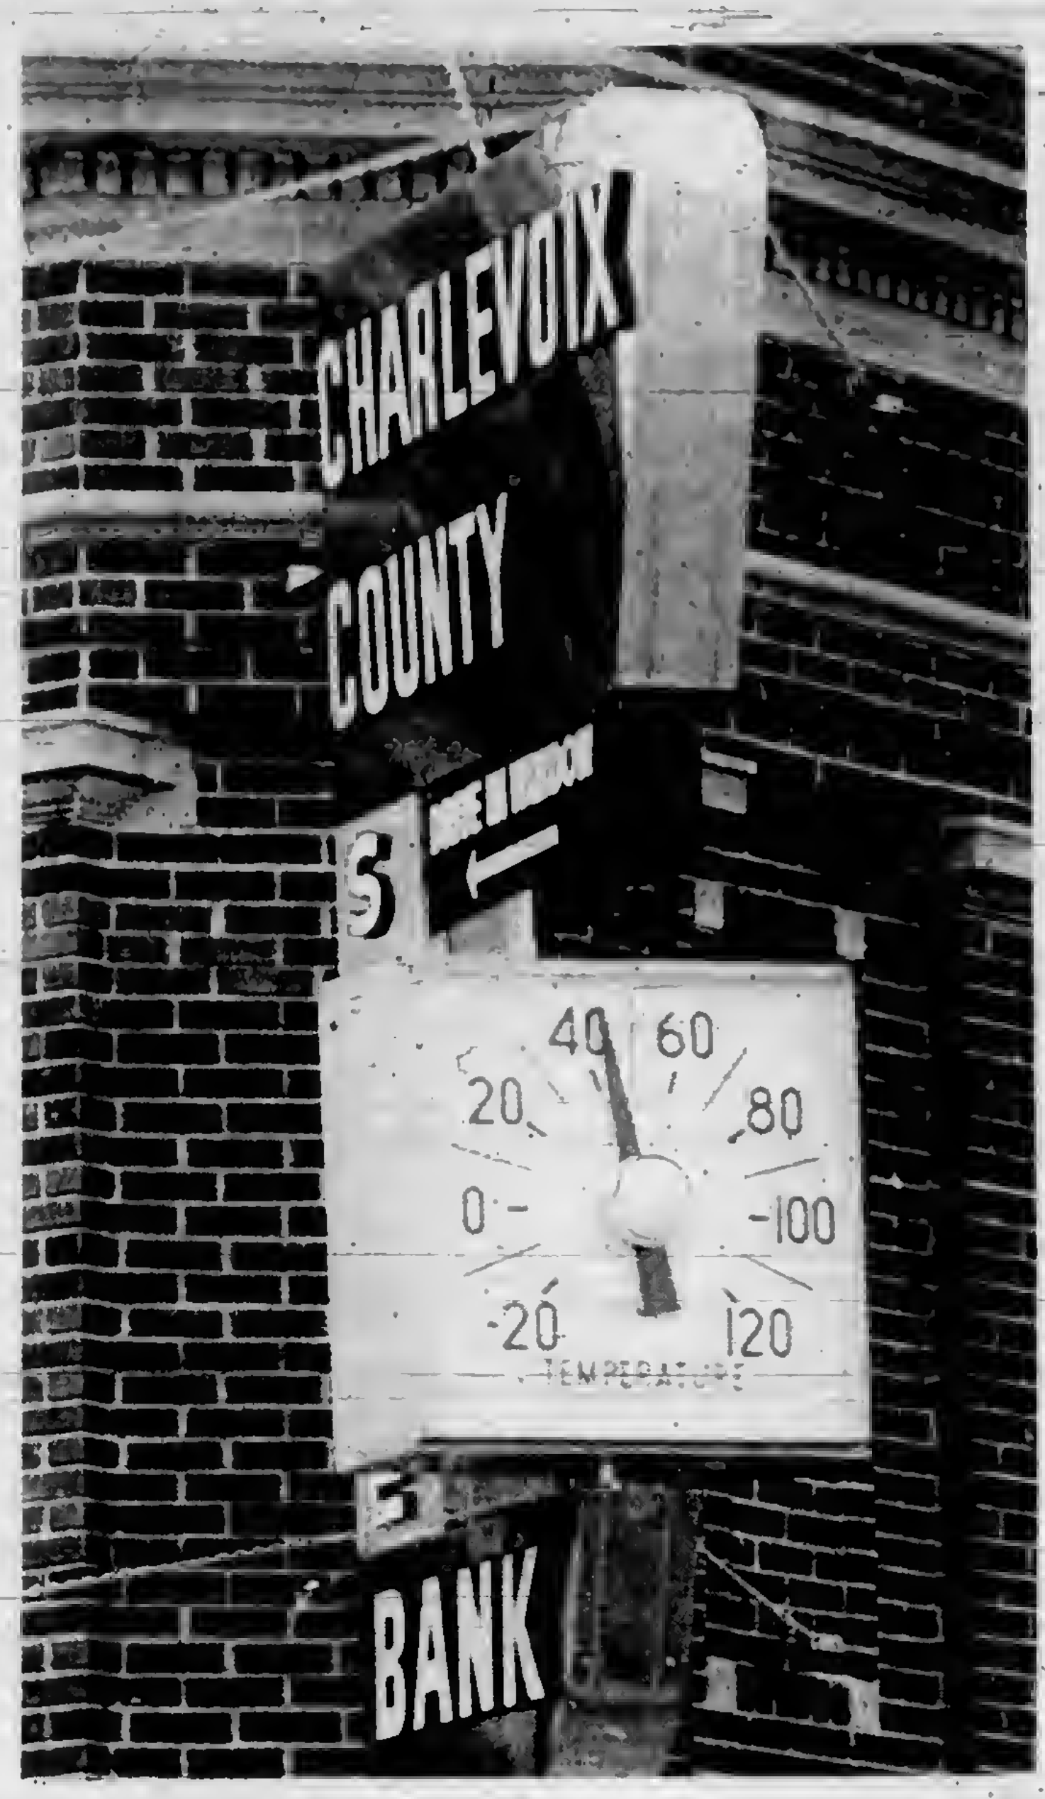
Short spring



Charlevoix had a mighty brief taste of spring last week. The County State Bank's time and temperature clock was registering over 40 degrees Thursday. Temperatures hit 50 a couple of times. Snow drifts retreated, slightly. Streets and back roads were running with water. Only about 24 hours later the time and temperature clock told us winter was back as temperatures nudged zero. Ice started forming on Lake Michigan. Tuesday morning, as the Courier went to press, a snow storm was blasting in from the southeast. Next stop summer?

Here's a plan for everyone

Charlevoix attorney and Kiwanian Don Berlage Monday suggested the club's proposed swimming pool be considered the first component of a complete community social and recreation center and possibly convention hall facility.

Berlage asked Kiwanians at their regular weekly meeting in the high school cafeteria to consider these ideas:

Placing the pool on a large downtown site (perhaps on the channel behind the commercial buildings on Bridge St.).

Locating the pool on the site so that an auditorium and gymnasium could later be built at each end of it and a complex of youth activity rooms off to one side, with adult activity facilities off to the other side.

Both adults and youth would use the central complex (pool, gym and auditorium), but the generation gap would be satisfied by having social activity facilities for youth and adults separated by the pool, gym and auditorium.

Berlage suggested the adult activity facilities include meeting rooms, a bar, dining room, etc. Citizens, he said, could pay reasonable membership fees to cover the cost of professional operation of the facility. Summer residents, he pointed out, would undoubtedly patronize the facility due to its country club or city club atmosphere.

His proposal, Berlage explained, should in no way slow down or hinder the club's effort to raise funds for the swimming pool as now planned.

The only effect it would have on the swimming pool project, he explained, is making it necessary to place the pool on a large enough site to complete the community center complex as money becomes available in the future. If the pool is built on too small a site, he pointed out, future expansion will be impossible.

Due to the stability of Charlevoix's year-round economy and its summer residents, Berlage said he is convinced such a project is feasible in Charlevoix.

He agreed that many local people would not be interested in joining the semi-private adult club. But expressed belief that enough would to make it a worthwhile undertaking, especially due to the support of summer residents.

All area young people, he said, would enjoy the facilities for youth.

Begrow bids for permit on new plan

Acting on an "outside" attorney's legal interpretation of the city's zoning ordinance, City Council last week rejected initial plans for a ten-apartment condominium on Round Lake.

Architect Jack Begrow's plan for the condominium on property between the Ward and Bellinger marinas was too high and did not comply with parking requirements, councilmen decided.

Begrow is now reworking his design in hopes of complying with the ordinance's requirements.

Attorney Mike Stroup of Petoskey was retained by the council to review the zoning ordinance and determine if Begrow's proposed condominium complies with it. He reportedly found the building would be too high and that parking must be at the side of the apartments and not behind them.

Begrow has an option to buy the Round Lake property from Robert Schieman.

School board will discard its veto of senior trips

The Charlevoix school board Monday evening set the stage for abandoning its decade-old ban on senior trips.

The board tentatively approved an "educational" senior trip to Lansing for the class of 1969. Only a couple of "ifs" stand between the class and their hankering for a three-day (two-night) trip to Lansing in April.

The board, on the recommendation of Supt. Rex Milligan, required that the class raise enough money so all students can make the trip.

"If it is an educational trip," Milligan said, "there should be no students staying home because they lack the money."

Beth Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin, told the board the class has between $350 and $400 for the trip and will begin immediately to raise more.

The only other "if" is whether the school can spare the three busses which will be needed to take the 90 to 100 students to Lansing and transport them to various points while there.

Board transportation expert Dale Boss said the school can spare the three busses unless serious trouble should develop with some of the fleet.

Board members Mrs. Fran Hooper and Jerry Redeker were named to work out final details and approve the trip if seniors meet the board's requirements.

The class is hoping to stay at the Michigan Education Association's camp near Battle Creek during its two nights of the trip. This is expected to cut down expenses.

The tentative schedule calls for the class to leave Charlevoix about 9 a.m. Tuesday April 15 and return early in the evening of April 17. During their stay in Lansing they will visit the Capitol, see the legislature in session, tour Michigan State University and the Oldsmobile manufacturing plant.

High school principal Ray Carr said that if the educational trip to Lansing is going to become a regular part of the government class program he would like to see it taken earlier in the year in the future.

Board member Burr Blanchard told Miss Baldwin and five other seniors at the meeting that their behavior on the trip will determine whether future classes are allowed to make a similar trip.

Turning to other matters the board adopted a policy that all kindergarteners must have state-required immunization before they can start school. These immunizations include smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, measles, polio and tuberculosis test.

Supt. Milligan alerted the board to the school district's possibility of losing all state aid if taxable property valuation continues to rise.

The district, Milligan said, now has $24,000 in taxable property for every student. When this figure reaches $30,000 per student, he explained, the district will no longer qualify for state aid.

This year, Milligan told the board, Charlevoix received $177 in state aid for each student.

He pointed out that there is nothing the board can do about the situation, but he feels it should be aware that it could become serious in a few more years.

The board also authorized its attorney, John Thomas of Flint and financial advisor Robert Russell to make a trip to New York if they can arrange for a lower interest rate on the $1.5 million in construction bonds the district will sell February 24. The bonds cover construction of the new Division Ave. elementary school and remodeling of the present elementary into a middle school.

Medusa to shutdown soon for winter; no layoffs

The Medusa Portland Cement Company South Point plant at Charlevoix, will close down about February 1 for approximately two months according to Henry Krebs, manager.

Because of the seasonal nature of the business, the supply of cement in the silos is enough to last through the winter, a time when construction is slow and demand for cement is low Krebs said. No large shipments will be made until spring when the lake shipping season opens.

While the plant is closed, a new clinker cooler, costing about $650,000, will be installed in order to be ready at the start of the season in April, Krebs said. This new unit has a rated capacity for cooling 13,000 barrels of clinker per day, or 12 percent more than the rated capacity of the cooler being replaced, he explained.

The company expects the new equipment to reduce the dust generated from the clinker handling system. In the future the clinker will not have to be handled twice to obtain sufficient cooling.

Repairs and modifications to plant and equipment will also be made during the shutdown. A majority of this winter work will be done by Medusa employees and Krebs said, the company hopes to maintain full employment during this period.

With the installation of the new clinker cooler and other improvements, the company expects to operate the plant successfully at its rated capacity.

Text of the Planning Commission's Report

VFW district meeting here

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, District 13, will hold a winter rally in Charlevoix on February 1 and 2, hosted by Charlevoix Post 1153 and Auxiliary.

Saturday night will feature a square dance at the post home. Sunday there will be officers meeting, a dinner at the post home and a memorial service and meeting in the afternoon.

All members of Post 1153 and Auxiliary are urged to attend.

Lake cargo about same

During 1968, the tonnage of iron ore, coal, grain, and limestone transported over the Great Lakes was remarkably in line with 1967 volume.

The difference was calculated at only 0.23% or approximately 450,000 tons, it was reported by Vice Admiral James A. Hirshfield, president of Lake Carriers' Association.

The aggregate total of 191,947,440 net tons of these commodities was as noted above, nearly equal to 1967 and marked the ninth highest season in history.

Cite importance of water quality

Water Quality

Generally, the quality of both ground and surface water in the Charlevoix Region is excellent. Lake Michigan absorbs the drainage runoff from many thousands of square miles of land area and also receives the industrial and municipal waste loadings from several million people. Despite this situation, Lake Michigan, except in those areas nearest the higher concentrations of population, has remained relatively free from pollution. And, with the increasing concern for pollution control and effects, this lake should remain as one of the nation's finest sources of fresh water.

Much of the above can also be said about the remaining waters of the Charlevoix Region; however, perhaps more care must be exercised with regard to these waters than those of Lake Michigan for, while fewer people and agencies contribute to the pollution of these waters, the susceptibility and possibility of pollution is much greater. One industrial concern, if careless with its waste disposal, or a relatively small number of uncontrolled septic tanks could easily cause pollution of either or both ground and surface water bodies to the extent their natural use and value would be completely destroyed.

It therefore becomes essential that if the Charlevoix Region is to maintain its desirable image as an outstanding example of the "Water Wonderland", extreme care must be taken to assure sound development in areas which will enforce this image.

Ground Water

Ground water is available from both the glacial drift and the water-bearing rock structure found in the region. For the most part, the deeper the well the less chance there is for contamination by surface water; however, except for the area immediately adjacent to Round Lake and the Pine River channel, bedrock appears to be very close to the surface (5 to 30 feet in certain regions), with the result that wells are fairly expensive to install. This is true throughout potential growth areas north of the City of Charlevoix.

Lake Michigan

Lake Michigan, because of its size, is perhaps more akin to an ocean than a lake since it affects many of those forces normally attributed to the ocean upon the land surrounding it. Because of its relationship and importance to the Charlevoix area, a general knowledge of this lake is of relevance.

The surface water temperature ranges from approximately 70 degrees in the summer to a winter low near or below freezing. In early spring and late fall the lake has a practically uniform temperature from surface to bottom of about 40 degrees. This is due to the natural characteristic of water which reaches its maximum density near the 40-degree mark.

This density characteristic causes the warm summer waters to float above the colder and more dense lower water. Similarly, the very cold, but lighter in density, winter waters rise to the surface. Thus, the deep waters of Lake Michigan maintain a temperature of about 40 degrees throughout the year.

A heavy off-shore wind may, in the summer months, push the warm surface water lakeward causing the colder bottom waters to upwell at the shore with the effect that a sudden temperature drop is experienced. This has rather evident implications for swimming.

The surface level of Lake Michigan is subject to continuous change. Currents affect minor variations; true lunar tides cause slight changes (1/2 to 3 inches); and rather substantial changes are caused by marked differences in barometric pressure or by wind blowing in one direction for a considerable time. This latter pehnomenon, termed a "seiche", causes the water to pile up on one end or side of the lake and then return in a fairly violent manner. On occasion, this sudden change in the lake level may be great enough to be quite dangerous.

Perhaps the best known variation in lake levels is the seasonal and relatively long period fluctuations. Generally, there is approximately a one-foot seasonal change from a low in winter to a high in early summer which is superimposed upon longer-term variations. Precipitation in the Lake Michigan watershed, combined with evaporation, diversion and the connecting navigational channel, is mainly responsible for the lake level. In wet periods, such as the early 1950's, it will rise; in dry periods, such as the early 1960's, it will fall.

Inland Waters

The regional economy of the Charlevoix area is, to a large extent, dependent upon the attraction offered by its inland lakes. The importance of these water bodies is evidenced by the demand for lakefront land for seasonal and year-around uses. Additional proof of this importance can be observed by the number of municipalities which have provided marina facilities on Round and Charlevoix lakes.

Results of a retail survey of Charlevoix in July, 1968 indicate that a number of marinas on Round Lake are experiencing substantial summer trade and have expanded operation or indicated a desire to do so in the future.

Round Lake provides an excellent land-locked harbor for all types of craft. The sheltered waters give good anchorage and the City of Charlevoix has furnished outstanding facilities which, combined with those of commercial and private marinas, have established this lake as one of the principal harbors in the northern sector of Lake Michigan.

Development of the shoreline of Round Lake is nearly complete and fortunately has experienced little of the random and conflicting land usage which normally results from unplanned lakefront development. The northern shoreline from the Lake Michigan channel to Lake Charlevoix has developed into a summer resort and year-round residential area of relatively high quality homes. Separated by Charlevoix's central business district, the southern shoreline is predominantly commercial marinas, which extend to Lake Charlevoix and down its western shore. In addition, Round Lake serves as the group headquarters for the Ninth District of the United States Coast Guard, including the only lifeboat station north from Manistee to the Straits of Mackinac, and also including the home port of the Coast Guard Cutter "Sundew".

Besides pleasure and Coast Guard ships, Great Lakes freighters use both Round and Charlevoix lakes to deliver bulk items such as coal and oil to the Charlevoix region. For example, approximately 57,000 tons of coal are shipped during the season to the Northern Michigan Electric Co-op, Inc., at Boyne City. Also, limited commercial fishing is carried out from these waters.

Lake Charlevoix, with the exception of major commercial and residential development near urban centers such as East Jordan and Boyne City, is developed at a much lower density than Round Lake. Although generally in private ownership and outside the Charlevoix region, orderly future development of this vast shoreline of approximately 40 miles will have a significant economic and social impact on the Charlevoix region.

In addition, inland lakes throughout the region provides many acres of existing and potential home, cottage and resort sites as well as space for various recreational activities.

South and central Marion Township was well endowed by glacial action with inland lakes. The growth of tourism has had the same impact on many of these lakes as it had on Lake Charlevoix development. However, overall, small inland lake development will fully blossom after the larger lakes with access to Lake Michigan are developed. Land is still available on many of these small water bodies. A number of these lakes are not suitable for development, however, because of low, swampy shorelines, muddy bottoms or shallow water.

Early development of front lake property on Lake Charlevoix, Round Lake, Lake Michigan and numerous inland lakes in Marion Township, was low density. In the future, development of lake property will of necessity be high density, because obviously the supply cannot continue to meet the demand. High density resort development will generally follow three patterns in the Charlevoix region.

First, condominiums or other high density residential development will replace older, low density summer homes abutting the lake shore.

Second, large tracts of undeveloped land back from shorelines will be developed, with adequate access easements to the water.

Third, land, shoreline and water improvements on previously useless small lakes in the region will become feasible by demand.

Planning for such high density development involves utilities, access, retail goods and services considerations and a multitude of other factors, especially when these new dwellings become more than just summer homes. Year-round occupancy of existing and future residences is occurring at increasing rates in recent years due to new winter sports, new industrial development and retirees who seek the slower, relaxed pace of living offered by the resort area.

Camelot atmosphere at Bachelor cottage

by PAT BEGROW

John Van Haver has a bachelor pad that many men might envy. It is his stone cottage on the grounds of Van Haver Castle, a location which provides him with the double advantage of privacy and proximity to his work.

Van Haver Estate is not simply a tourist showplace for the summer, but a workshop where Van Haver designs, casts and assembles specialized decorator items.

He produces a wide range of products from salad bowls and small sculptures to heavy shipwreck tables and large bronze and wood chandeliers suitable for a hotel lobby. These activities keep Van Haver and his men busy at Van Haven Castle 12 months of the year. In his cottage Van Haver has a drawing board and display area where buyers can see his work.

The cottage was probably the first building erected on the original estate following the close of World War I. In it the contractor lived while supervising the rest of the extensive construction of the main house, stables and auxiliary buildings.

Before Van Haver moved into the stone cottage it was bare. He has since furnished it in keeping with the Camelot atmosphere of Van Haver Castle. He lives there alone except for the company of his two Siamese cats.

In the dining room Van Haver has placed a long massive table with ten of the original 16 matching high hacked chairs. Although the set is medieval in appearance and seems as though it was purchased especially for the present estate Van Haver actually used it in his former home which had a dining room large enough to accommodate the table, 16 chairs and a matching china cupboard.

Van Haver sets the mood for his bachelor pad in the living room where he has placed a polar bear rug squarely in the center. A long modern L-shaped blue couch, burnt orange Saarinen chair and his own shipwreck tables give the room a mannish atmosphere. Sculpture, paintings and heraldic accents abound. Van Haver has an excellent stereo set which gives real depth to his many records of the baroque period.

Van Haver has an extensive library which is dominated by beautifully illustrated books depicting the age of chivalry. Books of castles, armour and furnishings issue a real invitation to read and to escape to Camelot in this appropriate setting of Norman architecture.

JOHN VAN HAVER'S bachelor pad on the old Loeb Farm estate.

A CORNER couch arrangement in brilliant blue compliments the gold carpet. The table is one that Van Haver makes and sells. It is made from shipwreck wood.

THIS LONG table with the beautiful hand carved chairs forms an elegant background for a formal dinner party.

A POLAR BEAR rug guards the entrance of this bachelor living room. Over the fireplace Van Haver has hung one of his original paintings.

IN A CORNER of the living room is an Italian table which is well over 100 years old. On it is a tall figure which Van Haver bought. The others are sculptures created by John Van Haver himself.

Farm Bureau exceeds goal

Lead by Mrs. William Parsons of Norwood Township, the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau was the fourth county in Michigan to make their 1969 membership goal, 281 family members.

Mrs. Parsons reports the group now has 287 members and more are expected.

She attributed this year's success to the hours of volunteer work by the membership committee, the board of directors and others who signed up new members.

Tom Wieland, farmer and county president, said the membership growth indicates an increasing awareness among farm people for the need of a general farm organization.

There is an increasing awareness, he said, of Farm Bureau programs and policies among farmers and that the state's and nation's largest farm organization is accurately representing the modern farmer.

Women make bandages

Six women of the World Missionary Society of The Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. C.J. Fiedler, North Point, for a day of sewing for foreign mission use.

Many bandages were made and rolled. Squares for pads were cut, shirts were fashioned into white hospital gowns and plans were made to make small dresses for poor children in countries of hot climates.

A potluck was included at noon.

The women participating included Mrs. May Barror, Mrs. James Fiedler, Mrs. Rena Lombard, Mrs. George Otto, and Mrs. Erwin Smalley.

Eighth graders to present best science exhibits

Charlevoix eighth graders will present their Science Fair Tuesday, Feb. 11, from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Elementary School gym.

According to Junior High science teacher Duane Bolduc, more than 75 exhibits in biological, physical and earth science, prepared by more than 100 students, will be on public display.

The best exhibits will be selected for entry in the Regional Science Fair at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, April 4 and 5.

Exhibits will be judged on creativeness, scientific thought, thoroughness, skill, clarity and dramatic value. Judges will be teachers and community representatives.

The winners will be announced at 8:30 the night of the fair.

Library Notes

The Library recently received two unusual and generous contributions from Mrs. Rose Bergmann.

"A Pictorial History of the American Theatre: One Hundred Years" by Daniel Blum, is a large, handsome edition which presents our theatrical heritage from 1860 to 1960. All of the legendary "greats" of the last half century are pictured in their most famous roles. There is also a review of the beginnings of theatre in America up to the Civil War with a complete index of actors and plays. There are over 5,000 pictures in this panorama of the American stage.

The author, Daniel Blum, is known throughout the world for his pictorial books on the theatre, the movies and the opera. An inveterate playgoer, he has seen all the important plays produced in this country in the past 45 years.

Anyone who loves the theatre will enjoy browsing through this magnificent volume and remembering the great days of the past.

The second handsome volume contributed by Mrs. Bergmann is "The Movies" by Richard Griffith and Arthur Mayer. This enormous book with over 400 pages is the 60-year story of the world of Hollywood and its effect on America from pre-nickelodeon days to the present, told with 1,000 pictures. It is unusual for a book of this dimension to be as penetrating and informative as well as entertaining. Many of the pictures have never been published before. They come from private collections, from the archives of the movie companies and from the Museum of Modern Art Film Library. From "Fatima", the sensation of the penny arcade to Marilyn Monroe, from "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to Harold Lloyd and Chaplin--from "The Big Parade" and "Ben-Hur" to "Dracula" and "Frankenstein -- all of the old favorites are here.

The book was written by two men who probably know more than anybody about the movies. Richard Griffith is Curator of Films for New York's Museum of Modern Art, and has worked with films for more than 30 years. Arthur Mayer is one of the best-known and best-informed member of the movie industry. The result of their collaboration is a soundly researched history as rich in memories as a family album.

"The World of Musical Comedy," by Stanley Green is another book which will interest anyone who enjoys reading about the Performing Arts. There is a foreward by Deems Teylor. There are chapters on Victor Herbert, George M. Cohan, Rudolph Friml, Sigmund Romberg, Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, to mention a few. The book tells the story of the careers of the most significant composers and lyricists in the world of musical comedy. For those who believe that a good song is a good song, this entertaining and informative book is highly recommended.

To compliment the books on the theater and stage, the library has several LP and Stereo records which may be taken out on loan. "New Girl in Town" is recorded with the original cast, and "Silk Stockings," with music and lyrics by Cole Porter is also an original cast recording featuring Hildegarde Neff and Don Ameche. The popular and delightful "Fiddler on the Roof" by Zero Mostel is a recording with the original Broadway cast.

E-J Chamber

The East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce Annual Dinner Meeting will be held Thursday, January 30, at 6:30 p.m. in the American Legion Hall.

Guest speaker for the evening will be James A. Powell, native of Toledo, Ohio and a member of the National Federation of Independent Businesses.

Slash interest rate on low-income homes

Charlevoix County low-income families have a greater chance now than ever before to become homeowners as a result of the new federal interest supplement plan on home loans, according to Ernest Schuette, local representative of the Farmers Home Administration.

Schuette said the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 makes it possible for the federal government to apply an interest supplement payment to rural housing loans made to low-income rural families that will lower the cost of buying a house.

The interest supplement plan on rural housing loans will be administered through the FHA, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's credit agency.

Under the interest supplement plan, Schuette said, families earning as little as $3,000 annually could possibly qualify for as much as an $8,000 loan to buy a site and construct a house.

The new plan allows for interest supplements to reduce the payment of interest on housing loans to as low as one percent.

"This new plan," Schuette said, "will be extremely helpful in removing substandard housing in Charlevoix County."

The actual supplement a family receives will depend on the owner's income and number of people in the household.

A minimum requirement is that a borrower who does not have enough to pay his loan installment in full will pay at least the amount that would be due if the interest rate were 1 percent.

For example a family with five children and an annual gross income of $3,000 would receive an interest supplement of $222 a year on an $8,000 rural housing loan.

The family would receive as an interest supplement the difference between their annual scheduled note, $508 (principal and interest), and their annual installment if it were figured at 1 percent, $286.

In this example, the family's monthly payments of principal and interest on an $8,000 loan amortized over 33 years would be approximately $24.

Schuette said Farmers Home Administration would review interest supplement agreements every two years with borrowers. If necessary, supplements will be adjusted at renewal time, based on the borrower's income and family size.

Another feature of the new act is an interest supplement on loans to develop nonprofit rental and cooperative housing for low-income people.

Lower payments by the sponsor of the housing project as a result of the interest supplement are to be translated into lower rents for the tenants.

Other major provisions of the new housing measure include:

--Financial support for self-help housing projects.

--Loans for the purchase of building sites for farm-labor housing.

--Housing and training facilities for rural job trainees and their families.

--Expended housing credit for lower income city people who work in rural areas.

Farmers Home Administration rural housing loans are made to applicants who are unable to obtain the required credit from other sources.

Further information on the interest supplement plan can be obtained at the Farmers Home Administration in the Bellaire Office Plaza Building, 110 Grove Street, Bellaire.

County Conservation unit approves action

The Charlevoix County Resource Conservation Development Committee met recently in East Jordan to organize for its activities and to act on action measure proposals submitted to them.

Present were John Wieland, R-2 Charlevoix (chairman); Mrs. Ted Kotowich, 208 Esterly, East Jordan (vice chairman); absent-Fred Leslie, Consumers Power Company Boyne City (sec.-treas.).

This committee is one of 13 county steering committees representing the newly established Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation Development District which consists of Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Missaukee, Wexford, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Manistee, Lake, Mason, Osceola counties.

This N.W.M.R.C. & D. district is jointly sponsored by the soil conservation districts and county board of supervisors of each member county. This is an area involving over 4,000,000 acres with similar resources, problems and opportunities.

The Charlevoix County steering committee reviewed and approved the following action measure proposals at their meeting.

Application from the Charlevoix County Road Commission requesting financial and technical assistance for road and ditch bank stabilization.

Aplication from the city of Boyne City requesting financial assistance for separating storm from sanitary sewer.

Application from the Boyne City planning commission requesting financial assistance to hire professional planners to develop a comprehensive plan.

Application from agriculture stabilization conservation service committee requesting assistance in locating a tile drainage contractor to service Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Grand Traverse counties.

Application from the A.S.C.S. committee requesting additional conservation funds for their 1969 ACP program.

Application from Boyne Valley Lions club, Boyne City, requesting financial assistance for medical center.

Application from Boyne Valley Lions club, Boyne City requesting soils information regarding site suitability for medical center building.

Application from "Save the Jordan" committee requesting financial assistance for a study to help determine a set of standards and to develop a program to combat pollution in the Jordan River watershed.

These approved proposals will be submitted by the committee to the N.W.M.R.C. & D district steering committee which consists of one member from each of the 13 member county committee, for their action. Approved referrals will then be referred to state and federal agencies having facilities to assist the sponsoring groups in carring out their development projects.

The main objective of the N.W.M.R.C. & D district is to assist local people in developing their human and natural resources. The program can include projects dealing with land use planning, water pollution control, stream bank stabilization and sediment control, river basin studies, industrial development, improved housing, waste disposal plants and water distribution systems, recreational developments and many others.

Individuals, organizations, groups, desiring assistance in undertaking resource development projects should contact steering committee members, Charlevoix Soil Conservation District directors, or U.S. Soil Conservation Service Federal Building, Boyne City.

Grimm gets title, not job change

Bill Grimm, U.S. Soil Conservation Service leader in Emmet & Charlevoix Counties, is having his title changed from Soil Conservation Service Work Unit Conservationist to Soil Conservation Service District Conservationist.

Since the basis of Soil Conservation Service programs has been providing technical assistance to landowners, many of whom are members of their local soil and water conservation districts, the new title - District Conservationist - will more accurately reflect his duties and contacts with the public.

But Soil Conservation Service technical assistance in both Counties is not restricted to landowners belonging to the Emmet & Charlevoix Soil Conservation Districts. Soil Conservation Service technicians can work with any landowners who have natural resource problems and who want to receive and will apply proper resource conservation information and practices to their lands.

Soil Conservation Service District Conservationist Bill Grimm and his staff members, Ray Weiss, are headquartered at Federal Bldg., Boyne City, Mich.

Grandvue Report

New admittances include: Mary Greene of Beaver Island, on January 15th, and Mary Lemieur of Charlevoix on January 16th. Discharges include Glenn Maxson to Little Traverse Hospital on January 6th and Peter Johnston to Charlevoix Hospital on January 14th. Deaths: Christian Loomis, January 8th and Mary Lemieur, January 23rd.

The monthly meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Social Welfare was January 22nd, with Mrs. Jewell Bryan, Rev. George Majors, Richard Tillen, Vern Whiteford, and Mrs. Hilda Watkins attending.

Rev. George Majors, Rev. Ferris, Rev. Manson, Rev. Krake, Rev. Harris, and Vern Whiteford attended a Ministerial Meeting at the Facility on January 21st.

Several employees have been ill and in the hospital. Those hospitalized include Bertha Webster, Emma Rowley and Myrtle Nyland.

Visitors recently included: Mrs. Mary Mullor, diet consultant from Mancelona, Mr. Stanley Mack, Blue Cross representative; Mrs. Evelyn Bade, and Mr. Battjes, Travelers Insurance Company, Grand Rapids.

On January 21st, Mrs. Hilda Watkins and Mrs. Irene Bohling attended a meeting in Gaylord.

A birthday party for those patients having January birthdays was held by the American Legion Auxiliary of Charlevoix on January 23rd. In charge of the party were Mrs. Evva Smith, Mrs. Ethel Pearsall, Mrs. Esther Shearer, Mrs. Josephine Worner, and Mrs. Lyda Johnson.

We received a card from Dr. VanDellen, who is on a round-the-world tour. The card was mailed from Singapore, and Dr. VanDellen status he is having a wonderful time and is taking many pictures. He will return to East Jordan around the first of February.

Lynn Dunson, Kay Chew, and Charlene Bronnan have started employment here at the Facility recently.

The big snowstorm of January 9th and 10th kept several employees away from work on the 10th, and resulted in some spending the night here because of bad roads.

IF YOU WOULD BE BEAUTIFUL - - -

A beautiful, flower-bordered walk doesn't just happen. It requires skillful planning. Nor does the planning cease with the completion of the walk. If it is to remain a thing of beauty the flower beds must be planned and prepared in advance so as to provide blooming flowers throughout the growing season. It requires constant care.

A beautiful character, as the walk, doesn't just happen. Sometimes it may be found in environment and family surroundings that makes one wonder how it all came about, but investigation will usually reveal that some powerful influence helped make that character what it is.

A beautiful character can be made by planning and training and the church must not be overlooked in this training for such a character. If you would be like some lovable person you know and would have your children possess the same kind of character DON'T OVERLOOK THE CHURCH!

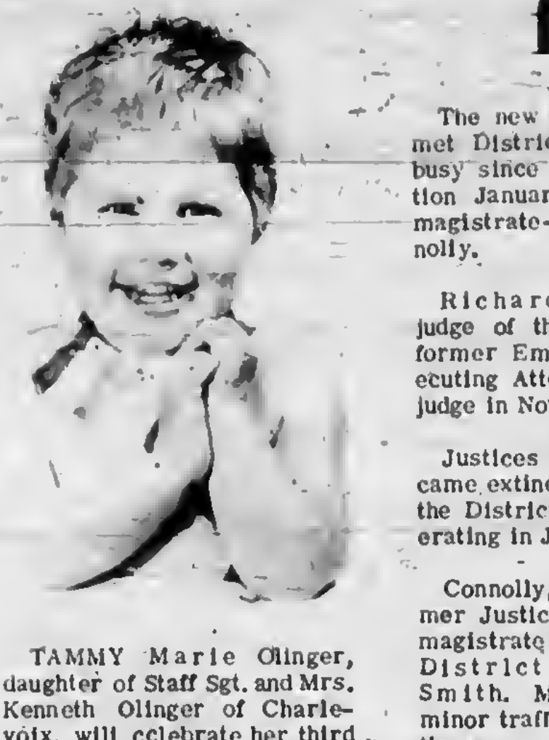
WALTER SCOTT celebrated his 88th birthday last week, January 20, with four grandchildren and eight great grandchildren at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Scott. He lives at 410 Antrim St. and is a lifelong Charlevoix resident.

Cakes 'n Candles

CHRISTOPHER Anderen, son of Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Andersen of Petoskey, was three years old January 22. He is the grandson of Mrs. Edna Andersen and Mr. and Mrs. C.G. Riley of Charlevoix.



TAMMY Marie Olinger, daughter of Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Kenneth Olinger of Charlevoix, will celebrate her third birthday January 30. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Brady of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Olinger of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Her great grandmother is Mrs. May Smith of Charlevoix.

New District Court finds busy schedule

The new Charlevoix - Emmet District Court has been busy since it went in operation January 1, according to magistrate-clerk - John Connolly.

Richard Wayne Smith is judge of the new court. The former Emmet County Prosecuting Attorney was elected judge in November.

Justices of the Paace became extinct in Michigan when the District Court began operating in January.

Connolly, Charlevoix's former Justice, was appointed a magistrate and clerk in the District Court system by Smith. Magistrates handle minor traffic matters in which the accused person pleads guilty and minor financial complaints.

Under the District Court, fees are not paid to the judge or magistrate, as they were in Justice Court.

Charlavoix County cases handled by Smith include:

Charles Schroder, Boyne City, creating a disturbance, $23; Robert Lee Carson, 20, Boyne Falls, minor in possession, $50; Randall James, 18, Boyne Falls, minor in possession, $50; John Titsworth, Boyne City, furnishing alcoholic beverage to a minor, $75; Elmer A. Engelhart, 25, Charlevoix, driving with a revoked license, $35 and three days in jail; James E. McCleese, Boyne City, assault and battery and disorderly person, $50 and 20 days in jail; Gary Forliner, 27, Charlevoix, creating a disturbance in a public place, $15; Larry L. Sterzik, plead not guilty to speeding and his case was continued to a latar data; Richard York, 41, Mt. Clamens, disorderly person, $23 fine and $70 restitution; John E. Vrondran, 22, East Jordan, forgery, bond of $1,000 furnished.

Cases handled by Connolly are:

Edward Rowe, 63, Harbor Springs, driving left of center, $18; Charles Carey, 22, Charlevoix, careless driving, $23; Robert Anzell, 17, Boyne City, stop sign violation, $23; Raymond Pichl, 54, Petoskey, speeding, $18; Thomas Wanek, 26, Ironton, failure to yield right-of-way, $18; Paul Kelly, 18, Charlevoix, expired driver's license, $13; Richard D. Bennett, 31, Charlevoix, speeding, $13.

Hunter's memories

IN THE OPEN
By Lae Smits

In a small ornamental spruce in Bill Whyte's nursery at Gaylord a chipping sparrow built her nest. The spruce, its roots enclosed in a burlap bag, is watered every day. The chipping sparrow enjoys a shower bath.

Somehow a cowbird got into the nursery, laid an egg in the sparrow's nest, as reported in The North Woods Call. Bill Whyte removed the cowbird's egg to give the brook of song sparrows a chance to survive. (Cowbird invasion is a major problem in preserving one of the rarest birds in North America -- Michigan's jackpine warbler.)

In the sama general region, Jay Keyser found four fledgling crows on the highway--mysteriously orphaned. He took them home and found human foster parents for them.

Such incidents are evidence of the complexity of human nature. A man will spend a lot of time and money, undergo physical hardship, to kill a bear, a moose, wild turkeys, geese and then sit up nights feeding a motherless raccoon with an eyedropper.

There is no predator more rapacious than a sub-teen-age kid. Many years ago there was a kid who found outlet for his killer instinct by catching fish. The kid was sunning himself on a two-plank dock on an inland lake when he spotted a sunfish guarding its spawning bed. A small turtle came paddling by and was pursued by the sunfish. The turtle retreated in a hurry.

When the kid dipped his hand in the water, a foot or so from the spawning bed, the sunfish actually attacked his fingers. Sunfish watching became a daily event for the kid. He had found something more exciting than catching fish and as time went on and the kid grew up and finally old, he got more and more enjoyment just watching living creatures.

A kid obsessed by fishing finally adds guns to fishing gear. He "reduces to possession" various forms of wildlife, and takes pride and satisfaction in so doing.

More years go by, and while still all in favor of reasonable harvesting of wildlife, he cares less and less about taking part in the killing process. Let others do the harvesting. He enjoys the sight of a duck or a grouse protecting her brook by pretending to be crippled; a bear chasing her cub up a tree and hanging around with hostile intention toward a human trespasser; a pileated woodpecker whacking chunks out of a dead pine; a blacksnake taking in the sun on a flat rock; a city fox squirrel weaving a nest of twigs.

In what is known as the Arizona desert sportsmen have discovered water-hole watching. To a midwasterner "desert" implies an expanse of scorching sand. Actually the Arizona desert is habitat for a marvelous variety of plants and animals. A water-hole watcher may be rewarded by a band of javelina, tough little wild pigs also called peccaries. Mule deer, jackrabbits, cottontails, quail, doves, rattlesnakes, gila monsters, vultures, golden eagles, pack rats and numerous other species are possibilities, including the fantastic chaparral bird or road runner, which is reputed to kill rattlesnakes.

Let a hunter take inventory of what he has downed, bagged, hung up and chances are he will behold, on the screen of his memory, in living color, mammals, birds, fish -- even insects--free and intact.

Like--early spring, bright day, flocks of 18 whistling swan on the Canadian side of the Detroit River. Sneed Witte calls, the swans answer, circle, set their wings, coming within 50 yards, sunlight on snowy plumage. Finally alarmed, the great birds ascend with fast wing strokes and fly down toward Lake Erie, still calling. As long as memory endures, there they are against the sky.

of the recreation centar. It is hoped modest fees charged for the facility's use would pay operational costs.

Members of the Kiwanis committee headed by Anders and Hamilton are Clem Wagner, Vane Smith and Charles England.

The $100,000 tentative cost of the facility, the committee explained, appears realistic because several industrialists and service concerns have offered materials and labor to hold costs down.

Both Hamilton and Anders said they are seeking a site for the pool building. Anders said the club wants to see the pool built on a centrally located downtown site. Several locations, including near the new elementary school baing built on Division Ave. are being studied, he said.

A survey of Charlevoix school children taken last week reportedly showed that 57% of students in gradas kindergarten through saventh cannot swim and 33% of those in grades eight through twelve cannot swim.

Hamilton, who has been pushing for a community swimming pool for 20 years, this week pointed out in the Kiwanis Club's newsletter -- the Kiwanis Kourier -- that there are 147 days before local children will again be able to swim in the lakes.

Though Charlevoix is generously blessed with lakes and public beaches, advocates of an indoor swimming pool point out tha water is warm enough for swimming only about two months of the year.

JVs fall to Rogers City

Charlevoix's little Rayders failed to get things clicking Friday as they lost 75-50 to Rogers City's JVs.

The Charlevoix JVs got off to a bad start, dropping behind 13-9 in the first period. During the second period things started looking brighter as the Rayder JVs poured 19 points through the hoop, with the halftime score coming out 29-28 in Rogers City's favor.

But by the end of the third quarter Rogers City was again in control of the game, with a 50-38 lead. In the final period Rogers City scored 25 points.

Leading the Rayder attack was Bill Carey with 13 points. Close behind was Larry Potter with 11. Others scoring were Tom Bergmann and Ron Bindi with seven each; Bob Vreeland, 6; Dave Swanson, 4, and Tim Carey, 2.

Officials called 27 fouls on Charlevoix to 15 on Rogers City. Charlevoix missed 15 free throws and scored ten. Rogers City missed 22 and scored 15.

Ward hits for 21

Rayders squeeze by R-C

With Don Ward hitting his best pace of the season, the Red Rayders Friday squeaked by Rogers City 63-57.

Kraag Lieberman, the pace setter in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference until he injured his ankle several weeks ago, was still showing signs of his injury Friday. He scored only four points.

The Hurons edged ahead of Charlevoix 18-17 in the first quarter. At halftime the Rayders held a slim five-point edge, 44-39. When the third quarter ended the Rayders were out-front 57-48.

Bruce Meggison backed Ward up with 18 points. Stewart Coleman added another ten for the Rayder cause.

Others scoring were Bob DeYoung with four and Paul Fiedorek, Don Livingston and Vic Kantola with two each.

The Rayders missed nine free throws while scoring on 15. The Hurons missed 11 free throws and hit on 15.

Sixteen fouls were called on the Huron to 18 on Charlevoix.

Rayders face weaker league teams during their next three contests

The Charlevoix Red Rayders, fresh from a convincing 63-57 win over Rogers City can look forward to a three week breather against some of the so called "weaker" sisters on the schedule.

Friday night they face TCSF, the following Tuesday they go against Boyne City, and then the next Friday it will be Alpena Catholic.

Now at 4-5, the Rayders will be looking for a break in their schedule, and attempt to better the .500 status before the tournaments.

Although this looks good on paper, the Red Rayder camp won't be taking things for granted. TCSF comes to Charlevoix fresh from consecutive losses to Boyne City, Rogers City, and Petoskey, and can't be all that bad.

Don Ward finally got in shape over the weekend, tossing in 21 points, and with the rest of the Charlevoix boys in gear, St. Francis will continue to slip.

All eyes will be focused on the outcome of the Gaylord-St. Ignace clash at St. Ignace. The Saints are still undefeated, and highly ranked in the polls, and with Leo Donovan, they are the "untouchables." It's going to be a battle between Gaylord's Tom Johnson and Rick Catt against Leo Donovan. The bridge fare may have went down, but the Saints are still rising. St. Ignace beats Gaylord, their last obstacle, and goes on to win the conference title by a hair.

Petoskey continues to feast on weaker foes, and is now averaging over 80 points a game. The Cheboygan Chiefs at 3-5 will offer little resistance in stopping Dick Swenor and company. Last week we called the shot in saying Petoskey would hit the century mark, but this week they will find trouble hitting 80. Watch for the Northmen to win, but for some crazy ideal, it could be pretty close.

Boyne City will be looking for its second straight victory when they face the Alpena Catholic team on the Boyne court. Both teams are at the bottom of the standings, and most observers feel that Boyne should be in better shape then they are. Take a heed of warning you Alpena boys, perhaps you better think twice before coming to Boyne country. Boyne did it before, and they will do it again, by nearly the same score.

Rogers City takes a night off from conference action to step out of its class when they play Alpena. After playing all those schools in southern Michigan, it will be like frosting for the Wildcats.

Oh no, from out of the frying pan, and into the fire. We see on the schedule that Rogers City will have to face Petoskey the next night. Perhaps the only consolation the Hurons can make out of this one is playing on their home court, and getting home by ten o'clock. Would Petoskey smash the Hurons like they did before. As Clare Bond of WJML would say, "You betchum, Charlie."

The following Tuesday we see the Red Rayders playing a home contest against Boyne City. Charlevoix won the first match, 56-43, and will probably take the second encounter too, but what can heal the wounds from the year before. That old saying still lingers in my mind---you may be able to beat a team twice during the regular season, but. . . How often does it happens!

Charlevoix's junior varsity defeated Petoskey's JVs 77-67 last Tuesday.

The Little Rayders, with Larry Potter pouring in 23 points, moved to a one-point, 15-14, first period lead and slowly widened the margin to 37-34 at halftime and 58-51 at the end of the third quarter.

Bill Carey scored 18 points. Ron Bindi hit for 13 and Dave Swanson added 12 for the JVs. Others scoring were Tim Carey with 5, Robert Vreeland and Tom Bergmann each had 3 points.

The Rayder JVs won on field goals, scoring 29 to Petoskey's 24. Each team scored 19 free throws. Charlevoix missed 18 free throws and Petoskey missed 22.

Twenty-nine fouls were called on Charlevoix to 24 on Petoskey.

Flu bugs Lancers in first 2 losses

ELLSWORTH -- The once mighty Ellsworth Lancers, now 7-2 for the season, were knocked down a peg or two this past weekend by Boyne Falls, Suttons Bay, and enemy No. 1, the flu.

Top point getter, Denny Drenth, and cohort, Randy Ruis missed the Boyne Falls game, and the Loggers pulled the upset win, 64-56.

To top it all off, the next night they lost the rescheduled game with Suttons Bay, 92-63, despite the return of Denny Drenth, who netted 32 points.

So on it will be to Gaylord, where they face the questionable Snowbirds. The "crippled" Snowbirds dropped a league tilt to Inland Lakes, 56-41; their first loss ever to the Bobcats. But on the next night, the Snowbirds were back in their winning ways by trimming Johannesburg, 65-56, and thanks to 6-4 freshman upstart, Rick Holewinski.

The Lancers are sitting pretty comfortable, due mainly to the fact that they have already clobbered the Snowbirds by 20 points in their first meeting. But, the game is in Gaylord, that will add at least 10 points to that deficit. The Lancers, must be considered favorites, but don't count your chickens before they hatch, Denny Drenth will be faced by a tough defensive player in Bill Peterson, and it could make a big difference in the score.

Central Lake will have to be at their best when they go to Inland Lakes this weekend. In the last meeting, the Trojans edged by Inland Lakes, 49-45 as Ralph Payton blasted in 29 points. Both teams have 2-3 league records, and anything can happen. Lets, see, as the fog clears from my crystal ball, I see a bobcat clawing on the back of a large wooden horse. . .

Suttons Bay will be playing host to Bellaire, and should win with ease. Al Mebert has returned into the Bays line-up, and thats worth 10-15 points a game, Suttons Bay will be counting the days until they play at Ellsworth.

The following Tuesday two Ski Valley teams again step out of the conference to play non-league foes. Gaylord St. Mary will be looking for their sixth win of the season at Atlanta, while Central Lake plays at Vanderbilt.

Hungry friends

A hundred, or more, hungry ducks swarm around Charlevoix commercial fisherman Jake White on the ice at the city's commercial dock as he gives them a generous handout of corn.

The ducks have been congregating in the open water in the channel into Round Lake. If the channel freezes they will move to the Jordan River, White speculates.

However, as long as they are here White will continue to feed them, along with several other Round Lake duck fanciers.

The ducks seem to literally ignore White as they move around within a few feet of him busily eating his corn.

Six members of the Weekly Club enjoyed the afternoon Wednesday as guests in the new home of Mrs. Effie Arthur.

Scott Cooper is at home entertaining the mumps and has the sympathy of all that has had them.

Our nice spring weather and sunshine last week really made several inches of snow disappear only to get ready for more but not too bad when we think and hear about the snow and heavy rains they are trying to endure other places we still feel this is a mighty fine place to live.

Several members attended the annual Church Meeting this Sunday afternoon. There will be another meeting at 3:30 Sunday February 9. We will look forward to seeing everyone there.

Don Anders on 60-day sub duty

Machinist Mate Second Class Don R. Anders, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don J. Anders of 102 Avlo St., Charlevoix, is a member of the Gold crew aboard the world's first nuclear powered fleet ballistic missile submarine USS George Washington.

The submarine departed its advance base in Holy Loch, Scotland, and will remain submerged on station for approximately 60 days.

To provide relief of crewmen the Navy had adopted the two crew system. The Gold crew, upon returning to Holy Loch, will be relieved by the Blue crew for another patrol while the Gold crew enjoys rest and relaxation prior to a six week training period for their next patrol.

Obituary

Mrs. Mary Lemieur

Services for Mrs. Mary J. Lemieur, 88, who died Thursday, Jan. 23, at Grandvue Medical Facility, in East Jordan where she had been a patient for one week, were held Jan. 25 from St. Mary's Church. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The rosary was recited Friday at the Winchester Funeral home.

Born Mary Allard on March 8, 1880, she lived here since childhood.

Mr. Lemieur preceded her in death.

Mrs. Lemieur was a member of St. Mary's Church and its Altar Society.

She is survived by one son, Roswell Williams, of Charlevoix; a daughter, Mrs. Eva Shea, of St. Paul, Kansas; two grandsons and four great grandchildren.

Local

Willard Pischner arrived home in Charlevoix after a trip on the Mackinaw Islander which began October 2. The boat was taken to Seattle where it will be rebuilt for fishing crabs in the Aleutian Islands.

We cared enough to act on dope

DOPE has been (and maybe still is being) used by Charlevoix teenagers. To everyone's dismay, the police and courts have proven this.

Since two young people were arrested and last week admitted their guilt to possessing marihuana people have been wanting to know why? how? and who? These are natural questions. But, for the most part, ones we hope are never publicly answered.

Rather than expose every teenager who has experimented with the stuff to the public, we hope the police will efficiently find out who they are and have a serious talk with their parents and school officials. Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varnum assures us this is being done.

According to Varnum the names of all "users" have been given to police. Police are calling on each individual family. The reception from parents, we are told, has been appreciative. It should be!

In some cases the guilty children have only had a few puffs on a marihuana cigarette. In others they have smoked two or three of the cigarettes. In a few, of course, the kids have become regular smokers.

The Courier remains at a loss to understand why our young people would even consider trying marihuana.

We can understand them resisting the ways of their parents. We cannot claim that the last two or three generations of Americans have had the right answers.

But that doesn't explain experimenting with narcotics. There are other ways to get kicks. For instance, mountain climbing, ski jumping, high speed skiing, parachuting, skin diving. Or just plain hard work.

If these youngsters are dissatisfied with conditions in the world they must face responsibility for taking over--as we were told at a PTA meeting--shouldn't they be studying politics, constitutional law, etc. so that they can bring about reforms? Smoking pot isn't going to make the world a better place.

Perhaps much of the blame for our childrens' experimenting with marihuana rests with newspapers and magazines. Too frequently, in our opinion, we see published reports to the effect that marihuana is not harmful. These reports, we note, are based on clinical observations, not the real life experiences of youngsters who have taken the bait.

A portion of the blame, we also feel, is the school's. How often and effectively are the educational materials available on the use of narcotics shown to children? Not often enough or effectively enough, obviously. The program, complete with movies, should start somewhere in the elementary grades.

At this point we feel Charlevoix school administrators have some real soul searching to do. Back in November we heard Supt. Rex Milligan pooh pooh the possibility marihuana was being used here. An attack originating at the school was aimed at the Courier for publicly making such a suggestion.

Now we know how tragically wrong Milligan was. He should feel responsible for knowing more about what is going on in the school he runs.

Another big part of the blame falls on parents--though this does not minimize the responsibility of school and newspapers.

The Courier cannot tell parents what they should do to make sure their children do not become involved in such adventures. We simply do not have the answers. For the sake of our own children--and yours--we desperately wish we did.

Now what about the police? Are they partially responsible? We find it hard to pin down any way in which the police are at fault. Even this late in the game the Courier is contacted by more parents and teenagers with information on marihuana than the police are. We cannot say that policemen can earn the confidence of children while they are enforcing laws.

Charlevoixians can be proud of their community's handling of its first serious encounter with big city corruption.

We cannot believe that other communities similar to Charlevoix do not have the same problem. Yet how many of these other communities -- including some in our area--are concerned enough about their children to make such a thing a public issue?

Charlevoixians cared enough to expose their problems and demand and get action. Citizens in other communities sweep such matters under the rug and shrug them off. In Charlevoix we care too much to do this. And, in the long run, we can only hope our children recognize and appreciate this.

Democracy does job on Bells Bay

CHARLEVOIX citizens and, belatedly, the Dept. of Natural Resources earn our applause for the way they handled the proposal to lease a major piece of our only remaining undeveloped public lands for a limestone quarry.

We cannot recall Charlevoixians ever being so unanimously united. We'll bet we could get more of an argument over the merits of motherhood than we got from any Charlevoixian favoring the lease plan. We simply did not find anyone who wanted to see the 194 acres of Bells Bay area State Forest land turned into a quarry.

And, as is par for the course in Charlevoix, citizens stood up for what they believe. More than a hundred packed the small Community Room of City Hall for the January 17 public hearing. John Michael turned more than 20 pages of petition signatures over to the state.

State officials could have left Charlevoix after the public hearing with only one impression: Open rebellion would break out if quarrying begins at Bells Bay.

Yet while leaving this impression, citizens handled themselves with decorum. There were no outbursts of anger or shouting.

Much of this may be due to John Michael's thorough and factual presentation of the facts as Charlevoixians see the matter. When Michael was done speaking most of us were satisfied that our sentiments were expressed far better than we could express them.

Our vanishing lake shoreline

With the furor pretty much settled over our near tragedy at Bells Bay, shouldn't we be looking at the future?

The proposal that some 200 acres of Bells Bay State Forest land be leased for quarrying made many of us realize for the first time how few acres of natural playground remain for Charlevoixians. The 454 acres of State Forest land at Bells Bay is really all we have left that we can claim as "ours."

To the south of Bells Bay is a nearly two mile stretch of wild beach before you come to Clipperview subdivision. This property, generally called the "fisherman's island land," belongs to a downstate developer -investor whose intent is to profitably develop it or sell it to a developer. So that piece will be gone soon.

To the north just about every bit of beach is now developed. Only a few short open sections remain, and they are sure to be developed in the near future.

We (the public) have no right to complain about this. The owners of private land have every right to legally develop them for a profit.

What we should be doing is booting ourselves for not seeing what was happening sooner and making sure we preserve what little we have left.

Remember only four or five years ago when it was a common sight to see a Charlevoix boy trudging along the beach toward South Point with a shotgun and a dog? Often as not you could watch these youngsters return a few hours later with a rabbit, or maybe two, and the flushed cheeks that tell you he's doing what boys should be doing.

Here in our share of the north country this is no longer possible. Today a boy who wants to enjoy hunting or shooting cannot walk a few blocks out of town and be in the boonies.

Now it is an afternoon, or all-day, project to walk out to the nearest block of undeveloped public hunting land. Maybe you're not, but I'm convinced boys grow into better men when they feel the outdoors is "just down the street."

To preserve our remaining share of the outdoors we should begin looking at how it can best be used.

Last year more than 4,000 camper days were recorded at the 23 Bells Bay campsites. Thousands upon thousands of unreported hours were enjoyed in the area by people who came to hike, hunt, snowmobile, look for Petoskey stones, picnic or just nature gaze.

State Forester Jack Lockwood of Boyne City and former Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach have suggested that a group picnic area be developed in a part of the area the state proposed to lease to Medusa.

The demand for additional camping sites is great. Not all of them need to be on the beach. Campers would enjoy setting up their tents in the forested area back from the lake.

Several possibilities for nature trails have been studied. Work on them should begin this spring . . . and they should be well used by school groups as well as vacationers and local families.

The practicality of developing a launching area for small boats in favorable weather should be studied. This need be nothing elaborate. Maybe only something where a cartop boat can easily be launched by hand with parking space nearby. Bigger boats can be launched at the city's facilities.

The lake trout fishing off South Point and Fisherman's island is going to start attracting attention this or next summer. Coho may also school in the area off Bells Bay.

Things like the launching area and nature trail might best be projects for civic groups. The Garden Club is already working on the nature trail. Maybe the Rod and Gun Club would like to try its hand at a community project like the launching ramp.

Cooperation between the city, Charlevoix Township and state built the 23 campsites. Maybe we can get things moving again to develop a few more campsites and the day picnic area.--Shep.

Who really booted LBJ out?

By BERNARD EDELMAN

(From the Birmingham Eccentric)

President Johnson's decision not to seek re-election had its real roots more than a generation ago in war-time America. Women left their household chores behind and flocked to airplane and munitions plants to give Uncle Sam and the boys a helping hand -- and to make some extra money. Rosie the Riveter, clad in coveralls, became the symbol of the ladies' war effort on the homefront.

But what was happening on the true home front -- the place that mothers were leaving for several hours each day? Women began to work as a war-time urgency, but the practice became a way of life in the post war years.

Some mothers liked the new freedom and parents generally found excuses to be away from home for long periods.

The result: no one was home to guide and discipline the children. No one was around to say, "Stop, you can't do that."

A sharp increase in the divorce rate is part of the price we are paying for this condition of "freedom." The ultimate price -- the effect on our children -- will never be fully paid.

THE CHILDREN who were ignored and rejected for a quarter century are now throwing a collective massive tantrum. We see it in the grade schools where much of the teachers' time is spent maintaining order in the classroom. We see it in the high schools where youngsters are demanding a voice in administrative decisions -- and often getting it. No one here is saying "Stop, you cannot do this."

We see it happening in the colleges, where students cockily take over campus buildings and defy any authority to move them out.

We see it in city streets where young children join in rioting with a glee and abandon once characteristic of games on a school playground.

YOUNG PEOPLE have rebelled against the lack of love and attention in their family lives.

The rebellion first took the form of opposition to parents. Many parents took the easy way out and closed their eyes.

Then the children turned their resistance to teachers and, again, it has been allowed to go too far. Now, almost any form of authority is a target of youth's reaction. Still no one says, "Stop, we will not permit this kind of behavior."

The "abuse" of protest -- protest without responsibility is becoming a way of life among many young people.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON well knows the corrosive energy that exists in the reaction of these young people. For his position on Vietnam (and for a good many less significant reasons), youth took on the President. Their weapons left their mark.

They heckled him, they booed his cabinet members, they abused his office and title and they smeared the man in a way that would win the envy of the most unprincipled politicians in history.

It is wrong to condemn the motives of all the young people who participate in the attack on the President. Some of them are informed and conscientious. But many go along for the rather dubious fun of attacking symbols of authority or because they want only to undermine the existing way of life without offering an alternative that would be any improvement.

AS A MATTER of fact, few are capable of properly directing their own lives.

The youth reaction movement is growing. It is frightening to make such a prediction, but I can foresee a time when some great emotional issue or event will weld together the youth of the world in a frenzied demonstration of violence against order.

Today's behavior of the youth, if allowed to continue, will one day build up the power to topple governments.

Let's tip a few with Commie mouthpiece

by JIM FITZGERALD

I wish I belonged to the Detroit Press Club so I could quit.

Such a gesture would merely cut me off from a mediocre bar and restaurant. When in the big city, I would have to look elsewhere for the boozy companionship of other newspaper men. No great problem, to be sure.

But quitting my Press Club membership would also allow me to make a point about admitting Red China to the United Nations. That would lend a higher tone to my letter of resignation, you must admit.

Press Club directors recently voted 6-5 not to admit William Allan because he is a Communist and/or a propagandist. Allan is Detroit correspondent for the Daily World, a Communist newspaper.

The "propagandist" charge can be laughed off the bar. "Propagandist" is an impolite word meaning "public relations man." A PR man's job is to sell ideas favorable to his product. Whether it be a Chevrolet or a political party, it's all the same jar of honey. Dozens of Press Club members are PR men, employed by the utilities or the auto companies or you-name-it. If Allan was declared ineligible because he's a "propagandist," all the other PR members should also be locked out. And the management could lay off several bartenders.

The propagandist charge is obviously phony, almost a joke. But let's not hear anyone laughing about the Communist charge. That's serious. Everyone knows the Communists are leaning on our door, just waiting for someone to forget to lock up at night. That's why your boy is in Vietnam (Why isn't he in Cuba? Shut up).

Allan might be a spy, for gosh sakes. He might pry the location of the Detroit tunnel out of some lushed-up Free Press reporter. And besides, Allan is said to be articulate and witty and wise. What kind of a Communist is that to have hanging around your tavern? He could give the Reds a good name. He might even make friends with a Republican. And that's where the real danger lies. If other members get to know Allan, they might understand and like him. Then they wouldn't want to fight him. Who wants to belong to a sissy club where the Communists and Christians don't have fistfights?

I do. And that's also the type of world I want to belong to. William Allan should be admitted to the Detroit Press Club and Red China should be admitted to the United Nations.

Mutual understanding is the answer. You can't have understanding without communication. And you can't communicate worth a darn when your mouth is full of blackballs.

It is ridiculous that the U.S. continues to oppose Red China's admission to the UN. After all, Russia belongs and they're the biggest bogeymen of all. Red China IS China. Nationalist China is nothing more than Chiang Kai-shek's retreat in Taiwan.

It is way past time for the U.S. to begin communicating with Red China. Both countries might learn something worthwhile -- such as how to quit making bombs and start making sense.

Just as Allan and other Press Club members might exchange some valuable nuggets if they were allowed to sit at the same table.

Many Press Club members agree that Allan should be admitted. They signed a petition which says it well. It reads:

"Whereas the Detroit Press Club is replete with capitalist journalists, capitalist publicists, capitalist politicians and just plain capitalists;

"And whereas, there is not a single publicly admitted communist in its membership; . . .

"And whereas . . we often find the present non-exchange of non-ideas that takes place at the press club between the capitalists boring as hell;

"We therefore petition the board of governors . . to admit William Allan. . ."

Onward and Upward.

Dear Editor:

As a resident of Charlevoix The Beautiful and a Belvederian in particular, I am interested in the dispute regarding the proposed apartment building on the South Shore of scenic Round Lake. Though I am not familiar with the zoning ordinance, I assume that its intent was in part to prevent the blocking of the view by exactly this type of high and long building along the shore.

Architects and builders are usually agreed that the height of a residential building is measured from the floor of the lowest "living" area to the tip of the roof.

Clebanoff strings in Petoskey concert meet

"An exciting interview with new sound. . ." This was one listener's description of the Clebanoff Strings and Orchestra, the instrumental ensemble which will appear Monday, February 3, at the Petoskey Junior High School Auditorium, at 8:30 p.m. under the auspices of the Northern Michigan Community Concert Association.

The unique sound of the Clebanoff Strings and Orchestra is now well-known to American concert and record audiences. In 1957, when Clebanoff originated the group, it was a daring experimental move on his part.

This type chamber ensemble, though popular for centuries in Europe, was all but unknown in this country.

The program Clebanoff offers is another innovation in the concert field -- virtually two programs in one... The first half of each concert is a classic string concert; the second half, adding piano, accordion, harp and percussion, in an "pops" concert.

Besides concerts, radio, television, and film background scores, the Clebanoff Strings and Orchestra has recorded 18 albums for Mercury Records.

Clebanoff was at 20 the youngest member of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Later, he was concertmaster of both the Illinois Symphony Orchestra and the NBC Orchestra. He was also active in chamber music groups, playing with the Pro Musica Trio and his own String Quartet. He made his conducting debut with the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra.

The appearance of the group before the Northern Michigan Community Concert audience is a repeat performance. Admission to the concert is by Membership Card in the Association.

Rayders bow in 30-point defeat

Charlevoix's Rayders suffered their most humiliating defeat of the season last Tuesday as they bowed 94-64 to the high-flying Petoskey Northmen.

From the opening of the second period Petoskey had the game its own way. The Raydors held fairly close in the first quarter, with the score 17-13 when the first buzzer sounded.

By halftime the Northmen were out front 42-21. At the end of the third quarter lead 77-42.

Kraag Lieberman was back in the lineup for the first time in several weeks, due to an ankle injury. Lieberman, who lead the league in scoring during the first weeks of the season, hit for 11 against Petoskey.

Stewart Coloman paced the Raydors with 13 points. Don Ward and George McClellan each scored ten points. Scoring nine points each were Bruce Meggison and Bob DeYoung. Don Livingston scored two points.

The Rayders scored on 16 free throws and missed 16. Petoskey missed 13 free throws and scored on 14. Petoskey scored 40 field goal's to Charlevoix's 24.

Sixteen fouls were called on the Rayders to 24 on Petoskey.

City blasts planners; gets trailer park plan

Charlevoix's City Council Monday evening questioned whether taxpayers are getting their money's worth from the professional planning firm of Williams and Works.

Councilmen also took under consideration a plan to develop a 50 to 60 trailer mobile home park at the intersection of US-31 and M-66.

The possibility of refusing to put any more money into the efforts of the planning firm came up due to an unexpected $450 planning expenditure proposed by the federal government.

"We really expected by this time to have some answers (from the planning firm)," Mayor Bill Fochtman said. "And, really, we're two years behind time," he added.

Councilman Jack Mol said, "You get tired of getting hoodwinked after a while."

Councilman Nate Boss, who is a member of the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission, said the group is in a "state of turmoil." He added there seems to be some progress but it is not in top priority areas.

Several council members said they feel commission members are doing all they can as volunteer laymen, and the reason for the board's failure to produce meaningful answers lays with the consultant's lack of leadership.

The commission, councilmen pointed out, has several times been given a list of the city's most pressing needs, but has failed to come through with a study of them and recommendations.

The $450 was requested by the federal government to finance a housing condition analysis. This study is not a part of the city's original contract with the consultant. The analysis would determine the condition of all houses in the city as to whether they are substandard, should be or can be repaired, etc.

The federal government reportedly is demanding the housing study if the city wants to continue the planning project, which is largely financed by federal funds.

Fochtman said the city has three choices: 1. Pay the $450, 2. Abandon its effort to work with Williams and Works, or 3. Substitute another phase of the planning program for the housing study.

He asked councilmen to be ready to make one of the three decisions by their February 17 meeting.

Ernie Manthei of Petoskey appeared before the council seeking its opinion on his plan to develop a trailer park on the nine-acre parcel behind the Gulf gas station on M-66, formerly owned by Robert McCall.

Manthei, owner of Manthei Mills and former owner of the lugger Mackinac Islander, said each trailer in the park would be a permanent home, with individual lots no smaller than 50 by 80 feet.

Trailer developments such as he is considering, Manthei said, attract primarily older couples.

Manthei said he would pay the cost to hook into the city sewer system, which might require a pumping station to the sewer on State St.

Each trailer, he said, would pay $3 a month in school tax. The occupants, he pointed out, would spend considerable money in Charlevoix.

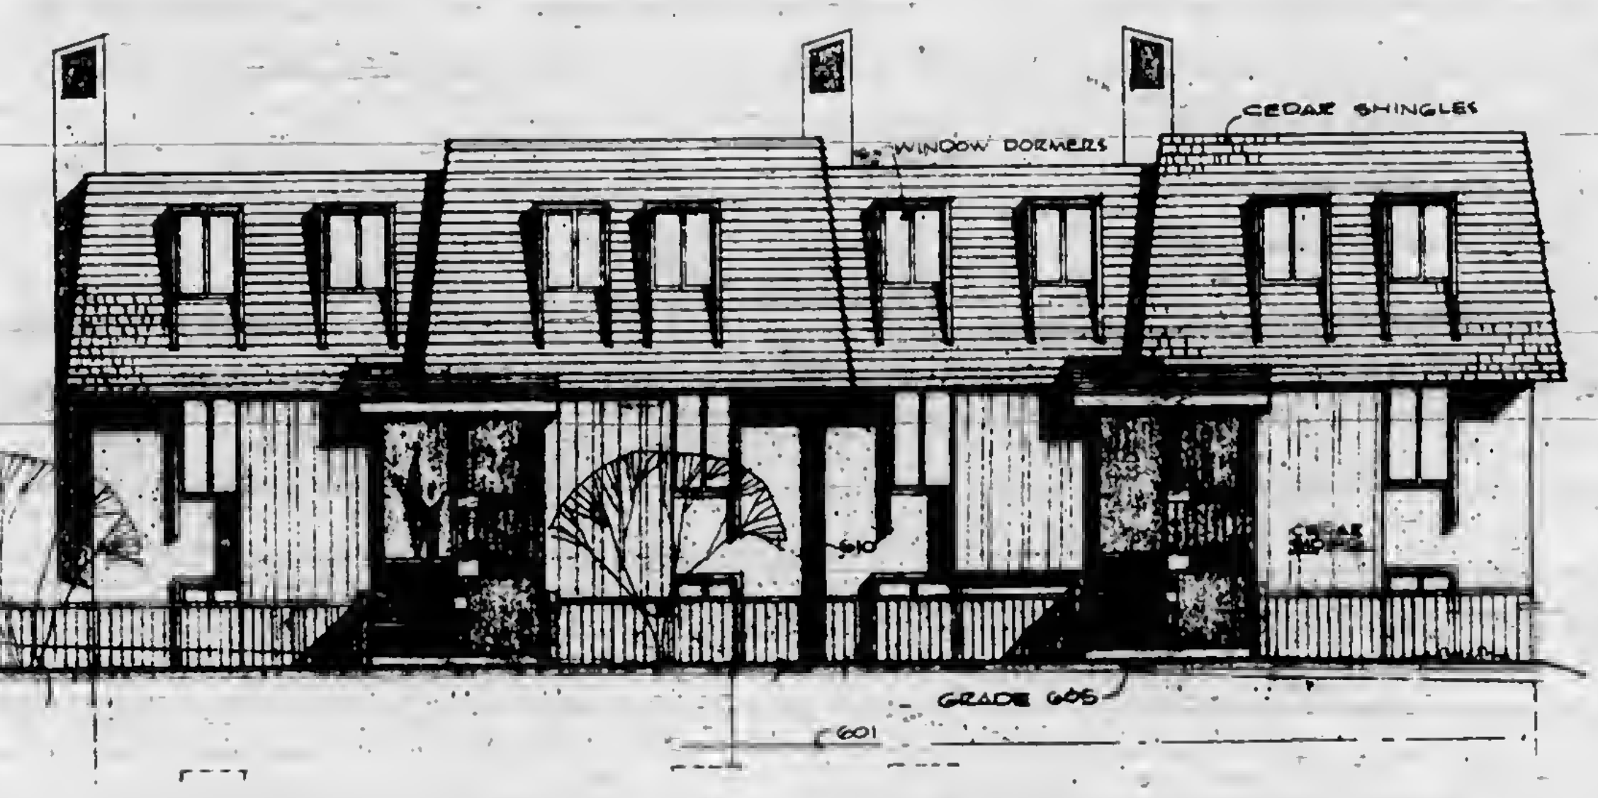
Councilmen agreed to look over Manthei's plans, but did not promise him an immediate opinion.

Mayor Fochtman said the council is "not necessarily against a trailer development." Fochtman added, however, that he personally feels it would be a poor use of the land.

In other action at Monday's Council meeting a public hearing was set for February 24 on a proposed airport rules ordinance. Copies of the ordinance were not available.

It was also announced that bids are expected to be taken in March on extension of a sewer trunk line up May St. past the high school.

WORKMEN STARTED clearing this site for construction of a 10-apartment condominium on Round Lake between Ward's and Bellinger's marina within hours after Jack Begrow was issued a building permit for the project last week. Begrow hopes to have the units ready for occupancy by late summer.



ARCHITECT JACK Begrow's revised drawing of his 10-apartment condominium. The revised plan has a lower roof than the first plan and cars will park on the left side of the building as it is seen here from Belvedere Ave.

Begrow gets permit to build harbor apartment

Charlevoix architect Jack Begrow's desire to build a condominium on the harbor finally bore fruit last week. He was issued a building permit to construct a 10-apartment condominium on the south shore of Round Lake.

Begrow's condominium plan has been tied up in court or the city's zoning board since he first launched the project last April.

He finally received a city building permit for his project last week, after revising the height of the building and relocating his parking space on the property between Bellinger and Ward's marinas.

The condominium site is being bought by Begrow from Robert Schleman. Begrow hopes to have the ten apartments ready for occupancy by late summer.

In April of last year Begrow obtained a building permit to construct a six-apartment condominium on the Pine River channel next to the Weathervane Inn. Before construction started owners of the Inn sued him to block construction. Though a court decision was never reached, Begrow abandoned the prpject due to the delay.

When he announced plans for his Round Lake condominium some residents of Belvedere Ave. pressed the city not to issue a building permit. They claimed the building would be higher than allowed under the zoning ordinance.

City Council obtained an opinion from Petoskey attorney Mike Stroup. Begrow redesigned the building so that it has a lower roof line and agreed to have parking on the west side of the building, rather than behind it to the south.

After the permit was issued last week John Makel, 114 Belvedere, said he does not know of any further objections to the building. Makel, who was one of the leaders in opposing Begrow's original plan, said he and other Belvedere residents will be watching to see that the city enforces its zoning requirements as construction progresses.

Club cancels snow racing

Charlevoix's snowmobile races will not be held this year, as they have for the past three years.

The 1969 races were cancelled by the Rod and Gun Club due to scheduling problems and competition with downstate races, Ralph Hess, chairman, said. The races were scheduled for last weekend.

Due to the unusually heavy snow, Hess said, a half-dozen or more major races were being held in downstate communities last weekend, sharply limiting interest in the Charlevoix races.

In past years the snowmobile races here have drawn as many as 98 races and 1,000 spectators. Prizes worth $2,000 have been awarded to racers for their showing in lap and cross country courses.

Local businessmen joined with the Rod and Gun Club in sponsoring the races.

Hess said the races may be held next year with a different format to attract more local and area interest.

County still short $2,600 on brochure

Collapse of the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce last week left somebody holding the bag for at least $1,000 of a printing bill for Charlevoix County tourist brochures and road maps.

The Boyne City chamber was expected to pay $1,000 of the $11,239 cost of printing the 216,900 brochures, according to Walt Thorsen. Thorsen is a member of the Charlevoix County Planning Commission which ordered the brochures.

All Charlevoix County chambers of commerce, plus other agencies and organizations, were to pay for the brochures, Thorsen said. The chambers were each to pay $1,000, he said. As of this week the Planning Commission still owes $2,689 on them.

East Jordan's chamber, Thorsen said, has already made a $1,000 contribution on the brochures. Boyne City's chamber paid none before it folded.

According to Charlevoix chamber manager Wally Loder, $250 of Charlevoix's share has been paid. Loder said the Charlevoix chamber did not agree to pay $1,000 toward the brochures.

"We agreed to do everything we could," Loder said. He pointed out the local chamber is also strapped for money and does not know if the Charlevoix chamber will be able to contribute the full $1,000 Thorsen is hoping for.

Other contributions already received to pay for the brochure are $5,300 from the County Board of Supervisors, $1,750 from the Road Commission, $100 from Resort Properties Inc., $150 from the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Cooperative.

Contributions are still hoped for from chambers at Charlevoix, Boyne Falls, Walloon Lake and Beaver Island. Thorsen also holds out hope the Boyne City chamber will be reactivated and make its $1,000 contribution.

The brochures have a multi-color county road map on one side and information on recreation and vacation attractions in the county on the reverse side.

State does reverse on Bells Bay

Dept. of Natural Resources Director Ralph A. MacMullan has reversed his previous stand on leasing a major portion of state forest land to Medusa, according to State Rep. Bob Davis of St. Ignace.

Davis said last week that MacMullan is now recommending to the DNR Commission that the 194-acres of Bells Bay forest land not be leased to Medusa for a limestone quarry.

In October of 1968 MacMullan was prepared to ask the Commission to approve placing the state-owned forest land on the auction block for Medusa.

The objections of Charlevoix citizens to the lease plan were credited by George P. Graff, natural resources chief of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce and Davis with stopping the proposed lease.

More than 100 local citizens attended a public hearing in City Hall January 17 objecting to the lease plan.

Graff was called into the Bells Bay controversy by Gordon Freedman, president of Freedman Artcraft Engineering Corp. of Charlevoix. Freedman said Graff has assured him the state Chamber will keep abreast of any developments in the issue.

In a letter to Freedman, Graff said, "Essentially I think we have a problem of resources allocation and determining priorities and I think the hearing on January 17th expressed a clear mandate to the Department that they should consider the aesthetic value of this property above all other interests."

Boyne Chamber goes defunct

BOYNE CITY -- The Chamber of Commerce here went out of business Friday, Jan. 31, according to its last president, Jack Dickhout.

Beginning Feb. 1, Dickhout said, mail addressed to the Chamber was endorsed "out of business" and returned to the sender.

The chamber, he said, died due to lack of support from businessmen.

"The progress and growth that Boyne City has enjoyed has been very real; it has been in direct proportion to the willingness of a minority to give unselfishly of their time and talents in spite of the negative attitude and lack of support of the chamber of commerce by free loaders," Dickout said.

He added that Boyne City enjoys the economic benefits brought by LTV (Courter), Essex Wire and Boyne Mt. to a large degree due to chamber efforts.

"The Chamber of Commerce," Boyne City publisher Gregg Smith wrote, "was started in an era when there were no less than nine empty store fronts in the community.

"It seems incongruous," Smith continued, "that it should go through its death when every available business building in town is in use, except the C of C office."

Township leads area in construction of new homes for 1968

Charlevoix Township is where the action is. More so than in the city of Charlevoix or Petoskey.

The township last year issued building permits for 14 new homes, according to information just compiled by Mrs. Ted Bergmann, township treasurer.

In Charlevoix last year permits were issued for ten new homes. In Petoskey 11 new-home building permits were issued.

The total estimated construction cost of the 14 new homes in the township is $246,000. The ten new homes authorized by the city will cost an estimated $129,500.

The continuing increase in demand for housing in the township is further reflected by a building permit issued to Tony Wojan to construct a new three-apartment duplex unit on Stover Rd. Estimated cost of the apartments if $60,000.

The ten permits issued in the city are a considerable decline from the 22 for new homes in 1967.

Builders and city officials have been warning for several years that suitable city building lots are rapidly becoming scarce, forcing development in the township.

Due to the pressure caused by home building, the township board has petitioned to be merged with the city.

The merger, its advocates contend, would solve the township's need for water and sewer at least as fast as if the township developed its own utilities and at considerably less cost.

If the merger is not acted on soon by the city council, township officials have said they will have no choice but to begin work on a township water supply system.

Other building permits issued by the township in 1968 include three to industrial firms and two to churches. A permit to build the $1,260,000 elementary school on Division Ave. was also issued by the township.

Industrial building permits were issued to American Mold for a 3,000-square-foot addition and to Paul Reed for construction of a $4,000 addition. Medusa got a building permit for a $100,000 clinker conveyor.

Permits were issued by the township for the $80,000 Baptist Church on new M-66 and $40,000 Church of Nazerene on US-31 north.

Anti-merger speaker to talk in township

Michigan's leading foe of city government will speak at a public meeting in the VFW Hall 7:30 p.m. Monday, February 10, according to Mrs. Rose Bergmann, Charlevoix Township treasurer.

Joseph A. Parisi Jr., executive director of the Michigan Townships Association and president of the national townships' association, will speak in opposition to merger of the city and township, Mrs. Bergmann said.

Should the township merge with the city, Parisi's association would lost a dues-paying member.

The Charlevoix Township Board has petitioned the City Council to set the machinery in motion for a merger election. City Council has not acted on the township's request.

Mrs. Bergmann said Parisi was invited to appear at a public meeting so the public can hear both sides of the issue. She said his appearance was arranged by the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission.

The township must hold an election by mid-summer either on the merger or constructing its own water system, Mrs. Bergmann said. If the City Council continues to refuse to act on the township board's request for action, the township will have to move on its own to build a water system, she explained.

Marihuana at PTA meet

Charlevoix parents will be introduced to marihuana at tonight's PTA meeting.

Actual samples of marihuana will be available at the meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Parents will be allowed to take these "marihuana awareness wafers" home with them so they can identify the smell and appearance of it.

A film will also be shown by Dave Fowler. All parents are invited.

Planning Commission report

Population forecast sees continued growth

Population

An extensive survey of the population of an area can be of considerable interest and value to a variety of individuals and groups. Many of the residents, businessmen and public officials of the Charlevoix Region have an interest in the population and its various components of the area.

Whether in the public or private sector, however, a data analysis is necessary to provide an objective interpretation of some of the important facts relating to population. Such an analysis can increase the knowledge concerning the area while placing general impressions in a more precise framework, thus providing a greater degree of accuracy and validity.

From region to region, and even within the various areas comprising a specific region, there is considerable variation not only in the density and general distribution of inhabitants, but also among other population aspects as well. Distribution among the various age levels and ethnic groups, the average family size and the type of living arrangements is not uniform.

These differences must be recognized and considered in any planning program, for the service demands of various population groups are not always the same. In the Charlevoix Region, the demands are compounded by the vast number of seasonal residents and tourists which the area accommodates.

Review of Past Trends

Past population trends of Charlevoix County, Charlevoix and Marion townships and the City of Charlevoix exhibit several salient features. First, the county was the only one of the four units to lose population during the 1950-60 decade. In this respect, Charlevoix County was not unlike 17 other Michigan counties. Similarly, during the thirties, the county experienced a rather substantial population increase, a situation experienced by many other rural or semi-rural counties. The county, however, actually attained its peak population in 1910 when 19,157 persons were recorded. Thus Charlevoix County has, for all practical purposes, been losing population ever since.

Marion Township has generally followed the same trends as Charlevoix County. Although a slight increase was experienced from 1950 to 1960, the township had lost population for the previous several decades.

In contrast, Charlevoix Township experienced its most substantial increase in numbers during the 1950-1960 decade. This was undoubtedly due to the lack of good buildable land within the city proper, which allowed the township to absorb most of the overflow growth.

The city of Charlevoix has evidenced a relatively steady, although not spectacular, rate of growth for the past several generations with no great variations from period to period.

Education

Although figures are not available for the townships, both the city and the county showed a substantial increase in the proportion of persons with a high school education during the 1950-1960 decade. The proportion of adults with a college education evidenced a smaller but still a very decided increase.

The Charlevoix Region compares favorably with the remainder of the state, and, generally, has experienced a higher proportional increase in the median number of school years completed.

Occupation

The Charlevoix Region evidenced an increase in the total number of employed residents. The most substantial increase was in the professional and technical occupation type, while the largest decrease occurred in the farm and labor group. One item of special interest is increase of persons employed in the operatives and kindred workers group for the county as a whole, while the same category suffered a loss within the city. This is an indication of the direction of activity taken by industry.

Income

The median family income for the county and the city in 1959 was $4,502 and $4,877, respectively. Both of these units more than doubled these incomes during the 1950-1960 decade, while the median income for the total state increased somewhat less substantially. The incomes for both the city and the county still, however, are decidedly lower than that for the entire state.

Migration

Population changes, as previously described, are the result of births, deaths and migration. An investigation of these factors can bring several otherwise concealed items into focus.

The City of Charlevoix, while registering a net gain of 56 persons during the 1950-1960 intercensal period, in one sense actually lost population. Tabulations indicate the natural increase of 249 persons (births minus deaths) and an out-migration of 193 persons.

Charlevoix County, while registering a population change of 54 persons, experienced a natural increase of 1,382 while losing 1,436 persons through migration.

Although figures are not available for Charlevoix or Marion townships, it can be assumed that birth and death rates would follow the same general trends as those of the total area.

For the past decade, the mean birth rate for the City of Charlevoix has been 23.1 (per 1,000 population) and the mean death rate 14.6. For the same period, Charlevoix County registered mean birth and death rates of 24.7 and 12.6, respectively.

Existing Populations

Past trends in population are not only of interest but are also very necessary aids in determining possible growth projections.

Existing population, however, must also be considered in any planning program. The following table presents updated population estimates obtained from utilization of township and city building permits. This is perhaps the most accurate method to realistically arrive at current population figures.

CHARLEVOIX REGION POPULATION
1960 to 1967

	1961	1962	1963	1964	1965	1966	1967
Charlevoix Twp.	303	364	390	409	444	479	549
Marion Twp.	526	639	555	574	587	600	819
City	2776	2826	2845	2881	2889	2948	3013
Region	3805	3729	3790	3844	3920	4027	4181

Population Projections

The demand for information regarding the human resources of the Charlevoix Region is ever increasing in an effort to understand and supply the necessary services. An important part of any type of planning is the anticipated growth of the area concerned. In order to satisfy this demand an attempt has been made to project the population of the various components of the Charlevoix Region.

It must be recognized that the figures which follow are projections and not predictions. Based upon past trends and possible future occurrences, however, the totals derived appear to be plausible and possible. In an area such as Charlevoix, with a relatively low population level, a relatively minor economic factor, such as the unexpected introduction of a new industry, could substantially alter the final results.

It is customary to develop a population forecast in terms of a range of possibilities bracketing what appears to signify the most probable range of prevailing and anticipated conditions.

In an attempt to determine this range or bracket, several methods of projection have been utilized. The first of these is the "least squares" method under which a mathematical equation is developed to fit a time series plot on graph paper and the subsequent extension then provides estimates of population on the selected future date.

By applying this method to the Charlevoix Region, a 1980 population of approximately 3,170 persons for the City of Charlevoix, 350 persons for Charlevoix Township and 490 persons for Marion Township is derived.

The second method of projection is based upon the assumption that the population of the region will continue its growth at the same rate as it did during the 1950-1960 decade. This assumption projects the 1980 population at 2,870 for the City of Charlevoix, 725 for Charlevoix Township and 540 for Marion Township.

The third means of estimating population also utilizes an assumption of past growth rates projected into the future. However, this method recognizes the population growth rate between 1960 and 1967. The basic error which tends to falsify this estimate is that a projection is made from a previous projection. However, the previous method utilized to determine current population normally is quite accurate. Applying this method, a 1980 population of 4,845 for Charlevoix, 2,897 for Charlevoix Township and 876 for Marion Township is derived.

The final method utilizes the so-called "ratio" method which assumes that the population of each unit will be a certain percentage of the projected population of the state of Michigan, the percentage to be based on a continuation of the ratio established in the period from 1940 to 1960.

With this method, a 1980 projected population for the City of Charlevoix is 2,825; 435 for Charlevoix Township and 335 for Marion Township.

As can be noted, these projections, each method of which is recognized by demographers, indicate a rather wide range of possibilities. The lower range of figures, in fact, has, according to the estimated 1966 population, already been surpassed with more than a decade still remaining before 1980.

This range, if reasonable, is to be derived in order to obtain a certain amount of leeway. In order to somewhat limit the above range, however, a judgment factor has been added. Although this will not necessarily insure a greater degree of accuracy than any of the projection methods used, it does consider certain factors which could not be related to a mathematical formula.

These factors, or perhaps more correctly, assumption are as follows:

1. The Charlevoix Region will increase in popularity as a resort area.
2. More industry will locate in the area.
3. The City of Charlevoix will, through some type of community action, make additional land available for residential sites.
4. Utilities will become available to the outlying areas.
5. The economy of the region will continue to become increasingly that of a year-around economy.

With these assumptions in mind, it is felt that perhaps the higher end of the population projection range is the most probable to occur. Charlevoix Township will probably continue its relatively high rate of growth for the full span of this period; the City of Charlevoix's rate of growth will remain fairly stable; Marion Township will experience a slow but steady growth increase. Therefore, for purposes of this planning report, it is assumed that by 1980, the City of Charlevoix will have attained a population of 3,600 persons, while Charlevoix Township will have approximately 1,400 residents and Marion Township about 800 persons.

Catastrophic 1967

NEW YORK—The year 1967 may have set a new quantitative record for catastrophic events in the United States, according to the Insurance Information Institute. Thirty-four storms, fires or riots left in their wake insured damage of more than a million dollars each. The total cost to insurance companies was about $325 million.

Killer Tornadoes

NEW YORK—Tornadoes took the lives of 116 Americans in 1967, the Insurance Information Institute reports. In the last 50 years, 9,300 deaths have been attributed to tornadoes.

History of perfume traced at club meet

The Jandary meeting of the Garden Club was well attended at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Terrill, which was beautifully decorated.

A most interesting lesson was given by Mrs. Karen Lewis on the evolution of perfume. The lesson was prepared by Mrs. Beverly Espich.

Did you know that Perfume was first used 6,000 years ago in Egypt, Rome, Greece, Persia, and Arabia and was a prized luxury and the possession and use of perfume was considered a sign of wealth.

The original perfumes were powders, gems, and scented oils. Rose water was the first distilled perfume. In a Persian province in 810 AD a tribute of 30,000 bottles of rose-water was paid to the treasury of Bagdad. It was used in ceremonies to Gods and funeral rites of Great Kings. Cleopatra often used it to snare men, and God gave Moses orders to erect an Alter of Incense and Moses also received instructions on the compounding and use of special annointing oils and perfumes. Romans massaged with scented oils and perfumes after the immersions.

Crusaders brought quantities of perfume to Europe and manufacturing soon started in different parts of the continent. France was given the First Perfume Maker Charter in 1190 and Charles the 5th was the first French manufacturer.

Perfume reached England during Queen Elizabeth's reign and was her favorite gift. The Earl of Oxford brought her scented cloves and he wore a court jerkin of perfumed leather which was purchased in Spain. Elizabeth loved it so much she established a Still Room where she worked out her own perfumes. One scent was derived from crushed apples and the fat from a young dog.

Secretions of vegetable matter, birds, plants, flowers and a male Musk Deer were used as a base. Sandlewood was known to be used 500 years before Christ and is extracted from the close grained fragrant heartwood of the parasitic tree sandlewood.

Sailors brought Lavender from Europe to England and United States.

Today France is the leader of the best perfumes in the world. The climate and soil along the French Riviera is well suited for the cultivation of Flowers.

Our own United States rates 2nd in perfume and is the foremost producers of toilet preparations. Indian braves were the first users of Cosmetics.

Men were considered effeminate if they used scents as late as 1935. Now over 150 manufacturers cater to men and men buy more perfume than women but mostly as gifts.

Perfume is a most concentrated form of fragrance and should be used on pulse spots such as the throat, wrists, crook of elbow, shoulders and upper lip but never behind the ears at nape of neck or on clothing.

The Garden Club will meet Tuesday afternoon February 11 at 1:30 with Mrs. [illegible] Michael. Mrs. Ann Puttpaff will discuss what is new for the garden in 1969.

Cunningham-Ormsby wed in local church

The Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix was the scene January 25 of the wedding of Ellen Cunningham and Terry Ormsby.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cunningham and Mr. and Mrs. William Ormsby.

The Rev. Albert F. Mansen officiated at the double ring service in the presence of more than 150 guests. Arrangements of white mums and red carnations formed a setting for the ceremony.

Mrs. John L. Boss, as organist, played a program of traditional music and the wedding march and accompanied the soloist, William Purdy of Kalamazoo, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an empire floor length gown of white satin with lace appliques trimmed with seedpearls and sequins. A Dior bow secured her fingertip veil. She carried a bridal bouquet of white mums.

Cheryl Potter, was her cousin's maid of honor. She wore a red and white A-line gown. Marlene and Darlene Cunningham, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. William Purdy of Kalamazoo, as bridesmaids, wore gowns identical to the honor attendant's in red satin. Each carried a single white rose.

Steven Basch of Traverse City assisted the bridegroom as best man. Gary Thompson and Melvin Pahl of Traverse City and Dan Swanson were groomsmen. Bernie Thompson of Traverse City and Mitchell Cunningham, brother of the bride, seated the guests.

Mrs. Cunningham wore an aqua sheath and black accessories complimented by a blue and white corsage for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Ormsby, mother of the bridegroom, wore a cream dress, orange and brown accessories and a yellow and white corsage.

A reception followed in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Assisting were Ann Cunningham, aunt of the bride, Connie Cunningham, sister of the bride, Doris Vandenberg, Juliane Mansen, Judy Cellner and Beth Ann Boss.

For traveling on their wedding trip to New York City the bride wore a red crepe dress with white lace accents and gold accessories. The couple will make their home in Warren.

Both are graduates of the Charlevoix high school. The bride attended North Central Michigan College and has been employed at Hoskins Manufacturing Co. The bridegroom attended North Central Michigan College and Macomb County Community College and is employed at Bundy Tubing Co. in Warren.

David Rader wed in Hawaii rites

Patricia Louise Senteney and SP/4 David Edgar Rader were united in marriage January 10 at the Chapel Ford in Honolulu, Hawaii with Chaplain McMenamy officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Howard Senteney of Southfield, Michigan. Mr. Rader is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rader of Charlevoix.

The bride graduated from Bloomfield Hills High School and attended Northwestern Michigan College and Michigan State University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Charlevoix high school and North Central Michigan College and attended Michigan State University. He is presently serving in Vietnam with the U.S. Army.

Wedding guests were present from Petoskey, Traverse City, Grawn, Boyne City, East Jordan, Kalamazoo and Alma.

Library Notes

The magazine racks at the Library not only present an attractive display of current periodicals, but they offer patrons the opportunity of dropping in during the afternoon or evening hours to browse or catch up on current affairs.

It has become a pleasant habit for patrons to come in from a storm or to drop by to rest between shopping errands and read an article or two in one of the recent papers or magazines.

The periodicals are arranged in alphabetical order, from America, American Aviation and American Artist to U.S. News & World Report and Vital Speeches of the Day. The current issue of U.S. News & World Report is devoted almost entirely to our new President and members of his cabinet.

In between, is a varied selection of periodicals dealing with both specialized and general subjects of interest. There is Holiday Magazine for the traveler or the wistful, travel - dreamer who just wishes he could go somewhere.

There is Time Magazine with its up-to-date and capsuled reports on world and national affairs. Material of interest in the women's world include McCalls, Ladies Home Journal, Better Homes & Gardens and Good Housekeeping.

For the sports-minded, there is Field & Stream, American Rifleman and Sports Illustrated. Under the "C's", the magazine display rack holds Current History, a monthly magazine of world affairs; Congressional Digest; Changing Times and Consumer's Report.

Of special interest is Atlas, a magazine published for those readers who want to read only the most important publications and sometimes can't find the time. The publishers of Atlas select noteworthy articles from papers and periodicals throughout the world and reprint them. From Hong Kong, Milan, Rome, Paris, London, Moscow and Frankfort, special articles are selected to give the American reader an international viewpoint.

National Wildlife, dedicated to the wise use of our natural resource, Natural History, Popular Electronics, Popular Science, Parents Magazine and Science Digest are all current magazines available on the racks.

The public is invited to come in and enjoy familiar favorites and become acquainted with some of the new and unusual magazines available for their interest and entertainment.

Sadly, the Saturday Evening Post will no longer be available. The old reliable which for over a century had a place in everyone's home, is no longer being published.

Novice Rayder skiers show strong in meets

Charlevoix High School's Ski Team has put up a very strong showing in its first four meets this season.

Coach Jim Bystrom has been very pleased with his inexperienced team's second place finish in each of its first four meets this season, two of which were triangular and two of which were quadrangular.

In their first meet against Class A State Champions Traverse City Central and Gaylord they took second to Traverse City Central. This meet was at Hickory Hills in Traverse City.

Lead by a strong showing from the girls team lead by senior letter winner Georgia Lusk, the Rayders finished a strong second to Traverse City St. Francis in their second meet at Nubs Nob near Harbor Springs. Harbor Springs finished third in this meet.

January 18, under very icy conditions at Caberfae near Cadillac, the Rayders took an over-all second in a quadrangular meet against Cadillac, Waterford Township, and Waterford Kettering. The boys team, lead by Bob Etienne, finished second and the girls finished a close second with excellent giant slalom runs by Cheryl Kenney and Nancy Fochtman. Cadillac's boys and girls took firsts in this meet.

Charlevoix's scheduled meet against Waterford Township and Waterford Kettering last Friday at Boyne Mountain was canceled due to the inclimate weather.

At Sylvan Knob near Gaylord the Rayders put up another good showing with the girls taking second and the boys third in a quadrangular meet against Gaylord, Petoskey, and West Bloomfield. West Bloomfield took first place. Bob Etienne, who seems to improve each meet, was very impressive in the slalom taking an over-all third and leading the boys team. Chuck Meier fell on his first slalom run, but came back his second slalom run with one of the best runs of the day. Etienne and Meier both had good giant slalom runs. Georgia Lusk took an over-all second in the giant slalom to lead the girls to their second place finish. Pam Alspaugh also had a good run in the giant slalom.

Although the team has only one letter winner, senior Georgia Lusk, Bystrom has been real pleased with the progress his skiers have been making and has noticed a steady improvement with each meet. He said that when some of those with little or no meet experience get a few more meets behind them they'll be excellent racers and great competitors. They have been working hard at practice which is held every day after school at Mt. McSauba in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix's next scheduled meet is Feb. 5th at 1:30 at Nubs Nob against Petoskey and Boyne City.

Man-Made Catastrophe

NEW YORK—Most years, the nation's worst catastrophes are the result of windstorms or fire. But in 1967, according to the Insurance Information Institute, the costliest was man-made, generated by the civil disorders in Detroit in July, which caused insurance losses of $41.5 million.

Torino GT makes other cars that talk performance eat their words.

Calling a car a hot performer is one thing. Proving it is another. Torino GT performance speaks for itself. Just how loud is up to you—with six V-8 choices, from a standard 302 V-8 up to the big 428 Cobra Jet Ram-Air. (When this one talks, others listen.)

Torino GT shows it's heir apparent to the 1968 NASCAR racing champ. Special handling suspension. Wide-oval tires. Competition-style wheels. Stripes. The works. In SportsRoof, 2-door hardtop, and convertible models. And then there's Cobra. All muscle at a very low price.

In all, you have 16 different ways to go in Ford's intermediate line, from the hissing-hot Cobra to the handsome new Fairlanes. Every one a winner. Visit your Ford Dealer's Performance Corner soon. Very little talk—lots of action!

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

CHAMBER MANAGER

I would appreciate receiving any loose leaf, or otherwise printed bits on early history of Charlevoix and Charlevoix County. If prior to a year and one half ago the Chamber had any, it has all gone past the board. I should like to make up a folder on Charlevoix area history as soon as possible I have been receiving many contacts for this information.

For you snowmobilers, though some of you may be familiar, East Jordan Sno-Mobile, Inc., is sponsoring a Legislative Safari February 16.

A lot of state brass, I understand, and all of the State Legislators, etc, have received an invitation by mail. Probably the main purpose of this affair is to get these legislators more thoroughly acquainted with an item that a majority of them know little or nothing about. It will be educational to those guys and gals, and at the same time there will be plenty of extra machines for them to take a hand at themselves.

They anticipate quite a fun day, and most all of it will be carried on in the Jordan River Valley area. There will be buffet dinner between one and four p.m. served in this Club's clubhouse. Reservations are $3.75 per person, however, it is $3 for a single and $5 for a couple if they use the reservation coupon of which I have a few at the office. I have sent quite a supply to our local snowmobile club to the attention of Tony Atkinson.

It is interesting to note from bulletins, etc., received here at the office, that chiefly members of the Association of American Rail Roads are exerting every effort and lobby to get themselves back in a position, they seem to be able to prove the need be. They have developed, as you probably know, much faster passenger trains and many changes in freight handling whether it be package freight or car load. Some of these fast trains do pretty well, for example, a train of this type from downtown Cleveland terminal to downtown Detroit, the overall time would be less than taking the airport bus or taxi from downtown Cleveland to John Hopkins Airport, which takes probably 40 minutes or more, depending on the traffic, of course, then fly to Detroit to the huge airport, one of them at least I know is way out to the westside. Less hustle and bustle, more comfort, and direct by one of these trains. When the day came, the New York Central took off the Cleveland-Detroit Mercury, it was a sad affair, it was a fine train.

I had a letter from a student, apparently high school, down at Garden City, Michigan, requesting certain information for a school project, and I sent him as much information I could afford, having to do with Charlevoix County and the City of Charlevoix. I sent a bit of detail and a number of brochures and suggested to him that between what I wrote and the brochures, if he studies them thoroughly, and uses a little imagination, he should be able to accomplish something worth while. It is not often that the office receives a thank you for this sort of contact, however, from this young man I received a letter of thanks and he indicated the information helped him considerable, as he was able to get one of the highest grades in his class. My first letter, I asked this fellow should he let me know why he chose Charlevoix, and in his reply he said this: "The reason I chose the County of Charlevoix was because during the summer on my vacation, my family and I came through it and we stopped at many interesting places, and I thought it would make a good county to write on."

We have notice from the 33rd annual National Trout Festival at Kalkaska, that it will be held April 25, 26, & 27, this year, and the 1969 theme will be "Tigers 'n' Trout--TNT." We are all cordially invited, of course. On Friday, April 25, will be "Youth Day", with a youth parade at 3 p.m. On Saturday, April 26, will be "National Day" and this is the day they have their Grand Royal Parade at 3 p.m. If anyone or groups wish to participate, please get in touch with me.

I suppose you noticed again the articles having to do with the closing of the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce. It is unfortunate, however, what else could one expect to happen when something is so much depended upon yet there is lack of support. I do hope that some community minded people yet make quick endeavors to get this facilities reestablished for the sake of Boyne City and its good people.

Any Chamber of Commerce, no doubt, must have the involvment of many persons and a sizable membership if it is to be successful in the purpose it is designed for for the community. One article pointed out that members of the Chamber and the frueloaders as they were called, have shared equally in the prosperity that they all have enjoyed. There needs to be balance, and not so much of a lopsided situation. The thing that happened at Boyne City could easily happen anywhere else, and I pray it doesn't happen for the community of Charlevoix. No one, or a dozen persons, can do the necessaries that are functions of the Chamber which the community needs etc. In other words, the ball games, so to speak, can not be won by setting out in the bleachers and try to play from there.

M.S.U. and the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture Cooperative Extension service headed by Ed Rebman for this area, located at Boyne City, extends invitation to all planning groups, zoning directors, county and township supervisors and other people of Charlevoix county, that are involved in planning and zoning, to attend either one or both, two meetings yet to be held at the 4-H Center in Petoskey starting at 7 p.m., one Thursday, February 6, and the other Wednesday, February 12. It seems there is becoming a big problem apparently in most areas, with "land use".

Another one to the snowmobilers, Lost Pine Lodge at Harrieta, Michigan, is having a treasure hunt sponsored by their snowmobile club and sanctioned by the Michigan Snowmobile Association, February 15 and 16, 1969, using approximately 100 miles of the Manistee National Forest. Entry fee will be $5 per machine. Lost Pine's club is located at 3826 West 38 Mile Road, Harrieta, 12 miles west of Cadillac.

Premises on the order of "American Plan Resorts and/or Lodging places" may be, in many areas some thing of the "past". However, it is amazing the number of requests we have for such a premise here in Charlevoix. I notice many reports for leads to such places and published in bulletins by West Michigan Tourist Association. Maybe some of our resorts ought to have a little beanery, or what have you, in connection.

No doubt many of the boaters are familiar with the new Ontario, Canada pollution law. If not, and you plan that sort of foreign travel this year, you better read up and see that your head is coupled with a holding tank. It is indicated there has been plenty of warning, and accordingly, they intend to enforce the regulation promptly.

Stop and think a bit folks, the time of year has come when your Chamber is down to the bottom of the piggy bank, and accordingly, we would appreciate your early consideration from a financial stand point, and a bit later, I am sure the various committees would like to have some volunteer physical effort, not strenuous, but just giving a hand, as we all here at the Chamber have one thing in mind, that is a better 1969 all the way around. Thank you.

Car Thieves Busy

NEW YORK—Car thieves have become peskier than ever in recent years, the Insurance Information Institute observes. Since 1949, the number of automobiles registered has more than doubled, but the number stolen has more than quadrupled—from 163,000 to 655,000.

Faith Is The Key

Has this little Miss assumed this haughty pose for the benefit of our photographer or is she asleep while sitting upright? You may draw your own conclusions. But children can sleep in most any position, can't they?

Yes, a child sleeps peacefully, usually without dreams. No doubtful wondering about the day that has just passed—it has been filled with adventure and fun. Tomorrow will be something to look forward to and there is nothing to cause nightmares because there are no fears to kindle them.

The unknown future doesn't worry children but apprehension about the morrow often disturbs the sleep as we grow older. By what secret power may one face tomorrow as does the child—tranquil and unafraid?

The answer is BY FAITH.

One can find faith in the church and with faith one can face whatever tomorrow holds unafraid.

Rayder JVs lose by two-points to Traverse

Charlevoix's Junior Varsity cage squad lost a close one Friday, 67 - 65, to Traverse City St. Francis.

Eight little Rayders got in on the scoring act, as they lead going into the fourth quarter, when Traverse City poured 22 points through the hoop to squeeze by with a two-point margin.

The score by quarters shows Charlevoix leading 23-17 at the end of the first, tied 28-28 at halftime and out-front 50-45 at the end of the third period.

Traverse City's JVs beat Charlevoix on free throws. The Rayder JVs scored 24 field goals, 17 free throws and missed 14 free throws. Traverse City scored 22 field goals; 23 free throws and missed ten more free throws.

Twenty-two fouls were called on Charlevoix and the same number were called on Traverse City.

Leading the Rayder scoring was Ron Bindl with 19 points. Bill Carey followed with 16. Others scoring were Tim Carey followed with 16. Others scoring were Tim Carey and Larry Potter with eight each; Tom Bergmann, Dave Swanson and Bob Vreeland with four each, and Bob Donaldson with 2.

Traverse City bows to hard-playing CHS attack

Charlevoix's Red Rayders clicked Friday for one of their best games of the season and a 72-54 victory over Traverse City St. Francis.

Kraag Lieberman was back on the mark for the first time in weeks Friday, after a long recovery from an injured ankle. Lieberman hit for 20 points for the Rayders, his best since being injured.

Stewart Coleman set the pace for the Rayders as he scored 22 points.

The Rayders scored on 20 free throws, missing only 12 more . . one of their finest percentages at the free throw line this season.

Charlevoix out-scored Traverse City on both free throws and field goals. The Rayders hit for 26 field goals to Traverse City's 23. Traverse made only eight free throws compared to Charlevoix's 20.

Officials called six fouls on Charlevoix -- by far the fewest this season. Traverse City was penalized for 23 fouls.

The score by quarters shows Traverse City was in a challenging position until the final frame. Charlevoix lead 20-16 at the end of the first period, 36-31 at halftime and 49-43 when the third quarter ended.

Going into the fourth period Charlevoix moved away. The Rayders scored 23 points in the final period, to Traverse City's 11 points.

Others scoring for the Rayders were Norm Ostrum with 11; Bruce Meggison and Don Ward, 8 each; and Don Livingston, 3.

World Series films tonight

A 45-minute preview of 1968 World Series highlights will be shown members of the Charlevoix Sports Boosters Club 7:30 tonight (Wednesday) in City Hall.

Following the film there will be a special meeting of the club's board of directors to plan the all-sports banquet honoring high school athletes.

Civil Disorders

NEW YORK—The civil disorders that raged across the nation during the summer of 1967 caused insured losses of more than [illegible] million, the Insurance Information Institute reports.

See two wins for Rayders

Yes sir, the Red Rayders expect to reach another milestone Friday night. They will be playing two big games this week, and should win them both.

If this happens, they will up their season's mark to 7-5, and take over third place in the Michigan - Huron Shores Conference. Last night they played against Boyne City, and Friday it will be the long road to Alpena Catholic.

Coach Don Carey's Rayders finally found the range, and with past fine performances of Kraag Lieberman and Stewart Coleman, both averaging nearly 13 ppg., and Bruce Meggison, just a pinch behind, have fashioned together a well-balanced scoring club, and must be considered a threat the rest of the season.

The Petoskey Northmen will be in Gaylord in what should be a snap. The Northmen behind Dick Swenor's 22 ppg. average, and four other starters averaging in double figures are the highest scoring quintet in the North, and will continue to roll. The big scoring battle coming soon between Swenor and St. Ignace's Leo Donavan will continue to add spice. Both are breaking each others records like they are going out of style. It's only a question of whether Gaylord can run with the Northmen. Or, is that a question! Petoskey by 18 points.

Leo Donovan over at St. Ignace is only a 6-4 junior, but he has the shooting ability of a college junior. The big boy broke the school and conference scoring mark in his last outing against Gaylord, as he scored 41 points before being pulled by the coach in the final three minutes. Surely TCSF won't offer much resistance this weekend. The Saints want that league championship, and they can't afford to lose now. The boys from the Upper Peninsula will notch their 11th straight win of the season, as they clobber the Crusaders before their happy home crowd.

In the remaining league game on Saturday night, Gaylord will be over at Alpena CC in attempt to go over the .500 mark. This will be the first meeting between these two schools this year, and on paper, Gaylord looks to be a 10 point favorite.

Boyne City will probably be on shakey grounds, as they travel up to Cheboygan to take on the unpredictable Cheboygan Chiefs. After giving the Northmen a close game last week, they hope to annex their fourth win of the season. Cheboygan's "Big Three" consisting of Dick Renz, Joe Beatty, and Greg Johnson can be awfully difficult at times. Coach John McGeorge's Boyne City Ramblers on the other hand are nursing two wins in their last three games, and must be considered a threat.

Cheboygan by 10 points, and that could be stretching the final outcome a wee bit.

Lancers drop 3 in row, but see victory over CL

ELLSWORTH--It's hard to believe that it happened, but the Ellsworth Lancers dropped their last three basketball games in a row, and along with that, a probable chance to win the first Ski-Valley championship.

The injury riddled Gaylord St. Mary's Snowbirds turned a dream of victory into a nightmare of defeat last weekend, as they upset Ellsworth 68-66, behind a 36 point performance in the final period.

Now it will be the Central Lake Trojans, next in line to attempt to upset our Lancers. Central Lake fell to Inland Lakes last Friday, 69-65, and dropped their league record to 2-4, eliminating them from any possible chance for a title. The Trojans go against Vanderbilt on Tuesday, and Ellsworth on Friday. Both teams must be considered favorites against the Trojans.

Suttons Bay, now 5-1 in league action will be aching for revenge against Coach Tom Spencer's Inland Lakes Bobcats when they come to town Saturday night. In their last meeting, Inland Lakes sprung a 53-52 upset, but won't even be in the game this time. Suttons Bay by 20, behind the fine performance of Craig Bahte and Al Mebert. The night before, the Norsemen will face a strong Northport team on the Northport floor. In their previous meeting, Suttons Bay won in double overtime, but this time it should be a much easier win.

In the final league game of the weekend, Bellaire will have little chance when they seek their first victory in the league. Playing at Gaylord St. Mary's, they must be considered a 20 point underdog. The antics of Snowbird Craig DeCorte will be too much to handle. St. Mary's will be warming up for that game when they play at Atlanta Tuesday.

Set fees for state boat ramps

Fees were recently established by the Michigan Waterways Commission for use of major launching facilities at major Lake Michigan salmon ports to cover the cost of operating and maintaining these installations.

The Commission voted to charge 75 cents per car and another 75 cents per trailer as daily fees at its proposed Stronach launching site on Manistee Lake. The fees will be in effect during the facility's peak period of use, approximately from the end of August through the first week of October.

Comparable charges will be made in 1969 by local communities which have operational and housekeeping responsibilities for larger boat launching facilities stretching along Lake Michigan from Grand Haven to Frankfort.

All of these bigger facilities require full-time personnel to keep them clean, regulate heavy traffic, and handle other duties. "We hope the new fees will cover the costs of staffing and servicing these facilities," explains Keith Wilson, chief of the Waterways Division for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Local Seabee assists Navy aquanaut test

Seabee Charles D. Van DeCar, Jr., HM3, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Van DeCar of RR3, Box 151, Charlevoix, is currently participating in a joint U.S. Navy; Department of Interior; National Aeronautics and Space Administration and General Electric Company effort to place four U.S. aquanaut-scientists on the ocean floor off St. John Island in the Virgin Islands for a period of 60 days during project TEKTITE I.

Seabee Van DeCar is a member of a 50-man detachment of Seabees from Amphibious Construction Battalion TWO (ACB-2) homeported at the U.S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Virginia. Usually deployed as causeway and salvage teams, the amphibious Seabees stay on the beach and assist in the offloading of men and materials during an amphibious landing.

The Seabees will lower the habitat to the ocean's floor by using a modified AMMI pontoon barge. Steel pilings driven through spud wells, openings in each corner of the barge, into the floor of the ocean will enable the barge to be lowered like an elevator as its compartments are flooded. As it slides down these piles, winches atop each pile will keep the barge and the habitat level.

As the habitat becomes buoyant it will be floated off the barge by Seabee divers and towed to the habitat site where it will be winched down to the bottom and moored by jetted-anchors, stabilized by its own weight and counterweights. Umbilical cables carrying air, water and electrical power will then be placed between the habitat and a support barge on the surface to complete the system.

Project TEKTITE will determine the capability of a small group of men to satisfactorily perform scientific research while living isolated on the ocean floor under saturated diving conditions. It will also afford biomedical and behavioral teams on the surface an opportunity to identify man's psychological and physiological reactions to a long term mission performed in an isolated, hostile environment common to undersea and space missions.

The habitat, designed and built by General Electric Company consists of two 18-foot pressure hulls 12½ feet in diameter, joined by a 4½-foot rubber transfer tunnel. These vertical cylinders rest on a rectangular base 36-feet long, 15-feet wide, and five-feet in height. Each cylinder is divided into four compartments for living and working. The base provides the diver-scientist with a means to enter and leave the habitat while on the ocean floor.

The name TEKTITE was given to the program to symbolize its land and sea nature. A tektite is a piece of material from outer space that has survived a journey through the earth's atmosphere and fallen to the ground or sunk to the bottom of the ocean.

Construction is expected to be completed and the habitat and support systems checked out by February 15. On this date the four aquanaut-scientists from the Department of Interior will enter the TEKTITE habitat to begin their 80-day stay on the ocean floor. It will be the longest undersea stay ever attempted by a diving team.

Cut spring fishing for walleye at Jordan

There will be no early spring walleye fishing at the mouth of the Jordan River this year.

Conservation Officer Frank Dufon reports the Conservation Commission has ordered the walleye season closed here from the end of February to May 15.

In the past the normal March 1 to May 15 closed season on walleyes has been waived in Lake Charlevoix to allow fishermen to harvest the fish which run in late March and early April into the Jordan River, Dufon said.

Walleye weighing more than 15 pounds, and hundreds in the five and ten pound class, have been caught by fishermen in boats and from the docks at East Jordan during past spring runs.

District Court

District Court clerk - magistrate John Connolly reports the following cases.

Arthur K. Rouse Jr., 26, Boyne City, driving on a suspended license, $100 and three days in jail.

Fred Wheaton, 43, East Jordan, drunk and disorderly, $25 and ten days in jail.

Edward Kinner, 60, Central Lake, drunk and disorderly, $25 and ten days.

John Vondran, 22, East Jordan, forgery, waived examination and bound over to Circuit Court, $1,000 bond continued.

William Baggett, Charlevoix, bad check charge, demanded examination, continued to a later date.

Larry Sterzik, 19, Petoskey, basic speed law, plead not guilty, found guilty, $20.

ENGAGED - Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Kasten of Brown Street, Garden City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna, to Robert S. Odmark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Odmark of Charlevoix. Miss Kasten is a 1965 graduate of Garden City High School, and is presently a senior in the School of Music at the University of Michigan. She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. Mr. Odmark, a 1964 graduate of Charlevoix High School, is also a senior in the School of Music at the University of Michigan, and is affiliated with Delta Upsilon Fraternity. An August wedding is planned.

Pesticide opposition grows

In recent months, the Michigan Department of Conservation has voiced firm opposition to the continued use of certain persistent insecticides which have seriously polluted our state's environment.

It took this stand only after exacting discussions, and in full expectation that there probably would be some misunderstandings and no small amount of public backlash.

"Many persons in Michigan have apparently been more disturbed about the threat of these chemicals than we at first believed possible," notes Department Director Ralph A. MacMullan.

This concern reared up last fall when the Environment Defense Fund, a group of public-spirited private citizens, invited 58 Michigan communities into court to stop them from further use of the persistent chemical DDT for Dutch elm disease control. So far, at least 33 Michigan towns and cities have agreed to stop using DDT in Dutch elm disease control in municipal tree-spraying and park maintenance programs.

THIS GROUP OF more than a dozen Charlevoix snowmobilers and their families stop for lunch near the Pinney Bridge on the Jordan River Sunday on a volunteer deer feeding mission.

Snowmobile inspection finds deer doing well

Charlevoix County's deer have more to fear from dogs than from winter at this point on the calender.

Deer are moving freely in most of the county, and in the wild headwaters region of the Jordan Valley. The worst conditions appear to be in the far-eastern end of the county, according to State Forester Jack Lockwood.

A nearly four-hour snowmobile journey Sunday through deer yard areas of the upper Jordan Valley disclosed that deer are on the move, but breaking through the glazed snow crust at nearly every step.

The crust does not appear to be hindering deer in moving around in quest of cedar boughs to browse on, Conservation Officer Frank Dufon noted during the inspection of deer yarding areas Sunday.

In the denser cedar lowlands of the valley deer tracks were everywhere, snow around piles of hay left for the deer by snowmobilers Saturday was thoroughly trampled by deer at some points Sunday.

Lockwood guided some 23 Charlevoix snowmobiles into the Pinney Bridge area of the Jordan Saturday on a deer feeding mission. More than a dozen Charlevoix snowmobilers were back in the area Sunday with more hay, corn and other feed.

Volunteers who will go deep into the swamp to cut cedar will be doing the deer the most good, Lockwood said.

On Sunday's safari, Dufon, Lockwood and Great Lakes Fisheries Station chief Myrl Keller followed the Jordan River State Forest Drive scenic trail, with frequent side trips into the swamps.

Though deer yarded up tight in early January due to the near record snowfall, recent thaws and the hard crust allowed them to start moving before they were in any real danger, Dufon pointed out.

Both Dufon and Lockwood pointed out that heavy snow in the next few weeks could force deer into their yards tighter than ever, resulting in hundreds of deaths.

If this happens they are hoping snowmobilers will show as much volunteer enthusiasm for feeding projects as they did this weekend. Persons interested in feeding deer were asked to check first with Dufon or Lockwood at the Conservation office in Boyne City.

While the deer do not have a serious browse problem now, Dufon pointed out they are at a tragic disadvantage when attacked by dogs. Dogs are able to run across the crusted snow while the deer break through, slowing them down and injuring them.

He asked that hunters keep their dogs under control at all times. Even the best trained dog, he pointed out, is instinctively apt to run deer.

Due to the feeding program, Lockwood pointed out deer may learn to associate the noise of snowmobiles with food. He suggested that snowmobilers who spot deer in areas where feeding projects have been underway may have found the deer are less inclined to run if they leave their snowmobile engine running.

GED tests

General Educational Development (GED) tests will be given at Charlevoix High School starting at 9 a.m. on February 13 and 14.

Persons who pass the GED tests will receive a high school equivalency certificate. Persons from Charlevoix, Ellsworth, Central Lake, East Jordan and Bellaire take GED tests at Charlevoix.

Those taking the test must register in advance at the superintendent's office.

OFFICIAL NOTICE OF SALE
$1,595,000.00
CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOLS
COUNTIES OF CHARLEVOIX AND ANTRIM, MICHIGAN SCHOOL DISTRICT BONDS

Sealed bids for the purchase of School District Bonds to be issued by Charlevoix Public Schools, Counties of Charlevoix and Antrim, Michigan, of the par value of $1,595,000, will be received by the undersigned, at the office of the Board of Education in the High School, Garfield Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, until 8:00 o'clock P.M., Eastern Standard Time, on Monday, the 24th day of February, 1969, at which time and place said bids will be publicly opened and read.

Said bonds will be dated July 1, 1968, will be coupon [illegible] $5,000 each, will be numbered consecutively in the direct order of their maturities from 1 to 319, both inclusive, and will bear interest from their date at a rate or rates not exceeding [illegible] per annum, payable on January 1, 1969, and thereafter semi-annually on January 1st and July 1st. The highest interest rate on any of said bonds shall not be more than twice the lowest interest rate on any other of said bonds. Each bid shall state the annual interest rate or rates upon which it is submitted expressed in multiples of 1/8 of 1% or 1/20 of 1%, or any combination thereof. The interest on any one bond shall be at one rate only and shall be evidenced by only one coupon for each coupon period, and all bonds maturing in the same year shall carry the same interest rate. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such bonds must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

Said bonds will mature serially on the first day of July in each year as follows: $20,000 in the year 1969; $50,000 in each of the years 1970 through 1973; $75,000 in each of the years 1974 through 1978; and $100,000 in each of the years 1979 through 1988. Bonds maturing in the years 1984 to 1988, both inclusive, will be subject to redemption by the school district prior to maturity, in inverse numerical order, on any one or more interest payment dates on and after July 1, 1983. Provided, however, that the school district may call for redemption, in inverse numerical order, any of said callable bonds which bear interest at a higher rate before calling bonds bearing interest at a lower rate. Bonds called for redemption shall be redeemed at the par value thereof and accrued interest plus a premium on each bond in accordance with the following Schedule:

$150 if called to be redeemed on or after July 1, 1983 but prior to July 1, 1985

$100 if called to be redeemed on or after July 1, 1985 but prior to July 1, 1987

$50 if called to be redeemed on or after July 1, 1987

Notice of redemption shall be published not less than 30 days prior to the date fixed for redemption, at least once in a newspaper or publication circulated in the City of Detroit, Michigan, which carries as a part of its regular service, notices of the sale of municipal bonds. Bonds called for redemption shall not bear interest after the date fixed for redemption, provided funds are on hand with the paying agent to redeem the same. Both principal and interest will be payable at such bank or trust company, qualified to serve as paying agent under the laws of the State of Michigan or the United States of America, as shall be designated by the original purchaser of the bonds, subject to approval by the school district. A likewise qualified and approved co-paying agent may also be so designated.

The bonds are to be issued for the purpose of defraying the cost of erecting, furnishing, and equipping a new elementary school building, and remodeling, improving, refurnishing and re-equipping the present elementary school building and for developing school sites, and will be the general obligations of the school district, which is authorized and required by law to levy upon all the taxable property therein such ad valorem taxes as may be necessary to pay said bonds and the interest thereon, without limitation as to rate or amount, as provided in Section 16, Article IX, of the Constitution of Michigan.

For the purpose of awarding the bonds, the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the bonds from March 1st to their respective maturities and deducting therefrom any premium. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the school district. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $31,900, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the school district, must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Dickinson, Wright, McKean & Cudlip, attorneys, Detroit, Michigan, approving the legality of the bonds. The cost of said legal opinion and of the printing of the bonds (with the legal opinion printed on the back thereof) will be paid by the school district. There will also be furnished the usual closing papers, including a non-litigation certificate, dated as of the delivery of the bonds. Bonds will be delivered at Detroit, Michigan, or Chicago, Illinois, at the expense of the school district, or elsewhere at the expense of the buyer. Payment shall be made in Federal Reserve Funds. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Bonds".

Eddie Gilbert and friend have returned to Detroit after spending last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gilbert.

Mrs. Jack Jentzen is in Jackson visiting their children.

The Ladies Fellowship will meet Wednesday evening in the Church Dining Room.

We are extending Birthday Greetings this Wednesday to Mrs. Jennie Duffy one of our older residents and church members who now makes her home in Charlevoix. Jennie is 84 years old and enjoys her daily walk and thinks that keeps her well and looking so young. Our congratulations.

Tommie Bacon caught a fourteen inch Perch this Sunday afternoon near the Ferry. Perhaps the big ones are getting hungry.

Mrs. Evelyn Alexander and Diane and Mrs. Ruth Roberts spent Saturday in Petoskey with R.E. Miller.

We are sorry to hear about Sonny Williams snowmobile accident this Saturday afternoon in the field back of Woodburys. He hit a patch of frozen crusty snow and is in Little Traverse Hospital with a broken shoulder and several broken ribs. We extend him the sincere sympathy of our community.

We have been having unusual weather first a thaw then cold that has made a heavy glistening crust everywhere. Haven't seen this for a long time. The ice conditions on the lake are also unusual and uncertain. The big lake is still not frozen but Mr. Groundhog saw his shadow this Sunday morning so, who knows what the next two months will bring. Don't neglect to feed the birds. This type of weather makes it most difficult for birds and animals to find food and shelter.

Six members of the weekly Club met with Mrs. Rose Gilbert last Wednesday afternoon. They will meet this Wednesday with Mrs. Fred Harrison.

Mrs. Evelyn Vanderwall entertained a group of friends Wednesday evening honoring Mrs. Jan Beardsly who with her family will make their home in South Haven.

The Church Meeting this next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 is most important and we hope to see all officers, trustees and committee members and any other interested persons attend February 9th.

Tom Nielsen is a medical patient in the Charlevoix Hospital. He has the very best wishes of all his friends.

Pete and Mary Bennett watched a Weather Balloon land in the field back of the Ross Alexander residence at 8:15 Sunday morning. It had been sent from Green Bay, Wisconsin dated 2-2 or February 2nd, it gave orders for the one who found it to mail it to Jolliet, Illinois for repairs.

Boyne to get doctor

BOYNE CITY--Dr. Richard Mansfield of Pontiac is expected to begin practicing in Boyne City July 1, 1969, culminating a two - year community campaign for a doctor.

Dr. Mansfield is now an intern at Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital.

A fund-raising drive is underway to build a three-doctor medical center for the community. Dr. Mansfield will be the first occupant, but more are expected.

The Lions Club is spearheading the fund raising drive — with help from the Sears Foundation.

The Wallace house

Our most-photographed home

by PAT BEGROW

Most Charlevoix people and hundreds of summer visitors know the house of Larry and Jeannine Wallace at 301 Clinton St. simply as The Mushroom House.

Artists have set up their easels for whole afternoons in front of this house and photographers have a field day photographing it.

Most of them have not known the Wallaces at all or known any of the history of this interesting house. If they did they would probably come by the score for the foundations of this house are nearly 100 years old.

This house was a traditional Michigan Wing house until Earl Young decided to do something about it. He promptly took off the upper floor, added a new roof and an addition on the main level and by doing so created a new house entirely.

It may be hard to believe, but the inside of the Wallaces' house is even more attractive than the outside. The house is deceptively large and has a living room, dining room, kitchen, den, three bedrooms and three complete bathrooms.

Mrs. Wallace has used the same know-how that she uses in buying for her Shop of the Gulls to select and to decorate her house.

The living room curves across the front of the house and its unusual shape makes it a delight to enter. The textures in this room are wonderful; the carpet is shaggy, the walls are paneled or stone, and the windows are leaded. Gay flowered couches add an air of informality to the room. On one wall the Wallaces have hung two pen and ink sketches by Ken Krantz. One drawing is of their house and the other of The Shop of the Gulls.

The master bedroom is decorated in soft blues, lavender and beige. Mrs. Wallace has used Nettle Creek fabrics for her curtains and spread. These are the same fine fabrics that she carries in her shop.

Right now Baby Rebecca occupies a crib in the room and enjoys being rocked there too, but soon she will move to her own bedroom upstairs near her teenage sister Maurine.

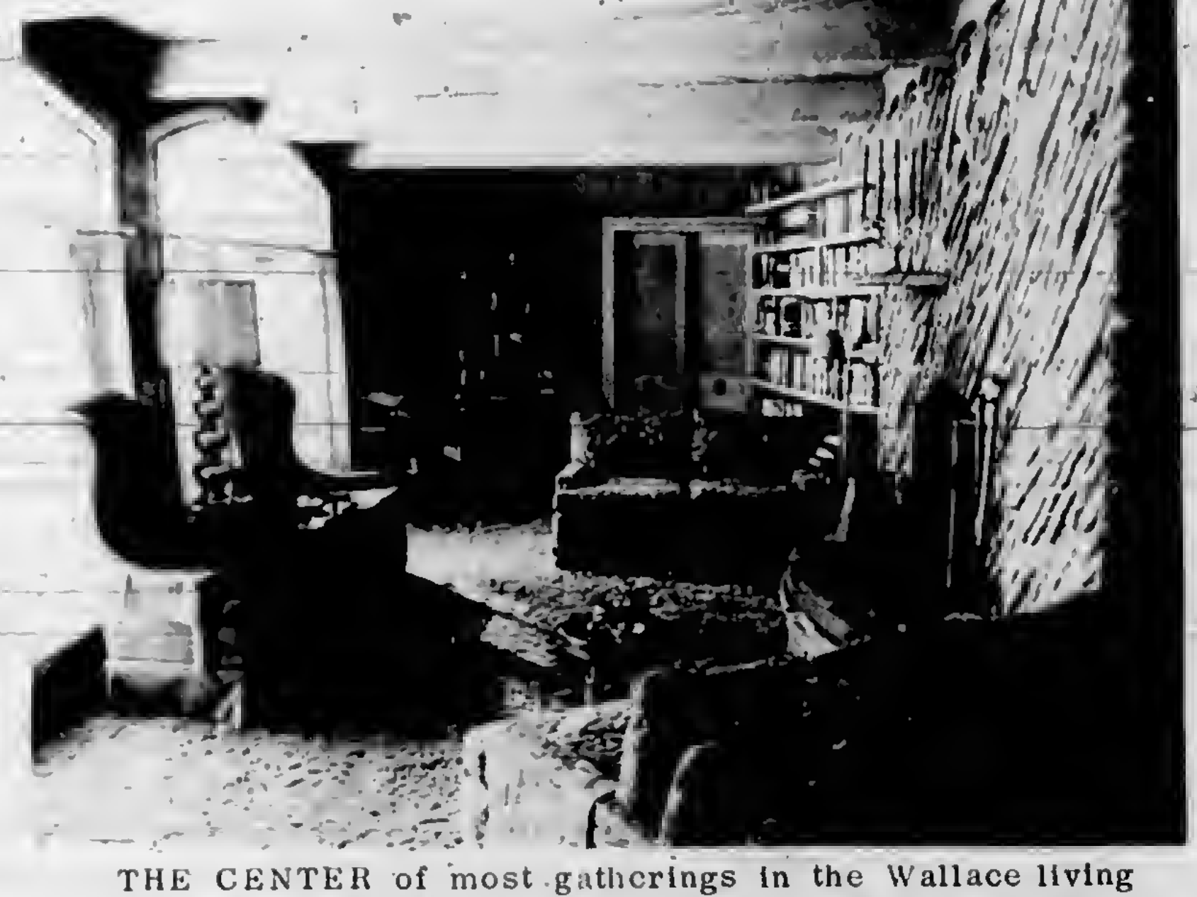
The comfortable den at the Wallace house shows the addition of a newcomer, too, for the best TV viewing spot in the room is from the playpen where Becky plays.

Next summer, if her mother puts her playpen outdoors, Becky will probably just assume that the artists and photographers have come to visit her and never realize that her Mushroom House is the most photographed house in Charlevoix.

EARL YOUNG'S magical touch is apparent in the Larry Wallace home at 301 Clinton St. Earl created the mushroom house by rebuilding the typical Michigan Wing home at the right, the foundation of which remains.

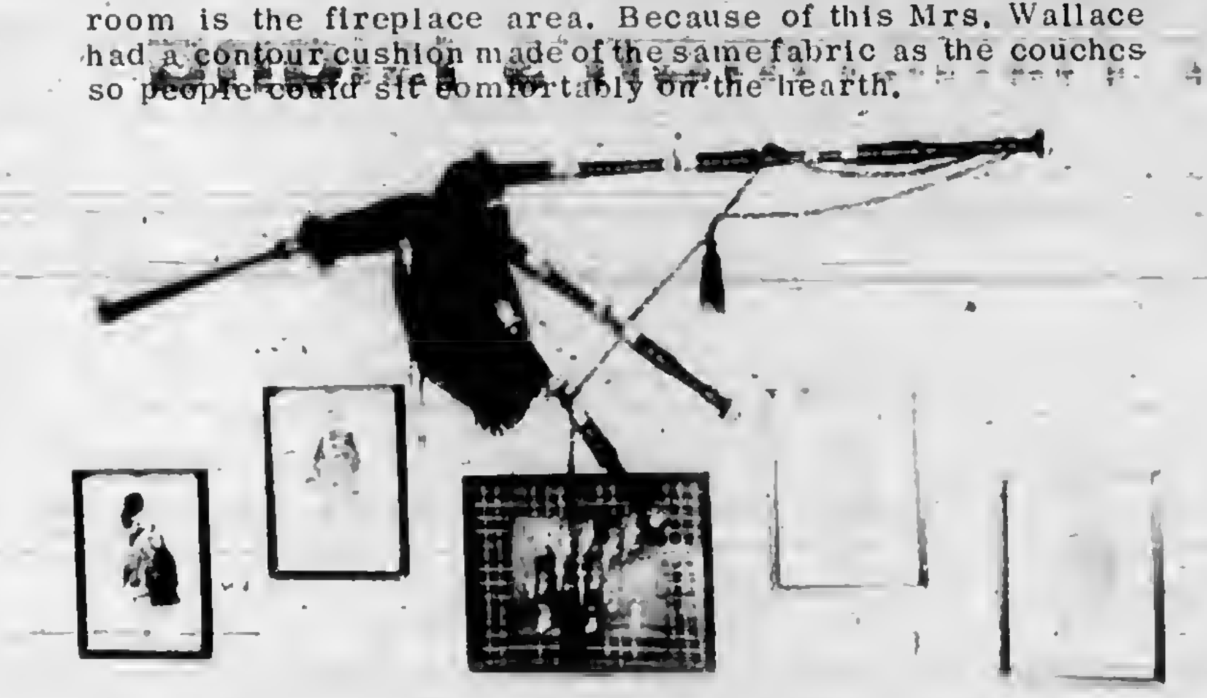
Homes of Charlevoix

by PAT BEGROW



THE CENTER of most gatherings in the Wallace living room is the fireplace area. Because of this Mrs. Wallace had a contour cushion made of the same fabric as the couches so people could sit comfortably on the hearth.

A BREAKFAST bar in the Wallace kitchen makes a handy place to eat and run. This kitchen is decorated imaginatively in shades of turquoise and brown.



THE FOREBEARERS of Larry Wallace were Scotch through and through, so in the den the Wallaces have hung bagpipes, pictures of bagpipers and a picture of the Wallace family in their Wallace plaid.

Take credit on local tax

State Rep. Robert W. Davis, St. Ignace, reminds taxpayers, when filing their 1968 state income tax returns, to be sure to take property tax credits. State law permits taking a percentage of a taxpayer's property tax as credit on his state income tax.

For example, a person paying $400.00 in local property taxes will be able to claim $42.50 as a credit against the Michigan Income Tax. Davis emphasized that this is a credit against the tax and not an itemized income deduction.

Rep. Davis explained, "this was the Legislature's method of granting property tax relief when it adopted the state income tax in 1967."

State-wide property tax relief is expected to total $105 million in 1969.

We can afford swimming pool

CHARLEVOIX'S Kiwanians are a determined bunch of men when it comes to something they feel will benefit our community. . . . and especially our kids. For this they long ago earned our heartiest applause.

The club's tenacity in reviving its 20-year (or longer) campaign to bring year-round swimming to Charlevoix caught most of us off-guard. At first glance the project simply appears too ambitious to many citizens who see rising school costs, city expenses for a new sewage plant, etc.

But on second glance, isn't it a wonderful dream? And why can't the dream come true, now?

The club's swimming pool committee has done its homework. A state-approved design has already been prepared. Due to careful engineering and donations of labor and materials, the cost has been figured at no more than $100,000. One-third of the necessary money, we understand, has already been raised.

Most of us probably recognize that someday Charlevoix is going to have a swimming pool. (Boyne City and East Jordan are expected to have one in their new high school.)

So, if we can agree that an indoor public pool is a very likely reality someday, isn't it good business to start right now? Kiwanis president-elect Don Anders points out the cost will continue to rise the longer we procrastinate.

The Courier has some doubts about the operating cost of such a facility. Kiwanians figure it will cost about $64 a day to operate the pool and related youth activity facilities. They believe this amount will come in from modest fees charged for swimming, using pool tables, etc.

At this point we frankly fear guesstimates of operating costs and revenue are risky business. However, we have no doubt Charlevoix can afford such a facility once it is ready for business. The answers, and money, will come, we are confident. So let's be bold.

We are also in full accord with the club's desire to see the pool located in a central downtown area. Several sites immediately suggest themselves. One is directly behind the Hess furniture store and Courier on Park Ave. (Starting where Dr. Walter Hoffmann's home and office is).

The city can probably help in this phase of the project. Federal money is generally available for land acquisition for such community endeavor.

Attorney Don Berlage's suggestion that some thought be given to a long-range effort to develop a complete community recreation and convention facility in connection with the pool rates serious consideration.

As Berlage pointed out, this broad objective should not be allowed to slow progress on the pool, but it should be considered in selecting a site and building the pool.

With our several large motels and other facilities, Charlevoix has the makings for a first-rate small convention business. To get this lucrative off-season business we need an auditorium and meeting rooms.

Considerable support from summer residents would likely be forthcoming for the more complete facility Berlage suggests.

However, no matter how appealing a total recreation complex is, the immediate objective is to find out if the community supports the Kiwanis Club's enthusiasm for a swimming pool. If for some reason adequate donations are not received the club will at least have the satisfaction of having done its best for a cause it believed in. Such is the purpose of civic clubs.

State penalty for our school wealth

TOO little heed may have been paid last week to school superintendent Rex Milligan's warning that Charlevoix stands to loose its state aid if its taxable property valuation continues to rise.

Milligan said that under current legislation school districts with $30,000 in taxable property behind each student get no state aid. Charlevoix, he explained, already has $24,000 behind each child and valuation has been rising rapidly.

Citizens should also realize that the $177 per-student Charlevoix now gets in state aid is considerably less than is given to districts with less valuation than we have. For instance, Boyne City gets $267 and Boyne Falls gets $279.

Under one state aid formula proposed for next year we understand Charlevoix's state aid would drop to below $100, while that of poorer districts would go up.

On first look this business of penalizing districts for being relatively wealth appears cockeyed. However, on reflection, the Courier cannot argue with it.

The legislature's intent, in theory, is to see that all Michigan school districts have the funds to provide at least a minimally acceptable education. All of us must agree that because a child lives in a poor district does not mean he should receive a poor education. And since we all have a stake in this we must all pay. It is a democratic way to equalize educational opportunities.

Following through with this concept it appears that a school district with $30,000 valuation per student is able to pay its way without aid from the state.

The Courier not only will not argue with this conclusion, we encourage it. We also see immediate advantages to no longer being dependent on state aid.

The advantage, of course, is that when we sever the state aid check we also sever the state's control of our curriculum, program facilities and teachers' qualifications. We can then develop and operate a school program as we think it should be run.

If our school administrators are imaginative and bold enough to lead in such a daring undertaking we could have the finest school system in the state.

However, the Courier holds out little hope for such a dramatic and inspiring development. Unfortunately, educators are molded into a thought process which seems to make individual thinking and unconventional ideas unworkable.

A family boat club here?

Charlevoix's wonderland of boating fun doesn't belong exclusively to vacationing tourists. Not by a long shot!

The full realization of this is quickly driven home if you will wind your way through the snowmobiles to the stairway at Bellinger's marina. Stored upstairs (and downstairs) is a fantastic array of locally-owned boats. You wouldn't believe there are so many local boating bugs.

Yet Bellinger's winter storage is only a small part of the picture. Hundreds of Charlevoixians own boats. Many of us own more boat than we can afford. Some of us live here partially because the boating is so great.

However, few of us get as much fun out of our boating as we could and should.

So what's the point?

Okay. It's just this: We should quit gossiping about the problems local boaters have and get down to doing something about them.

Every spring and fall boating enthusiasts start talking about organizing a boat club (yacht club if you wanna get stuffy) for local families. And every spring or fall when I start hearing this talk I say I'll join when it gets going. Probably dozens of others say the same thing.

But, of course, we never get it going. Maybe this is the time of year to do something about it.

In the hopes of crystalizing thinking to see if there is any real interest, following is a sort of composite picture of the various thoughts I've overheard.

First, such a club should probably be a family thing. Families owning everything from open outboard skiffs, pontoon boats and sailing boards to cruisers would be welcome.

Like as not there would be no racing involved. Few local families are interested in racing and it is even more doubtful such a club would have the answers to the safety problems involved.

Club activities would center around cruises.

These would include, for instance, scheduled evening dinner junkets to, say, Harbor Springs, Northport, Boyne City and maybe even Leland or Traverse City.

A fleet of club members' boats--with two or so couples in each boat--would travel in a group to one of these towns for dinner. Boat operating expenses would be shared.

Other cruise-type parties might include family or couple breakfast trips to Boyne City or East Jordan. Arrangements could be made with restaurants ahead of time.

Of course, picnics and swimming parties could also be on the calendar, as would group trips to Beaver Island and other more distant places for overnights with bigger boats.

Rafting parties (tying several boats together) in mid-lake might also be popular with some families.

Why should we organize and schedule these kind of activities? Can't we do them on our own?

The answer, of course, is that some of us do keep our boats busy (busier than we should), but the majority of families have too little fun with their boats. The reason is probably because they seldom plan far enough ahead so that someone else is free to join them when they get the urge to go.

Furthermore, there is a safety factor involved in boating together. Many boat owners are hesitant about taking off for, say, Harbor Springs, because they lack the open-water experience or have doubts about the wisdom of venturing far without the comfort of having another boat nearby.

And how about reasons for such a club other than just for the fun of it?

Dockage could be the number one benefit. Local boat owners for years have felt sour about not being able to find dockage they can afford.

Understandably, the city's yacht docks have to be expensive. They are--and for the most part should be--for visiting boaters.

A boat club, though, could build dockage and lease it to members for a fair rate.

The city, undoubtedly, would be receptive to a club project to build docks at public property at the foot of Burns St. This area is now used by a half-dozen local boaters who would be glad to share it.

Probably the approach here would be to have someone (preferably a club member) design inexpensive removable docks that club members could install. The city council's ok would hava to be given.

In tima the club might have the funds to build more extensive dockage on property it would purchase.

Other financial benefits might include a contract arrangement with one or more marina to service and store members boats.

Not being in the marina business this department doesn't know if this is feasible, but it has been suggested several times that marinas might be able to pass on some savings to boaters if they had a contract which guaranteed them so much work a year.

Another idea sometimes expressed is that the club could buy several boats for cooperative use. The users would raimburse the club based on how much they use the club boats.

The Charlevoix Flying Club owns an airplane under a similar arrangement and it appears to work pretty good for them.

Though many of us who now own all the boat we want would have no interest in renting a club boat, other families might find it real appealing because they do not want to invest in a boat or because they would like a larger boat to use only a few days, or hours, a year.

Over the years other raasons for organizing a Charlevoix Boat Club have been overheard by this department. But those above should be enough to find out if there is interest in such an undertaking.

If enough interest if shown we'll call a meeting. So give John Michael, Ralph Hess, Jack Rader, Pat Hawley or myself a ring if you'd like to get things going.

(One promise! This editor hates meetings and loves boating, so there'll be a minimum of meetings and a maximum of boating if you are interested.)--Shep.

Urges strong support be shown for preservation of Fisherman's Island

Dear Editor:

It was encouraging to attend the recent hearing on the Bell's Bay Lease proposal, and see the great interest of the local residents in tho management of this resource. Since the meeting was limited strictly to this issue, it was not learned how much interest oxists in adding the so called Fisherman's Island property to the present State holdings, which those attending clearly wanted left in State ownership. I believe there is much interest in the Fisherman's Island acquisition, and feel that your readers should understand exactly what will be involved if this property is to be acquired by the State.

The one-hundred million dollar bond issue passed by the votors last fall will be the main source of funds for such acquisition. The Department of Natural Resources, in studying its land and park needs establishes priorities for the parcels of land under consideration. It is apparent, however, that the bond monies will be appropriated by line item by the logislature. This means that it is the legislature that will ultimately decide which lands are to be bought, and that the Department's priorities will be advisory at best.

With the concentration of both legislators and social problems in Southeastern Michigan, it is likely that the majority of the one-hundred million dollars will be spent in this part of the State, and that outstate areas will see little of the money. The only hope we have of seeing this or other desirous properties authorized for purchase by the legislature lies in working with and through our State Representative and Senator. Strong local support and organization will be essential.

It is my hope that tho strong interest in proservation of the Bell's Bay property can now be channelled into a concerted drive to add the Fisherman's Island property to the state's holdings, and that public spirited local citizens will come forward to lead this drive.

Pine Point

Dear Editor:

Concerning the suit by four Pine Point property owners to take over 250 feet of publicly owned beach on Lake Charlevoix, the only reason the "public" has not been using it is because those same property owners have been forcibly running off anyone that they didn't approve on that stretch of beach.

My suggestion is that some of our "public money" be spent immediately to extend the road into the area as planned in 1913, or any other practicable, desirable improvament.

If this is all it takes to get our beach back, out of the hands of these four people, let's do it NOW, before some highar court goes along with them.

As Pine Point property owners, we had been wondering what we needed to do to gain permission to use our beach.

The color of the snake is deceiving

by Jim Fitzgerald

This week's column may sound silly at first, about snakes and stuff, but I hope you serious-minded readers will wade through the nonsense because I may close with a moral.

(If I don't, I'll just come back and erase that first paragraph. I do that frequently. Being a columnist is really not tough once you learn how to cheat.)

Anyway: My wife is scared nutty of snakes. Not the ordinary fright common to many of us. It doesn't have to be a live snake. When she reads Life magazine, she has one of the kids inspect each page before she will look at it. "That stupid magazine is always printing pictures of cobras," Pat explains. When a snake shows up on our TV screen, she gets in the car and drives 15 miles outside of town. That kind of fright.

When we were first married, I tried to drag my wife into the snake house at the zoo. "Just look at a snake; maybe touch it. You'll see it is harmless and then you won't be scared anymore," I explained wisely.

"You make me look at a snake and I will kill you," she said. "And I will never talk to you again, either."

Well, her threat was only half-bad and I had to think about it awhile. I finally chose life and said to heck with her, I give up, let her hate snakes. There aren't many in our neighborhood anyway.

But there was one thing I forgot. Children follow their parents' example. I could stand one irrational fear in the house, but now I have a couple of daughters who also hate snakes. And they'll pass the stupid fear onto my grandchildren. And so on through the centuries. It is easy to see why there are so many nuts in the world. There are not enough people dragged into snake houses.

These snaky thoughts occurred to me the other day when my wife mentioned another of her fears. She is afraid of getting mugged in Detroit. This was on the day the newspapers front-paged the slugging of Ray Eppert in an underground garage in downtown Detroit. He use to head Burroughs Corp. and has much money. It is a lot bigger news when a rich man gets robbed. You can read about Joe Slob, who was robbed of his last $5, on page 62.

I decided it was time to take the family into downtown Detroit again. Snakes are one thing; people are another. I don't want my kids to avoid Cobo Hall for fear they'll get slugged. Despite what you read in the papers, millions of big city people never get mugged. So we saw the Pistons lose at Cobo and then we got lost in Cobo's underground garage. Honest, I didn't plan it that way, but it turned out fine.

It seems there are 2 garages under Cobo - one for the arena and one for the hall. We parked in the arena garage and then spent 45 minutes looking for our car on 3 levels of the hall garage. The crowd thinned out quickly and our voices were beginning to echo. Mother and daughter Chrissie were obviously nervous.

"Don't worry, Mother," said Eddie, the wise-guy son. "I just saw a sign that said no mugging allowed in this area." (He's not afraid of snakes, either).

Unfortunately, many people associata muggings with Negroes. There are several valid sociological and geographical reasons why a high percentage of Detroit muggings are committed by black people. Besides, mugging is a petty crime and most white crooks can't be bothered. They are too busy with big crime which is still segregated.

The important thing is that children learn black is not automatically bad. I want my kids to be cautious of dark alleys. I don't want them to flinch every time a Negro approaches. There was obviously a lesson to be learned that night under Cobo Hall.

My wife taught it, God bless her. She asked a stranger for directions and he guided us to the right garage. The stranger was as kind as he was black. Moral: Don't be afraid of a snake unless you are positive it is poisonous. And don't hate a garter snake simply because it's the same color as the rattler that bit Aunt Minnie.

Next summer I will get the family lost in the zoo. And I'll ask a snake for directions.

Senator lays it on the line about smut

By TOM SCHWEIGERT
State Senator

LANSING -- Who, if anyone, will try to end the wave of erotic exhibitionism and journalistic filth that has been engulfing Michigan university and college campuses of late? That is a big question in the legislature. With many university and college administrators either unable or unwilling to put a damper on public nudity and skid row language in campus publications, many Michigan parents are begging their legislators to do something about it.

Legislators are loath to step into the collegiate cesspools, largely because of questionable authority under the constitution and because they have many more pressing problems to solve.

But the pressures have been mounting on the legislature in the wake of the disrobing of 10 actors in a Greek play at the University of Michigan, the disrobing of a student poet in class at Oakland University, and the publication of filthy language in a student paper at Grand Valley College.

The State Constitution puts the power of operating the universities in the boards of trustees and power of overseeing the colleges in the state board of education.

What, then, can the legislature do to satisfy the complaints of disturbed parents who do not wish to expose their children to the growing moral degradation on college and university campuses?

Primarily, the legislative control of such public institutions is financial. If it wanted, the legislature could give a stern warning to school administrators by drastically reducing appropriations. It may ultimately come to this but legislators are reluctant to take this means of control because the great number of serious, knowledge-seeking students would be hurt more than the filth-mongers parading under the guise of art and freedom of expression.

The senate, recognizing the need to satisfy disturbed parents and taxpayers, has created an eight-member committee to "study student activity and disorders on university campuses."

The resolution creating the committee noted that "the legislature annually appropriates millions of dollars for the support of state institutions of higher learning" and that "it is imperative that the atmosphere on the campuses be conducive to the learning process and that it not be disrupted through illegal or disorderly student activities."

The committee is empowered to "study breaches of the peace and disorders", including the "influence of any subversive groups and the role of the Students for a Democratic society as related to campus disorders."

It is primarily concerned with "the need for legislation to correct any abuses which might exist."

County deer reported better off than most

As the Dept. of Natural Resources mobilizes to meet a threat of disaster for deer in northern lower and the upper Michigan, Charlevoix County's deer herd is reported out of the critical area.

District game biologist Ford Kellum of Gaylord said the only area of Charlevoix County where conditions are nearing the critical stage for deer is in the Jordan River Valley.

Conditions for deer in the Jordan valley and other areas of the county could become critical if the county has more major snow storms or extended sub-zero temperatures with high winds, Kellum said.

Snowmobilers, he said, can help by placing corn and hay well off the traveled roads in areas where deer are known to be yarded this winter. Corn on the cob, he said, is best and can be purchased at co-ops.

He asked, though, that snowmobilers take care not to harass deer.

Kellum also urged that persons who discover serious trouble spots for deer notify the Boyne City conservation office immediately.

The Department of Natural Resources is mobilizing to meet a worsening threat of disaster to Michigan's northern deer herd, faced with the most severe winter conditions in decades.

"It's clear that, barring a weather miracle, deer in the Upper and northern Lower Peninsula are going to be in serious trouble before spring," DNR Director Ralph A. MacMullan warned. "In fact, they definitely are suffering already in some places."

The problem is heavy snowfall which drove the animals into their winter yards much earlier than normal. Snow depths throughout the north country are at or near record levels for this date.

Once yarded, deer must subsist on whatever food is available in the yards until the spring breakup. They can't or won't move out of the sheltered areas in search of other food. When winters are unusually long and severe, food runs out and the animals starve. As many as 50,000 deer have died in past winters similar to this one, MacMullan said.

"We are going to cope with this emergency by taking every possible step to increase the amount of deer food in the yards," MacMullan said. "These steps will include tree-cutting to provide extra natural browse and hauling of supplemental food like corn and hay. Undoubtedly, we will be calling on the public to volunteer their help in cutting and hauling."

Ordinarily, MacMullan noted, the Department does not encourage artificial feeding of deer during the winter. A deer herd in balance with its range doesn't need this kind of help during a normal winter.

"But when you get a winter like this," he added, "the normal rules of deer management don't apply. This is a real emergency -- a once in 20 years or a once in 50 years kind of a winter.

"Increasing public acceptance of our antlerless deer hunting program has allowed us to do a good job of managing deer for the past several years," MacMullan continued. "Now we owe it to the public to do everything we can when disaster looms.

"Undoubtedly, we'll lose some deer to starvation in spite of every effort we make, perhaps a lot of them. Almost certainly, too, part of next spring's fawn crop will be lost. Those are the harsh realities, and we have to face them. But that doesn't mean we shouldn't try to save what we can."

Orders have gone out to DNR field men in the north to make intensive surveys of known deer yards and pinpoint the areas where starvation threatens. A few such areas already are known, and many more undoubtedly will be found.

The Department is stepping up its programs of bulldozing and handcutting cedar, aspen and other browse species in critical areas and is trying to accelerate commercial logging operations in such places. Logging has been hampered by deep snow and plugged roads.

Bulldozing, cutting and logging increase deer food by bringing tall treetops down to where the animals can feed on them. Any browse growing more than seven feet off the ground is normally out of reach.

Necessary paperwork is being done to get the federal government to release supplies of surplus corn for emergency feeding. Sources of high-quality alfalfa hay--the only kind of hay of any value as deer food--are being sought. The Department does not have funds to buy hay, but private individuals and groups may do so.

The problem is getting the food into the yards in large enough quantities over a long enough time span. A deer needs 3 to 4 pounds of nutritious food a day to stay alive, and it must be taken to where they are.

"We think snowmobile owners can play a big part in this effort," MacMullan said. "These machines make it possible to move people and food into the yards on a scale not possible previously. We also think that people with chainsaws can help with the cutting programs."

The Director also urged owners of private lands in the north to survey conditions on their property and begin feeding deer if necessary. Department field men will provide information and advice on how to make such programs effective.

"We'll hope and pray for a prolonged thaw now and an early spring breakup," MacMullan concluded, "but we obviously can't count on either. We've got to assume that present conditions will persist and act accordingly."

Obituary

Mrs. Irma Hannah

Funeral services were held Saturday, February 1, from the Winchester Funeral Home for Mrs. Irma Hannah, 75, who died January 30 at Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Rev. Leona Winegarden officiated at the services. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery.

Mrs. Hannah was born May 10, 1893 in Norwood Township. She married Luther Hannah in 1924 and was a lifelong resident of the county. Mr. Hannah died in 1953.

She was a member of the Rebecahs, Charlevoix Methodist Church and American Legion Auxiliary.

Seven boys get Scout advancement

Seven Charlevoix Boy Scouts were among those awarded star and life ratings at the January Board of Review of the Northern District of the Scenic Trails Council.

Local Scouts receiving life ratings were Alan D. and Joseph Avery of Troop 11.

Charlevoix boys receiving star ratings Robert Donaldson, Randy Gustafson, Walter Kroush, Richard Milligan and Paul Osterberg, all of Troop 11.

Duane Reihel of Neighborhood Patrol 16, Ellsworth, also received his Star Scout rating.

"Charlevoix Troop 11 presented one of the largest groups of candidates to appear before the District Board in many years," Louis Edwards, scoutmaster, said. "The award of district rankings is the mark of a Scout troop's ambition and success in the area of individual advancement in scouting virtues, skills and knowledge," he added."

Lack of debate keeps voters cool

A turnout of probably no more than half the city's 1,769 registered voters is seen in Monday's annual city primary election.

Though there are two contests on the ballot--one for mayor and one for Third Ward councilman--no major public debate on issues has developed to create voter interest.

Dr. Walter Hoffmann, a former Second Ward councilman, is challenging incumbent Mayor Bill Fochtman.

In the Third Ward Mrs. Edward Vogler and Ken Wojan are challenging Councilman Clifton Sundberg. Sundberg was appointed to the council to replace Del Terrill, who resigned.

Unchallenged council candidates are Tom Hanna in the First Ward and incumbent Bob Gill in the Second Ward. First Ward Councilwoman Mrs. Marie Webb did not run for a second term.

All candidates have filed as Republicans.

Also unchallenged are City Clerk Hugh Mayne and City Treasurer Annabelle Cunningham.

There are 534 voters registered in the First Ward, 630 in the Second Ward and 605 in the Third Ward.

The polls in City Hall will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, February 17.

Because there are no Democratic candidates on the ballot, persons nominated in Monday's primary are assured of victory without opposition in April's general election, unless a write-in campaign develops.

ERNIE ZEITLER, Secretary of State branch office manager, points out area car owners have until February 28 to get their 1969 plates. Zeitler, whose office is located at 404½ W. Upright, estimates 2,000 area people are still without their new plates. His office hours, starting Monday, February 17, will be from 9 to 5 on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. On Wednesdays he will be open from 10 to 8. Saturdays from 9 to 3. He takes his lunch break from 1 to 2.

Medusa gets clean bill from state air sampling

The State Health Dept's comparative air sampling tests fail to show any concrete evidence of air pollution from Medusa's South Point plant, according to a report released last night.

The 13-page report, highly technical in part, was presented to the Charlevoix Township Board Monday evening by District Health Dept. sanitarian Dean Mikulski.

The nearly complete text of the report, with minor editing to remove portions meaningful only to a technician, appears on the Editorial Page of this week's Courier.

Bernard Bloomfield, chief of the state's air pollution control division, stated in his conclusion of the report, "It is our view that our sample findings, namely the levels of particulate in the air, are typical of a relatively clean community and they are significantly lower than those concentrations which typify other cities in Michigan and in other communities in the United States. . .the air in Charlevoix is relatively clean."

The report compares impurities found in the air during a 1965-66 series of pre-Medusa tests and a series of tests run last summer after Medusa was in operation.

Two types of air sampling techniques were used. One collected dust and other impurities which fell into pots. The other sucked air through a filter.

"It appears, then," the report states, "that in the past few years there has been a slight increase in dustfall levels but the increase is not sufficient to cause concern or to indicate the presence of any new or unusual sources of particulate in the air. More importantly, our findings do not reflect a general degradation in the quality of the air in the Charlevoix community."

Dust collected in the sampling equipment, Bloomfield explained, was taken to a Lansing laboratory in an effort to determine where it originated. This, he said, was done by comparing the dust from the sampling equipment with dust collected within the cement plant.

"Dust collected by the filters in the community," he explained, was found to be "appreciably different from dust collected at the cement plant."

"A qualitative analysis," he added, "indicates that the dust collected in the Charlevoix community with our sampling equipment is significantly different in calcium content from that collected at the plant site. They are not the same materials, although there is the possibility that the Charlevoix community samples can be contaminated with some small quantities of airborne cement dust."

In concluding the report, Bloomfield wrote:

"We plan to continue our air sampling program. Also, we will continue in our efforts to work with management at the Medusa Cement plant so as to make certain that every possible means of air pollution control is applied in a manner so as to bring about compliance with the Michigan rules and regulations. Management has demonstrated a cooperative attitude and is fully aware of the difficulties that would ensue should they be the cause of an air pollution problem in the Charlevoix community."

After reviewing the report, Citizens' Air Pollution Control Committee Chairman Don Berlage said he would send copies of it to several committee members before the group takes any position. He said the findings probably should be studied by an expert in the fild.

County Bd. gets bill for maps

Charlevoix County taxpayers are being asked to settle the $2,689 unpaid balance on $11,000 worth of brochures ordered by the County Planning Commission.

The County Board of Supervisors has been asked to pay the nearly $3,000 remaining on the printing bill for 216,900 county map brochures, according to County Clerk Clarence Rabach.

Rabach, who served on the Board of Supervisors until he became clerk last month, said the board never agreed to pay more than its original $5,300 portion of the bill--which has been paid. However, he explained, because the Planning Commission is a county agency created by the board the supervisors may feel responsible for the bill.

The unpaid portion of the bill was on the board's agenda for yesterday's meeting.

Other items scheduled for the supervisors after Courier press time included appointment of three persons to the County Election Commission and setting the pay for the County Jury Board.

Creation of the election commission is required under a new state law. The commission will approve, or disapprove, the dates of all special elections in the county. The county clerk is automatically a member. The board must appoint a township clerk, city clerk and school board member to fill out the commission.

The Jury Board is also a new state requirement. Its members will be appointed by Governor William Milliken. The board will select juries from a county-wide list of registered voters on a numerical basis rather than the previous precinct-by-precinct basis. Members can be paid up to a maximum of $25 a day.

Senior trip cut back to one-night journey

The two-night Charlevoix High School senior trip is off.

After working with school board members and a vote of the entire class, the trip has been reduced to one night, it was announced at Monday's school board meeting.

School officials had tentatively approved the two-night trip, on condition that the seniors raise funds so that every class member could go.

When a vote of seniors was taken last week it was found the majority preferred a one-night trip, which had been encouraged by most school board members.

Board member Jerry Redeker said the seniors will leave Charlevoix Thursday morning, April 17 and return the evening of April 18. They will stay overnight at the Michigan Education Association's camp. Cost at the camp will be $8.50 per student for dinner, lodging and breakfast.

The class, Redeker said, has about $400 now and is working to raise another $700. This, he said, will leave about $4 for each student to pay.

The students are expected to see the Legislature in session, Kellogg cereal plant in Battle Creek and the Oldsmobile plant in Lansing.

Redeker said the board will probably require that future classes interested in making the trip do so in October or November so it will fit in better with their government class studies.

Area cooperation urged to meet growth problems

Cooperation between the city and township to provide the utilities and services needed by a growing population was recommended Monday by Joseph A. Parisi Jr., chief of the Michigan Township's Association.

Some 40 persons turned out for the public meeting in the VFW Hall, expecting to hear Parisi offer and alternative to the township's proposed merger with the city.

Instead, Parisi took an even stronger position than many advocates of merger have. He warned citizens that time may be running out for constructive long-range planning and mutual study of area problems.

He predicted the area will grow faster and larger than anyone had previously foreseen; suggesting the Charlevoix area could have a population of 25,000 to 30,000 in 30 years.

In response to County Supervisor Clayton Smith's complaint that persons in the south end of Charlevoix Township would not benefit directly from any plan to provide water for the more congested residential areas on the north side, Parisi questioned whether a small segment of the population should stand in the way of the majority and the future.

Parisi said he understands and personally sympathizes with Smith's desire to live in a lightly populated rural environment. He added that progress can often seem more destructive and beneficial.

However, Parisi pointed out, that growth (progress) cannot be stopped and in the long run is far more manageable if planned for and guided. He expressed doubt that the south side of the township can escape from the growth pattern that has so far concentrated largely on the north side.

A water and sewage system, Parisi said, can be provided for the township without it merging with the city into one unit of government.

This, he explained, can be accomplished by forming another unit of government--a public utilities authority covering both the township and city. Such an authority, he said, would buy the city's present water system, expand it to provide service to the township, and sell water to both city and township residents.

The authority, Parisi said, would raise funds to buy the city's water system and expand it, through general obligation bonds, revenue bonds and special assessment district bonds.

Under Michigan laws, Parisi explained, cities and townships can join forces without merging into one unit of government, to provide any service or utility citizens want and need.

Parisi also said the township can, legally, go it alone, raising money through a vote of the people, to pay for water and sewage systems and such services as police, a township hall, etc.

Steve LaBlance asked if this wouldn't be a wasteful duplication of services. Parisi agreed it probably would be, but added that if citizens of the township would rather pay higher taxes than join the city that is their right.

LaBlance asked whether Parisi thought in the future township residents should expect to pay for use of such city facilities as parks and beaches, which, he said, they have taken for granted in the past.

Parisi warned that merger of the city and Charlevoix Township could be unfair to city residents without a thorough study which would reveal how much of the added cost township residents should pay.

He pointed out the city has a stable tax rate and services and utilities due to generations of investment by city taxpayers. It would not be fair, he added, for township residents to have full advantage of this system without paying for some of the investment city people have made.

Parisi also recommended that Charlevoix County's Board of Supervisors consider creating a County Dept. of Public Works. A County DPW, he said, can bond and tax for utilities systems and services in unincorporated areas of the county.

In response to another question from Clayton Smith, who lives on US-31 at Barnard Rd., Parisi said he knows of no instance where a part of a township which, after having been left unincorporated when the rest of it joined a city has merged with another township.

The Township Board has petitioned the City Council to have the township merged with the city. So far the council has failed to act on the petition or take action to obtain a thorough study of the effects of such a merger.

Township officials report they must go ahead on their own with a water system if the city does not act soon.

Supers up pay

While supervisors in Detroit were retreating on their pay Charlevoix County Supervisors Tuesday unexpectedly hiked theirs.

Charlevoix's County Board voted to pay themselves a $600 a year ($50 a month) salary, with four supervisors voting no.

The $600 salary is in addition to the $35 per meeting the supervisors voted themselves in January. Previously supervisors were paid $25 per meeting and no salary. The salary is the first in history for county supervisors.

At their January meeting the supervisors voted against a salary and also voted down proposals to pay themselves $50 and $40 a day.

However, the salary plan was called back on the floor yesterday due to the higher pay supervisors in neighboring counties decided to pay themselves. Charlevoix County supervisors said that with the salary and $35 per diem they will still make less per year than supervisors in Emmet, Antrim and other nearby counties.

Under their new pay plan supervisors are expected to make around $1,160 a year; figuring they meet for 16 meetings a year they will each make $560 in per diem, plus $600 in salary.

Charlevoix County has 15 supervisors.

The four supervisors who voted against the salary plan Tuesday were Clyde Cunningham of Marion Township, Bill Taylor and Barney Milstein of East Jordan and Lee Moerland of Charlevoix.

Supervisor William Carson of Boyne Falls was absent.

Co-op names new manager

Herb Hodge is the new manager of the Charlevoix Cooperative, replacing Dave Wickersham.

Wickersham resigned to take a new job in Carson City.

HODGE

Hodge comes to Charlevoix from Traverse City, where he was a sales representative for the Farm Bureau. Prior to that he was manager of the Farm Bureau's cooperative in Scottville.

Mrs. Hodge, Laurita, and their five children are living in Traverse City until they can purchase a small farm in the Charlevoix area, Hodge said.

Hodge was raised on a farm in the Thumb area. He attends the Methodist church.

School sets April 7 vote on higher taxes

The Charlevoix School Board Monday evening set April 7 for an election on higher school taxes.

The amount of additional taxes the board will ask for was not set.

The election date is the same as the city general election. Voters will cast ballots in City Hall for council candidates and at the school on the increased taxes.

The tax increase request may be for as much as five mills. Each mill of taxation in the school district raises $36,000.

The school board is requesting higher taxes for the following major reasons:

- It anticipates a $20,000 operating budget deficit at the end of this year, which would be paid from increased revenue raised by higher taxes;
- Costs will increase next year due to higher teachers' salaries and the general inflationary trend;
- Costs will also increase due to the expense of running a third school, the new elementary on Division Ave. now under construction;
- The bond issue to build the new school and remodel the present elementary into a "middle grades" school did not include enough money to completely equip them.
- Several plans have been discussed for improving and expanding the school program, all of which would cost additional money.

Charlevoix School District taxpayers paid 19.45 mills in school taxes last year. This included 8.2 mills allocated from the county-wide 15 mills, 7 mills voted for operation and 5.25 mills to pay for construction of the new schools and the high school.

Except for Beaver Island, Charlevoix's school taxes last year were the lowest in the county.

All county schools receive 8.2 mills from the county 15-mill allocation. Charlevoix's 7 mills voted for operation compares to 10 mills in Boyne Falls and 12 mills in the Twin Valley (Boyne City-East Jordan) School District.

The April 7 vote will give the school district time to call another election if voters turn down the tax increase the first time around. It also comes before additional taxes for the Intermediate School District will be on the ballot in June and before city tax bills are mailed in June.

Chamber Chat
BY WALLY LODER

HOW YOU CAN'T KEEP OUT OF TROUBLE. "You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income."--Abraham Lincoln.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of this Chamber of Commerce wes held February 4, the meeting opened at 7:45 p.m. here et the Chamber office. Present were Lyle Miles, Gordon Neff, Dave Juilleret, Ralph Hess Jr., John Schroeder, and Don Sheets. Absent were Tom Acton, Larry LaGrow, and Tom Hanna.

Too bad three of the boys had to be absent, and here's hoping the entire board will make effort and be at the next meeting of importance, March 4 at 7:30 p.m. here at the Chamber office, harbor side building.

Mrs. Bernice Wexstaff and a new comer, Mrs. Rex Grooms, the latter reeently opened the Loft in Oleson's Shopping Center, appeared and presented the idea, for a number of good reasons, having a hobby and eraft show, to be held in the parkway downtown early in July. Mr. Dean Davenport appeared a little later in full support of this hobby show. A tentative date was set for Saturday, July 12, provided between now and the next meeting all avenues thoroughly be explored and approved by both groups. This in no way would interfere with the beautiful Waterfront Fair. As a matter of fact, this could absorb many of the rejeets from the WFF.

Among this in general discussion, of which there was quite a bit, was of eourse, the Waterfront Fair, an offer of a helicopter well established service, to have pleasure flights or sight seeing flights during any of our events this year, to mention but a few.

There was no new business, however, there was a eall for the committee chairmen reports.

In this category, Juilleret expressed much concern on steps taken for the queens eontest program, and talent show, the later tentatively scheduled for April 19. There were other phases of the Venetian Festival discussed. Our next regular meeting is just cbucked full of ideas and deeisions.

There it quieted down suddenly, and accordingly, Schroeder motioned to adjourn. This was seconded by Juilleret, and all in favor, and therefore, the meeting was adjourned at 9:05.

In an effort to keep abreast as much as possible, the former Island Charter Service group at a recent meeting changed the name to Great Lakes Charter Service. The organization thus far ineludes six registered pilots, who are experienced, who are making arrangements to base this service.

I wish to call to your attention Michigan Week Celebration Kiekoff will again be as it has been for years at Sturgis, Michigan. The theme, this year chosen by the Greater Michigan Foundation, is "Michigan, the Land of Hospitality." A letter from Sturgis Chamber of Commerce indicated the usual Grand Parade is being formulated, and that Governor William G. Milliken has been invited to be the Grand Marshall for the occasion. Of course, there will be state-wide coverage of this day by newspapers, tv, radio, and it is said that in addition to the t.v. viewing in 1968 of the spectacular parade, there were approximately 65,000 persons at hand on the parade route. It is a big day, and if any of you are that way, please remember Saturday, May 17, known as Community Pride Day at Sturgis, I think it would be a worthwhile stop.

I observed in the Detroiter, a weekly publication by the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commeree, this article; "If More Parents gave School Prineipals and Teaehers the benefit of the doubt and support in disciplinary matters, school probably would get back in the proper perspective." "Johnny ean't always be right."

Baptist in new Church on M-66

The first service was held Sunday, February 2, in the new First Baptist Church. Realization of plans laid about four years ago eame as painting, carpet and pew installation were nearly completed this past week.

The new facility is on M-66 just south of the M-66 and US 31 junction.

The new sanctuary seats about 200 people. The educational wing provides elassroom space for the primary to adult classes. Folding partitions enable the edueational unit to serve as a social hall.

Roger Stoppel of Okemos, Michigan is the Church architect. John Apfel Construction Co. of Bellaire is the prime contractor. Robert May served as chairman of the building eommittee composed of Bernie Ward and Allen Walton of East Jordan.

The cornerstone of the old church on State Street was laid in 1888. It was the tallest strueture in Charlevoix prior to the removal of a portion of the ehurch steeple.

The eity of Charlevoix purehased the old structure and it will be razed shortly.

Yule Seal receipts up

Christmas Seal campaign eontributions in Charlevoix County have reaehed $3,575, reports the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. This is an increase over last year's total of $3,273. reported at the same time.

Christian G. Jensen, D.V.M., member of the board of trustees for the MTRDA, said, late contributions are needed to enable the association to eontinue its efforts against emphysema, tuberculosis, asthma and other respiratory diseases. He said state-wide contributions to date total $1,523,566, which is an increase of $67,810 over the same period at this time last year, but below anticipated needs.

Contributions support tuberculin skin testing programs; assistance for chest X-ray surveys; smoking education information for schools; adult smoking withdrawal clinics; breathing exereise classes for persons suffering from emphysema, ehronic bronchitis and asthma; support of community air pollution control; distribution of educational materials and films for schools and adult groups; respiratory disease seminars for physicians and nurses; research at leading Michigan universities; and other activities which provide for better citizen and community health.

Residents of Charlevoix County who have not yet answered their Christmas Seal appeal letter are urged to do so now. Christmas Seal eontributions work all of the year toward the improvement of the health of Michigan citizens.

This Friday is Valentine's Day. Did you know there really was a Valentine or Valentinus who was a Christian Priest in Rome during the third century and is now considered the patron saint of lovers. He was made a prisoner for giving aid to persecuted Christians. While in prison he sent messages to "Remember your Valentine" to his many loved ones by a friendly dove. Not even a Merry Christmas has been written as many times as "from your Valentine," which was first sent in 270 A.D. This custom spread over Europe to London and our eountry. In the 1850s the beautiful lace ones were printed in the East. Then we remember the eomic Valentines that first started in the 1890s and lasted several years. Then in the 1900s most of them were a cargaily covered with flowers. I have one with a hand written verse sent by an admirer to my mother in 1893 in my Memory Scrapbook and also one given to me by Alcedo Hamlin, son of Mike Hamlin, and several others, years ago while teaching school. Perhaps you have your special Valentine memories also and will send your favorite a message of love.

Hot water costs less with Gas.

Today you need more hot water than ever before. And you can have it. All the hot water you want. Oceans of it. Hot as you like it. For just pennies a day with Gas.

Only Gas gives you so much hot water for so little. Saves dollars over electricity. In fact, a Gas water heater turns out more hot water in one day than an electric one twice its size.

So, if you've been running short of hot water at your house, check into the new fast-action Gas water heaters at your plumber's or your plumbing and heating dealer's. Or, if you wish, call us. You can have all the hot water you want for less than you'd imagine.

Gas makes the big difference . . . costs less too!

Lancers eye break in slump again Sutton's

ELLSWORTH -- The Ellsworth Lancers, prior to last night's contest with Bellaire, have dropped their last five ball games, and are the most dissappointing team in Northern Michigan.

After a fiery start, winning their first seven games, the Lancers went completely off their rocker. Now they must face a real strong Suttons Bay team (13-1) and probably are a 20 point underdog.

Craig Bahle has taken over the No. 1 spot in the league's scoring race, getting 34 points in his teams 79-78 win over Inland Lakes Saturday. Al Mebert has returned to the lineup, and hes averaged 15 points a game.

Ellsworth will send their No. 2 scorer in league probably be a high scoring affair, with the Norsemen winning.

Central Lake will be a 15 point favorite when they play host to Gaylord St. Mary's Friday night. The Snowbirds are too mueh hurt to stay in the game very long, but should they get another hot streak, watch out. Central Lake's Ralph Payton, and St. Mary's Craig DeCorte are neek-and-neek in the 3 and 4 spot in scoring. This will be the first meeting of these two schools this year.

Inland Lakes will be looking for their seventh win of the year when they travel to Bellaire. In their last two league games, they lost by one point each, ineluding a 69-68 overtime contest to Bellaire last week. Revenge will be sweet for Coach Tom Spencers Bulldogs.

Other games finds two Ski-Valley League teams faeing outside opponents. Suttons Bey will be playing at Leland Friday night, and have to be considered the favorite, and Vanderbilt's high flying Yellowjackets will be looking for their 13th win of the season when they go to Gaylord St. Mary's on Saturday.

Two-generation house is unique

by PAT BEGROW

What kind of a house would a widow with two teenage sons choose for herself? The answer can be found with Mrs. Pat Ivanoff's new house at 405 Carson Avenue.

The Ivanoff family lived in Bloomfield Hills, but had been coming to Ironton to spend the summer for eight years. When Mr. Ivanoff died last year there was no longer any necessity for staying in the city so the permanent move to Charlevoix seemed a logical one.

Mrs. Ivanoff began to look for a permanent year around house and it didn't take her long to meet with Steve LaBlance, the Charlevoix builder who has been doing so many of the interesting new houses. At once it was a meeting of the minds and Mrs. Ivanoff agreed to buy the exciting house which LaBlance was building on Carson Avenue.

When Mrs. Ivanoff showed me through the house it was easy to see why she had bought it. The house is divided nicely into two separate living areas. It is a split level and from the main entrance you can go down a half flight of stairs to the informal boys' area or up the stairs to the more formal adult living room and dining area. The kitchen and three bedrooms are also on this level.

The living room sits like it is on a pedestal overlooking the woods. It is a tranquil room decorated in soft no-colors with all of the color in the precious accent pieces. Mrs. Ivanoff has a beautiful China collection with some pieces that date back 200 years. She has used these rare pieces to give touches of color to her room. The carpet is thick, the upholstered pieces soft and the room serene.

Downstairs in Jim and Richard's area the atmosphere is entirely different. Here Mrs. Ivanoff has decorated in brilliant reds and orange with massive masculine pieces of furniture. What could have been a titled recreation room is a thickly carpeted living room-study area with a massive table, overhead lamp and comfortable couch. There are two bedrooms on this level and an entry through the garage. The garage is heated so that no snow is tracked into this lovely room.

In one of the downstairs bedrooms there is a fine stereo record player and in the other room is Jim's electric guitar, but separated as these rooms are on the lower level of the Ivanoff house the boys can feel free to have a band practice or turn the stereo loud.

By having separate living areas for adult and teenagers each member of the family can enjoy the others more. All three members of the family love and share the outdoor deck which overlooks the surrounding wooded area. Here the family like to charcoal cook their dinner and enjoy the beauty of the northern Michigan woods.

THIS STATUE of Little Miss Muffet was created in Germany over 200 years ago.

TRUNDLE BEDS and a corner table cleverly and quickly convert a sitting room into an extra bedroom on the lower level of the Ivanoff house.

IN THE BOYS' living room Mrs. Ivanoff has decorated with dark massive masculine furniture.

A PAIR OF chairs covered in moss green velvet, a marble topped table and a China cabinet of treasures lend elegance to the Ivanoff living room.

THE FIREPLACE wall sweeps across one side of the living room. On the mantle are some Italian China pieces. A spray of metal adds brilliance to the room.

More than million coho here

The Michigan Dept. of Natural Resources is rearing 1.4 million coho at the Great Lakes Fisheries Station in Charlevoix.

According to Myrl Keller, station chief, all but about 200,000 of the coho have hatched from eggs and are now swimming in tanks at the former National Fish Hatchery.

The tiny coho will be held here until summer, when they will be moved to larger, outdoor, hatchery ponds. They will be planted in the spring of 1970.

Mrs. Alvin D. Goldman, a Charlevoix summer resident for more than 60 years, died January 31, in St. Louis.

She is survived by her son Jack of Imperial, Mo.; four grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Gill net ban set to protect trout

Permits are now being issued to commercial fishermen by the Department of Natural Resources which ban the use of large-mesh gill nets throughout open water of Lake Michigan during March, April, May, November, and December.

The new restriction, covering gill nets of 4½-inch or larger mesh, is an extension of one established last year. It is pointly aimed at protecting lake trout planted in 1966 and 1967 from heavy incidental catches of commercial fishermen.

Previous studies of the DNR reveal these fish are particularly vulnerable to excessive harvests by gill netters during those five months when large mesh nets will be barred in 1969.

The Department latest action is a lesson in hard learning, reflecting its studies which show that lake trout stocked in northern Lake Michigan in 1967 have been decimated by incidental commercial catches and an upswing in sea lamprey predation.

Stresses Wayne H. Tody, chief of the DNR's Fish Division:

"We can't turn our back on this problem and let the same thing happen to lake trout planted in the last two years. Those fish stocked in 1967 and 1968 are now approaching the size when they can be taken in wholesale numbers by large-mesh gill nets."

Tody goes on to say that overall efforts to restore Lake Michigan's lake trout fishery hinge heavily on protecting those last two-year classes of fish.

Earlier, the DNR reported there would be no major changes in Great Lakes commercial fishing regulations as long as fish populations in these waters were not endangered. "Latest studies," says Tody, "have reaffirmed our fears that large-mesh gill nets pose a definite, serious threat to lake trout in Lake Michigan, especially during spring and late fall. We're simply meeting that threat before the damage is done."

Births

Charlevoix Hospital reports the following births:

A daughter, Anne Elizabeth, was born February 3, to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence LaGrow of Charlevoix.

A son, Timothy Floyd, was born February 4, to Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Gregory of Bellaire.

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Dell of Southfield, Mich. announce the birth of a daughter, Christine Jennifer, born February 7, at 8 lbs. 1 oz. Mrs. O'Dell is the former Janice Sundberg daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Sundberg of Charlevoix.

BOYS NEED GOOD LEADERSHIP

A boy can be taught the love of birds and all kinds of animal life. If he is taught their life histories, their habits and uses he will soon begin to study them on his own and will lose all desire to inflict cruelty on or to kill them needlessly. All that is required for this is good leadership at the start to arouse the boy's interest.

A boy can also be taught the love of church and once he grows to a point where he senses the help he can get from regular attendance he will continue to rely upon it to sustain him. Here again, good leadership at the outset is of the essence. Have you tried your hand at it? You may be a natural born leader. Your church will help in programs pomoting interest in community and national affairs and in shaping universal brotherhood that is the hope of the world for tomorrow.

Area has experienced three eras

Economic Base

A thorough analysis of the economy of the Charlevoix Region is important in examining the total character of the Region. The following basic analysis of the economy attempts to identify and subsequently evaluate the economic forces influencing the Region.

Charlevoix County, historically, has progressed through three economic periods. The first period, in the late 19th and early 20th century saw a booming economy based primarily on the lumber industry. In the second period, tourism became increasingly important, signaling the creation of the vacation retreat that the county has become today. In the fifties and sixties, a period of economic diversity emerged as industry successfully located throughout the area, while tourism continued to be a boon to the economy. The Charlevoix Region has been a principal recipient of the resort business and recently has had its share of industrial growth. Winter sports of hunting and skiing have further influenced the county away from a limited economy based on summer tourism.

The great influx of tourists is, by no means, the only human resource available within the area, however. The number of area residents has continued to increase as the needs of tourists and industry grow.

Population Trends
1940 to 1965

	1940	1950	1960	1965	% Increase 1940-1960	% Increase 1960-1965
Marion Township	523	504	516	532	1.3	3.0
Charlevoix Township	167	183	290	295	42.5	1.7
City of Charlevoix	2,299	2,695	2,751	2,999	16.4	8.3
Charlevoix Region	2,989	3,382	3,557	3,826	16.0	7.0
Charlevoix County	13,031	13,475	13,421	14,186	2.9	5.4

As the preceding table indicates, Charlevoix County made only insignificant population gains between 1940 and 1960. Best estimates of the 1965 population, however, indicate that Charlevoix County increased by 5.4 percent between 1960 and 1965 - nearly twice the rate of increase experienced in the entire 20 years prior to 1960. The Charlevoix Region increased at half the rate of the State of Michigan between 1940 and 1960; Charlevoix County by less than 10 percent.

The Charlevoix Region today is the fastest growing portion of the county - roughly comparable to Michigan's average growth rate. The rapid growth of the City of Charlevoix is responsible for the Region's growth experience.

The following table indicates county employment changes during the decade of the fifties. While one quarter of all employment was agricultural in 1950, by 1960 this had been reduced to nine percent. Manufacturing and retail trade employment, 34% of total employment in 1950, had increased to 43% by 1960. While employment in agriculture during this period substantially decreased, significant employment gains were experienced in manufacturing, wholesale trade, finance, insurance, real estate, private households and other services category. Employment in transportation, communication, utilities and business services also decreased.

Employment By Major Industry Group
Charlevoix County

	1950	1960	% Change 1950-1960	% Total Employment 1950	% Total Employment 1960

TOTAL	3,922	4,340	9.0	100.0	100.0

Changes in the population and employment base indicate the increasing importance of the Charlevoix Region in the overall county economy. They illustrate the period of economic diversity into which the Region and County are entering - an economy based on a rapidly expanding industrial base, growing commercial activity and decelerating agricultural importance.

Council Proceedings

COUNCIL MINUTES

February 3, 1969

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Fochtman presiding. Aldermen present: Webb, Whitley, Boss, Mol, & Sundberg. Absent: Alderman Gill.

The Minutes of the January 20, 1969 meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

It was unanimously agreed by the Common Council to hold a public hearing on February 24, 1969 on proposed rules and regulations for the Municipal Airport. Mr. Sicklesmith of the Michigan Department of Aeronautics will attend the meeting.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totalling $74,785.46 find them correct and recommend they be allowed.

Moved by Alderman Mol and supported by Alderman Boss that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts.

Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Webb, Whitley, Boss, Mol, & Sundberg. Nays: None. Absent: Alderman Gill.

On motion the Council adjourned.
Hugh Mayne, City Clerk

Rayders tripped in overtime play

Charlevoix's Red Rayders lost their tightest contest of the season Friday in a 65-59 overtime decision at Alpena.

Tied 56-56 at the end of the final period, the game went into overtime. The Rayders dropped behind, scoring only three points to Alpena Catholic Central's 9.

Alpena lead 13-10 at the end of the first period. At halftime the score was tied 30-30. Alpena lead 42-37 at the end of the third quarter.

Stewart Coleman paced the Rayder scoring with 18 points, followed by Bruce Meggison with 14 and Kraag Lieberman with 12. Others scoring for the Rayders were Norm Ostrum, 5; Bob DeYoung, 4; Carl Novak, 3; Don Ward, 2, and Don Livingston, 1.

The Rayders scored 17 of 27 free throws and 21 field goals. Alpena scored on 17 to 29 free throws and 24 field goals. Twenty-four fouls were called on Alpena and 21 were called on Charlevoix.

CHARLEVOIX JUNIOR VARSITY pace-setter Bill Carey, with ball, grabs a rebound in Friday's losing effort to Alpena. Carey scored 20 points Friday.

Carey hits 20 for Rayder JVs

A 20-point scoring performance by Bill Carey Friday failed to give the Charlevoix junior varsity a victory over Alpena Catholic Central's JVs.

The Alpena squad won 63-56.

Charlevoix's JVs moved into a one-point, 19-18 first period lead, but trailed 34-28 at halftime. When the third period ended the little Rayders were behind 45-42.

Charlevoix scored on 10 of 19 free throws. Alpena scored on 9 of 19 free throws. Thirteen fouls were called on Charlevoix and 12 were called on Alpena.

Others scoring for Charlevoix were Ron Bindi with 12; Tim Carey, 8; Dave Swanson, 5; Terry Elzinga, 4; Tom Bergmann, 3, and LeRoy Reed and Larry Potter, 2 each.

BOB VREELAND gets a difficult shot off in Friday's Junior Varsity game. Though he has seen little action, Vreeland is considered one of the Rayder's future strong points.

JVs squeak by B-C for 39-38 victory

Charlevoix's junior varsity cagers squeaked by the Boyne City JVs 39-38 last Tuesday.

The little Rayders trailed going into the final period, when they made 13 points to Boyne's 8.

The first period ended with the Charlevoix squad trailing 11-7. At halftime the Rayders were behind 27-20 and at the end of the third period trailed 30-26.

Bill Carey again led the Rayder JV attack, scoring 13 points. Others scoring were Ron Bindi, 7; Bob Vreeland, 0; Tim Carey, 5; Tom Bergmann, 4; Larry Potter, 3, and Dave Swanson, 1.

The Charlevoix JVs scored 9 of 18 free throws and 15 field goals. Boyne scored on 18 of 24 free throws and made ten field goals.

Seventeen fouls were called on Charlevoix to 13 on Boyne City.

Rayders set torrid mark at free throws to win

Charlevoix's Red Rayders surprised everyone -- even themselves -- last Tuesday when they scored on 33 out of 40 free throws.

The 33 free throws gave them a 67-58 victory over Boyne City.

The Rayders scored 17 field goals to Boyne's 22. Boyne, however, scored on only 14 of 28 free throws.

Stewart Coleman and Kraag Lieberman paced the Rayder scoring, each hitting for 15 points, as four Rayders went on the scoreboard for double figures. Bruce Meggison got 12 points and Don Ward had 11. Tim Doan and Don Livingston each had 7.

Lieberman hit 9 for 9 on free throws, scoring three field goals to round out his 15 points.

Charlevoix lead all the way. At the end of the first quarter the Rayders were out front 18-9. At halftime the Rayders held a 32-23 edge. Boyne moved to within five points of Charlevoix, 42-37 when the third period ended.

A big 25-point fourth period wrapped it up for the Rayders.

Officials called 18 fouls on the Rayders and 26 on Boyne City.

Rayders face Chiefs 1-2-3 punch threat

The Charlevoix Red Rayders will be trying to regroup after their upset loss from the hands of Alpena Catholic, but will have to keep their eye-out for the Cheboygan Chiefs Friday night.

The Chiefs have a ferocious 1-2-3 punch in Dick Renz, Greg Johnson, and Joe Beally, and seem to be up-and-down all season. Sporting a lowly 4-6 record, they can still be very mean. The last time these two teams met, Charlevoix won, 64-61. The Rayders will be battling Gaylord for a third place finish, and can't afford to lose now. Charlevoix takes this one by 15 points.

After three close games, the Petoskey Northmen will be on shakey grounds as the highly ranked St. Ignace Saints come to town. It is sure to be a battle however, as Leo Donavan of St. Ignace, the No. 1 scorer in the league, will battle wits with Petoskey's Dick Swenor, the No. 3 scorer in the league. The Saints are still undefeated, and should remain so after the smoke clears Friday.

Gaylord travels to Boyne City in what could turn out to be another battle. Boyne City has always thrown the monkey-wrench into Gaylord's plans on the Boyne court. The Blue Devils have a new scoring punch in Dana Hird, and are working with several juniors and sophomores, and have looked great in their loss to Petoskey, and their win last Saturday against Alpena CC. Gaylors is highly favored, and should win this one at Boyne City for a change.

Boyne City will turn right around and travel to TCSF the following night for a prime contest. Boyne won the first match, 67-54, and probably will have to work a little harder for this one, but once again will turn the tide. The Ramblers will probably pick up their fourth win of the season.

In the week-ends remaining game, Alpena CC will make the short journey to Rogers City, and will return on the short end of the score.

Alanson wins at Ellsworth

ELLSWORTH -- The Alanson Vikings, who earlier in the year lost a 73-70 verdict to Ellsworth, last Tuesday got revenge on the Lancers home court.

Alanson went in front at the half 33-25 after trailing 11-10 after the first eight minutes. A big third period saw the Vikings open a commanding 58-42 cushion and then hang on with ease for the victory.

For Alanson Bob Clements hit 27 points, Bob Blumko added 21, Harold Blumke, 11 and Kevin Casey, 10. High for Ellsworth was Ron Boss with 23 followed by Denny Drenth at 18.

Value Showdown:

Match these features against what competition gives you for the same kind of money, and you'll have a better idea why more people are buying Chevrolets again this year.

Built-in "guard rails"

There's a strong steel beam built into every door of every 1969 Caprice, Impala, Bel Air, Biscayne, Kingswood Estate Wagon, Kingswood, Townsman and Brookwood.

We call it a side guard beam, and it looks like one of those guard rails you see along the freeway.

That's what it's there for: To guard you. To strengthen the door and put a more solid wall between you and the outside world.

Not a glamorous feature.

But you'll have to admit worthwhile.

Computer-selected springs

Maybe you'll order your new Chevy equipped to the hilt.

Or maybe you'll order it with hardly anything on it.

Either way, you're going to get your full measure of our renowned ride.

Because we go to the trouble of programming each car's equipment load into an electronic computer.

The computer then tells us exactly which springs to use, depending on the car's weight and the way it's distributed.

Chevrolet, the only car in its field with computer-selected springs.

Fenders inside fenders

We could have skipped this. (The other cars in our field do.).

But we're as anxious as you are to keep your beautiful new Chevy looking beautiful and new.

So:

Up inside the regular fenders we've placed a second set.

They do all the in-fighting. Catch all the splashed-up rain, slush and road salt. Stop the kicked-up stones.

While your "outers" just sit there looking pretty.

Astro Ventilation

The other two cars in our field give you air intakes down by the floor.

So do we:

We also give you two up on the instrument panel.

And all four of them are adjustable so you can regulate the flow of air just the way you like it.

Even with all the windows closed, you'll be comfortable inside. You get air without wind. Without noise.

Astro Ventilation is standard, now, on all the big Chevrolets.

The theft-thwarter

On the steering column there's a lock.

Only Chevrolet has it, in Chevrolet's field.

You turn the key and it locks three things:

Your ignition.

Your steering wheel.

Your shift lever.

When you own a car this tempting, you don't dare take chances.

Biggest standard V8 in our field

Ask any car enthusiast, he'll tell you:

Chevrolet builds great engines. Especially V8s.

And this year there are six great V8s available for the big Chevrolet. Standard: Our 235-hp 327-cubic-inch Turbo-Fire.

Another thing: We've lowered the price of several of our bigger V8s along with our automatic transmissions and power disc brakes. Which makes it possible for you to buy a '69 Chevrolet for even less money than you could last year.

Show up for our Showdown. You can't lose.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

State oks steelhead plants

Lake Charlevoix will receive 50,000 planted steelhead trout in June of this year, Dept. of Natural Resources district fish biologist Steve Swan revealed Tuesday.

Swan said the large plant of steelhead trout was decided on due to the lake's large amount of forage fish and the desire of area residents to build a steelhead fishery.

Last year the department planted 10,000 steelhead in the lake and 40,000 rainbow trout. No rainbows will be planted this year, Swan said.

The difference between the steelhead and rainbow is that the steelhead are fish raised from wild fish captured on their spawning run into the Manistee River. The rainbows are from hatchery brood stock.

The steelhead, Swan pointed out, have proved to be a far hardier fish. The state, he said, is hoping to eliminate its planting of the far less desirable rainbow from hatchery stock.

Survival of the steelhead to be planted this year, he said, will be considerably better than that of rainbows.

When the state gets its steelhead hatchery system built up--which includes plans for a hatchery on the Jordan River--Swan said there is a possibility as many as 250,000 steelhead could be planted in Lake Charlevoix. This year, he said, Michigan has only [illegible],000 steelhead available for all plantings.

In addition to the Lake Charlevoix plant, another 50,000 steelhead will be planted in Little Traverse Bay, Swan said.

City's doubts were overdue

THE Charlevoix City Council's openly expressed concern last week about the value it is receiving from money spent to hire a professional planning firm was certainly long overdue.

Citizens and some officials have for two years expressed doubts that they are getting their money's worth from Williams and Works, planning consultants. When the planners were hired and the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission formed, city officials were looking for them to come through with answers on more uniform and up-to-date zoning, an industrial park, substandard housing, and expansion of the downtown business district.

To date we have none of these answers. The planners, instead, have come up with a voluminous compilation of statistics and predictions concerning the area (which is now being printed in serial form in the Courier).

While this report is interesting and in many ways helpful, it should not have taken more than a few weeks to put together when the commission started working more than two years ago. Instead it is all we have to show for the $5,300 the city has paid Williams and Works.

Suggestions that members of the planning commission can handle the job without professional help should be abruptly dismissed. The laymen members of the commission have neither the training, experience or time to do the job.

The City Council's chronic failure to come to grips with virtually every long - range problem presented proves we need expert advice.

In the Courier's opinion, we are left with two solutions: 1. Fire Williams and Works and hire a consultant who will do the job we need doing instead of the job they want to do, or 2. Find a way to make Williams and Works work for us.

Public snubbed on airport code

CHARLEVOIX'S City Council is again demonstrating its fear of the public's judgement of its action.

The council has informally (not openly at a public meeting) decided to withhold copies of its proposed airport operating ordinance from the public until the night of the public meeting on the code February 24. The feeling is that if interested citizens cannot get their hands on the proposed rules until the night of the meeting they will be at a disadvantage in presenting intelligent suggestions for changes.

The ordinance, we are told, was edited by present airport Manager Joe McPhillips to literally guarantee him a continued monopoly of the publicly-owned and built airport. Unfortunately, we cannot confirm or deny this charge because we, too, have been told we would get our first look at the document the night of the meeting.

Until now we were willing to assume an argument could be made for perpetuating McPhillips veto power over other aviation activities at the airport. Now we can only believe that the council is grievously wrong. If this were not so it would not be so frightened of making informed dissent possible.

The airport issue screams for full public disclosure of all pros and cons and details on what has been going on. Efforts to deny the public these basic rights only prove the point.

The loyal ones

The Charlevoix Rayder fans in the picture above rate a special hand from all of us. They were photographed at the Alpena Catholic Central game last Friday.

The round trip to Alpena is 230 miles, according to the state highway map. It takes a special quality to leave a comfortable home on a chill winter evening and dare northern lower Michigan's notorious east - west roads for six to eight hours.

Of course, the problem with the picture wasn't photographer Larry Edwards fault. What he needed was another hundred, or so, Charlevoixians to photograph.

Text of air pollution report

Printed here is the nearly complete text of the State Health Dept.'s air sampling test results, as reported by Bernard Bloomfield, director of the air pollution division. A small portion of the text has been edited due to its technical nature and lack of space.

The Air Pollution Control Section of Michigan Dept. of Public Health has been collecting air samples of different types in the Charlevoix area since the summer of 1965 in an effort to maintain a continuing appraisal of air quality. When the sampling program was first initiated it was done with the objective of obtaining baseline information which would enable a comparison with air quality conditions once the Medusa Cement facility was placed in operation. All of the sampling has been for the purpose of evaluating particulate contamination.

We originally established six sampling locations as follows: 1. The residence of Mr. Percy Woodcock; 2. The Marathon Gas Station (now Sinclair); 3. The Imperial Motors Repair Service Garage; 4. The U.S. Coast Guard Station; 5. The Charlevoix Hospital, and 6. The U.S. Bureau of Fisheries station. In 1968 we established a seventh sampling location at the downtown fire station.

Our initial study findings which were reported on August 11, 1967 confirmed the presence of relatively low suspended particulate levels at the two sampling stations (No. 1 and No. 4) where sampling during the four seasons was conducted. We also found relatively low dustfall levels at all six stations. As noted in the report, our sampling data confirmed the presence of a relatively clean environment in Charlevoix.

Procedure and Results-First Study

The dustfall samples were collected in open containers, each containing one liter of water, and the basic analytical work on the samples involved the determination of total weight of soluble and unsoluble particulate. The levels determined are expressed in tons per square mile per month and an average of from 9 to 14 tons per square mile per month was reported for the six stations involved in the sampling program. It was indicated at the time that sampling station No. 6 at the fish hatchery was considered to be the least reliable. This was because of windblown sand and the shielding effect of the adjacent building. In subsequent data analyses the results obtained at this station have not been included in establishing averages.

Dustfall levels are typically affected by all of the activities of the community. This includes motor vehicle travel on the streets, demolition work, construction work, emissions from industrial establishments and windblown pollen. The values obtained using the dustfall sampling technique are approximate and at best serve to provide numbers which enable comparison of one area with another and of different stations within the same sampling area.

The suspended particulate samples are collected with what is referred to as a highvolume air sampling device and the results are reported in micrograms per cubic meter of air. The device samples about 60 cubic feet of air per minute across a high efficiency fiberglass filter and the filters are subsequently weighed in the laboratory to enable the determination of the total weight of particulate material collected. The essential difference between the suspended particulate sampling procedure and the dustfall procedure is that the dustfall buckets collect only those particulates which drop out of the air by gravity whereas the suspended particulate procedure actually serves to collect suspended particulates which are essentially airborne. In our August 11 report we noted that our suspended particulate sampling data indicated levels (geometric mean) of from 18 to 24 micrograms per cubic meter. These levels are characteristic of relatively clean air. An average value of 75 micrograms per cubic meter of air has been suggested as a possible criteria level.

Our preliminary study data did not enable us to come to any specific conclusions concerning seasonal variations of suspended particulate level. The data reflected low suspended particulate levels typical of rural communities, certainly exemplary of a community with a minimum of air pollution from other than natural sources and with levels decidedly lower than those determined in other Michigan cities where our network system is in operation. We have continued with our dustfall determinations in Charlevoix through the past few years and the levels determined assist in a characterization of the quality of the air at the sampling stations prior to the startup of operations at the Medusa Cement facility and since that time.

Soon after the cement plant started operation we received information that some individuals in the community might be experiencing air pollution difficulties and we reinstalled high volume air sampling equipment for the purpose of obtaining a second series of suspended particulate samples, this time with the plant in operation. In addition we have collected a series of special samples in the Charlevoix community to enable a qualitative comparison of the dust in the community with the dust typical of the cement plant property. Metal panels and glass slides were also exposed for from 30 to 60 days to enable air evaluation of dust deposition and we have also reviewed the basic meteorological parameters in an effort to correlate wind speed and wind direction with sample results. Included in our interpretation of the data has been the kiln down-time at the Medusa Cement facility.

Findings

Suspended Particulate Levels

Most of our sampling was done for continuous two week periods during August and October. Since that time we have adopted a random sampling schedule which is in use throughout the United States. This random schedule provides for sampling for one 24 hour period every two weeks at each of the six stations where suspended particulate sampling devices have been installed.

The data which we obtained does not cover all four seasons but is sufficient to reflect conditions during the late summer and early fall of 1968. The geometric mean values for the six stations range from 16 to 32 micrograms per cubic meter with a minimum reading of 2 to a maximum reading of 108. The highest readings were obtained at the Sinclair Service Station site on Highway No. 31 which we designate as Station No. 2. As a means of comparison it should be noted that the sample results based on sampling before the Medusa facility was placed in operation indicated suspended particulate levels (geometric mean values) ranging from 18 to 24. We do not believe that the values obtained prior to and since operation of the cement plant reflect any meaningful increase in suspended particulate levels.

It is thought that the reason for the highest values at station No. 2, the Sinclair Service Station, is the proximity of the gravel road which leads to the cement plant. Motor vehicle travel serves to generate airborne dust and this could have an effect on the samples collected. However, the difference between averages of the samples collected at the different stations is sufficiently low as to prevent any positive conclusion. Interestingly, the predominant wind direction was not from the southwest during August and October when most of the recent suspended particulate samples were collected. It was from the southwest sector. Continued air sampling should enable the determination of whether wind direction has a significant effect on dustfall and suspended particulate loads in the Charlevoix community. Up until this time we do not know whether this is actually the case.

Dustfall Samples

Dustfall levels expressed as a geometric mean in tons per square mile per month ranged from 7.1 to 15.6. The values expressed in terms of the arithmetic mean which some investigators prefer to use for this value ranged from 8.2 to 19.4. In both cases the highest values were determined at Station No. 2, the Sinclair Service Station, and it is thought that the higher levels are attributable to motor vehicle traffic on the gravel road as was noted in the case of the higher suspended particulate levels already discussed. The highest grouping of values (arithmetic mean) was determined in April, May, June, July and August of 1968 and while these values are somewhat higher than those determined during the same months before cement plant manufacturing operations were started there is not enough difference in the values to positively support the contention that the increase was caused by the cement plant operation. There is no correlation of meteorological conditions during that same period of time and as a matter of fact an examination of the wind roses developed through the period June through September shows varying wind velocity and wind speed conditions with no predominant wind from the southwest. It appears, then, that in the past few years there has been a slight increase in dustfall levels but the increase is not sufficient to cause concern or to indicate the presence of any new or unusual sources of particulate in the air. More importantly, our findings do not reflect a general degradation in the quality of the air in the Charlevoix community.

[illegible]alitative Analysis of Dusts

Air samplers utilizing membrance filters collected airborne dust which would later be analyzed qualitatively in an emission spectrograph. It was thought that contamination of the community air with cement dust could be found and delineated through this type sampling if not on a quantitative basis, then at least through qualitative evaluation.

A series of samples was collected from the cement plant grounds and from equipment in the cement plant (example: electrostatic precipitator hoppers) and the results of analyses of these samples were compared with the Charlevoix community air. The emission spectrograph did indicate that the dust collected by the filters in the community was appreciably different from the dust collected at the cement plant. The difference was mainly in calcium content. This is not to positively assert that cement dust is not a contaminant even in extremely light concentrations in the community atmosphere. It may be, but it is not present in concentrations sufficient to conceal a distinct difference in the nature of the dust from the two general sources.

Exposure Panels and Slides

In an effort to characterize on a visual basis the deposition of dust on surfaces, painted panels having an automobile type finish and glass slides were exposed at some stations for 60 days and at others for 90 days. It was anticipated that particulate material which would normally deposit on windows and building surfaces would also deposit on the glass slides and the metal plates. While such a procedure was known to be somewhat crude it was hoped that it would serve as an indicator of at least heavy dust deposition. Visible dust was found on all of the slides with heavier concentrations identified at Stations Nos. 2 and 3. The painted surfaces remained relatively clean. It may very well be that rain served to wash the samples from time to time but the conditions under which the slides were exposed are similar to the exposure of the building surfaces including windows of the home. The condition of the slides, which on cursory observation were clean, confirmed the need for washing after a more careful visual evaluation.

Conclusions

The air sampling procedures utilized have enabled a comparison of samples collected before the cement plant was placed in operation and since that time. There appears to be a slight increase in dustfall and little or no change in suspended particulate levels. There does not appear to be any corrolation of wind direction with the higher samples.

The data determined is such as to indicate little or no change in atmospheric conditions since the startup of operations of the cement manufacturing facility.

A qualitative analysis indicates that the dust collected in the Charlevoix community with our sampling equipment is significantly different in calcium content from that collected at the plant site. They are not the same materials although there is the possibility that the Charlevoix community samples can be contaminated with some small quantities of airborne cement dust.

It is our view that our sample findings, namely the levels of particulate in the air, are typical of a relatively clean community and they are significantly lower than those concentrations which typify other cities in Michigan and in other communities in the United States. It is still our view that as was the case in 1967 when a preliminary report was prepared, the air in Charlevoix is relatively clean. This is to be expected on the basis of a comparison of industrial activities and population distribution with that in other cities. Nevertheless, it is an important finding to consider.

In the past year pollution incidents occurring in Charlevoix and attributable to the operation of the cement plant have been described. We are unable to support the concept that dust released from the cement plant is requiring extra effort in the cleaning of automobile surfaces, building surfaces and windows or that it is causing economic damage or loss.

On the other hand we have no way of knowing whether dust releases from the plant, whether the dust source be the kiln stack, the clinker cooler stack or just the handling of material on the plant property, is not causing such difficulty. At least, it may be showing up on window surfaces and car surfaces at certain times. We have heard of plumes being released from the kiln stack and traveling over the lake or over land areas for great distances. While we don't doubt that this could have occurred, we have never personally witnessed this type release.

It is possible that under certain weather conditions a downwash effect could take place and the contaminants released from the kiln stack and from other sources might cause a haze. None of our staff members have experienced this. There have also been some comments of a hydrogen sulfide type odor being detectable in the Charlevoix community and being caused by the cement plant operation. While this also is possible and is typical of poor combustion control in a cement kiln, we have not experienced this difficulty. Fortunately it has been described as a minimal type problem occurring most infrequently.

We again advise the County Health Department to maintain a log of complaints and investigate these at the time of occurance. Also, it would be most helpful if we could be contacted at the time of any incident so that arrangements could be made for an immediate follow-up investigation, where warranted.

We plan to continue our air sampling program. Also, we will continue in our efforts to work with management at the Medusa Cement plant so as to make certain that every possible means of air pollution control is applied in a manner so as to bring about compliance with the Michigan Rules and Regulations. Management has demonstrated a cooperative attitude and is fully aware of the difficulties that would ensue should they be the cause of an air pollution problem in the Charlevoix community.

Columnist who doesn't miss the Post

by Jim Fitzgerald

You probably think I am the only newspaper columnist who didn't sell the Saturday Evening Post when he was a boy.

Or perhaps you think I am an original thinker who doesn't write about the things everyone else writes about.

Wrong, both times.

There's a long list of things that paid scribblers always turn to when they can't think of anything else. Boyhood nostalgia is at the top of the list. And there's nothing more nostalgic than reminiscing about the depression days when a runny-nosed little boy had to sell 10 Saturday Evening Posts a week or his dad would put him in a bag with 10 kittens and throw the bag into the St. Clair River (I remember once when Mother tried to use Dad's bag for collecting coal along the railroad tracks. He wouldn't let her. "That's my bag," said Dad, thus becoming the world's first hippie).

Anyway, I did sell the Post and I am going to write about it. I'd have done it sooner but I've been in a slump.

You've probably heard that even the greatest writers go through dry spells in which they moan that the Muse has deserted them. A Muse is any of 9 Greek goddesses which inspire creative artists. That sounds pretty classy and I wish it applied to my slump. The truth is that I suffered a small paper-cut on the tip of my typing finger and then, like a fool, I swiped a handful of popcorn from my son's bag. That's pouring salt on the wound (I may have coined a phrase there).

When I was about 10 years old, I sold the Post for my cousin, Bobby Smith. He was only a couple of years older but already he was a neighborhood foreman for a magazine distributor. Bobby was one of those kids that a guy's mother was always pointing to and saying, "Why can't you be like Bobby? He has 2 paper routes and 10 magazine routes and an Essex dealership. And you won't even get out of bed in the morning."

That's the kind of cousin I had to have, boy. He was a real nice kid but gee, he was always working and putting money in the bank and buying his mother presents. One Christmas, I remember, he gave her a new coat. I gave my mother a clay ash tray I made in school--and I gave it to her in front of Grandma who didn't know Mother smoked. Boy, Merry Christmas.

Mother thought I would become more like Bobby if I sold magazines. But it never worked. I was the world's most reluctant salesman. I would ring neighborhood doorbells only because Mother was watching out the window. My sales pitch went like this: "You don't want to buy a Saturday Evening Post, do you." I was always right.

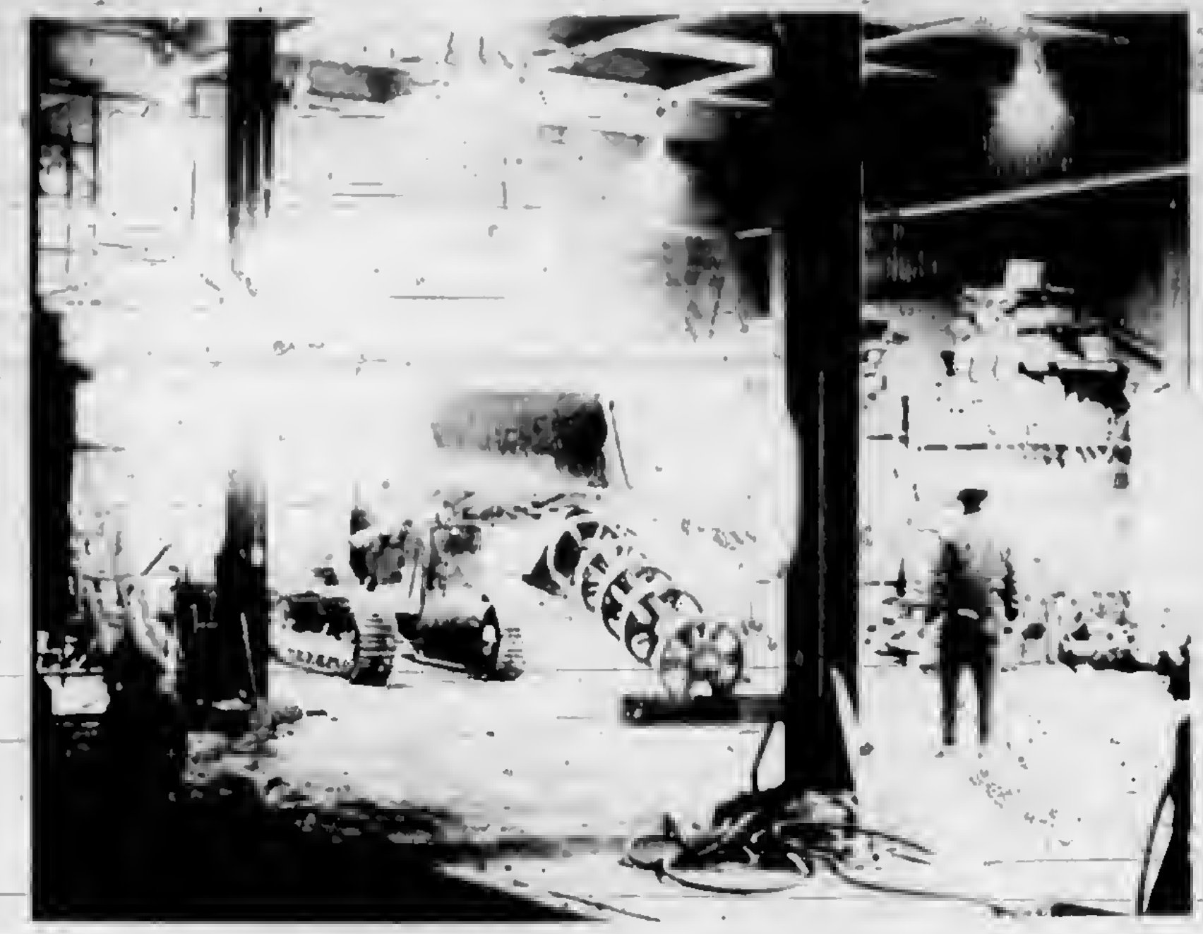
Each week I'd pick up 10 Posts from Bobby. A few days later I'd bring back 10. The day he suggested I retire was when I brought back 11. A woman had browbeaten me into buying back a Post she'd bought downtown. One of the cartoons was dirty, she said (I never did find which one and I looked for 6 hours).

I went back to my wastrel life but Bobby kept hustling. That kid worked hard at dozens of jobs until the day he was drafted into World War II. He was killed in the Battle of the Bulge.

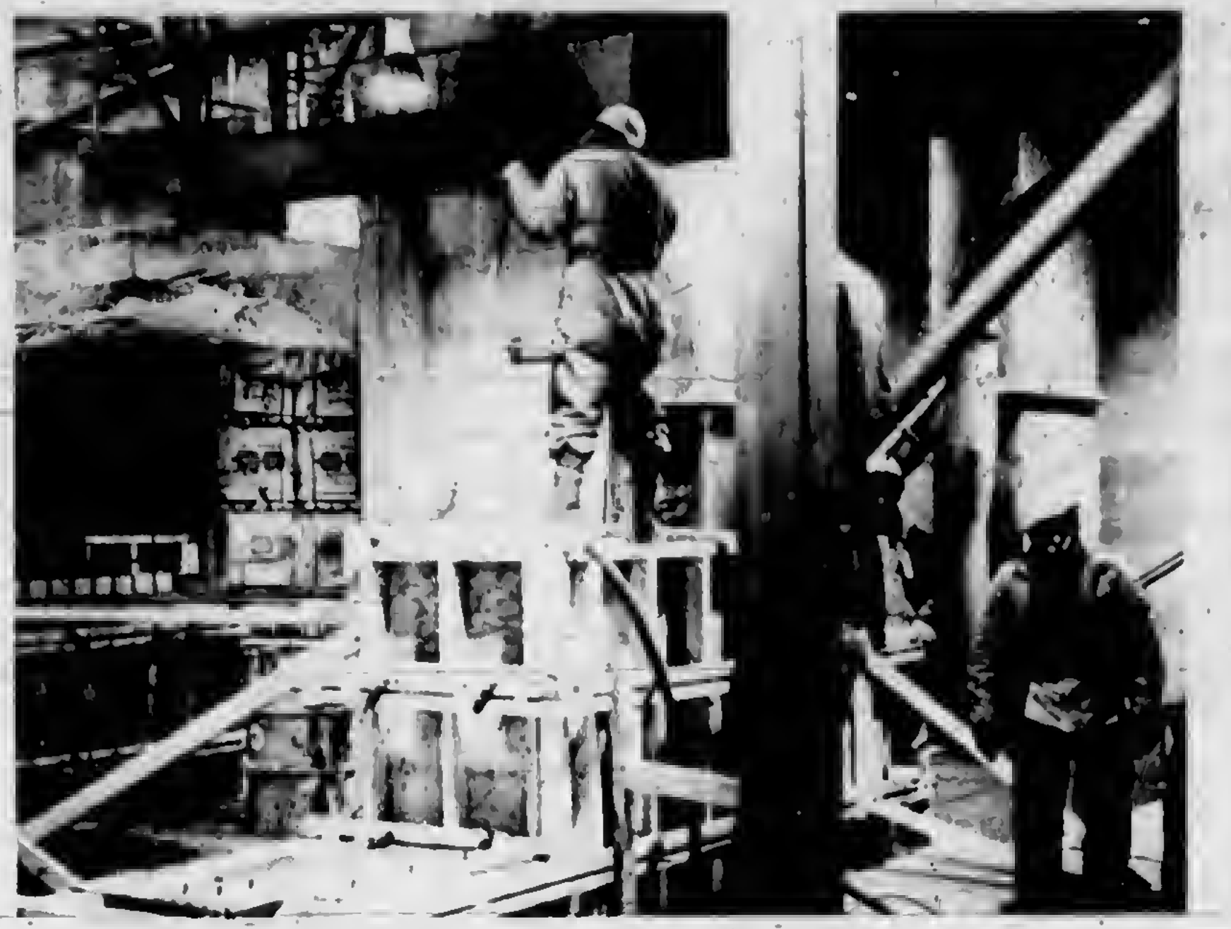
I always associate the Post with Bobby and the 1930's when a nickel double-feature could turn a boy on for weeks. Those were days of simple pleasures, one of which was reading the Post, starting from the back and ending up with Alexander Botts, the incredible tractor salesman.

Those pleasures seemed to disappear sometime during the war. I guess I became more sophisticated. Maybe I simple grew up; or grew bitter. Anyway, I quit reading the Saturday Evening Post. I guess I don't really know why.

But I think it had something to do with the fact that the most patriotic pictures Norman Rockwell painted could never make me understand why my cousin Bobby, age 19, had to die.



MEDUSA EMPLOYEES haul parts from the old clinker cooler out to the trash heap. The clinker cooler was not adequate to handle the job, South Point manager Hank Krebs explained, so a new one, costing more than a half-million-dollars is being installed.



CEMENT FORMS are poured for the new clinker cooler at Medusa's South Point plant. Plant employees are doing the job during the winter shutdown, making it possible to keep them on the payroll, plant manager Hank Krebs explained.

IOOF leads

After four nights of play in their cribbage tournament, the I.O.O.F. lead the Masons by 1327 points. The high score for the I.O.O.F. was Bob Straw with 968 points, the second perfect score of the tournament. High for the Masons was Russell Lewis with 933 points.

Cities in Flames

NEW YORK—Short of nuclear war, it would be hard to imagine fire destroying nine American cities in the next 70 years. Yet, the Insurance Information Institute notes that between 1835 and 1908 fire destroyed major portions of New York City, Charleston, S. C., Portland, Me., Chicago, Boston, Jacksonville, Baltimore, San Francisco and Chelsea, Mass.

More coho plants set for Lake Charlevoix; on top of steelhead

In addition to 50,000 steelhead, Lake Charlevoix this spring will be planted with 50,000 more coho salmon, according to the Dept. of Natural Resources.

District fish biologist Steve Swan last week announced the department's decision to plant in Lake Charlevoix 50,000 of the 320,000 steelhead it has available this year for state waters.

A department news release later said Lake Charlevoix will also get 50,000 more coho. The 1969 coho plant will be in Porter Creek at Advance, where 50,000 coho were planted last spring.

The department this year reports it will plant 3,950,000 coho, 900,000 chinook and 320,000 steelhead. This is about two million more coho and 50,000 more steelhead than were planted last year.

Only Little Traverse Bay at Petoskey and Harbor Springs will get as many steelhead as Lake Charlevoix. Nearly one-third--100,000--of the 1969 steelhead plant will be in Lake Charlevoix and Little Traverse Bay. Other areas along Michigan's Great Lakes shoreline will receive from 20,000 to 5,000 steelhead.

The 1969 coho planting list for Lake Michigan streams reads as follows:

Big Cedar River, 50,000; Whitefish River, 100,000; Thompson Creek, 50,000; Manistique River, 50,000; Bear River, 300,000; Porter Creek, 50,000; Brewery Creek, 100,000; Platte River, 800,000; Manistee River, 100,000; Little Manistee River, 500,000; Big South Branch of Pere Marquette, 100,000; Muskegon River, 400,000; Grand River, 100,000; Kalamazoo River, 100,000; and St. Joseph River, 100,000.

The large releases planned for the Bear and Muskegon rivers hinge upon whether the Department is able to construct weirs to capture surplus salmon in those waters. If it is still uncertain at planting time whether the facilities can be installed in those two streams, some of the fish scheduled for their waters will be shifted for stocking in the Little Manistee and Platte rivers.

On the Lake Superior front, coho fingerlings will go into the following streams this spring:

Anna River, 175,000; Falls River, 50,000; Sturgeon River, 75,000; Presque Isle River, 50,000; Ontonagon River, 75,000; Sucker River, 50,000; and Cherry Creek, 25,000.

The Lake Huron area will receive 100,000 coho in the Carp River, 150,000 in Thunder Bay River, 100,000 in the Au Sable River, and 200,000 in Tawas River.

Coho plantings will start around mid-March in southern Lake Michigan streams. They will be completed in late May in Lake Superior rivers where colder waters call for later releases.

Again on tap for young chinook salmon are Lake Superior's Cherry Creek (50,000), Lake Michigan's Little Manistee River (300,000) and Muskegon River (350,000), and Lake Huron's Ocqueoc River (200,000). Releases in all four of these streams are slated for late April.

Now two million coho in Charlevoix hatchery

Two million two-inch-long coho salmon are now on public display at the former Charlevoix National Fish Hatchery--now the Great Lakes Fishery Station.

Bob Cromell of Norwood, fish culturist in charge, reports the hatchery is open to the public seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Groups can make arrangements for a more complete tour by calling the hatchery ahead of time, Cromell said.

The two million coho fry will be at Charlevoix until about April 1, when about a million will be moved to the Wolverine hatchery. The remaining one million fish will be moved from Charlevoix this summer, when they are four to six inches long.

Cromell said there has been no serious die-off of the baby fish yet. Last year there was considerable die-off, which was blamed on insecticides. A major die-off could still develop this year, Cromell said.

Meet tonight on coho

A public meeting will be held tonight to better inform Charlevoix businessmen and fishermen of what to expect when coho salmon fishing gets underway here this fall.

The state planted 50,000 coho in Porter Creek (Advance) in the spring of 1968. They are expected to run into Lake Charlevoix sometime late this summer and early fall as full-size spawners, weighing from ten to 20 pounds.

Tonight's meeting at 8 p.m. in City Hall is co-sponsored by the MSU Extension Service and Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Extension Agent Ed Rebman of Boyne City and Norm Brown of Benzie County will show slides taken at the Platte River and other coho fishing areas along the Lake Michigan shore. Their presentation is aimed at showing local people what kind of facilities can be constructed and what to expect.

City agrees to expand plan consultant's job

City Council Monday agreed to add a $750 housing study to the contract of professional planners Williams and Works.

Larry Miller of the consulting firm appeared before the council. He explained that the federal government directed that the housing study be made after the contract for Charlevoix's planning was adopted.

The housing study, he said, will determine the number of substandard houses in the city and propose ways to eliminate the problem.

Charlevoix Township has already agreed to pay $300 of the housing study's local cost. The city will pay the remaining $450.

Councilmen two weeks ago balked at appropriating more money for the planning consultant. They pointed out the consultant has not produced enough tangible work for the $5,300 already paid them by the city.

The consultant works with the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission.

Miller told the council his firm started meeting with the city in April of 1965, but it wasn't until May of 1968 that the firm's employment by the Regional Planning Commission was approved by the federal government, which pays most of the planning cost.

He blamed the delays on the federal government.

Miller also told councilmen the first phase of the master plan being developed by Williams and Works and the planning commission will be completed in May of this year.

Between now and May, he said, the commission and consultants must complete a final land use plan, a downtown improvement plan, a final utilities plan, and a revised and updated zoning ordinance.

Demonstrate machines for learning tonight

Charlevoixians will be able to see first hand tonight the equipment the school district proposes to place in its Instructional Materials Centers at the new elementary school.

The audio visual equipment, for which a tax hike will be sought April 7, will be on display tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 in the high school cafeteria and band room.

Teachers and students will demonstrate the machines. A talk, with slides, will be presented by Julia DeYoung, retired Grand Haven IMC director.

Though space for the IMCs was included in the new elementary school on Division Ave., the bond issue did not cover buying the equipment. Funds for the equipment will be included in the April 7 millage vote. The amount of millage to be requested at the election has not been announced.

Tonight's meeting is sponsored by the PTA, school board and Charlevoix Education Association. Mrs. Robert Martin is general chairman, James Jenson is program chairman.

Girl Scouts

Starting this week, Charlevoix Girl Scouts will launch a two-pronged fund drive so that all members can go to camp this summer, according to Mrs. John Michael.

The girls, she said, will begin selling candy this week. In March they will start taking orders for Girl Scout cookies. The cookies will be delivered in April.

Fochtman easy winner; 34% of voters turn out

Mayor William E. Fochtman, 40, was easily re-elected for his fourth one-year term Monday by 22% of the city's registered voters.

Fochtman pulled almost two votes to every one garnered by his challenger, Dr. Walter Hoffmann.

With 598 (34) of the city's 1,769 registered voters turning out, Fochtman polled 390 votes to Hoffmann's 204.

In the only other contest on the ballot, incumbent Third Ward councilman Clifton Sundberg easily beat Mrs. Jean Vogler and Ken Wojan. Sundberg polled 134 votes to 61 for Mrs. Vogler and 31 for Wojan.

The poor turnout of voters was blamed on the failure of the candidates for mayor to debate or discuss issues. Hoffmann made an indirect, non-committal attempt to accuse Fochtman of failure to act, but on his part did not commit himself to a specific course of action.

The father of three daughters, Fochtman is part owner, with his brother Richard, of Charlevoix Oil Co., which was formerly owned by their father.

Fochtman was elected mayor in 1966, after five years as a First Ward councilman. He won the mayor's seat then in a contest with Dr. Hoffmann, who had served one term on the council from the Second Ward.

Fochtman's elevation to the head of the council came after Mayor E.D. (Pat) Hawley decided not to seek re-election.

In Monday's election, Fochtman's supporters maintained a check on voters and worked at the polls to get our their vote.

Hoffmann did not poll work Monday, but earlier attempted to gain support with a low-key advertising and person-to-person campaign.

Annabelle Cunningham, City Treasurer, was re-elected without opposition. Her 501 votes were the most for any candidate. City Clerk Hugh Mayne was re-elected with 491 votes.

Tom Hanna was elected First Ward Councilman with 155 votes, replacing Mrs. Marie Webb, who did not seek re-election. He will be the only new member of the council, until someone is appointed to replace Third Ward Councilman Jerry Whitley, who is resigning. Mrs. Webb beat Hanna for the council seat two years ago.

In the Second Ward Councilman Robert Gill was returned to the council with 134 votes.

The Third Ward race was Mrs. Vogler's second defeat in a bid for the council. A year ago she lost to Whitley.

Carr gets top job in 5-8 school

Charlevoix High School principal Ray Carr will direct development of Charlevoix' first "middle grades" or "junior high school" program, Supt. Rex Milligan announced last week.

CARR

Carr, Milligan said, will become principal of the new middle school when it opens, probably in September of this year. A new high school principal will be hired.

The present elementary will become the middle school, for grades five through eight, when the new $1.3 million kindergarten through fourth grades elementary school on Division Ave. is completed.

Carr, Milligan pointed out, is now principal of three of the grades--six through eight--which will move into the remodeled middle school. A completely new program, he explained, will have to be developed for the middle grades concept.

Carr, Milligan said, was one of five applicants for the middle grades principalship.

A new high school principal, Milligan said, may be selected from present faculty members.

Carr came to Charlevoix in the summer of 1966 to replace retiring principal Harry E. Bingham. Before coming to Charlevoix he was superintendent at Lake City and Vanderbilt and principal at Barryton.

Bands meet

Charlevoix High School's senior and junior bands will participate in the District Band Festival at Petoskey Saturday, February 22.

According to band director Clarence Odmark 18 bands will participate, the most ever in a district festival.

Charlevoix' senior band will compete for honors at 9:25 a.m. With Odmark conducting, the band will play the Overture for Winds, Minuteman and Proscenium Overture.

At 3:55 p.m. the junior band will play Norwegian Folk Song Suite, Homage to Youth and Two Moods.

Admissions to the festival in the Petoskey Junior High School Auditorium is free.

Ager pays fine

Steve Ager, 20, paid $750 in fine and costs Monday for possession of marihuana. The sentence was handed down by Circuit Judge Charles Brown after Ager plead guilty to the charge.

Ager reportedly left Tuesday for military service. He was drafted.

Ager was originally charged with selling marihuana, for which the maximum penalty could be life. The charge was later reduced to possession.

SECOND WARD city election official Mrs. Billy Smith, left, pours out the 182 ballots cast in her ward in Monday's election while Mrs. Edna LaBlance, right, waits to count them. Only 34% of the city's 1,769 registered voters cast ballots. They were all counted before 9:30 p.m.

Airport controversy zeroes in on hearing

The long stifled controversy over operation of Charlevoix's taxpayer-owned city airport promises to come to a head next Monday at 8 p.m.

The City Council will hold its public hearing on proposed airport rules and regulations 8 p.m. Monday, February 24, in City Hall.

Local airplane owners, pilots and students pilots have been preparing for the hearing since the city relented last week and released copies of the proposes rules.

The rules, pilots and members of the flying club and individual pilots, have been saying give commercial aviator and airport manager Joe McPhillips literal veto powers over the public's enjoyment and use of the airport.

For instance, they point to one requirement of the proposed rules which, they claim, forces plane owners to buy their fuel from McPhillips. The rules read "No gasoline or oil is to be brought onto or stored on airport property without the consent of the Airport Manager." McPhillips sells gas at the airport.

Another rule reads that "No person shall use the airport as a base or terminal for the carrying on of commercial aviation, the transportation of passengers, freight, express or mail, student flying or private purposes of transportation, without first securing a permit from the manager. . ."

Because the rules do not outline what a person or firm can do to obtain such a permit, this rule, critics contend, gives McPhillips absolute power to bar any competition.

At another point the rules require pilots to use tie-downs, at fees set by McPhillips, who keeps them, and then makes it clear McPhillips is not responsible for actually tying the plane down or for what happens to it while it is tied down.

Lexalite Corp. president J.T. Barnes, a private pilot who owns an airplane, outlines some of the objections to the proposed rules in the following portions of a letter to the Michigan Dept. of Aeronautics.

"I am concerned with the Proposed Rules and feel that they defeat the very purpose of the Department of Aeronautics, in limiting, rather than encouraging the expansion of aviation in the State of Michigan.

"Before stating my specific objections, let me first explain that I do agree that the present Fixed Base Operator, Joe McPhillips, should be given a favored

"Throughout both sets of regulations the airport manager is given extremely dictatorial powers over all operations on the field. This would not be too objectionable if it was also stated that the airport manager could not be a fixed base operator and further be prohibited from having any financial involvement in any fixed base operation. If the airport manager was one of the fixed base operators, it would, in effect, be the same as permitting the coach of one football team to act as a referee in a game against another. For example, in accord with paragraph 2. c., the second sentence therein, . . .The one fixed base operator could insist that any other fixed base operator put up buildings with gold roofs to insure maximum corrosion resistance and in the event they failed to do so, refuse to give them permission to build.

"I also object to the dictatorial powers given the airport manager in the fourth paragraph on Page 1 of the Proposed Field Rules and Regulations which, if we obey the letter of the law, prohibits a pilot from even landing at the field, unless he has first obtained a permit from the manager or assistant manager and paid the fees and charges prescribed. I think better wording would permit the manager to prohibit the use of the field by any individual for good and sufficient cause. I violently protest the present wording which would actually let the airport manager dictate to my Corporation who was and was not suitable to be our Corporate pilot.

"The above are my personal objections to the Proposed Regulations; I also seriously question the legality of many clauses which would apparently be in violation of the F.A.A. restriction on the use of the non-competitive clause, IF the fixed base operator were permitted to be airport manager.

"Under the section on Flying Clubs and Soaring Clubs I question the advisibility of including the section that gives the airport manager and/or the City Superintendant power to [illegible] instructor through negotiation.

Grandvue Report

New admittances since January 24th include: Mary Gray, January 28th; William Alward, February 10th; Glenn Maxson, February 12th, and Jeannette Harris, February 14th. Discharged: Florence Bryan to the Garth Bryan home, January 31st; Mary Green to Green Acres Rest Home, February 13th. Deaths: Emma Dodds, January 29th, and Irma Hannah, January 30th.

The monthly Utilization meeting was held February 11th with Mrs. VanDellen, Martin and Savory attending.

Patients celebrating birthdays this month are Alice Smatts, February 13th; Mollie Smith, February 19th; Effie O'Neill, February 22nd; Rae Milford, February 23rd, and George Bergmann, Sabria Faust, and Will Reinhart, February 26th.

Church services for the month of February will be held by the following churches: February 2nd, Lutheran Church, Charlevoix; February 9th; Congregational Church, Charlevoix; February 16th; Church of God, Charlevoix; and February 23rd, R.L.D.S., East Jordan.

We would like to thank the Women's Society of Christian Service of the United Methodist Church, Charlevoix, for the bibs, lap robes, and Valentine cookies which they brought to the patients. Our thanks also to Mrs. Alfred Larsen for Valentine favors, Mrs. Denzil Wilson for bibs, Cadet Scouts of East Jordan for Valentine favors, Girl Scouts of Boyne City for Valentine favors, and Mabel Griffen for lap robes.

Maryanna Derenzy and her husband, Al, are vacationing in sunny Florida. A card from her reports 80 degree weather, and Maryanna had gotten sunburned! Dr. VanDellen's back from his trip, with lots of stories to tell us. We are happy to report that Myrtle Nyland, Cook at Grandvue who has been hospitalized, is reported improving.

Rose Nemec and Glennie Green of our Diversional Therapy Department gave a Valentine party for the patients on Valentine's Day. Several guests attended, including Mrs. Lee Smith, Mrs. Emma Sundquist, Mrs. Annetta Peck, Mrs. Evelyn Wangeman, Mrs. Lillian Cicalo, Miss Elizabeth Seiler, and Mrs. Esther Coleman, all of Boyne City. Mrs. Coleman sang and played her guitar for the patients. A good time was had by all!

Ken Depew a sponsor of tv show

Kenneth Depew, president of K & A Dodge, Inc., 405 Bridge St. is one of more than 3,200 Dodge dealers throughout the country who will be participating in the NBC Television Network's second annual "Academy of Professional Sports Awards" special on Wednesday, Feb. 19, from 10 to 11 p.m.

"I'm very proud to be associated with this show," said Depew. "It's the only one which honors outstanding pro athletes in major American sports."

"The athletes are chosen by their fellow players in the American and National Football Leagues, American and National Baseball Leagues, National Basketball Association, National Hockey League, golf and horse racing," he said.

Depew said the players cannot vote for themselves, nor for teammates.

"Even persons who are not sports fans will enjoy this program," Depew said. "We not only are honoring the world's finest athletes, but we have some of the biggest names in the entertainment world who are sports enthusiasts presenting awards."

Depew said Kim Novak, Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Danny Kaye and Art Linkletter will take part in the presentations.

A barn becomes a delightful town apartment

-by PAT BEGROW

Miss Beatrice Bergeron really had blind faith in Charlevoix, for she quit her job at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, sold her furniture and left her apartment to rent a Charlevoix apartment sight unseen and move into a community which she had only visited and where she had no relatives and few friends. Really it is a tribute to Charlevoix that she is here.

And here she has been for four years, snug as a bug in the apartment that she first rented sight unseen from Larry and Jeannine Wallace. She is in a building which was originally a barn until Earl Young converted it into a cozy two bedroom apartment complete with an attractive screened porch, spacious laundry room, large entry hall and garage.

Huddled into the hillside as it is, the size of this apartment is deceiving for it is much larger than it appears, and although it was converted 20 years ago from a barn into a house, the design concept is as modern as today.

The kitchen is what is most amazing about this house. It embodies the functionalism that was a product of the Bauhaus School of Design that originated in Germany during the 1920's. There is an eye level wall type over, surface burners; magnetic cupboard doors and best of all the cupboards have never needed to be refinished or painted for they have never been scratched or marred. Even the most acid critic would have to agree that this is pretty functional. The windows in the kitchen are the leaded ones which Mr. Young got from the old Colonial Inn.

These same windows are used in the living room over a window seat which is adorned with thriving plants. This attractive window seat is a focal point of Miss Bergeron's living room and must be a joy to her and to her many guests as well. From this point she can see Lake Michigan.

The walls of the living room are paneled, the stone fireplace reaches the full height of the wall and the library corner filled with interesting books. On the floor she has placed a collection of oriental rugs.

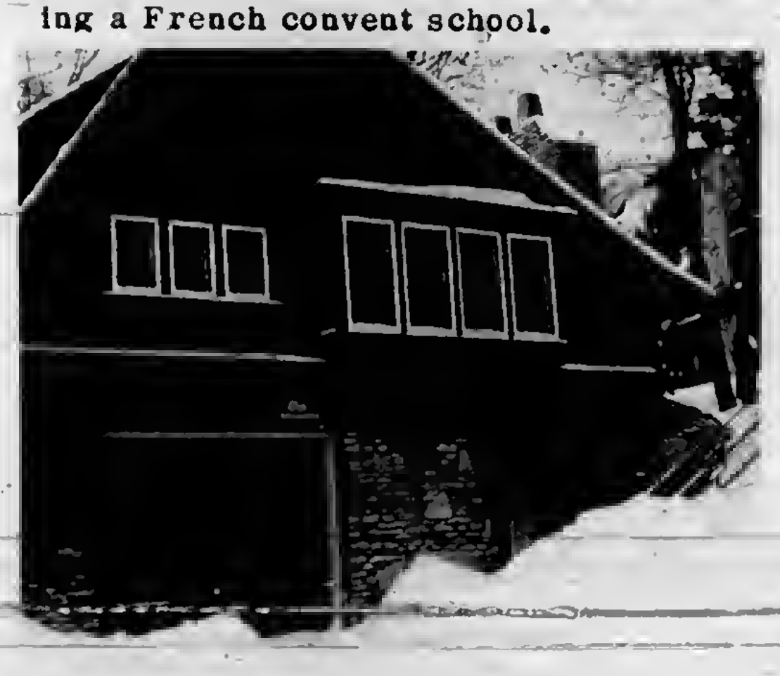
There is a folding door between the living room and the master bedroom. When this door is open it reveals an ever changing view through the large south window of the bedroom for through this window can be seen the elementary school playgroud. What a nice contrast it is to sit in a cozy quiet room and see the happy schuffling and turmoil on the playground.

In the summertime Miss Bergeron has many guests who visit and since she lives only a short block from the Michigan Beach they often walk over to enjoy the lake. By taking the initiative and moving permanently to Charlevoix four years ago Miss Bergeron surprised most of her Chicago friends. They are still unbelieving until they visit her and see for themselves what a pleasant life she has made in Charlevoix.

IN THE MASTER bedroom Earl Young designed a built in dresser to fit under the eaves. The drawers are so long that they easily hold twelve sweaters.

THE GUEST bedroom is large enough to accommodate twin beds. Miss Bergeron uses it often for her many out-of-town guests.

IN THE DINING alcove is a lovely watercolor painting done by Miss Bergeron's mother while she was attending a French convent school.



Fantastic as it may seem this charming house at 101 Grant Street was once a barn.

Tourists boost Charlevoix retail store sales

Commercial Economic Base

The principal commercial trade centers of northwestern Michigan are Traverse City and Petoskey, both resort cities located on the Lake Michigan coast. Peripheral trade centers of the area include Manistee, Cadillac and Cheboygan.

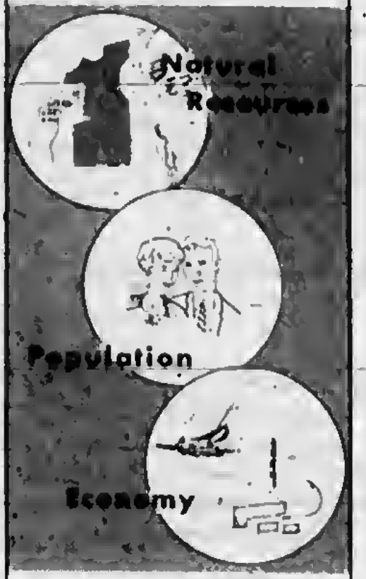
Total retail sales in 14 northwestern Michigan counties were nearly 400 million dollars in 1967. Grand Traverse County, which includes Traverse City, accounted for over 25 percent of total retail sales in the area (over 100 million dollars). Wexford County (Cadillac), Emmet County (Petoskey) and Cheboygan County (Cheboygan) had retail sales of 10 percent, 12 percent and 13 percent of total area sales.

Retail sales in Charlevoix County were 27.8 million dollars or seven percent of the area total.

Trade Areas

Four basic retail trade areas are defined by Rand McNally as existing in the northern half of Michigan's Lower Peninsula. The Petoskey Retail Trade Area, smaller in geographical area than the other three, contains Charlevoix County as well as Emmet, Cheboygan and Otsego counties. The Petoskey Retail Trade Area, although heavily dependent upon the resort business, is tending to lean more to industry in recent years. A number of industries such as Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant have located there and will, undoubtedly, continue to do so. Of secondary importance to Charlevoix County is Traverse City whose retail trade area extends to Charlevoix County. By way of comparison, it is estimated from survey results that for every one Charlevoix County resident who shops in Traverse City, 20 will shop in Petoskey.

A Courier Continuing Report



Text of the Planning Commission's Report

The Primary Retail Trade Area of Charlevoix includes not only the Charlevoix Region but also Hayes Township east of Charlevoix, Norwood and a portion of Eveline townships south of Charlevoix and Banks Township in Antrim County.

The Charlevoix Retail Trade Area had an estimated resident population of 6,019 in 1966. The region, centrally located within the trade area, had a 1966 population of 3,840. The major strength of the retail trade area lies in Charlevoix, Charlevoix Township and concentrations of population along major highways and in resort areas along Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan.

Charlevoix might best be classified as a full convenience retail trade center, offering residents and tourists within the area a full line of convenience retail goods and services. Charlevoix also exhibits characteristics of a comparison center with its many specialty shops, automobile and furniture establishments.

Retail Sales Outlook

Sales tax receipts for 1966 reveal that residents and tourists in Charlevoix County expended 19.9 million dollars to purchase retail commodities and services. By contrast, retail sales in 1963 were 87.4 percent of 1966 sales.

Most significant gains were realized by retail types that cater predominantly to tourists. These included gains in food, gas and automotive sales. Furniture, appliances, apparel and accessories decreased in sales between 1963 and 1966. The retail sales picture indicates that the demand for convenience goods such as food and gasoline is rapidly increasing, while basic comparison goods have failed to capitalize on tourism and new residential growth and instead are slipping out of the retail sales picture. The Charlevoix Region, as will be illustrated later, is no exception; however, it has managed to increase total retail sales and services to such a degree that the loss in sales of comparison goods is not as noticeable.

Charlevoix is not only the major retail center in the county but has continued to increase retail sales at a faster rate than remaining portions of the county.

Buying Income

A major indicator of the retail strength of the Charlevoix Region is to compare monies available to make retail purchases in the county (effective buying income) to actual retail sales. Effective buying income in Charlevoix County, currently estimated by Sales Management Survey of Buying Power to be $2,030 per capita is substantially above the figure for four years earlier as indicated in the following table. Coupled with population growth during the four year period, the resulting purchasing power in the county approaches 22 million dollars in 1966.

Effective Buying Income Trends
Charlevoix County

	Per Household	Per Capita
1962	$ 4,565	$ 1,363
1963	5,107	1,523
1964	5,648	1,682
1965	6,281	1,871
1966	6,808	2,030

Total retail sales, however, are slightly less than 20 million dollars. It becomes evident then that at the county wide level, only 90.8% of the effective buying income for retail sales is retained in sales made within the county. Purchases of food, automotive, and lumber and hardware supplies hold the retention of available money at nearly 100 percent. General merchandise establishments are not of a quality or quantity to draw the full purchasing power available to make department store purchases thus they get only 19.4% of potential sales.

The Charlevoix Retail Trade Area, by comparison, was able to retain nearly all of the available dollars in 1966. Food stores retained 3.4 million dollars to the 1.9 million dollars earmarked for food sales from the trade area. Automotive and marine sales retained an additional $581,000. Lumber, hardware and building supply sales retained well over 100 percent of available sales. Additional sales in the lumber and building supply category result from residents living outside the trade area rather than tourists. Automotive and marine sales (including gasoline sales) and food sales clearly reflect the tourist dollar. Tourist spending will be examined in some detail later in the report.

Within the Charlevoix Retail Trade Area, heaviest losses of sales potential were experienced in the general merchandise and apparel categories. The high sales retention in the food, automotive and marine categories (tourist sales) greatly contributed in keeping the sales losses at a minimum in the trade area. There is no inference here to the fact that tourist sales alone are responsible for the economic picture portrayed above, but that they do bear a significance in the total retail sales picture. Most apparent in both the county and Charlevoix Retail Trade Area is the loss to competition in Petoskey, Traverse City and other outside business centers of general merchandise sales.

The loss of apparel and furniture sales to outside competition is significant also. Another indicator of outside competition resulted from a survey of retail businesses in Charlevoix. When questioned concerning their nearest competition, 24% indicated that Petoskey was their nearest competition; 2% - Traverse City.

THE KITTEN AND THE CHURCH

(A Sermonette)

The kitten is laughing. Do you suppose it has a sense of humor? That is a debatable question. It is almost certain, however, that it lives entirely in the present. Its mind is not capable of entertaining a hope that it can be the prize winning cat in a national pet show, nor is it haunted by a fear of being attacked by a dog next week.

While the present, "today", is very important and should be seized upon by man, yet, unlike the cat, man cannot live wholly in the present. With a mind that looks ahead man's heart would fail if the mind saw nothing in the future. With man there is hope, ranging from a small spark to a full degree of confidence. In facing the future he does best when he is possessed of complete confidence.

There is a great generator of hope for everyone who will establish contact with it. That generator is the church of one's careful choosing. It is a generator that has proved itself again and again to be a source of power for so many.

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP

NOTICE is hereby given that at a regular meeting of the Charlevoix Township Board held on Feb. 11, 1969 the following resolutions amending to Zoning Ordinance were adopted:

"RESOLVED, that ARTICLE III RESIDENTIAL DISTRICTS, R-1 and R-2 Section 3.02 SIZE OF PREMISES paragraph be deleted and now read

1. Every parcel of land upon which a one-family dwelling is hereafter erected shall be not less than 100 ft. in width and not less than 125 ft. in depth."

"RESOLVED, that ARTICLE III RESIDENTIAL DISTRICTS, R-1 and R-2 Section 3.03 FLOOR AREA Paragraph 1 be deleted and now read:

1. Every one-family dwelling hereafter erected (or altered) shall contain not less than 800 sq. ft. of living area exclusive of any area in an attached garage, open porch or other open attached structure.

Paragraph 2 be deleted and now read:

2. Every two-family dwelling hereafter erected (or altered) shall contain not less than 750 sq. ft. (per family unit) of living area exclusive of any area in an attached garage, open porch or other open attached structure."

"RESOLVED that ARTICLE IV. COMMERCIAL DISTRICT, C-1, Section 4.01 Uses Paragraph 11, be deleted. Also RESOLVED that any outdoor advertising sign will hereafter come under the jurisdiction of the Township Board."

The above amendments to the Zoning Ordinance are effective immediately upon publication.

Rayders speed to first in Schuss Mt. ski meet

In their last meet before the Regional Meet to be held this year at Timberlee near Traverse City, the Charlevoix High School Boy's Ski Team made its most impressive showing of the year to nose out a good Traverse City St. Francis Team by one tenth of a second to take first place in a triangular meet against Traverse City St. Francis and Bellaire held at Schuss Mountain on February 12, 1969.

Lead by Bob Etienne and Jim Simonsen the Rayders came from last place at the end of their first slalom run to first at the end of the giant slalom.

Jim Simonsen posted two excellent slalom runs and took an over-all third in the slalom before he was disqualified in the giant slalom for missing a gate.

Bob Etienne had a good second run in the slalom after falling on his first run. He lead the team in the giant slalom with an excellent performance.

Steady performer Leon White also added heavily to the Rayder's cause with good runs in both races. (White and Dave Gill have performed well all year in spite of the poor course conditions they run into skiing from the fifth and sixth positions.)

Dave Gill and Steve Smith also had good giant slalom runs which figured into the Rayder's total time.

The girls team, shorthanded by the absence of Jeanine Etienne who is ill, finished third in the meet in spite of good performances by Georgia Lusk and Cheryl Kenney, who have been steady performers all season.

On Wednesday, February 5, the Charlevoix Rayder Ski Team traveled to Nubs Nob for a meet against Boyne City, Petoskey, and Petoskey St. Francis. In the boy's division the Rayders best times in the slalom were posted by Dave Gill and Leon White.

The other Rayder skiers had their problems with the tough slalom course as three of them disqualified for missing gates. They came back with good slalom runs by Etienne, Simonsen, Smith and White, but it wasn't enough to vault them out of their fourth place finish.

The girls' team, shorthanded by the absence of Cheryl Kenney and Pam Aispaugh, who were ill, also finished fourth in spite of strong performances by Georgia Lusk and Jeanine Etienne.

The Rayder's most impressive showing of the day was by freshman Jeanine Etienne who had an excellent slalom run and lead the girl's team in the giant slalom with a very fine performance.

Rayders need victory at Gaylord

After falling to Cheboygan last week, the Charlevoix Red Rayders are now battling for their lives in a futile attempt to go above the .500 mark as the season draws to a close. With a 6-7 mark, they are a certain underdog as they go to Gaylord Friday night to tangle with the 7-5 record of the Blue Devils.

Last week Gaylord escaped defeat by whipping Boyne City, 74-69 in double overtime. Rick Catt, the 6-3 junior, and Tom Johnson, a 5-8 senior, are the pacesetters in the Gaylord offensive machine, and are two of the league's top scorers. While stopping them may be difficult, it can be done, but then you have to contend with Dana Hird, the up and coming junior guard, who has gone on a scoring rampage the past three weeks.

The Rayders will be trying to avenge their earlier 59-56 defeat, but when playing on the Gaylord floor, it probably will be hard to do.

Cheboygan plays host to Rogers City, and from the looks of things, Coach Frank Karowski will be starting an all underclass team. Watch the Chiefs roll, especially with their "Big Three" of Renz, Johnson, and Beatty, perhaps the top three juniors in the league this winter.

The two parochial schools will meet head on at Alpena, and the Thunderbolds need this game to stay out of the cellar. Coach Bernie Call's crew won the last meeting, 62-52, and will do the samo this time.

The Boyne City Ramblers will travel up to St. Ignace to take on the St. Ignace Saints. Last week St. Ignace was toppled from the unbeaten list, and can't afford to lose another game this year. Should they win the remaining games, they will win the league title by a few percentage points over Petoskey.

What a way it is for the Ramblers to finish their schedule. First St. Ignace, then Petoskey. The chances of Boyne winning either game are few and far between, but they must win one of them to stay out of the cellar. But, after giving the Blue Devils a run for their money on the Boyne court, who knows...

Action resumes Saturday with three games. Our Rayders will journey to Rogers City to take on the Hurons. Coach Carey's five should win this game, but it will create some problems. The Hurons are always a problem on their home court, especially since they lost to Charlevoix last time, 63-57.

Gaylord will be at home for the second straight night, and take on the Cheboygan Chiefs. Two wins by Gaylord would sew up third place in the conference. Cheboygan lost last time by 19 points, and will probably lose by more this weekend.

The final weekend game will find the Saints from St. Ignace playing in what is expected to be a no contest affair with Alpena CC. No rest can be found for the Saints, for the following Tuesday they go to Cheboygan. Three wins in five days is plenty to expect, but the Saints will do it.

Lancers turn tables on Bays

ELLSWORTH--After pulling the key upset, a splendid 66-51 win over the highly touted Suttons Bay Norsemen, Coach Vanderwerff's Ellsworth Lancers are riding on Cloud 9.

The win, had little effect on the outcome of the season, unless Suttons Bay should drop one of their two final games of the season, but it put plenty of pride in the Lancers' pockets.

This weekend Suttons Bay will travel to Gaylord and play the St. Mary Snowbirds. While eyes will be focused on the outcome of that game, Central Lake will be at Bellaire and Inland Lakes goes to Onaway.

The key game this week finds Central Lake at Bellaire. Coach Don Smith's Bellaire cagers have been the come-back team of the conference in the past three weeks. Last week, Denny Polzin set a new scoring record of 37 points as his team clobbered Inland Lakes, 79-57. His 37 points enabled him to take over third place in the scoring leadership in conference play. Close behind him is Ralph Payton of Central Lake. This game must be considered a toss-up.

Suttons Bay could find trouble when they tangle with the Snowbirds in Gaylord. Last week St. Mary's dropped a 59-51 decision to Central Lake, but that was without star player, Craig DeCorte. The next night St. Mary's dropped a last second heart-breaker to Vanderbilt, 58-57.

DeCorte was red-hot that night scoring 26. It also marked the return of John Peterson to the lineup. This could make a big difference. St. Mary's has two games remaining, and has to win them both to annex a .500 season. Perhaps it could be a dream come true.

Inland Lakes plays a Saturday night game at Onaway, and should defeat them for the second time this season.

Rayders doused by 4th period flurry

Charlevoix's Rayders went into the Michigan-Huron Shores League standings with a 6-7 record following their loss Friday to Cheboygan.

Cheboygan nipped the Rayders 69-56 due to a 21-point final period performance.

After trailing most of the game, the Rayders had the game tied at 48-48 when the third period ended. At the end of the first quarter the Rayders were behind 15-14. At halftime Cheboygan led 36-28.

A 20-point third quarter put the Rayders into a tie. But in the final frame the Chiefs scored 21 points to Charlevoix's eight, after Bruce Meggison was called out on fouls.

Stewart Coleman led the Rayder attack with 16 points. Meggison followed with 11.

Other Rayders scoring were Don Ward, 9; Don Livingston, 7; Kraag Lieberman, 6; Norm Ostrum, Tim Doan and Bob DeYoung, 2 each, and Carl Novak, 1.

The Rayders scored 23 field goals to Cheboygan's 26. Cheboygan scored on 17 of 34 free throws and Charlevoix scored on 10 of 21 free throws.

Twenty-four fouls were called on the Rayders and 15 on Cheboygan.

JVs lose

Charlevoix's Junior Varsity cagers lost 56-49 to Cheboygan Friday.

The Charlevoix JVs lead going into the second half, but were trailing 47-45 when the third quarter ended. At halftime the little Rayders were out-front 32-30. At the end of the first period the JVs held a healthy 21-13 lead.

The little Rayders made 20 field goals and nine of 17 free throws. The Cheboygan JVs scored 22 field goals and 12 of 31 free throws.

Nix on creating more public jobs

WHILE it would, admittedly, take a person stubbornly opposed to and blind to common sense not to recognize the merit of Joseph Parisi's recommendation that the city and Charlevoix Township pool their resources and efforts to meet common problems, it is regrettable that he seeks to create two more local units of government.

Parisi last week told about 40 persons at a public meeting in the VFW Hall that cooperation between the city and township is the only logical course for the community to follow. With this most of us had already agreed.

However, the Courier shudders at Parisi's proposal that a "Charlevoix Metropolitan Authority" be created to purchase the city's existing water system and expand it to serve the township. His urging that the County Board of Supervisors Create a Department of Public Works leaves us equally aghast.

Each of these new governmental agencies would require independent staffs and administrators, office space, equipment, etc. And each would simply have powers now held by the city, township and county.

What we do not need is two more units of government. What we do need is responsible leadership from our existing units of government.

Parisi was certainly on the right track when he repeatedly urged city leaders to get the answers to the area's future needs and how most efficiently and economically to meet them. We also share his disappointment that our Regional Planning Commission has not yet come up with a master plan to guide the area's growth.

We also feel Parisi made his point well in telling listeners that persons who live in what is now the township should not expect to get the benefits of the city's water supply system without picking up a share of the investment city taxpayers have made to build the system.

Most important, we think, Parisi pointed out the delinquency of city officials in not finding answers to how and what should be done.

History to mark Nixon P.O. move

IF PRESIDENT Nixon does nothing else to earn a place in history his removal of postal appointments from the political arena should be enough.

In Charlevoix, and just about every other American community, there are scars from one postmastership appointment or another. Remember the flurry only a few years ago about naming someone to replace Postmaster Pete Timmer?

It was obvious to just about everyone at the time that the most qualified and logical choice was Dan Gencit. But before it was over neighbors were snarling at each other and just about every Democratic boondoggler in the county thought at one time or another they were going to get the job.

For generations congressmen have spent more time sweating over who should get the postmastership, or rural carrier job, in podunk than they have over balancing the budget and cutting taxes.

And for as many generations some congressmen, and presidents have been tempted to take the post office out of politics. But none have had the courage of their convictions.

The post office was the biggest source of political patronage the party in power had. Even when the White House changed hands the new president, no matter how avid his reform promises may have been, was unwilling to give up this power.

Perhaps President Nixon is the first American president to realize that a politician's most secure strength comes from courageously doing what is right, rather than having a horde of people on the payroll who owe him their job.

50,000 steelhead only a beginning

THE STATE'S announcement that it will plant 50,000 six-to-eight inch steelhead trout in Lake Charlevoix this spring was somewhat disappointing to many of us who had been thinking more in terms of 100,000. But, perhaps, our hopes revealed our greed.

As district fish biologist Steve Swan correctly pointed out, the "steelhead" are a far superior fish to the "rainbow" we have been getting. Since 1965 the state has planted nearly 100,000 rainbow in Lake Charlevoix. Of these only about 10,000 were the "steelhead" variety.

The 90%, or so, which were "rainbow" were the young of hatchery raised brood stock from inland waters. These fish have proven to be among the most disappointing in rainbow trout history. Their survival is poor and, as Dave Juilleret has pointed out, they "just don't have the fight a rainbow should have" on a hook and line.

The "steelhead" we will get this year are something else. They are the young of wild fish trapped at the mouth of the Manistee River. They have all the toughness and orneriness of their native parents.

We should also note in all fairness that the state has only 320,000 of these native steelhead to plant in Michigan waters this year. That Lake Charlevoix is getting nearly one-sixth of the total ration seems like as good a break as we can honestly ask for.

Our next move, then, should be to continue to press the state to increase its steelhead rearing and planting program so that more of these kings of fresh water sportfish are available. This can best be done by upgrading the emphasis on steelhead at the cost of the salmon program.

Expert fisheries people say Lake Charlevoix will support steelhead plants of from 250,000 to 500,000 a year for several years before its full sports fishing potential is reached. So that's what we should be encouraging -- and supporting -- the state to do.

Supers worth their salaries

Somebody kiddingly suggested last week that it's too bad Charlevoix doesn't have a Jaycees organization to recall our county supervisors for tacking a $600 salary on their $35 per-meeting per diem.

Each of the 15 supervisors are expected to make between $1,000 and $1,200 a year under their new pay plan. This is more than each of the 25 former supervisors made under the old board set up.

Year after year the old, mal-apportioned, county board's operating expenses ran about $13,000. Of this about $10,000 was for per diem. The new board's total expenses for 1969 may well hit $20,000, with $17,000 or $18,000 going for salaries.

Ok now, those are the black and white money facts. They don't add up to getting out recall petitions.

To the contrary, while this department might think it is constructive to haze public officials about their salaries, it by no stretch of the imagination thinks the supervisors are in the least out of line with their pay plan.

There has been a different mood (if that's the right word) at the two meetings the new supervisors have held. They show outright impatience at the clumsy, stumbling loose-knit traditional approach to operating county government.

The fact that things have been done a certain way for generations does not appear to impress the new board. Former boards were slaves to their grass roots traditions.

Because a thing hasn't been done the most practical or common sense way is no excuse for not doing it the logical way, the new supervisors seem to feel.

Instead of bringing to the County Building a passion for preserving their township's pseudo independence many of them are coming to board meetings with hard headed ideas of what makes a business profitable.

We already hear them mumbling traitorous things to the effect that the county ought to have a highly competent manager to coordinate, guide and develop programs and solutions. There has even been some loose talk about maybe cutting the County Board to five men, instead of 15.

Until January 1, 1969 a supervisor spouting such perverted thoughts would have been indicted for blasphemy. The other supervisors would have scurried away from the coffee pot in the jury room whenever the turncoat supervisor walked up for a cookie.

Now supervisors sit around the jury room--with the same coffee and cookies--openly contemplating such reorganization.

Glory be, such men deserve at least a thousand, or so, bucks a year.

Figures were published last week showing there are 225 elected officials in Charlevoix County. Peaine Township, with 34 persons counted by census takers, has five elected officials.

Our new County Supervisors have the comprehension to realize this just doesn't make sense. Three cheers! Shep.

Bells Bay hearing shows 'Will of the People' prevails

The Charlevoixians in the above picture have again proven that even the burgeoning state government bureaucracy is not exempt or immune to the will of the people.

The Michigan Dept. of Natural Resources Commission last week officially vetoed Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s request for a lease of about 200 acres of Bells Bay State Forest area property. The cement Co. proposed to quarry the property, which adjoins its South Point quarry.

After details of the pending lease were accidentally discovered by Gregg Shadko, a campaign to preserve the public land for public use was mounted. The campaign was a success because hundreds of citizens stood up to be counted. Petitions were signed. Letters and phone calls poured into Lansing.

This mounting pressure forced the Dept. of Natural Resources to hold a public hearing in Charlevoix. More than 100 citizens, including those in the picture, jammed into City Hall to underscore their opposition to the plan.

The possibility of Medusa obtaining the 200 acre quarry site in exchange for more than a mile of Lake Michigan beach property, including Fisherman's Island, and several hundred inland acres is reportedly still being considered.

The Bells Bay issue also focused the DNR's attention on the value of the Fisherman's Island area for a publicly-owned natural area. Though it is remote, there is the possibility the DNR will seek funds to buy the Fisherman's Island area outright.

Newspaper fanning dangerous fires

by JIM FITZGERALD

I am lately swamped by mail advising me to move 60 miles south to Detroit where I can take my lumps with the rest of the mugging victims.

Or stay where I am and shut my big mouth.

I write that no man should be prejudged for any reason-his complexion, his relatives or the way he walks. And I get letters telling me I would wail a different tune if I lived in a big city where there is a nigger with a razor in every doorway.

Some of the letter-writers preface their venom with the usual sickening platitudes: "Some of my best friends. ..." But the haters always end up writing about "they." "They" are lazy. "They" throw garbage in their backyards. "They" want to kill all white men and rape all white women. "They" snatched my aunt's purse six times.

And with that simple word "they," the letter-writers reveal their ignorance. The haters stick the caution sign on every black child in Detroit because Rap Brown clenched his fist in Boston.

It would make equal sense if I quit eating spaghetti because of the Mafia.

Another thing many of the haters tell me is to read the News and I'll know how dangerous it is to live in Detroit. They are referring to the "Crime in the Streets" column which each day lists the hold-ups and muggings and rapes. The News always identifies the criminals as Negro or white. This is a mistake and I hope the News editor will some day wake up and cut it out.

Naturally, most of the muggers are Negroes. There are 600,000 Negroes living in the inner city and, for whatever good or bad reasons, some of them are vicious crooks. But what color are the victims of these street crimes? The News skims this. Thus the reader gets a false picture of a black horde of bums warring on the good white folks. The truth is that many Negroes are also victims of street crimes. "They" are scared too, man.

If the News is going to report complexions, it should report them all. Otherwise, the newspaper is needlessly fanning dangerous fires ("Look Martha, another dirty nigger hit an old man.") and giving ammunition to the type of racists who write me stupid letters. The truth is, the only decent reasons for a newspaper to publish a criminal's color are if the crime is racial (that's news) or if the information will aid in the capture of a fugitive or in the protection of the public (that's good citizenship). None of these circumstances apply to most of the street crimes reported by the News.

Ok. Now that I've eliminated the News as a possible play of employment, let's get back to my lily white matt. . .

The haters accuse me of condoning street crime, or of doubting it really exists. Nuts. The thugs disgust me, too. And they frighten me. If some black bums come after me, I'm not going to pull out some clipped columns and ask them to read how liberal I am. I am going to run as fast as George Wallace would.

No, I know the problem is there. And I can understand why people (and newspapers) are more upset by two-bit muggings than they are by more sophisticated crimes which take many more dollars from their pockets. Nothing hits closer to home than a club on the head.

But the first step toward stopping Crime in the Streets is to realize that every black face in the street does not belong to a mugger.

White people should think hard about this: Do unto others as you would have them do unto you if your skin were black.

Onward and Upward.

NOTICE

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP

NOTICE is hereby given that the following ordinance was duly adopted by the Charlevoix Township Board, Charlevoix County, Michigan, at its regular meeting held on Feb. 11, 1969:

Ordinance No. 9 "The division of a lot in a recorded plat is prohibited, unless approved following application to the Township Clerk. The application shall state the reasons for the proposed division. No lot in a recorded plat shall be divided into more than four (4) parts and the resulting lots shall be not less in area then permitted by the township ordinance. In no event shall any resulting lot be less than 65 feet at the front line or less than 12,000 sq. ft. in area. No building permit shall be issued or any building construction commenced, until the division has been approved by the Township Board and the suitability of the land for building sites has been approved by the district health department. The division of a lot resulting in a smaller area than prescribed herein may be permitted for the purpose of adding to the existing building site or sites. The application shall so state and shall be in affidavit form."

This ordinance is effective immediately upon publication.

Community image cuts school bond interest rate

Outsiders looking at Charlevoix see it as one of Michigan's most stable, responsible communities, Charlevoix School Board members concluded after receiving bids on $1.595 million in school construction bonds Monday evening.

The interest rate on the bids was far below--a $100,000 or more below--what most school districts in the state have to pay to sell school bonds, Supt. Rex Milligan explained.

Some school districts, Milligan said, have been unable to get bond buyers to even bid on their bonds. Had this happened to Charlevoix it would have created a serious crisis because the contractor has started construction of the new elementary school on Division Ave.

The average interest rate on school bonds in Michigan recently has been 5.65, Jerry Redeker of First State Bank and a school board member, said.

The lowest of the six bids received on Charlevoix's bonds Monday was 5.0653%. This bid, from Halsey, Stuart and Co. of Chicago, was accepted by the board.

The high bid was 5.25341% from Northern Trust Co.

Charlevoix taxpayers, Redeker said, will save $34,000 in the difference between the high and the low bid.

Total interest on the bonds at the 5.06% rate from Halsey, Stuart will be $919,713, Milligan said. At the 5.25% rate bid by Northern Trust the total interest paid would have been $953,845, he explained.

Had the lowest interest rate bid been 5.5%, Milligan said taxpayer would have paid more than a million dollars in interest over the 20-year duration of the bond issue.

The lower than expected interest rate, Milligan said, will make it possible to reduce the property tax millage rate slightly.

"If there's a story here it is that the people of Charlevoix can be proud of their community," Redeker said.

He explained that bond bidders thoroughly analyze a community's growth, tax base, industry and past history of public spending and responsibility before bidding on bonds. The interest rates, he explained, were low because under this analysis Charlevoix came out as an outstanding community.

The number of bidders (six) are also an indication of this, Redeker said. Few communities have this kind of competition for their bonds, he added.

Bond specialists, Redeker said, know of no other Michigan school district which recently has received such low interest-rate bids on a bond issue like Charlevoix's.

Redeker pointed out that because the stock market has been steadily dropping the last few days interest in bonds is rising, which also helped lower the interest rate.

It is possible, Redeker said, that the school would have received an even lower interest rate had it sold the bonds in mid-1968. The lower rate, however, would have been at least partially offset by the district's having to pay the interest for a longer period of time.

The bond money, Redeker said, will be invested at 6.5% to 7% until the contractor finishes the new elementary school and remodeling of the old elementary.

Citizens jam hearing on city airport rules

Interest in Charlevoix's city airport is not limited to the handful of taxpayers who are flying enthusiasts. Monday night's hearing on airport rules drew the largest crowd in memory to city council chambers.

About 60 persons attended the two-hour hearing on the controversial rules. The hearing was conducted by Mayor Bill Foehtman with no outbursts of anger.

John Frielink and Frank Sickelsmith from the Michigan Aeronautics Commission shortstopped the hearing for councilmen, answering questions and generally agreeing or disagreeing to proposed changes from pilots and members of the Charlevoix Flying Club and Charlevoix Soaring Club.

Charlevoix industrialist - pilot Jess Penn acted as spokesman for the flyers. Other pilots participating included Don Berlage, Bob Hoffman, Barry Wood, Ray Wood, Ralph Hess and Lynn Porter.

Joe McPhillips, airport manager and operator of the airport's exclusive commercial flying business, was present but did not speak.

Sickelsmith and Frielink generally sided with the pilots in that they agreed that the city should have a liberal policy to encourage construction of privately-owned hangars, development of an aircraft repair and service business, aircraft sales and at least one more commercial operator.

Sickelsmith agreed with Penn's request that persons wanting to build hangars be given at least a 50-year lease on the airport property on which the hangars are located and the right to remove or sell the hangars when the owner no longer wants them.

The city's proposed rules would not have allowed the long-term lease and would have turned the privately - built hangar over to the city at the end of a short-term lease agreement.

Sickelsmith told councilmen and citizens that the restrictive proposals in the rules as presented have been deleted from those at many other Michigan smalltown airports because they "cripple" private enterprise.

However, pilots failed to get a commitment from the council that the rules would be rewritten on the basis of Sickelsmith and Frielink's comments on the proposed revisions presented at the hearing and publicly reviewed before adopted.

Pilots several times stressed their need for qualified aircraft repair service at the airport. They pointed out that, as written, the rules make it unprofitable for a licensed aircraft mechanic, said he has tried for years to provide service at the local airport but has been unable to due to prevailing policies.

One pilot said that under the rules a plane owner cannot bring a mechanic on the field to repair a plane that won't run.

Sickelsmith said, "I think it's the worst thing in the world" that the airport manager also own and operate a commercial business on the airport. He added, though, that for many publicly-owned airports this is the most economical way to operate.

Sickelsmith said he hopes the day will come when the airport will have more than one or even two commercial operators.

Berlage told the council that its proposed rule that any new operator selling gasoline must pay the city three-cents per gallon is unfair if the present operator (McPhillips) does not have to. He said this means a new operator would have to charge three-cents more per gallon than McPhillips does.

Sickelsmith said McPhillips's contract with the city can be rewritten when it comes up for renewal so that all operators get equal treatment.

It was uncertain from the hearing whether Sickelsmith agreed with a proposal presented by Penn that flying instructors pay an annual fee to the city rather than a cut of their income to McPhillips.

Ray Wood and Lynn Porter, both qualified flight instructors, have objected to being forced to pay McPhillips to teach student pilots.

Sickelsmith said it is illegal for an airport manager to keep fees paid by pilots for using tie-downs at the airport. After the hearing, however, he said this wasn't literally true and that under certain circumstances McPhillips can keep the fees.

Pilots asked that tie-down fees be set and paid to the city, rather than McPhillips.

Sickelsmith also agreed to a change proposed by pilots that they be allowed to bring oil onto the airport for use in their planes. He pointed out, however, that storage of oil in hangars creates a fire risk.

Sickelsmith recommended that the proposed rule that all members of flying clubs must be a partial owners of the club's plane be deleted.

Conflict continues over Hampton road tax levy

Though the conflict between Eaton Ave. homeowners and the city over Hampton Village subdivision has not been in the public eye for several months it is by no means over.

A secret hearing was reportedly held recently in Boyne City by the State Bar Association to review conflict of interest charges against Charlevoix city attorney John Michael.

Mrs. Jean Vogler has charged that Michael is involved in an illegal conflict of interest because he is a partner with James Ritchie in Hampton Associates. She contends Michael's working on the project as city attorney constitutes a conflict of interest.

The Attorney General's office last year issued a statement saying it found no grounds for the conflict charge.

Michael claims Hampton Associates owns no property in Hampton Village and has no assets. It is only a legally protected and established name on file at the County Clerk's office, Michael contends.

Property in Hampton Village, Ritchie claims, is owned wholly by himself, with Michael having no part in the project.

The Attorney General's office failed to find any financial tie-in between Michael and Hampton Village.

The secret Bar Association hearing was reportedly conducted by Boyne City attorney Guy Conkle, who is the area Bar Association grievance committee chairman.

Mrs. Vogler requested that the Bar Association investigate her charges. She has not produced new evidence to support her charge after the Attorney General failed to find grounds for her charges.

Neither Mrs. Vogler or Michael would admit to any knowledge of such a hearing. Both refused to comment.

Under Bar Association rules witnesses and persons involved in grievance proceedings against an attorney are directed not to discuss them publicly. The Bar, allegedly, makes its decision public after the hearings are completed.

The Courier learned of the Boyne City hearing through a reliable source which cannot be disclosed.

The Bar Association's secret and slow procedure for airing mal-practice charges is now under fire in the downstate area.

Mrs. Vogler is one of several plaintiffs who started suit in late 1967 to appeal the city's special assessment against them for construction of a hard-surface road into the subdivision. Other plaintiffs are Mr. Vogler, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jullieret, Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Wojan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Lester McElhose.

In addition to claiming they were unjustly assessed, the plaintiffs charged the special levy was illegal due to the alleged conflict of interest.

Judge Brown heard opening arguments in the case in February of 1968. There has been no decision on it.

The property owners who started the suit have received their bills from the city for the special assessment, but none of them have been paid, according to the City Superintendent's office.

City Treasurer Anne Cunningham said that if the special assessments are not paid in July they will go on the regular city tax bills. If not paid by September 15 they will become delinquent, three years after which time the property could go up for tax sale.

The special assessment for construction of the road for all six property owners totals $3,324. In addition, the city is paying $9,776 and Ritchie is paying $8,953 for the road.

Charge 2 youths with selling tea as dope

Two Boyne City teenagers have been charged in District Court with selling tea on the pretense it was marihuana.

According to magistrate-clerk John Connolly the two youths, Clayton Boone Jr., 17, and Rick Young, 17, were charged with fraud.

Boone, Connolly said, demanded examination and will return to court later. Young, he said, plead guilty to the fraud charge and demanded examination on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon (a knife).

The District Court also sentenced five Detroit area men and one local man for illegal possession of deer. They were arrested by Conservation Officer Frank Dufon of Boyne City. The deer was allegedly shot on or near Camp Charlevoix.

Paying $107.87 fine, cost and restitution each on the deer charge were Peter W. Smith, 20, Grosse Pte. Woods; Wayne Newman, 26 Tecumseh; Bruce Smith, 35, Royal Oak; Dan Danielak, 29, Troy; Howard Studaker, 42, Ortonville, and Elmer A. Engelhart III, Charlevoix.

Two Boyne City youths demanded examination in District Court on charges of statutory rape. Demanding examination were Mark Coleman, 18, and Graham Fineout, 17.

Five East Jordan area youths were found guilty of possessing alcoholic beverages. Paying $50 fine and costs on the charge were Barbara Walden, 18, and Richard Lavanwy, 20. Choosing to spend five days in jail rather than pay the fine were Albert Walden, 18; Beverly Chanda, 18 and Glenn Gee Jr., 20.

Band takes two firsts in meet

Charlevoix's junior and senior high school bands, directed by Clarence Odmark, won solid top ratings of "one" at the District Band Festival in Petoskey Saturday, Feb. 22.

The senior high band won one ratings, in all categories, the highest possible. Only one other Class C senior band, Boyne City, was awarded a one rating.

The junior high band also finished with a one rating, but it received a two in sight-reading, which was nullified by the one rating in all other categories.

Charlevoix received two of the five ones won by the 18 bands competing in the festival. Other bands earning ones were Petoskey and Gaylord in Class B, senior high.

The Charlevoix bandsmen will now compete in the state festival in Lansing April 26. Only bands which received first division ratings in the District Festival are eligible for the State Band and Orchestra Festival.

Burr Oak picked to exchange

Charlevoix has been paired to exchange mayors with the small farming village of Burr Oak near the Indiana border for this year's Michigan Week Mayors' Exchange Day.

Monday, May 19, mayors and village presidents from throughout Michigan will exchange towns as part of the traditional Michigan Week program. Michigan Week will be held from May 17-24. The theme this year is "Michigan -- land of hospitality."

Burr Oak is a general law village in St. Joseph County, just off M-66 and about five miles north of the Indiana state line. The 1960 census set its population at 867.

Ellsworth Village President Marvin Wynsma is paired to become President of Fruitport in Muskegon County, on the Ottawa County line, May 19.

Special Ed. meet

The Citizens Advisory Committee for Special Education meets Thursday, Feb. 27, in the Charlevoix County Bldg. The public is invited.

Dale Fassett will discuss with committee members the special education needs of area children and ways to meet them.

Committee members from Charlevoix are Mrs. Ray Wood, Mrs. Dorothy Dixon and Mrs. Fred Payne.

CITY COUNCIL chambers were jammed with the largest crowd in memory for Monday's peaceful hearing on new rules for the city-owned airport. Michigan Aeronautics Commission officials generally supported pilots' in their desire to see rules which encourage increased use and development of the airport.

Self-teaching makes impression in science

by Hilton Moore
CHS Junior

Students are not the only ones who do the experimenting in Mr. James Jensen's classes. Mr. Jensen has been doing some experimenting of his own.

He has introduced to this school system a new way of conducting classroom teaching. He has made the student his own teacher. By this, the student has been given the chance to work in various fields of science according to his own interests.

The system was not forced on the students. The students had their choice between regular classroom instruction or a classroom where could choose various fields of science according to his own interests.

Although Mr. Jensens first hour General Science class voted against it, his third hour was all for it. The class picked various fields of science they would like to study and divided into four groups taking a field.

Mr. Jensen has worked out a schedule so that he can meet and discuss each groups problems once a week. Each group also one day a week for experimentation, library research, and group discussion. The fifth day, the whole class meets for general instruction. At the end of each six-weeks-period the groups trade subjects. The marks given will be based on how much effort each student puts forward.

Mr. Jensen commented, "The new system entitles the discipline themselves. It gives them a chance to gain a sense of responsibility and develop good working habits. I don't like being a policeman, I can't stand over them with a whip. I never expected this system to be perfect but, it's working!"

This system is also being used in the chemistry classes, although they are not as modified as the 3rd hour General Science class. Though it might seem that Mr. Jensen has it easier, actually, its more time consuming than a regular class. He has put a lot of time into this system and it seems to be paying off.

Local youth leaders in NMU festival

Two Charlevoix students are playing key roles in Northern Michigan University's 12th annual winter carnival, which started Sunday, Feb. 23.

They are Peter Brock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Brock, Route 2, and Richard Muma, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forest Muma, also of Route 2.

Brock, a senior majoring in history and political science, is serving as chairman of the week-long festival which will be highlighted by the selection of 1969 Michigan Collegiate Snow Queen.

Muma, a sophomore physical education major, is coordinating sports events for the men. The events will include broomball, ice hockey, speedskating and a "human" dogsled race.

Other activities during the week will include the selection of Northern's 1969 Sweetheart; a concert by the nationally-popular Four Seasons; several dances, and talent shows; and speedskating contests.

Theme of this year's carnival, "Holidays," will be depicted in one of the festival's annual features-the snow sculptures to be constructed on the campus by various student organizations.

Born in Charlevoix Mar. 29, 1888, the former Mable Hadden was married to Mr. Russell Nov. 16, 1903, in Charlevoix where they always made their home. He preceded her in death Nov. 21, 1952. She was a life member of the Charlevoix V.F.W. Auxiliary.

Surviving are seven sons, Thomas Miles, Milton Carl, Walter W., Albert L., Robert L., Douglas D. and Bernard W., all of Charlevoix; four daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Hull and Mrs. William (Alvina) Lydon of Grand Rapids, Mrs. David (Reda) Zoukowski of Pontiac and Mrs. Jacob (Edith) Deschermeier of Bay Shore; 33 grandchildren; 68 great - grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Safe at Home?

NEW YORK—Home isn't as safe as it should be, the Insurance Information Institute observes. More than twice as many persons died in accidents at home than in accidents at work—28,500 compared to 14,200.

Assessors organize in north

Regional uniformity of property tax assessments in northern lower Michigan is the goal of a new organization of county tax equalization directors.

The Northern Michigan Equalization Directors Association has been organized to bring the county equalization directors from 24 counties together, according to Mrs. Joan Blanchard, Charlevoix County equalization director.

Mrs. Blanchard is secretary-treasurer of the new organization. Mel Meyers of Cheboygan is president.

Cause for Alarm

NEW YORK—Fire breaks out somewhere in the United States every 13 seconds, the Insurance Information Institute reports. Of the 2,396,550 fires recorded in 1966, 970,800 were in buildings.

Add room to your home the easy way. Install a gas baseboard heater in your enclosed porch or enclosed breezeway. By the time you've added your own decorator touches, you'll have an extra bedroom, sewing room, family room or playroom ready for year-around use.

And, because each gas baseboard heater has its own thermostatic control, you can select the precise temperature you want for your new room. Keep it that way inexpensively, too. It will cost about $20 to heat an average size room for an entire year. That's 1/5 the operating cost of an electric baseboard heater.

There's no major investment at installation time, either. We'll be glad to add the cost of the heater to your monthly gas bill and let you pay for it a few dollars at a time. A phone call to us or your heating contractor is all it takes to get things moving. And to get you moving ... into that brand-new room right away.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Crain

Kortan, Crain married in St. Mary's rites

Anna F. Kortan, R-3, and Michael G. Crain, Marion Center Rd., exchanged wedding vows Friday, February 14, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix, with the Rev. E. Francis Denay, officiating at the double ring rites.

Two bouquets of white gladioli with pink carnations decorated the main altar, with pink and white mum plants on the side altars. Mrs. Mary Margaret Geiken, organist and soloist, played the traditional wedding march, and sang "Our Father, O King of Might and Splendor", "O Lord I Am Not Worthy", and "On This Day O' Beautiful Mother".

Mr. Joseph Kortan of East Jordan and the late Mrs. Rose Kortan are the parents of the bride Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Crain, Marion Center Rd., Char. are parents of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of white satin and lace. A pearl crown, with lace, held her shoulder length veil. Her bridal bouquet was of pink carnations and white roses.

Mrs. Gary Loder served the bride as matron of honor, and wore a pink empire style floor length gown, with a matching veil headpiece. She carried a bouquet of pink and white mums.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. William Habel and Mrs. Michael G. Brun, they wore Starlet blue, empire style, floor length gowns, with matching veil headpieces, and carried a bouquet of pink mums.

Melissa Hoffman of Petoskey, cousin of the birde, was flower girl, and wore a pink floor length gown to match the matron of honor. Michael Scott of East Jordan, cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Gregg Seese, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. The groomsmen were Ed Holms, cousin of the groom, and William Habel Jr. Serving as ushers were Robert Crain, brother of the groom and Leon White.

The brides aunt, Mrs. George Smith, chose an Aqua dress with Navy blue accessories and the mother of the groom, Mrs. Crain wore a blue dress with matching accessories. They each wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held at the V.F.W. Hall, hosted by the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith. Master and Mistress of ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman. Assisting at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bayliss, Mrs. Gregg Seese, Mr. and Mrs. William Scott, Fredrick Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. James Hoffman.

The bride is a 1967 graduate and the groom 1965 graduate of the Charlevoix High School. He is presently employed at The American Mold Company.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 212 Antrim Street, Charlevoix.

Guests attended from East Jordan, Petoskey, Boyne City, Ellsworth; Central Lake, Harbor Springs, Muskegon, Lansing and Charlevoix.

Condominiums may help save north's beauty

(The Courier asked Mr. Begrow to write this article on condominium to give people a better understanding and awareness of this new type development. -Editor)

by JACK BEGROW

The first condominium ever built in Charlevoix County will soon take shape on the south shore of Round Lake.

The condominium concept is a new one to this county and a relatively new one to the United States at large. Before the National Housing Act of 1960 almost no one in the United States had heard the term, and yet in the past three years 48 of the 50 states have passed legislation regulating the sale and building of condominium units.

Yet the condominium unit is only new to the United States.

Since World War II 90% of the post-war residential development for Paris, France has consisted of condominium units. Over 150,000 residential apartments alone have been built in Paris under the condominium form.

In Brazil four-fifths of the office buildings built in recent years are condominiums. Thus what is taking place in Charlevoix with the building of The Wharf condominium is probably a forerunner of what much of the building in this county will be in the next 15 years.

The Wharf owned, by Jack Begrow, will consist eventually of 32 units of 1, 2, 3 and 4 bedroom units which will sell for $27,000 to $48,000 each. Ten will be constructed this summer and Irma Scheld is the exclusive realtor. Each of these units will have a private entrance in keeping with the residential atmosphere of the condominium unit.

At Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands 70 condominiums are under construction and many more are being planned. Bob Edgar of Transcontinental Affiliates in Detroit is the developer of these attractive units.

At Schuss Mountain at Mancelona, Michigan Jack Begrow has designed and overseen the construction of eight townhouses owned by Daniel Ionotti owner of Schuss Mountain. These townhouses which sell like condominium units have been fully occupied during the 1968-69 ski season. Now 17 efficiency condominium units have been designed for Gus Holzrichter at Schuss Mountain. These will sell for $15,000 each and more are being planned.

At Harbor Springs, Michigan, right on the bay and proximate to Boyne Highlands and Nubs Nob, there are nine luxurious condominium units under construction for Ward Walstrom of Walstrom Marine. This condominium is named Marina Village and has a value of $380,000.

Another condominium at Harbor Springs is that of Dale Angell. This will consist of four condominiums adjoining Zorn Park. These three-bedroom townhouses are valued at $152,000.

At TimberLee Resort near Traverse City Tom Itin a Detroit developer has engaged Begrow to do a series of condominium units named Sun Perch. Already twelve units have been built and sold. These range in value from $40,000 to $48,000. By the end of 1969 twelve more units will be ready, and by the summer of 1970 the total 40 units should be completed.

Tom Itin also heads a group which is planning a large real estate development on St. Thomas in the U.S. Virgin Islands named Lilliendahl Estates. Begrow is the architect for this development of 300 condominium units of 2, 3 and 4 bedroom apartments selling between $60,000 and $90,000 a unit. There will also be a shopping area.

Lilliendahl will become a hotel of a sort because the management will lease out the bedroom parts as hotel units, for each bedroom has a bath. This then will end up being a hotel of 950 rooms, yet each unit is privately owned. This is a breakthrough in the economics of hotel design.

The reason why condominums have become so popular is because they are so practical. Many families that could not afford a second home can now do so in the condominium apartment. This is because of the advantageous rental program whereby the management rents the owner's condominium in his absence, takes a percentage of the rental fee, but passes part of the rental back to the owner.

The average rental potential for a three bedroom unit is 80 days at $30 a bedroom or $7,200 a year, a figure which more than offsets mortgage payments, taxes and monthly running costs. A well-conceived condominium can return its original investment in seven years.

There is a great emphasis in the condominium on good management both from the standpoint of upkeep and maintenance, and from the standpoint of its responsibility acting as a rental agent.

But to be successful a condominium must be where the action is either 500 feet from the chairlift or 500 feet from a marina or beach. Other locations might succeed, but they have a high mortality rate.

In Michigan so far the condominiums have paralleled the development of skiing as they have in the Rockies. It will be interesting to see how they develop in the future, especially in Charlevoix County.

Conservationists and land-use planners also welcome condominiums because they break the traditional pattern of small cottages congested along lakes and on the fringe of other resort areas.

Because the condominiums, by law, are required to meet the most rigid sewage and water supply requirements, eliminate health and pollution problems often resulting from high intensity cottage and summer home development.

Thus the trend to condominiums is seen as a chance to reverse the pollution trend and preserve natural beauty and green space.

■ The young man in the rallye jacket is Doug Innes, rallying enthusiast and member of the Detroit Region Sports Car Club of America. The last big rallye Doug drove in was really brutal — for the gasoline. He drove in low temperatures with high humidity, perfect conditions for thottle icing in cars. He used Leonard Premium 500 gasoline and reports, "I didn't have a bit of trouble. It's a great gasoline!" Try a tankful — and you'll agree.

"COME, LET US HAVE FELLOWSHIP"

Youngsters enjoy fellowship with one another. It is a joyful association. As man grows older quite often he loses the benefit and joy of this blessing. He may become intolerant or pile up resentments against more and more acquaintences until fellowship is no longer possible for him. But the adult who retains the zest for fellowship stays young in mind and heart.

The Church is an institution that was founded on fellowship. On fellowship it prospers and grows. You can enjoy this blessing to the fullest by associating with the church that best answers your needs and by joining wholeheartedly in all of its activities.

MRS. AERNE IS an accomplished pianist who has studied under the great masters in Chicago. She has carried this piano with her on her travels from Chicago to Mexico, Switzerland and finally to Charlevoix. Above the piano is a painting by the mother of Ernest Hemingway, Grace Hall Hemingway who loved to paint the Michigan north woods.

THE DINING ROOM table was made from a beautifully carved door from Switzerland and fits well with the set of high backed chairs from Mexico which are over 200 years old.

THIS MAGNIFICENT view was taken from the bedroom window of the Aerne house on Park Avenue.

PERCHED ON a bluff above the Lake Michigan Beach, the Alfred Aerne home enjoys a spectacular view.

At Aerne home

Many treasures blend in beauty

by PAT BEGROW

The house with the most spectacular view in Charlevoix is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Aerne of 225 Park Avenue.

From their windows can be seen the slopes of Mt. McSauba, the Medusa Point or the outline of Beaver Island. Dramatic as the view may be this house is not overpowering, rather it unfolds slowly like a flower garden revealing the treasures within.

Mr. and Mrs. Aerne have traveled widely and made their permanent home once in Mexico and once in Switzerland. While living abroad and while traveling they selected treasures and incorporated them into their daily living.

Mrs. Aerne uses a dressing table which was made in France and was used by Carlotta when she and Maximillian ruled Mexico. The Aernes have dinner at a table which was once the door of a Spanish villa and which is now mounted on an English hunt table. They sit on chairs which were carved in Mexico over 200 years ago. On the wall in their dining room the Aernes have a little gallery of religious art which would be a credit to any museum in the world.

Mrs. Aerne has a grand piano which she has taken with her all over the world, and she also has a beautiful old spinet piano. These pieces are beautiful in themselves, but their real beauty lies in the fact that Mrs. Aerne uses and enjoys them.

Just as the Aernes chose to live surrounded by beautiful man made things, they chose to live in beautiful natural surroundings.

Mrs. Aerne was born in Charlevoix just across the Pine River Channel on Lake Michigan. She spent many summers in the Charlevoix area before her marriage to Alfred Aerne. When they came back to Charlevoix they tried to bring some of the natural beauty into their home.

They carefully chose a house with a beautiful view and then enlarged that view by installing huge clear windows both on the first floor and above on the bedroom level. By doing this they have combined the best things from nature with the best things from man.

Commercial fishermen get limited permits

Only two Charlevoix fish tugs and two Beaver Island fish tugs have been given permits to fish for whitefish in Lake Michigan so far this year, according to Frank Dufon, area Conservation Officer.

Dufon said other commercial fishermen may be given permits later if they apply. Permits were issued at the Great Lakes Fishery Station here.

The permits allow the fishermen to use 4½-inch and larger mesh gill nets in down to 210 feet of water. They require that any lake trout caught in the nets be released if still alive, or sealed if not alive when the nets are lifted. All lake trout under 17 inches must be turned over to the Dept. of Natural Resources.

Lake Michigan is still legally closed to commercial fishing for lake trout. The only trout commercial fishermen may keep are those over 17 inches which are accidentally taken and killed in whitefish nets.

To protect the lake trout, the north end of the lake has been closed to all whitefish nets in March, April, May, November and December.

Charlevoix fishermen getting permits, for one boat each, were Jake White and John Cross Jr. Charlie Martin and Don Cole on Beaver Island each got a permit for one boat.

Chub fishermen can set small mesh nets below 210 feet.

LAYING PLANS FOR the Kiwanis Club's $100,000 swimming pool fund drive are, from left, Kit Carson, Chuck England, Len Garrett and Fred Payne. They have been appointed fund raising committeemen to outline and spearhead the project.

Up size for lots

New standards, aimed at cottage subdivision developers, which require all lots to be a minimum of 100 feet wide have been adopted by the District Health Dept.

Starting in early March no lots which are less than 100 feet wide will be approved in plats submitted by developers, Dean Mikulski, department chief sanitarian said.

The new standards, Mikulski said, are aimed chiefly at assuring adequate isolation distance between neighboring wells and septic tanks.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

This week, no different than last week, we are very much needing membership dues for 1989, and in fact any other contributions for which you are thanked very much in advance.

The informative meeting having to do with allied phases of this year's potential involved in the sports fishery was very much appreciated by those who attended at the Community Room of the City Hall, Wednesday evening, February 19.

Ed Rebman, County Extension Natural Resource Agent of Boyne City and Norman Brown, County Extension Agent in the Beulah, Michigan area, did a fine job presenting the current colored slides, which they in themselves told quite a story. They were assisted by Lee Moffit, assistant biologist under Myrl Keller, biologist and supervisor at the Great Lakes Fishery Station here in Charlevoix.

It all amounted, based on happenings elsewhere and the surveys here and there, that if things run true to form this year, Charlevoix, in fact the entire area, will be behind and there will be problems because there is lack, apparently, of concern for what could be needed or an attitude of "let's wait and see what happens and then do something about it." It is indicated in the entire area, very likely, principally here, will lack parking space. Another lack according to Ed's survey of the area checking the marinas, etc., boat launching facilities, and sanitary accommodations.

Taken from Washington Report, WOULD YOU BELIEVE.. Every new born owes $1,730? Assuming children learn mostly by example, parents may find it increasingly difficult to sell their offspring on the benefits of being frugal. Government statistics show that every child born in the United States comes into the world oweing $1,730, his share of the federal debt, which now exceeds $360 billion. Later on, when the child is old enough to work, he can help pay off the interest on the debt, now about $15 billion annually. What about the debt itself? Unless the trend is reversed an even bigger deficit legacy will fall to our children's children.

I am yet looking for a bit of Charlevoix area history, large or small in printed form, old factual stories and/or accounts in an effort to get compiled printed piece for which we have many inquiries. Many of these inquiries come from lower grade students, junior and senior high school, college and university students, all seeming to have chosen for some reason or another, Charlevoix for a topic in one sort of school project or other. When you have a minute, folks, look around. You might find something, loan it to me, for copy, and it shall be returned. Thank you.

ADULT EDUCATION -- Del Terrill and Hugh Riker announced a new class to start shortly involving ten weeks, one evening a week at Charlevoix High School, the class being Advertising and Marketing at the retail level. Hugh advised it would cover all media. These gentlemen are hoping, of course, to be contacted by many of the business people.

Among man's most precious and fleeting assets for time; he has a limited amount of it for living, recreation, and for personal improvement. So how he expands it, is one of the most important decisions he must make each day.

I have assisted, in a small measure, Ben Gill, assistant fire chief, with his arranging for U.S. Submarine Veterans of World War II, Michigan State Reunion - Convention. It is finally scheduled for June 20 and 21, 1969. The activities will involve the VFW Hall out on Petoskey Avenue slightly over the city limit, and consequently would make it convenient for the guests, as Ben has made arrangements with the Golf View Motel and Wayside Motel and Cabins. We supplied quite a number of different brochures having to do with Charlevoix and the area. They must have helped Ben in his persuasion, as I understood quite a few of these people have never been to Charlevoix and who knows but what a good number of them will be coming back from time to time.

U.P. Powerhouse on Rayder court

The Red Rayders eliminated themselves from third place in the conference by dropping back-to-back games this past weekend, and no relief appears to be in sight, as they tangle with powerful St. Ignace Friday night.

Should St. Ignace defeat Cheboygan (game played last night in Cheboygan), the Saints would need this game Friday night to win the league title.

In facing the Saints, the Rayders must figure a way to stop the league's leading scorer, Leo Donovan. In last week's games, Donovan managed only 28 points, but the games were run-aways, and his scoring punch wasn't needed. Unless some miracle happens, it looks like our Red Rayders will finish with a 6-10 record.

Gaylord could be in for a spell of trouble at Rogers City. The Hurons take on all comers on their home court and hand out plenty of trouble. But, with the likes of Rick Catt and Tom Johnson, the league's No. 2 and 4 scorers--stopping them will create a problem. Gaylord hasn't had an easy game in three weeks, but we still have to go with the winners. Gaylord by 15 points.

Petoskey closes out their regular season by going to Boyne City. Big distances separate these two schools on the standings, but the Ramblers have a much better team than the record shows. The Ramblers will give the Northmen some trouble, but Petoskey will win. Swenor's bid for a scoring championship will be throttled, however.

Well the first year of the Michigan-Huron Shores League is about over. Only two games will dot the sports scene after Friday. Saturday night will find Alpena Catholic playing at Gaylord, and Cheboygan playing at Alpena High.

Rayders lose 2 nights in row

Last week was a bad one for travel for the Red Rayders.

The Charlevoix High varsity cagers lost at Gaylord Friday evening and at distant Rogers City Saturday. The junior varsity also lost both games.

At Gaylord the Rayders lost 54-68. At Rogers City they lost 53-57.

In both games the Rayders got off to an early lead, but failed to hold the pace.

In Friday's game the Rayders lead 18-17 at the end of the first quarter, but were trailing 43-28 at halftime and 48-36 at the end of the third quarter, after scoring only eight points between halftime and when the final period opened. An 18-point final period failed to put the Rayders out front as Gaylord scored 20 points.

At Rogers City Saturday the Rayders lead 45-40 going into the final period, but Rogers City surged ahead with a 17-point fourth quarter performance, while the Rayders scored only eight.

At halftime Charlevoix lead Rogers City 33-22.

In both games Stewart Coleman lead Rayder scoring. He hit for 18 points Friday and 14 Saturday.

Other scorers at Gaylord were Kraag Lieberman, 10; Bob DeYoung and Don Ward, 9 each; Bruce Meggison, 4; Don Livingston and Tim Dean, 2 each.

Scoring at Rogers City were Livingston, 12; Lieberman, 11; Meggison, 7; Charles Novak, DeYoung, Kevin Swanson, and Ward, 2 each.

At Rogers City the Rayders scored on 13 of 31 free throws and made 20 field goals. Officials called 22 fouls on Charlevoix. Gaylord scored 19 of 36 free throws and 19 field goals. Seventeen fouls were called on Rogers City.

Friday the Rayders scored 10 of 18 free throws at Gaylord and made 22 field goals. Officials called 22 fouls on Charlevoix. Gaylord scored 20 of 30 free throws and 24 field goals. Fifteen fouls were called on Gaylord.

Rayder JVs drop two

Charlevoix's junior varsity team came home from Gaylord Friday on the short end of a 70-56 score. The next night they returned from Rogers City after losing 63-54.

At Gaylord Ron Bindl scored 19 points and Bill Carey scored 17. Saturday evening Carey scored 24 points.

The little Rayders trailed all the way at Gaylord, being behind 21-13 at the end of the first quarter, 37-26 at halftime and 53-36 at the end of the third period.

At Rogers City the junior varsity trailed 18-9 at the end of the first quarter, 28-19 at halftime and 45-39 when the third quarter ended.

Others scoring at Gaylord were Terry Elzinga, 7; Tom Bergmann, 4; Bob Donaldson, 3; Leroy Reed and Larry Potter, 2 each; Tim Selph and Mike Bergmann, 1 each.

Scoring at Rogers City were Bergmann, 9; Potter, 8; Bindl, 7; Reed, Donaldson and Chuck Elzinga, 2 each.

At Rogers City the little Rayders scored on 12 of 26 free throws and 21 field goals. Officials called 18 fouls on them.

At Gaylord the JVs made 18 of 34 free throws and 19 field goals. Officials called 32 fouls on them.

Slim chance for Lancers in league's final game

ELLSWORTH -- The Ellsworth Lancers probably lost their bid for the Ski Valley League crown, but still had a very respectable year.

A slim chance of Bellaire nipping Suttons Bay remains in the offing, but still the Lancers have to come up with a win over Inland Lakes Friday.

Ellsworth has the league's leading scorer in Denny Drenth, but he still needs a good night Friday to edge Craig Bahle, who is only 8 points behind him in scoring. The Lancers should pick up their 10th win of the season, but it will take a struggle to do so.

Suttons Bay should have no trouble disposing of Bellaire. The Northmen are 15-2 on the season, and are a strong contender for tournament honors next week. Al Mebert returned for a short time in the St. Mary game last week, and this should strengthen the squad for the Bellaire game.

Central Lake closed out their conference schedule Monday night against St. Mary's, and new tangle with a strong Alanson team Friday. Alanson, backed by the Blumke boys, are too strong this time for any thought of a Central Lake upset.

Their first project with the help of the county and Eveline township was to build docks on the south side of the ferry. They had hardly started when a fleet from the Charlevoix Marine Club swooped in from the north with hammers and saws to lend a helping hand. After the deck was laid they were all invited up to the front porch of the ferry house where coffee and doughnuts were served by Mrs. Sam Alexander, Mrs. Ross Alexander and daughter Jane, Mrs. Ralph Price and daughter Nancy, Mrs. Ted Dissette, Susie Meyers and Betty Riggin.

Special appreciation was given to W.C. Bellinger of Charlevoix who donated and installed all the "tie to" cleats necessary for the entire dock.

What a wonderful time everyone had that day and how tired they all were when the project was finished and they returned home.

Several things were accomplished by this group of men. Several are still here to remember. Perhaps someday we will have a new Community Chamber of Commerce. Who knows.

The Lenten Service will be Thursday evening at 7:30. Rev. Harmon's sermon topic will be Springtime in your Heart. We hope you will meet with us for choir practice at 8 o'clock.

Allen Kroll has returned home from Lansing and has enrolled as a student for the spring term at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

Win Trip

Mr. and Mrs. William Garten, 202 N. Michigan, won a five-day Florida vacation at the recent Detroit boat show.

The Gartens entered a promotion contest offered by a boat company. They have until next winter to take their trip.

ATTENTION!

All boys ages ten and eleven.

I am interested in making arrangements for a little league baseball team or teams in Charlevoix this coming summer. It is important at this time to get an estimate of the number of boys who might wish to participate. Any boy interested, please have your parents write me a note indicating this and giving actual birth date. L. J. Ford, Box 235, Charlevoix. Watch the Courier for further announcements in the future.

Library Notes

February, the month of presidents, means a time for term papers and projects for students and reports for civic club members. To assist with these various assignments, the library would like to bring attention to several important and helpful books which will be on prominent display during the month.

The handsome, four-volume edition of Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln" is, by far, the most noteworthy. It is the most definitive and detailed work ever published on Lincoln. Volume I deals with "The War Years", beginning with the doubt and decisions that faced the president. Volume II deals with the Emancipation Proclamation, Vicksburg and Gettysburg, Volume III deals with the Spring of '64, Grant's offensive, the Darkest Month of the War, and Election Day, November, 1864. Volme IV deals with the inauguration, Lee's surrender, and the assassination. It is a comprehensive study of, perhaps, America's most tragic president.

A two-volume, boxed edition of "John Adams" by Page Smith adds interest and authority to the library collection of presidential material. This is the first biography to be written since the great treasury of his papers and letters became available to scholars. Adams was one of the saltiest and most perceptive diarists and letter writers in our history, and these two volumes illuminate the character of a man who was, even in his lifetime, a symbol of New England and America.

Theodore Roosevelt's Letters To His Children is of the choice and always entertaining books in the library. He began to write the letters when they were quite young and continued to do so regularly until they reached maturity.

Whenever he was separated from his children, in the Spanish War or on a hunting trip, he sent them messages of constant thought and love, for they were never out of his mind and heart. The delightful, fatherly letters bring the reader closer to one of the most beloved of American presidents.

"Kennedy", by Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to the late president, is a solemn and unbiased biography. It is told by a man who was closely and warmly associated with John Kennedy.

A new addition to the library is the John Fitzgerald Kennedy....as we knew him, book and record album recently published by Columbia Records and presented to the Charlevoix Library by the Columbia Company. The massive book is almost entirely pictorial with countless informal pictures of Kennedy's childhood, his youth, his war years, and his residency in the White House. The book is not intended as a biography. It was published in the hope of keeping the vibrancy and intensity of his life before us.

The two LP records include narrations by President Johnson, President Nixon, Governor Adelai Stevenson and Mrs. Rose Kennedy among numerous others.

Both the book and the records can be circulated and patrons are urged to take advantage of this unusual presentation.

Fluoride program for children starts soon

Parents who wish to have their children enrolled in this summer's topical fluoride program have until March 15 to do so.

All three or four year old pre-schoolers, second, fifth or eighth graders are eligible for the program providing they have been registered prior to the deadline.

Parents who wish to enroll their children but who have not received the registration letter may contact the chairman, Mrs. Henry Klooster 117-2070 of Jeanne Miles, school nurse.

The procedure consists of four visits to the fluoride clinic which will be centrally located in Charlevoix. The child's teeth are cleansed on the first visit and a fluoride solution is applied directly to the surface of the teeth. The fluoride application only is then repeated during the three succeeding visits. This technique has been shown to reduce tooth decay by about 40%. A small fee is charged to cover cost of the clinic.

In addition to providing protection against cavities, the program offers a valuable dental experience for children with no discomfort. Dental health education by the clinic personnel, including instruction in the proper method of brushing teeth, also is an important part of the program.

Michigan, which pioneered in the field of topical fluoride application in 1949, leads the nation in the number of community programs in operation and in children treated. In addition to the program in Charlevoix, more than 40,000 children will receive applications in more than 200 clinics scattered throughout the state.

The state-wide program is supervised by the Dental Division of the Michigan Department of Public Health, which assists local groups in the organization stage, recruits and trains dental and dentel hygiene students, provides the fluoride solution, and oversees the program operation through periodic visits to the various clinics by staff dentists.

We are extending Birthday Greetings to Madame Chevy Sevcik this last Sunday, February 23. Chevy was nurse and companion of Mrs. A.H. Loebs several years and has continued being a resident in our community and has one of the most beautiful gardens I have even seen. Her roses can put all us gardeners to shame. If you want to see a garden free of weeds and perfectly taken care of with the love and hard work of a gardener visit Chevy several times during the season and enjoy the blooms. She has the very best wishes of her many many friends on her Special Day.

Merle and Barbara Scott are all smiles these days having received word that they are grandparents of a new son that arrived to make his home with their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Main of Newport, Rhode Island who is called Richard Main. Our Congratulations.

Downtown parking needs will more than double

Approximately 36 percent of total retail sales in Charlevoix County are a result of tourist spending. When plotted against resident spending, tourist sales sustain the retained retail sales figures presented earlier in the report. Assuming the relationship of tourist food sales to total sales is consistent throughout the county, retail sales in the Charlevoix Region resulting from tourist spending exceeded 1.9 million dollars in 1966 or 23 percent of total retail spending. (Retail spending by tourists is a lower percent of total spending in the Charlevoix Region than in the county since retail food sales are a lower percent of total retail sales in the Charlevoix Region). Of primary importance is the fact that only 40 percent of county retail sales are in the Charlevoix Region, while only 27 percent of total tourist business is in the region.

Comparison of monthly retail sales in Charlevoix County indicates the seasonality of selected types of retail trade activity. Furniture, appliances, general merchandise and apparel sales (comparison goods) fluctuate only slightly with the seasons, indicating their lack of influence from tourism. Of the three comparison goods categories, general merchandise establishments are most influenced by tourist trade, increasing from sales of $19,000 in February to over $100,000 in the month of September. Convenience goods - for example, food stores - show the greatest fluctuation with low sales in February and March, and peak sales in August. In the case of food stores, August sales are twice the March sales. Hardware and automobile sales similarly display minor seasonal fluctuations. Results of a survey of retail establishments, conducted in July 1968 in Charlevoix, indicated that 18 percent of retail businesses are seasonal.

The retail business economy of Charlevoix County, then, functions most successfully as an area of convenience retail centers catering to residents and tourists who require basic commodities close at hand.

Efficiency Of Retail Business

The efficiency with which retail trade establishments operate provides the basis for a successful, mediocre or, oftentimes, unsuccessful business venture. A simple comparison of Charlevoix to other community centers gives a good indication of this relative efficiency. In a study of 44 efficient modern shopping centers across the United States, it was revealed that each square foot of floor area produced $50 in annual retail sales. In Charlevoix, retail sales should be nine million dollars based on this ratio. Actual sales of 7.9 million dollars in 1966, however, indicate that some inefficiency does exist. Another method to determine the efficiency of retail space is to compare sales per square foot in Charlevoix to selected sales volumes provided by the Urban Land Institute. Such a comparison reveals that retail floor space in Charlevoix is 89.7 percent efficient. Least efficient retail establishments include apparel and general merchandise establishments. Drug stores and eating and drinking establishments are among businesses in the other retail category which are only one third efficient in use of floor space. Food stores operate at well over peak efficiency which results in maximum utilization of existing physical facilities.

The efficiency of a retail establishment measured in terms of floor space is only one method of determining how successful a retail business center is. To assist the business center in serving its prime function as an attractive and profitable market place, adequate customer parking is a basic requirement.

In a survey of retail business establishments conducted in July 1968, all downtown Charlevoix retail establishments and many offices were questioned as to problems facing their business. The major difficulty, expressed by over 50 percent of the businesses, was lack of adequate parking in a location convenient to serve their summer business.

Using recommended standard established by Urban Land Institute of 7.0 spaces per 1,000 square feet of gross leasable area, or 2.5 square feet of parking area for each square foot of total gross floor area, some estimate of the adequacy of parking can be made.

Charlevoix currently has parking for approximately 650 vehicles in the central business district. Over 400 of the spaces are off-street parking.

Based on the standards discussed above, Charlevoix, in order to provide an efficient downtown area for customer parking, requires 1,100 spaces or an additional 450 off-street parking spaces; more than double the existing off-street parking facilities. To fully realize this need will require 157,000 additional square feet or an area of approximately the same dimensions as the combined total of all the retail establishments in the central business district.

Parking problems were but one of the problems facing establishments in the survey conducted in July 1968.

Nearly one third of the survey respondents replying to the question, "What problems face your establishments?" expressed their dismay at the fact that they had little room to expand their operations. One out of every six expressed a firm desire to expand within the next year to five years.

Other problems expressed by local businessmen included: lack of merchant cooperation, traffic congestion, failure to maintain physical facilities, and lack of traffic control. In spite of the problems mentioned, nearly 90 percent of the survey respondents indicated that the potential of Charlevoix was excellent for retail business. To fully achieve this potential, 36 percent suggested that the downtown could be enhanced by expanding parking facilities. Sixteen percent of the merchants suggested a major department store outlet be located in the downtown. Improvement of the physical appearance of many stores was also suggested as a major improvement measure. Other suggestions relating to enhancement of the downtown area included: the need for building codes, better quality of merchandise, widen Bridge Street by eliminating parking, rezone selected areas to permit apartments or commercial development.

All comments seem to indicate a concern for improving the Charlevoix retail economy through measures to revitalize the downtown making it more operative, attractive and convenient to both residents and tourists alike.

Projected Sales Potential

At some point in the study of an area's economy, one goes beyond the past and present economic scope in an attempt to determine a future economic potential.

As incomes increase, people have more money available to purchase retail commodities and services. As population increases, more people with higher incomes create a larger consumer market.

By 1980, it is anticipated that every individual in the Charlevoix Region will have $4,256 to expend. At the same time, the population will have increased to nearly 4,200 residents. As a result of this growth, there will be an effective buying income of nearly 18 million dollars available to purchase retail goods and services and other items. Twelve million dollars will be available strictly for the purchase of retail goods with an additional 1.2 million for retail services. This provides a potential for an additional four million dollars in retail sales to be available in the county by 1980 over the 1966 level. A 35 percent retail sales potential can mean to retail establishments an increase of $285,000 annually in retail sales. This discounts the increased tourist expenditure likely to occur in the next nine years. What percent of this potential will be realized by the Charlevoix Region or County is not known.

Based on the present efficiency of retail space, the projected demand for retail area in 1980 will be 274,300 square feet or a 35.0 percent increase over the 1966 level. However, provided that retail floor space is efficiently used in the next twelve years, the additional need in 1980 is only 54,120 square feet or a 22.4 percent increase over 1966. The efficiency difference becomes readily apparent when consideration is given to the fact that with efficient use of apparel and accessories, and other retail spaces, sales can increase while needed floor space decreases. Assuming that somewhat more efficient use will be made of retail floor space by 1980, the total additional retail sales area required by that time approximates 75,000 square feet. This additional space will require 525 parking spaces to serve customers (7.0 spaces per 1,000 square feet of gross leasable area.)

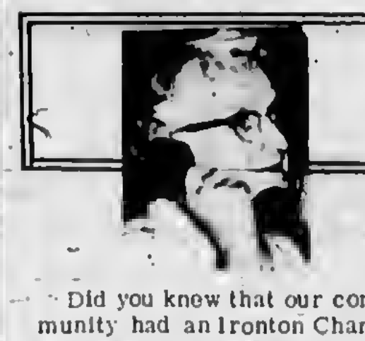
Ironton



Mrs. Ross Alexander
547-9878

Did you know that our community had an Ironton Chamber of Commerce, which was organized in January, 1938 at the Ross Alexander home.

Officers elected were President, William Sanderson; Vice President, J.C. Dissette, and secretary and treasurer Ralph Price. The planning directors were Frank Milward, S.W. Mower, Sam Alexander, Ross Alexander, George R. Hemingway and Roy Meyers. Their principal aim was the promotion of better boating and fishing in Ironton.

Their first coming out party was Ground Hog evening February 1 at 7 o'clock, with a Mens Oyster Supper and get together at the Ironton Church. And what a Gala get together, each wearing a paper hat and a lapel boutonniere and all the special oysters, salad, and special desert they could eat for the special price of fifty cents.

Many ideas brewed that night and they wanted to keep Ironton clean, wholesome and more beautiful.

Rev. and Mrs. Harmon are in Washington D.C. for several days. Rev. Steele of Boyne City had charge of the morning church service this Sunday. His sermon was An Adequate Religion which was most interesting. We always enjoy having Rev. Steele as our guest minister.

Mrs. Leona Johnson has returned home after spending several days in Battle Creek, having been called due to the serious illness of her father.

Hogan reveals plan for new downtown building

Plans for construction of a new retail shop building by June 15 on the southwest corner of Bridge and Park Ave. were announced this week by Henry Hogan, owner of the property and adjoining buildings.

Hogan said the new building will have four retail summer shops in it, with 1,080 square feet in each shop. He said all of the shops will be occupied this summer.

The new building, Hogan said, will create an arcade between the adjoining building, which was used by a paperback book store last summer and is expected to have a new occupant this summer.

Hogan owns the adjoining buildings down to and including the Cuttysark, owned by Hess Furniture Co, which is the only building occupied this winter.

He also owns the former Timms' Appliance store across the street, which was last occupied by Orville's Root Beer Saloon in the summer of 1967, the liquor store and site of the former Beach Hotel.

Hogan, a Birmingham publisher, is a member of the Chicago Club.

In addition to construction of the new building, Hogan said his other downtown summer shops will be remodeled and improved by mid-June.

Hogan had the building which previously stood on the corner of Park and Bridge torn down after he purchased it due to its poor condition.

Hogan bought most of his downtown property in 1964 and 1965. He had a new front put on the buildings shortly after buying them. Few improvements have been made to the buildings since then.

E. Malcolm York of Birmingham will manage his Charlevoix investments, Hogan said. York works for Comac, an investment management firm from Birmingham.

Dave Austin of Charlevoix will continue in his present job of caretaker of the property here, Hogan said. Austin will work for York.

York's job will be to supervise and carry out a general upgrading of his property here, Hogan said.

Hogan said the expansion and remodeling of his Bridge St. properties will cost in excess of $60,000. He said he hopes to have arrangements finalized in time for a contractor to begin work March 15.

Court dismisses suit for $150,000 against Traverse Bay Corp.

Circuit Judge Charles Brown last week dismissed all made in a $150,000 lawsuit by James Sawtelle claims and charges against Traverse Bay Corp. and several leading Charlevoix businessmen.

Judge Brown's decision on the $150,000 lawsuit Sawtelle started last October against the shipwreck furniture manufacturing firm and its directors pointedly denies that Sawtelle's attorney Arthur Reibel established grounds for his charges.

Sawtelle started his $150,000 lawsuit 20 days after Traverse Bay Corp. started suit to collect $2,097 from Sawtelle and under Writ of Attachment took possession of several pieces of shipwreck furniture Sawtelle had made.

In his counter-suit, Sawtelle's attorney named the Traverse Bay Corp. and its directors--John Michael, Charlevoix attorney; Tom Acton, a Lexalite executive; Josh Barnes, Lexalite president; Bob Lieberman, Charlevoix department store owner; Bill Carey, Charlevoix insurance agent; R.L. Shaw of East Jordan and W.G. Boyer, Traverse Bay general manager.

On October 23, 15 days after Reibel filed Sawtelle's $150,000 suit, Judge Brown dismissed the corporation's individual directors as defendants.

Reibel argued against dismissing the individuals, but Brown then decided no evidence had been presented to support Reibel's request that the individuals remain as defendants.

Sawtelle's $150,000 suit claimed that Traverse Bay tried to collect an unjust debt from him, wrongfully used his designs for shipwreck furniture, failed to pay him commissions and royalties owed him for using his designs and damaged his future business by exploiting his designs.

Reibel asked that the court name a receiver to "preserve the assets of the Traverse Bay Corp." for the protection of Sawtelle's claim against the corporation. The suit further charged that due to "unauthorized expenditures" the corporation's financial well being was jeopardized.

In his order last week dismissing Sawtelle's suit, Brown states that Sawtelle's "allegations are merely vague and are supported by no data, invoices, statements..."

At another point he claims that some of the charges in the suit regarding ownership of the shipwreck furniture Traverse Bay took possession of from the Weathervane Inn in September are contradicted by Sawtelle's personal statements under oath.

Judge Brown also pointed out that Sawtelle's charges should, under the general court rules, have been filed as a counter-complaint in answer to Traverse Bay's suit and as a part of the original suit.

"The general court rules," Brown wrote, are, and were, designed to avoid a multiplicity of suits and to prevent situations as have occurred in the instant case."

Brown's decision last week has no bearing on Traverse Bay's original suit against Sawtelle to collect the $2,097 it alleges he owes it. This suit is still pending.

A third suit in which a Pontiac area man, Richard Tull, seeks damages from Traverse Bay on the grounds he owned [illegible] the pieces of shipwreck furniture it had taken from the Weathervane Inn is also still pending.

County eyes need for its drain commissioner

Jerry Uhrick may find himself with a job he won at the November election but didn't really think existed and doesn't really want.

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors at its Tuesday, March 11 meeting will discuss setting a salary, budget and responsibilities for the County Drain Commissioner.

Uhrick was elected drain commissioner. However, he did so understanding that the job was one in name only and that no duties or pay existed for it.

Now the county is becoming concerned about its drainage problems, according to County Clerk Clarence Rabach.

In the past drainage problems were limited to those around roads, Rabach explained. These were taken care of by the Road Commission.

"Now we're having drainage problems that do not pertain to roads," Rabach said. "These problems," he continued, "keep bouncing from one official to another with no one solving them. Everyone brushes them off."

Only the Drain Commissioner, Rabach explained, has the authority to create special assessment districts to handle drainage problems.

Rabach cited a letter from a Norwood resident who has a serious drain problem and can get no one to help him. There are other equally frustrating cases, Rabach said.

Also under a new law the Drain Commissioner must approve all plats before developers can begin selling and building on subdivided land.

Republican Uhrick defeated incumbent Democratic Drain Commissioner Fran Martin for the Drain Commissioner's title in November.

Miss Martin ran for and was elected to the job in November of 1964. She was the county's first known Drain Commissioner and was never called on to perform any duties.

Why did she and Uhrick want a title which has no pay or responsibility with it?

Because if their name appears on the ballot as nominee for Drain Commissioner they automatically get a vote on their political party's executive committee. So whether they were elected or not they got what they were after, a share of the county's political power.

Uhrick is in Florida and realizes he may have a new job when he returns.

Other matters on the supervisors' March 11 agenda include a decision on whether to pay the nearly $2,600 still owed on printing county map brochures.

Proposed improvements to Whiting Park to accommodate salmon fishermen will also be discussed.

The all-day meeting is open to the public.

Game take down in bad year

A losing season is just as bad for box office receipts in a small school district as it is for a major league athletic club.

At least it appears that way from figures on home basketball games presented by Charlevoix High School athletic director Leonard Staley.

Staley told the school board fans have paid $1,886 to attend the six home basketball games this season. Last season, he said, they paid $2,920 to attend all eight home games.

Based on the per-game receipts so far this season, the total gross from the season following the two remaining home games will be $2,500--or $400 less than last season's total.

The Rayders last season were rated as one of the state's finest Class C squads and were unbeaten until going into the tournaments. This season they are not even challengers in the new Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.

Receipts for home football games this season were above 1967, Staley said. In 1968 fans paid $2,311 to attend Rayder home grid games. In 1967 they paid $2,282.

Some of the loss in basketball game attendance, Staley said, may be due to the new league, in which Charlevoix is playing teams with which fans are not acquainted.

Name park after Ellsworth man

The State Highway Commission has named a roadside park on US-31 near Charlevoix in honor of Henry L. Elzinga of Ellsworth, who retired this month after 26 years with the Department of State Highways.

The five-acre park, located four miles north of Charlevoix on the shore of Lake Michigan, was constructed more than 15 years ago. It offers an unobstructed view of both the northern portion of Lake Michigan and the mouth of Little Traverse Bay. A spruce and pine tree grove furnished with picnic tables provides tourists and travelers with both a scenic and rustic setting.

Elzinga, 65, of Lansing is manager of the Transactions Section in the Highway Department's Personnel Division. He joined the Department in St. Ignace as chief cashier for the state ferries at the Straits of Mackinac. He is a native of Ellsworth in Antrim County.

HENRY HOGAN has announced plans to construct a new retail store, for four shops, on the vacant lot on the right. He also announced plans to remodel the adjoining buildings on Bridge St. in this picture, all of which he owns. The stores are located on the southwest corner of Bridge and Park.

Special ed. tax request falls short of real need

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School Board's decision last week to ask voters for another half-mill for special education was a compromise between childrens' needs and taxpayers' interests, according to Dale Fassett, special education director.

According to Fassett another full mill is needed to provide all of the special education services needed by children in the Intermediate School District.

After consultation with local school boards, Fassett said, the Intermediate Board decided voters are far more apt to approve a half-mill levy than they are a full mill.

Voters approved a half-mill levy for special education in 1964. The program has been operating on this half-mill since then.

The half-mill local property tax levy has been paying for one-quarter of the special education program, with the state paying the other 75%.

However, last year, and again this year, Fassett explained, the state trimmed the amount of its state aid payment for special education after the school-year and programs were underway. This, Fassett said, left the Intermediate District obligated for the cost of programs for which it did not have the money.

Before cutting back on its share of the special education program, Fassett explained, the State Dept. of Education had approved the programs and allowed them to get underway.

The half-mill special education levy on the June 9 ballot will make it possible to eliminate the deficit created by the state aid cutback and expand the program to meet the most critical needs, Fassett said.

If approved by voters, the levy will run as long as it is needed, he explained.

Due to property valuation increases of $8 million in Charlevoix County and $32 million in Emmet County, the Intermediate District's tax levy will be spread on an estimated $193 million in 1969, compared to $153 million in 1968.

With the valuation increase, Fassett said, the Intermediate Board would have been almost forced to seek a full-mill in June instead of the half-mill.

Money raised by the half-mill, Fassett said, will make it possible to add ten more Type A rooms for 150 educable mentally handicapped children. These are children who learn slower than others and because of this are often unable to learn anything at a normal classroom pace. There are new six Type A classrooms in the Intermediate District.

Also high on Fassett's priority list are two consultants for 200 perceptually handicapped children. The district now has no consultants to help these children.

Fassett also feels the district badly needs a consultant for emotionally disturbed children.

Of course, if the board had asked voters for, and gotten them to approve, a full additional mill, Fassett would add more people to handle the visiting teacher program, speech correction and counselor for the hard of hearing.

A full mill would raise approximately $193,000 on the Intermediate District's taxable property valuation. This would finance a special education program costing nearly [illegible], figuring the state lives up to its commitment to pay three-quarters of the cost.

If voters approve the additional half mill, Fassett said, it may be enough to meet the district's special education needs if the valuation of taxable property continues to increase and the number of children needing help does not. However, he considers it unlikely that the value of taxable property will increase without a corresponding increase in population.

State explains position

'Save Jordan' group protests hatchery's threat to nature

The Department of Natural Resources recognizes that fish hatcheries are a source of stream pollution. Technology is being sought to eliminate this problem, according to Wayne Tody, fish division chief.

A group of about 50 persons heard Tody outline his concern about pollution from hatcheries at a February 27 meeting in East Jordan, on the proposed Jordan River salmon and steelhead hatchery.

Most of those at the meeting firmly opposed construction of a state hatchery on the Jordan, where a huge federal lake trout hatchery is already located.

Formal resolutions against the hatchery were read from the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisor, East Jordan City Council, East Jordan Sportsman's Club, East Jordan Garden Club, American Legion Auxiliary and the East Jordan Study Club.

Objections fell into three general categories, with most opponents citing them all:

1. Stream pollution,

2. The physical scar the five to ten acre facility would crease on the Jordan's bank, and

3. The desire to preserve the Jordan as a trout stream and an apparent feeling that salmon would downgrade the Jordan.

Tody said he understands and respects the first two arguments. He added that the Jordan can be weired-off so that salmon are not allowed to enter from Lake Charlevoix, but trout are passed upstream.

The DNR, Tody, said, has contracted with engineering consultants to solve the pollution problem. He admitted he does not know if a hatchery can be constructed which will not pollute the stream by enriching and warming the water returned to it.

"We are not in the business to ruin streams or ruin trout fishing," Tody said.

The state, he said, will not begin construction of a hatchery on the Jordan unless it is convinced it will not "measurably degrade" the stream.

He admitted that construction of the Platte River salmon hatchery has started without the technology to eliminate pollution, but said a system is being planned to control pollution from the Platte hatchery.

Tody several times emphasized that the DNR has not firmly decided or committed itself to locate a hatchery on the Jordan. He admitted it is the fish division's first choice for a second cold water hatchery. (The Platte River was first choice).

Brad Durling, the DNR's hatchery chief, told persons at the meeting the Jordan site at Chestonia was selected because:

- It has the necessary water quality and quantity, which is difficult to find, despite Michigan's hundreds of miles of trout streams.
- The state owns a major portion of Industrial park needs outlined by planners

Agriculture

Agriculture, forestry, and wholesale trade as elements within the economic framework are distinguishable in Charlevoix County. They play only minor roles, however. Whereas agriculture and forestry continue to effect the economy on a diminishing scale, wholesale trade establishments doubled between 1958 and 1963. Wholesale sales increased in the county from 3.2 million dollars in 1958 to 5.0 million dollars in 1963. While the number of employees nearly doubled, the yearly payroll to wholesale trade employees more than doubled.

It is significant in this section of the study to indicate that wholesale trade is growing and will continue to do so as the needs of the county and region dictate.

Manufacturing

Industrialization has a tremendous influence on the economy of any region: increasing tax structures, providing employment opportunities and generally upgrading the economic base more rapidly than other economic forces at work in the area.

Charlevoix County is no exception. Between 1950 and 1960, as indicated in the introduction, manufacturing employment increased by 58.6% to 1,166. By 1963, this figure had mounted to 1,490. Recent figures indicate that employment in manufacturing industries in the county today approaches 2,000.

Payrolls have more than kept pace with employment gains in the county. Whereas the average employee received an annual salary of $4,000 in 1958, by 1963, he was receiving nearly $4,600.

The county economy has continuously flourished from manufacturing in the last 10 years, not only in increased employment and payrolls, but the total value added to the economy by manufacturing nearly doubled just during the first half of the last decade. Estimates are that it has again nearly doubled in the last five years.

Industrial Location And Land Use

In contrast to commercial land use, most of which is located in the city of Charlevoix or along major highways outside of Charlevoix, industrial land is predominately located in the township around Charlevoix. Over three percent of the Region's land area is industrially used; however, Medusa Cement Company has substantial amounts of unused land retained for expansion. For the most part, industry in the Region is light, that is, normally small, producing few noxious effects and compatible with adjacent areas.

Two major locational problems confront the Charlevoix Region. First is the distance to markets. Proximity to market is always a prime consideration in industrial location since transport costs are so high. The Charlevoix Region is well over 200 miles from the urbanized centers of Southern Michigan and over 300 miles from either Detroit or Chicago. Secondly, is the mode of transport to get to these markets. In this case, the Charlevoix Region is in many respects "out of the way". No major interstate is near Charlevoix, and State and Federal highways serving the area were not originally designed for trucking and are thus narrow and in poor repair. At least one major industry utilizes water transportation for bulk shipment of raw materials. Medusa Cement Company, however, is one of the few industries in the area to take advantage of water to transport goods or raw materials.

The majority of industry located in Charlevoix Township is south of the City of Charlevoix and along Michigan State Highway 66. A number of industries are locating north of Charlevoix, however, one of which is Lexalite Corporation, producing street light globes and employing 44 persons. Lexalite is typical of the type of industries locating in the Charlevoix Region, i.e. light, medium-size plants with diversity of products and markets.

Industries throughout south Charlevoix Township and north Marion Township are all accessible to US-31 or State Highway 66. Industries located in the extreme southeast portion of the city of Charlevoix are on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad as well as M-66, both connecting these industries to southern markets.

Medusa Cement Company, the second largest employer and by far the largest industrial land holder in the Region, is located directly west of Charlevoix in an area largely undeveloped, yet less than a mile from the city. Listed below are industries in the Charlevoix Region and current employment.

Employment And Labor Force

Furniture and wood products industries are, by far, the largest employer in the Region, exceeding one third of the total Regional employment. Non-electrical machinery and cement manufacturing account for an additional third of manufacturing employment. The largest number of establishments is in fabricated metals; however, they account for only 10 percent of total manufacturing employment.

Outside the Region, steady employment gains have been made throughout the county, with both the county and region increasing more rapidly than the state. The trend in industry is toward the larger plant and away from small firms, thereby accounting for the decrease in number of industries and increase in employment.

The highest percentage increases in employment in the county and city of Charlevoix were made by operatives and kindred workers, private household workers and by professional and technical workers. Farm and other laborers, representing much of the unskilled or semi-skilled labor grouping in the county, declined during the fifties. The absolute increase in white collar workers between 1950 and 1960, as indicated in the population section is basically a result of industrialization and a prime asset. Increases in sales and service workers result from the expanded needs of tourism as well as industry.

Survey Of Industry

A survey of selected industries in the Charlevoix Region conducted in July 1968, revealed that the majority of plants surveyed in the region have expansions underway or have completed expansions within the last year. Employment averages 2-1/2 times higher per plant in 1968 than in 1963. Of all employees in plants interviewed, 27 percent were skilled, 43 percent semi-skilled and 30 percent unskilled. It was further determined from the survey that less than half of all employees in the region reside there. The lack of survey response limits the importance and accuracy of the survey; however, it was felt that the above figures had some validity and importance and were, therefore, included.

The Industrial Park

Urban Land Institute defines an industrial park as a "highly restricted type of planned industrial area in which special attention is given to aesthetics and community compatibility". It is developed according to a comprehensive plan which includes streets, rails, utilities and provision for serviced sites for a variety of industrially oriented uses. This definition and the following description of an industrial park are included in this study as a pertinent economic consideration for the Charlevoix Region. If the region is to continue to expand and grow industrially, the benefits which could be derived from creation of an industrial park are worthy of consideration.

In the Charlevoix Region, an industry would receive the following benefits from locating in an industrial park:

1. Immediate availability of a site when needed by industry;

2. Elimination of legal and local negotiations such as rezoning, extension of utilities, etc.;

3. Flexibility in site selection;

4. Reduced site development cost through economics of scale;

5. Investment protection, tax savings, compatibility among park firms;

The industry, once located, would in turn provide benefits to the community as already evidenced by existing industries. An industrial park, however, would have the effect of retaining existing firms thinking of relocating outside the area as well as attracting new industry, the combined effect of which would only further diversify industry in the region.

Industry is randomly located around and in the city of Charlevoix at the present time so that expansion of residential or commercial uses are, in some cases, hindered.

An industrial park would assist in preventing haphazard location of new industry. Unplanned industrial sites in a resort area such as the Charlevoix Region could have a serious effect of producing ugliness and lack of good land use relationships.

The added expense of providing each random industry with utility connections is a major problem in Charlevoix since many industries cannot adequately function utilizing existing domestic sewage and water systems. In many cases, a small water or sewage line may suffice the domestic needs of the neighborhood, whereas a nearby industry may require a much larger line. An industrial park would provide more than adequate industrial utilities to a number of industries with one major trunk line. A similar situation arises with respect to industrial access.

An industrial park in a good location and properly managed would stimulate the economy of the region, providing increased payrolls, new building activity and other "economic shots in the arm", which the region has only partially realized in the past.

A planned industrial park may take many physical forms depending on location and needs.

With the planned industrial park concept in mind, increases in manufacturing employment can have a significant influence on the economy of a region such as Charlevoix.

Flower gardens need planning

by Mrs. Ross Alexander

Members of the Charlevoix Garden Club, met with Mrs. Jeanne Michael for their February meeting. Mrs. Edith Stenman gave a most interesting lesson on Planning for Succession of Bloom in your Garden.

Continuous bloom is easy. Its simply a matter of studying garden books and catalogs to find flowers which bloom at different times suitable to your garden. But, of course, beautiful continuous bloom is another matter. One must study garden design in order to give each plant its full share of attention. Pay attention to color and coordinate in order to have a pleasing effect, know rules of horticulture in order to break a few, and, be lazy enough to be neglectful sometimes so that your flowers will develop a little hardy independence.

I believe that only certain types of people can be gardeners and these people are not the deep thinkers but the deep feelers they see more than a pleasing picture or lovely colors when they look at a garden or even one flower with an emotional feeling. Why else would they devote valuable time, effort, and money to such hard work as gardening?

A flower garden offers solace and joy, brings back memories and provides peace for troubled minds it welcomes us home from journeys and illness and one gets back to earth from whence we came for sowing seed in an Act of Faith.

Some simple rules are to plan a strong background. Choose the reliables as to heights colors and seasons have a balanced plan for your spring flowering bulbs. This creates an order which is peaceful and restful and is important to any garden. Also the foliage is very important, and, keep the borders neat. With these rules you will have continuous bloom. Spring will be a joy and summer pleasant on into fall.

The club meets Tuesday afternoon March 11 with Mrs. Marjory Dinwiddie.

Hill wins ski award

Bunker Hill of Charlevoix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hill is one of the handful of Mid-America skiers to win silver pins in the National Standard giant slalom ski competition.

Held at Boyne Mt. for Mid-America skiers, the competitors ski against a standard (like par on a golf course) set by one of the nation's top rated skiers. They must beat or equal the standard to qualify for a NASTAR Pin.

Mr. & Mrs. Larry D. Martin

VanLoo, Martin wed in Community church rite

Sherry Lynn VanLoo became the bride of Larry Dean Martin in a ceremony solemnized at the Community Reformed church Saturday afternoon, March 1.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. VanLoo and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Martin.

Arrangements of pink and white gladioli and white tulips formed a setting for the double ring service performed by the Rev. Albert F. Maesen. Mrs. John L. Boss was the organist and Herbert Boss the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a street length A-line gown of pink chiffon over taffeta fashioned with a back panel that fell from the shoulders for her wedding. A matching pink pillbox secured her short veil. She carried a bouquet of white daisy mums.

Donna Martin, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor and Connie Smith as bridesmaid, wore identical pink Empire gowns and matching chapel veils and carried colonial bouquets of pink and white daisy mums.

Daniel McKenzie assisted the bridegroom as best man. Allen Veenstra was groomsman. Stanley R. Martin of New Baltimore and John F. Martin, brothers of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

A reception followed at Fellowship hall. Assisting were Lynn Fiedorek, Tricia Young, Becky Hiller, Julie Sepernaw, Chris Carey, Jeanne Smith and Barbara Meggison.

After a brief northern Michigan wedding trip the couple will make their home at Clipperview.

Wedding guests were present from West Bend, Wis., Rochester, Warren, Ann Arbor, Big Rapids, Detroit, Central Lake, Ellsworth, East Jordan and Petoskey.

The Michigan State University Symphonic Wind Ensemble

Michigan State music group to perform here

The Michigan State University Symphonic Wind Ensemble will appear in concert at Charlevoix High School Monday, March 17.

Sponsored by the school music department, the 56-member group will present its performance at 8 p.m. in the high school gym.

Tickets, costing $1.50 for adults and $1 for students, are available from all CHS band members, according to Clarence Odmark, band director.

Last spring the University of Michigan symphonic group presented a concert in Charlevoix attended by between 700 and 800 persons, Odmark said.

The Wind Ensemble is the newest musical organization in the band activities division of the MSU Department of Music. Organized in the fall of 1967, it is composed of the finest wind and percussion instrumentalists at the university. Consisting largely of music majors, it also includes players from other schools and departments of the University.

The repertoire of this new organization includes all worthwhile original compositions for band, plus several new works in the contemporary idiom which were expressly written for the group.

From its organization in 1870, the MSU band program has had a century of steady growth and development. Today, the department involves a membership of more than 500 students in five different musical organizations which are heard annually in on-campus appearances, throughout Michigan and in various other states and parts of Canada.

In its performances, the Wind Ensemble presents programs which will musically educate and entertain its audiences.

THIS RECENT picture of the Jordan River shows the wild beauty and unspoiled charm that conservationists are fighting to preserve. The "Save the Jordan" group last week met with Michigan fisheries chief Wayne Tody to object to his tentative plans to build a salmon hatchery on the stream. A federal lake trout hatchery already on the Jordan is a pollution source. (Story page 1.)

State takes new slash from area special ed. fund

The State Dept. of Education last week announced it is adding approximately $3,000 more to the Intermediate School District's special education operating fund deficit.

The state said that due to miscalculations in Lansing it wants back about $3,000 it paid the Intermediate District for special education last year. It will get the money back by withholding it from future payments, according to Dale Fassett, special education director.

The special education program, Fassett said, already has a $34,000 deficit because the state cut back on its earlier promise to pay 75% of the cost of all programs. The further cutback, he explained, will result in about a $37,000 deficit.

It is somewhat hard to understand why Molly Cottontail rears her babies above ground, in a nest lined with her own hair, instead of in the cozy underground refuge where she hides from the hunter's hound.

Woodchuck are called "varmints" by rifle fanatics, who use scopes and high-power weapons to snipe at them, usually leaving their kills for the crows.

Not only is the woodchuck good to eat, a boon to other forms of wildlife, he is also a beguiling pet. At Dick Watson's Pine Portage camp on Lake Kabinakagami in Ontario, a young woodchuck, brought in by one of the guides, made her home under a cottage. She enjoyed human companionship, popping out to receive tidbits. She eluded dogs and permitted children to play with her. When she wearied of being fondled, she squealed and struggled, but never attempted to bite, although she could have clipped off a finger.

A pet woodchuck, unlike a raccoon, remains amiable as it grows old. The time may come when animal dealers will rear woodchucks for the retail trade. For a city apartment dweller a friendly woodchuck would seem to be preferable to cat, dog, bird or tropical fish.

It should be understood, however, that the woodchuck is no mollycoddle. There is no more valiant fighter. A farm dog that succeeds in getting between a woodchuck and its den may slay the woodchuck, but the dog will bear the marks of battle to its grave.

THE NEED REMAINS THE SAME

The world about us has changed materially since the "horse and buggy days." The pace is incredibly faster and this tremendous change has all but transformed the physical world around us.

Despite this and the wonders wrought by science and invention, our need for God and His counseling is as indispensible as it was in horse and buggy days, yes, even as in the days of Moses. Our need may be even greater now because of our chances of being lulled into a sense of false security by our many comforts. The Church of our faith can fill the demands of this need.

The same soul satisfying sense of inner well-being and source of comfort and assurance in time of grief and trouble can be ours for the regular attendance at the Church of our choosing. It is worth just as much and carries just as much inner joy in these modern days as it did for those who were glad to drive behind a horse, in all kinds of weather, to take part in its fellowship.

Rayders almost upset mighty St. Ignace

The Rayders almost pulled the upset of the season Friday as they lead the north's top-ranked class C cage team going into the fourth quarter.

St. Ignace, however, managed to rally a 17-point final period to beat Charlevoix 53-50. Had the Rayders been able to turn the tables on the Saints it would have meant the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference title for Petoskey instead of St. Ignace.

The loss left Charlevoix tied with Rogers City for fifth place with a 6-10 record in the league's final 1968-69 standings.

A sprained ankle may have made the difference between a winning and losing season for the Rayders.

Kraag Lieberman was leading the league in scoring, with an average of more than 20 points a game, until he injured his ankle about a third of the way through the season. When he returned to the court after missing several games, Lieberman failed to pick up his old pace. Friday he scored six points.

Next season, however, coach Carey will have this year's three top scorers back. Bruce Meggison is a sophomore. Lieberman and Stewart Coleman are juniors.

Carey's other two first stringers--Don Ward, and Don Livingston--will graduate in June.

The Rayders go into district tournament play at Boyne City Thursday of this week, March 6, at 8 p.m. They will play Onaway or Boyne City, which ever wins the first round district game Tuesday at Boyne City.

In Friday's contest St. Ignace took a slim first period lead, 14-12. By halftime the Rayders were out front 27-24. When the final frame opened the Rayders held a one-point margin, 37-36.

The Rayders did a better job on free throws than St. Ignace did, but the Saints won on charity shots because it got more of them. The Rayders scored on 12 of 16 free throws, while St. Ignace scored on 15 of 23. Officials called 16 fouls on Charlevoix to 11 on St. Ignace.

Coleman paced the Rayder scoring with 18 points, followed by Ward with 11. Others scoring were Norman Ostrum, 7; Meggison and Lieberman, 6, and Tim Doan, 2.

JVs lose 66-46 to St. Ignace

Charlevoix's JVs lost 66-46 to St. Ignace Friday in their last game of the season.

The St. Ignace junior varsity squad lead all the way, with a 19-12 lead at the end of the first quarter and 29-22 margin at halftime. When the final period opened St. Ignace was out front 47-33.

The little Rayders made only 8 of 25 free throws, while St. Ignace was scoring 14 of 26. Charlevoix scored 19 field goals to St. Ignace's 26.

Twenty - one fouls were called on Charlevoix to 18 on St. Ignace.

Scoring for Charlevoix were Dave Swanson, 9; Ron Bindi, 8; Tom Bergmann and Terry Elzinga, 7 each; Bill Carey, 6, and Bob Donaldson and Mark Westonbroek, 2 each.

By Mrs. Ross Alexander

It surely is nice having our friends return to their homes after spending some time in the hospital. Tom Neilsen returned home Saturday from the Charlevoix Hospital and Mrs. Sally Saunders returned to her home this Sunday from the Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

We are all enjoying this beautiful weather. Even the Pussywillows are bursting from the sunshine and the Snowmobilers are out enjoying the countryside and moonlight as the snow is going down quite fast, but who knows what is coming the last of this month. I have seen some rugged weather through the first of April, but we do know that winter can't last much longer and how thankful we should all be to be living here when we read and hear about what they are enduring other places.

We were all happy to have Rev. and Mrs. Harmon with us again this Sunday morning after their journey to Washington D.C. last week.

Madame Chevy Sevcik is a patient in Little Traverse Hospital. Her many friends are thinking of her.

Mrs. Ruth Roberts has returned home after spending two weeks with relatives and friends in Detroit.

Services for Robert T. Beedle, 74, of Nashville and a former resident and owner and operator of Scott's Cabins and Boats at the Ferry passed away in the Traverse City Hospital where he had been a patient several months. Burial was in Henderson, Michigan. Our community extends its sympathy to Mrs. Beedle and family in Nashville.

Diane Alexander was our church pianist this Sunday morning. This is good training and experience for our young people and we appreciate their willingness to help whenever they are needed.

Some beautiful perch are being caught near the ferry and also a four pound German Brown Trout was caught this Sunday afternoon by a Petoskey fisherman. Time is getting short for ice fishing.

Crash Cost Soaring

NEW YORK—The annual dollar cost of the nation's traffic accidents has about doubled in the last decade, according to the Insurance Information Institute. The 1967 economic loss figure of $12.14 billion averaged out to a bill of $62.14 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

the land upstream from the Chestonia site, giving it the controls to prevent degradation of the water quality upstream from the hatchery;

●The Jordan River site is strategically located for distribution of fish from the hatchery to planting sites in upper Lakes Michigan and Huron streams.

Tody said the desirability of the Jordan site was determined after a careful study of other potential locations. The only other streams known to have equally suitable water quality, he said, are the Platte and Manistee in the lower and Fox in the upper.

The DNR, Tody said, has more than a year, and perhaps two or three years or longer, before it must select a site for its second cold water hatchery. In this time, he said, the department will investigate other possible locations.

"...didn't even know she was married"

Well, she's married all right. You could have read about it a year ago on page six. Her wedding announcement was printed in the same newspaper that recorded her parents' wedding, her birth, her graduation, and now the beginning of another generation.

When each of these events took place they were duly noted and set down in permanent print in the continuing record of your community. From birth and death announcements to chronicling the mighty events of war and peace, newspapers have been printing the facts in America since pre-Colonial times. And if you believe that "printing the facts" is easy, you should sit in an editor's chair, sometime.

If it's in print it stays there. It can be checked and double-checked. It forms a permanent record. It's not chatter in the air, loose talk ". . . whose edge is sharper than the sword, whose tongue outvenoms all the worms of Nile, whose breath rides on the posting winds . . . ," as Shakespeare put it.

You may take this service lightly. You should live, then, in a community without a newspaper. You would probably find that, without the modifying force of printed news, the winds of slander and controversy would be blowing pretty hard.

In the Open

By Lee Smits

If there is any wild meat to compare with young fox squirrel it is immature woodchuck, yet few members of the present generation ever ate woodchuck. The woodchuck has two color phases -- red and grey.

Our grandma believed that only one color was edible; I forget which. Never could remember, in fact. So when we brought home summer woodchucks, dressed ready for the skillet, grandma would ask whether they were of the red or the grey type and we would tell her what we knew would allay her anxiety. As I recall, she believed the wrong color was poisonous.

Open seasons on Michigan woodchuck are so arranged that few are legally killed. In the southern part of the Lower Peninsula the open season is Oct. 20 to Jan. 31. In the northern part of the state, the season is Oct. 1 to Jan. 21. Since woodchuck go to sleep underground early in November and sleep through until warm weather, they are fairly safe from human predation.

Pioneers trapped woodchuck to eat and because woodchuck hide is prime material for bootlaces, whiplashes, mitten facing.

Ellsworth man retires after 29 years service

ELLSWORTH -- Henry L. Elzinga, formerly of Ellsworth and now of Lansing, manager of the Transactions section in the personnel division of the Department of State Highways, retired March 1 after 29 years with the Department.

Elzinga, 65, joined the Department in St. Ignace as chief cashier for the state ferries and was transferred to the personnel division in Lansing in 1941.

He formerly served with the State Liquor Control Commission, but lost his position during a change of administration. "That was prior to Civil Service," he said. "In the good old days, when a new administration came in everyone went out."

Elzinga is a charter member of the Michigan State Employees Association and has served on the Highway Department's Roadside Park Naming Committee since its inception in 1958. He is also a member of the American Society for Public Administration, the Public Personnel Association and the Highway Men's Club.

He is a native of Ellsworth County and studied business administration at Ferris State College in Big Rapids. Prior to his state service he was employed as an assistant cashier at the Ellsworth State Bank and as office manager for a Detroit baking products company.

Elzinga and his wife Evalyn plan to remain in Lansing and said his retirement plans include golf, fishing and general relaxation.

Fitz's week to be sweet

By Jim Fitzgerald

You'll be reading them later, but I'm typing these words on Valentine's Day. Which should be excuse enough for explaining why I open the car door for my wife.

The modern woman wants equal rights. Someone left the kitchen door open and Mabel ran out and got elected Mayor. She's wearing trousers and smoking cigars and posing for booze ads. She still won't do any heavy lifting, but otherwise Mabel insists she can do George's job and she expects George's salary.

More power to Mabel. I can think of no good reason why she should be discriminated against because of her sex. If she can haul the freight, get out of her way and pay her the going rate when she delivers. If George doesn't like it, maybe he'd like to go home and try needlepoint.

"So OK," says George, "but if that's the way she wants it, she can race me for the last seat on the bus and I hope she trips. She can take her hat off in the elevator and she can light her own cigaret. And if she gives me a hard time about it, I may punch her in the nose."

That's what George says. Not me. Maybe it's because I didn't marry a Mabel, but I don't think so. No matter how many corporations Mabel might control, no matter how masculine her achievements, she will always get my respect for simply being female.

Mabel can do something George can't. She can have a baby. Sure, she needs some help from George to get started but then she takes over exclusively for 9 long months. George was in on the deal for the fun and games. Mabel gets the pain and the discomfort and the trips to the doctor.

This has been very much on my mind the past few weeks. The population experts say no couple should bring more than 2 children into this crowded world. Certainly, parents over 40 have no business producing their 4th child. But there we were, my Pat and I, surprised but excited-and increasingly hopeful as she entered her 4th month. It didn't work out.

A miscarriage is no great deal and I am not writing this in search of sympathy. Every time I visited Pat in the hospital I saw dozens of people whose luck is immeasurably worse than ours. I thank God for my good fortune.

And I also thank Him for my wife. She was in the hospital 6 times in 3 weeks. I lost count of the visits to the doctor—gosh, I even lost count of the doctors. She had bad pain and constant worry. She lived on the edge of a cliff. And all I did was stand around and hope she didn't fall off.

When it was finally all over, and Pat returned home from her last stay in the hospital, her 2 youngest children were in school. But they had left their greetings behind. Eddie had hung a big "Welcome Home Mom" sign. Chrissie had baked a 2 layer cake with an appropriate message lettered on the top. Love notes were tucked wherever Mom might find them.

And, I discovered later, an unopened package of maternity clothes had been thoughtfull hidden in the back of a distant closet.

I have always claimed that our children love their mother best because she plays Monopoly and Crazy 8's with them. (I would rather hang by my eyelashes). But the real reason may well be that they appreciate what mothers do for their kids. Twice in 3 years they have watched her suffer through unsuccessful pregnancies and come back home smiling.

In 18 years of column writing I have almost made a profession of razzing my wife. At the same time, I stuck needles in all females. And I will probably be back at it next week. No matter how many kids Mabel might have, she can still be a goofy broad. However, this is my week for being sweet...

So George hadn't better tell me I shouldn't open doors for my wife. I don't do it because she can't open them herself. I do it because she is something special.

She is a girl.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

It was gratifying this past week to receive about half a dozen membership fee checks. Just keep the checks coming folks. They certainly are appreciated.

It should interest you to know that your Chamber again, in our daily mail, is receiving many inquiries to the extent of six to 16, at least, that have to do with the summer season, especially cottage rantals, and/or separated unit motels having cooking facilities.

There are a dozen and one other types of contacts, many of which are persons who last year were in this area for the length of time or another and was so impressed they are questioning possibilities of moving here, etc., and of course, we get occasional requests for information having to do with purchasing one type of business or another, and at the present we have one contact we are working with that is interested in buying some lake frontage or a resort area if the price is at all reasonable.

Attention boaters, again in the Marina News there is a sizable article again bringing to attention the Ontario Water Resources Commission regulations for boaters in their waters for this summer. It does appear that certain class boaters better have the requirements for sanitation, or else, if they venture into those Canadian waters.

I observed in the recent U.S. Department of Commerce News Release that Michigan leads sister states in population growth. Michigan's population advanced 11.7%, 1960 to July 1, 1968. The next nearest was Ohio, with an advancement of 9.1%, and Illinois was next with an advance of 9%.

Our Board of Directors regular monthly meeting, March 4, will be reported on later, or if there is any questions, stop by the office and Rose will fill you in.

Sorry, the Chamber Chat column will be missed, but it so happens I will be with my wife on a little motor trip south. Marie needs a holiday, and Doc says that my ulcer condition recently discovered will be assisted by being away from it all, so to speak, along with diet and medication.

Our girl Friday, Rose Wiklanski, will maintain the office, but on short hours 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. while I am gone. I am glad to get away and I will be equally as glad to get back, that is for sure. Thanks for everything.

Having to do with our annual events, these again will be on the agenda for the Director's meeting March 4, however, I can say it appears there will be a bit more interest or concern, and that is the way it should be.

We have feelers out for additional out of town floats and a possibility of two or three bands for the Venetian Festival Street Parade, for this year is going to be, though the time is not scheduled yet, Saturday afternoon, July 26 rather than in the evening because the evening performance prevented a number of float entries and otherwise because of the lack of equipment for over the highway after dark. Also there is in the hopper the developing of a new attraction by popular demand, and that is a hobbies and crafts show, which appears to be in no conflict with the Waterfront Art Fair.

School budget proposes 5.5 mill hike

Increased costs of education moved to the fore when the Charlevoix Board of Education met at the high school Monday night.

When the two and one-half hour meeting adjourned, the Board had unanimously approved a $1 million budget to carry the School system through the 1969-70 year, and will send it on to the voters April 7.

Two motions were passed which sum up the needs of the system. One would levy a 4.5 mill tax for one year to be used for increased operational costs.

The second measure to be put to the electorate is a one mill levy for five years, the monies from which would be earmarked for "learning materials, a material center and equipment" only.

The Board was determined in its desire to present two separate tax measures, feeling it necessary to provide funds for material and equipment which could not be "sidetracked" for other uses such as teacher salaries.

Should the budget be approved April 7, the tax table will show: County millage, 8.2; voted last year, 6.5; debt retirement on Charlevoix High School building, 1.75 mills; new elementary building, 3.5 mills; public library (operated by the school system), .5 mills; increased operational millage for 1969-70 school year, 4.5 mills; and 1 mill for materials and equipment.

Total tax for residents of the Charlevoix School District would then total approximately 25.5 mills. Exact figures cannot be determined until re-valuation is completed locally.

School Superintendent Rex Milligan presented the proposed budget to the Board, stressing several factors.

"We have to look closely at next year. We expect, from past experience, a four percent increase in student enrollment," Milligan stated.

He listed the major items creating higher educational costs in the Charlevoix public schools. Prime factors, he said, are increases in teachers' salaries as set by the 1969-70 "master contract" (increase over this school year of $60,294); a new principal for the added school ($13,000); four additional teachers in art, guidance, elementary, middle grades ($33,500); two new custodians at the new elementary school ($11,000); additional librarian and assistant ($10,000); operation of the new elementary school ($14,000); eliminate this year's deficit ($20,000).

Using the above figures, operational costs will surpass the budgeted figure for this year by nearly $175,000.

By far, the largest chunk of the proposed budget would be allocated to teachers' salaries. Available figures show more than $800,000 slated for salaries, while the non - salary budget, which covers such items as transportation, operation and maintenance of plant, student services and capital outlay, stands at slightly over $175,000.

As Superintendent Milligan pointed out, "The first requirement is to pay your teachers" to put them in the classroom.

The physical plant follows in importance.

Milligan stressed the need to hire additional teachers to maintain a low teacher-pupil ratio. He said it appeared next year's ratio would average 27.1 pupils for every teacher, compared to 26.9 this year.

Supervisors hear report from Planning Commission

Walter Thorsen, chairman of the industrial committee of the Charlevoix County Planning Commission presented a detailed progress report to the County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Thorsen noted that the Williams and Works study has entered Phase II. The planning organization is making a comprehensive study of the entire county, with emphasis on effective land use, sewer and water facilities, and housing in preparation for county-wide zoning.

According to Thorsen, the two year-to-26-month planning study timetable is on schedule.

Another report from Williams and Works is expected in April.

Thorsen also reported that the Planning Commission in the past year has assisted the County Extension Service with a marine survey, including present facilities and proposed additions within two years to private and public marinas.

Thorsen also issued a report updating information concerning the printing of brochures promoting Charlevoix County.

Last July, the County received 216,900 brochures, costing $11,239.05.

Funds received thus far to defray the cost of brochures to the County include $1,750 from the County Road Commission; $1,000 from East Jordan Chamber of Commerce; $250, Charlevoix C of C; $1,000 from Resort Properties Inc., of Grand Rapids; $5,300 from the Board of Supervisors; $150 donated by Northern Michigan Electric Company; and $150 from the Beaver Island Civic Association.

The unpaid balance stands at $2,589.05, and Thorsen indicated that funds are still being solicited.

The Supervisors noted the considerable time and effort Thorsen has devoted to this project.

In other business, the Supervisors approved the appointment of Dr. Joseph Christie as deputy medical examiner on Beaver Island.

The Supervisors also heard a report that new lavatory facilities at Whiting Park have been started, but not completed.

Salary scale for the new deputy sheriff and the drain commissioner were sent to committee following the morning session.

Drain Commissioner Jerry Uhrich was in Florida, but it was reported he is prepared to carry out the duties of the office when the necessary bond is secured and posted.

Theatre plans spring play

Little Traverse Civic Theatre has announced plans for two productions this season.

The spring offering will be Neil Simon's "Barefoot in the Park," a widely acclaimed comedy.

Open tryouts will conclude Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the basement of the United Methodist Church, Petoskey.

Needed for the cast are four men and two women, as well as back stage help. The production will be directed by Ross Stoakes.

The board of directors also announced that the fall play will be Meredith Wilson's "Music Man", directed by Gig Stewart.

MSU Ensemble at CHS Monday

The Symphonic Wind Ensemble of Michigan State University, which will appear in Charlevoix High School gymnasium next Monday at 8 p.m., is one of more than 20 student and faculty groups performing under the auspices of the "Cap and Gown Series."

This education and cultural service, now in its 16th year, is designed to provide Michigan communities with select programs in the arts. The Men's Glee Club, State Singers, Concert Band, Jazz Ensemble and Theatre Performing Arts Company are included in the series.

Dr. Harry Begian

The Cap and Gown Series not only provided cultural programs for the people of Michigan, but offers student participants an opportunity to apply some of the training they have received at the University.

Recently, the Cap and Gown Series introduced a new program -- Young Audiences -- to Michigan's elementary schools.

The Cap and Gown Series is a part of University Public Services, Continuing Education Service, and is coordinated by Virginia B. Hutcheson.

New highway map released

The map contains the latest road information, reflecting recently completed construction as well as recently planned construction.

A limited supply of the new maps are available at the Courier office at no cost.

Report cards due

Report cards will be passed out tomorrow, Thursday, March 13. High school students will receive white slips.

New editor takes reins of Courier

Fiske Martin

With this issue, F. Fiske Martin assumes the editor's desk of the COURIER, replacing Glen Sheppard, who recently purchased the Northwood's Call.

Martin comes to Charlevoix from Harrisburg, Pa., where he was in charge of production for WHP, Inc., a central Pennsylvania radio and television organization.

His newspaper background includes stints as the manager-editor of the Sun-Ledger, a Pennsylvania weekly; assistant editor, Elizabethtown (Pa.) Chronicle; and desk editor, St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times.

Martin is a graduate of Elizabethtown (Pa.) College, where he majored in English, and has taken advanced work at Syracuse (N.Y.) University.

Born in Kansas City, Mo., and reared in San Francisco, he has been involved in the newspaper business since his high school days. "I took a job with a paper afternoons and haven't really left the communications business since," he stated.

"I can't imagine any profession which offers as much self-satisfaction as well as performing a needed service.

"I left the field a couple of years ago to go into television work, but could hardly wait for the right opportunity to get back into the business," he added.

His first impressions of the Charlevoix area have been favorable. "My family loves the water, and there's an abundance of swimming and boating here. We have never had the chance to learn to ski, but we'll give it a try next winter."

Martin and his family will reside on Meech St.

'Mutual concern' leads to new Big Brother effort

A renewed attempt to establish a Charlevoix County agency of Big Brothers of America will begin with an organizational meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix High School cafeteria.

The plans were announced this week by Lt. Don Luedke of Charlevoix, a member of the steering committee, appointed by the County Council of Social Agencies to study the need for such a program.

"The committee was started a year ago to conduct a survey into the suspected need for this type of action locally," Lt. Luedke stated.

According to the steering committee, the need exists in the area.

"A mutual concern by representatives of all the various agencies which come in contact with juvenile court cases and, equally important, potentially delinquent cases, prompted our attempt to establish a Big Brothers chapter in our county," Lt. Luedke said.

The survey was conducted through the school system in the county, as the age group incorporated in the Big Brother movement is seven through 17. Juvenile Court cases were studied and incorporated into the survey.

Following the study it was determined that 65 young men in the county would benefit from contact with a Big Brother. "And, that number has definitely increased in the year since the survey," Lt. Luedke added.

"The juvenile problem usually gives the community an early warning. A boy will have school problems, or violate the curfew. Through Big Brothers, many larger problems could be averted.

Without it, the next time the boy gets in trouble, it may be bigger; perhaps an offense that leads to confinement in a state training school," Lt. Luedke said.

Cost to the community is high. On the financial side, it costs $5,475 to house a boy in a training school each year. Charlevoix County directly pays half of that figure. The Big Brothers program costs only a fraction of that sum.

The Thursday meeting is open to all interested persons. A Big Brothers representative from Flint will attend to explain the program in detail and answer questions.

Lt. Luedke stated that a local Big Brothers organization would receive much help from the parent organization. The immediate goal of the steering committee to have the movement in operation by the end of the school year, in order to be operational over the summer.

The initial committee included Leonard Kaczorowski of Petoskey, chairman; the Rev. Duane Ferris, Boyne City; Delbert Terrill, adult education administrator at Charlevoix High School; and Lt. Luedke.

YFU chooses two CHS juniors for summers in Finland, Germany

By Jeanne Mutz

Have you ever dreamt of going to a foreign country? Well, two Charlevoix youths did and their dreams have come true. Linda Gill and David Hess, Charlevoix High School juniors, have been chosen by Youth For Understanding to fly via jet to a European country.

Linda Gill

Youth for Understanding is a nationwide teenage exchange program which is one of several in the United States that provides, in cooperation with the Department of State, the exchange of students between homes in the United States and foreign countries.

To qualify for Y.F.U., students must have a good scholastic background; be "all-around" students, active in school affairs; interested in school; have a willingness to give time for preparation preceding the trip; and finally, they must be able to accept responsibility for their own conduct.

While the students are away from home, they live with families or friends of former exchange students. Upon arriving, they immediately become a member of the family, calling their foreign parents Mother and Father. They assume the same responsibilities as any other member of the family.

Last summer, eight students traveled to six foreign countries, returning with many worthwhile ideas to exchange with their family and friends.

At the present time, Charlevoix has four exchange students: Ineke Romeyn from Holland, Menchu Tantoco of the Philippines, Henrik Christiansen from Denmark and Yvonne Jacob of Mexico.

The Charlevoix high school foreign travelers will leave the United States in mid-June and return to Charlevoix in August. A brief sketch on each students, their destination and opinions and viewpoints on their upcoming experiences is presented below.

Linda Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gill will spend the summer in Finland. She didn't really choose a particular country, but chose any Scandinavian country, and just happened to come up with Finland.

During her trip, she hopes to "gain a new understanding of the people in other countries, their different customs, languages and ways of life". Linda feels the best part in going will be differences in their way of life, but admits she will miss her family and friends.

Although there is much to look forward to in the summer ahead, Linda feels she is "looking forward to traveling and seeing different countries, meeting new people and trying to learn something about their

Total jump $1.4 million

Land re-assessment boosts taxes 14%

Every parcel of land in the City of Charlevoix has been re-assessed, and for the past week the Board of Review has been passing judgment on those valuations for purposes of raising by $1.4 million the land value in the city.

According to Board member, Mayor William Fochtman, the assessed valuation of local property went up in all but a few isolated cases.

In effect, this means property owners now face the prospect of paying an average of 14 percent higher real property taxes.

Fochtman, on the Board with Bill Carey, Chuck England, Bob Sommerville and city attorney John Michael, is strongly in favor of the re-assessment.

"It puts all property in Charlevoix on a fair and equitable basis," he stated, and added that all taxing units, such as a school district or city, will "derive benefit from this action."

Fochtman noted that the state told Charlevoix to increase the valuation by a minimum of $1.4 million. If the city had not done this, the mayor said, the state would have applied a "factor" to raise property values.

This, noted Fochtman, would have supplied the additional monies, but at the same time would have increased the inequities that formerly existed.

Most property owners will not be aware of the specific dollar increase to their property until the city issues its June tax bills.

Values changed by the city Assessment Department do not, by law, require notification of the owners. Only property owners whose land values were changed by the Board itself will receive notification.

Fochtman stated that very few values were adjusted by the Board.

CC drive over top

Funds totaling $17,154.41 were contributed during the recent Charlevoix Community Chest drive.

The announcement was made at the group's annual meeting recently.

Cash deposits totaled $15,468.11, while pledges raised $1,686.30. The total raised moved the drive over the 100 percent mark, as the original goal was established at $16,512.

Treasurer Ralph Doan reported the following expenses: stationery, postage, supplies, $281.97; meetings and conferences (delegates to MUF meeting in Lansing), $150; executive secretary's salary, $425; and miscellaneous expenses, $15.50. Campaign expenses totaled $872.47.

Doan reported a balance as of December 31, 1968, of $16,379.52.

Churches plan Biafran drive

A campaign to raise funds for the Biafran refugee relief was initiated last week at the Charlevoix Ministerial Association meeting.

Member churches of the association, including St. Mary's Catholic Church, will be participating in co-operation with Church World Service and Catholic Relief Services.

Funds will be raised through local churches and personal contributions. The proceeds will be distributed through the CROP program.

The Kiwanis Club is serving as a receiving agency through their treasurer Robert Burns or contributions may be made at either of the local banks.

Farmers' Week opens March 17

Ed Rebman, Charlevoix County extension director, announced today that the 55th Farmers' Week program will be held at Michigan State University March 17 through 21.

Theme of the event this year is "Science, Cybernetics and the Seventies".

Programs have been planned in the fields of agriculture, family living, 4-H youth, natural resources, marketing, community development and others.

Complete programs are available from the County Extension office in Boyne City at no charge.

Susan A. Pearl engaged to wed

The engagement of Susan Ann Pearl, daughter of Robert O. Pearl and the late Mrs. Pearl, to Phillip Frederic Bowman, U.S.A.F., has been announced.

Both are seniors at Grand Valley State College, from which they will graduate in June.

He is associated with the Civic Theater Group in Grand Rapids, and both are with the Grand Valley Theater Group.

A June 20 wedding is planned.

Coho To Make Spring Scene!

By Tom Andrews

The ice is out—and the coho are in!

That's the situation a few hundred thousand fishermen in northern Illinois and Indiana, southern Wisconsin and Michigan are anticipating sometime during April, 1969.

With dreams of the fast and furious action of Spring, 1968, still fresh in our minds, a lot of us are already putting our tackle boxes in order. With a little square of emery cloth, we're cleaning and sharpening our hooks. Hopefully, we're also taking stock of those shiny artificials that are most likely to take Lake Michigan's newest, most exciting "tiger": the coho salmon.

Last year, I wrote about three of the sure-fire coho lures—the Silver Minnow, Sprite and "Lucky" Lujon. And I've got to admit that at the time my words were written, I hadn't set any weight or length records. In fact, the whole season went by without a real "bragger" coming to net. But I didn't mind—I was too busy hauling in those 3 to 10-pounders!

Having fished in almost all of our states and in more than 30 countries abroad (including, especially, those friendly neighbors that share our continent, Canada and Mexico), I'm inclined to be somewhat outspoken about lures that have produced for me day in and day out, under all sorts of weather conditions, and in both fresh and salt water.

That's one big reason I was so confident the trio of lures mentioned above would work on coho. Each has proved itself on chinook, coho, steelhead and various other sea-run trout and salmon—from the shores and rivers of Oregon and Washington to the tumbling streams of Scotland and Norway.

The Silver Minnow and Sprite, in particular, have been tremendously effective on coho, a school fish with an appetite that's second to none. In Lake Michigan, of course, the coho feeds principally on the alewife. Fortunately, this herring-like fish is plentiful and can be credited with the coho's rapid growth. It'a pale, almost silvery in color, so lures like the Silver Minnow and Sprite, combining a can't-be-imitated swimming action with extremely high visibility, can really look for all the world like an alewife to a hungry coho.

By the way, all Silver Minnows have a weedguard. They need it to dig bass, northerns and other fish out of the weedbeds. But the weedguard will never interfere with a coho strike—and may actually come in handy when you encounter one of those occasional inshore Lake Michigan weedbeds.

Repairs due on Ellsworth gym floor

According to Ellsworth School Superintendent John Jurgensen, the contractor who installed the floor in the gymnasium last summer will be making a return trip this year.

"Poor workmanship" is the term Jurgensen used, as he announced late last week the contractor had agreed to repair the floor.

Board separation in the floor is the prime trouble. In some places, the separations have reached a width of six to eight inches, or large enough to easily step into.

In other portions of the floor, there are indentations where sanding machines were allegedly left for periods of time during construction last year.

The Detroit firm which laid the floor will repair the floor without charge to the school system.

In other business at the recent board meeting, the group approved a journey to Washington, D.C., late in May for the high school's graduating seniors. The superintendent stated the 21 - person group will fly to the Nation's capital from Detroit.

Arthur Ruls, Walter Chellis, Jr., and Dr. Jerome VanDellen were appointed by the board as teacher contract representatives.

The board also approved the use of federal Title 1 funds for a summer reading and enrichment program at the high school.

Annual St. Pat's dinner March 16

The annual St. Patrick's dinner will be held on Sunday, March 16, from noon until 3 p.m. in St. Mary's School. The community is invited to attend this dinner which will feature a choice of ham with raisin sauce or the traditional St. Patrick's Day entree of corned beef.

Tickets will be $7 for an entire family or $1.75 for adults and $.75 for children from five to 12. Pre-schoolers will be admitted free.

The dinner is being sponsored by The Little Flower Guild and by the Altar Rosary Society. Mrs. Francis Left and Mrs. Frank Oleksy are co-chairmen of the event. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Yats will again be in charge of the kitchen.

Other chairmen are: Set-up, Mrs. Eugene Dziedzic; tickets, Mrs. Roy Rank; dessert, Mrs. Louis McKenzie; bread, Mrs. Ralph Doan; posters, Fritz Allard; hostess, Mrs. Donald Berlage; clean-up, Maurice Cudd; salad bar; Mrs. Lester Umlor, and soliciting, Mrs. Ed Buday.

Better Homes & Gardens on College Financing
Reprinted From Better Homes & Gardens March 1969 Issue
"Life insurance also can do two jobs in your savings program. First, it gives you a systematic, semi-compulsory way to save cash you'll need for college. Seond, it assures you that the money will be there even if you aren't.
A $10,000 whole life policy taken out at age 30 will cost about $190 a year. After 10 years, it will have cash value of about $1,300. After 15 years, the cash value runs about $2,100. With a waiver of premium clause, the policy will continue in force--and the cash value will continue to increase--even if you become disabled. And, of course, if you die, the policy pays the face value."
Jim Marshall at the Charlevoix Agency and American Community Mutual are prepared to help you begin this sound plan of savings and protection.

Blue and Gold fete hosts record crowd

Approximately 250 Cub Scouts, their families and leaders formed the largest single gathering in the history of the Scouting program in Charlevoix for the recent Blue and Gold dinner at the high school.

Eight Scout Dens were joined by families, Den Mothers, members of the sponsoring Kiwanis Club, Scout committee members and other guests for the event.

Highlights of the evening for the Scouts were presentation of awards and a program about the Steelhead, the locally - based boat of the Department of Natural Resources Fishery Station.

Leon V. Moffett of the Fishery Department station told the gathering of the Steelhead's work and general facts about the department.

Cubs earning awards since the last Pack meeting included Randy Wells, one gold and three silver arrows on his Wolf badge; Tom Fowler, Bear badge and one gold arrow; Chris Hanna, Bear badge; Stephen Stephan; Wolf badge.

Tim Raymer, one gold and two silver arrows on a Bear badge; Greg Loper, Wolf badge and one gold arrow; Bucky Bradley, one gold and one silver arrow for the Wolf badge and the Bear badge; Lee Begrow, one gold and one silver arrow for his Bear badge; Matt Doan, three silver arrows for his wolf badge and a gold arrow for his Bear badge; Chris Begrow, Den Chief, rope.

Don Sonnenberg, Bobcat badge; Michael Lewis, Wolf badge; Clay Patrie and Gilbert, Bobcat badges; Bruce Avery, Gold arrow for his Bear badge; Swain Smith, Wolf badge.

Webelos: Tim Hanna and Danny Edwards, Citizens awards; Ken Paul, Sportsman award; Terry Lowis, Outdoorsman award.

Weblo group members presented the colors and led the Pledge of Allegiance, under the direction of William Palmer. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen offered the invocation.

Mrs. Robert Tollas led group singing. The meeting closed with the singing of America.

Mr. & Mrs. Klaus R. Rosenthal

Rosenthal, Whitely wed in Church of God rite

Penney Lynn Whitley became the bride of Klaus R. Rosenthal in a candlelight ceremony at the Church of God February 22.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Whitley and Mr. and Mrs. David Rosenthal.

The wedding was performed by Rev. George Majors. Linda Gill was the organist, and Ken Boss was the soloist.

The bride chose a floor length gown of organza over net trimmed in chantilly lace with a long train of organza and chantilly lace. A headpiece of petal pearl flowers secured her shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white carnations.

Faye Whitley, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a pink lace and tulle gown with a lace train and shoulder length veil with bow hairpiece. Bridesmaids Helen Kerr and Rita Rosenthal wore identical gowns in blue.

Herbert Friske assisted the bridegroom as best man. Ray Anderson and Ray Whitley were groomsmen.

A reception followed at the fellowship Hall. Assisting were Vicky Gustafson, Jo Ann Powell and Debra Sarasin.

The couple left on an extended wedding trip to Florida and the Southern states.

Wedding guests were present from Redford, Roseville, Detroit, East Jordan and Wisconsin.

Seniors plan government day

Seniors from Charlevoix and Ellsworth are preparing for Government Day to be held in Boyne City, March 31.

This preparation includes inviting approximately 50 resource persons to attend the day-long program which is designed to give a better understanding of governmental activities and problems.

At a recent planning session, government teachers and senior class representatives met to formulate plans and designate responsibilities.

Stanton Todd, consultant, Michigan State University, led the planning session and will serve as moderator on March 31. Maurice Dixon, Boyne City government teacher, and Charles Crosser, administrative assistant, Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, will serve as co-chairmen.

In addition to two general sessions, each senior class member and resource person will participate in one of the 13 section meetings where selected governmental operations are examined in detail. The seniors are in complete charge of the section meetings.

Section meeting topics include civil rights, courts, conservation, education, juvenile problems, law enforcement, legislation, local government, taxation and welfare.

Representing Charlevoix High School in the planning session were teacher Max Novak and students Patty Cross, Dana Dinwiddie, Paul Fiedorek, Georgia Lusk, Chuck Pease, Randy Penn, Chuck Terrell and Dan Wieland.

Teacher Vera Ikens joined pupils Vivian Denny, Jay Essenberg, Eldon McPherson, Doug Shooks and Frederich Taylor to form the Ellsworth contingent.

Seaman Heise in Norfolk

USS YORKTOWN--Seaman Clarence P. Heise, Jr., USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Heise, Sr. of Charlevoix, arrived at Norfolk, Va., aboard the anti - submarine warfare carrier USS Yorktown.

The Yorktown returned home after nearly 26 years of service in the Pacific.

Commissioned at Norfolk in April 1943, the "Fighting Lady" joined the U.S. Pacific Fleet to bolster forces in that area during World War II. During the war, the Yorktown and her planes were credited with sinking 118 enemy ships, damaging 329 others, and destroying or damaging more than 2,000 enemy aircraft.

Last Christmas the "Fighting Lady" carried out her final orders as a unit of the Pacific Fleet when she served as the prime recovery ship for the Apollo Eight Lunga Spacecraft and its crew.

Joining the Atlantic Fleet, the Yorktown replaces the decommissioned USS Randolph to add yet another chapter to her long record of service.

3 missionaries at Assembly convention

The Assembly of God Church, 203 East Upright St., is sponsoring its annual Missions Convention beginning this Thursday and continuing through Sunday.

Thursday night at 7:30, Miss Rosa Reineker, missionary to Germany, will tell of her involvement in children's revivals, Bible school teaching and literature translation. Before her missionary service in Germany, Miss Reineker was appointed as a missionary to Ceylon where she served for over 24 years.

Missionary Jerry Parsley will be speaking Friday night at 7:30 and will display slides, large poster photos, and graphic drawings featuring the work of the Assemblies of God in East Pakistan. Parsley and his wife Karen will be engaged in general missionary work during their first term on the field. The couple pastored churches in Warren and Mahnomen, Minnesota, prior to their missionary appointment.

Missionary Howard Hawkes will be speaking at the 11:00 a.m. worship service Sunday. He and his wife Olive have served three missionary terms in Southern Asia. This past term, the Hawkes pastored an English speaking church in Dacca, the capital of East Pakistan; supervised a Bengali church; organized an extensive literature program that included Bible correspondence courses and literature distribution by mail.

Pastor Don Schorsch announced that the public is invited to attend these services.

Elzinga earns Mexico trip

Charles Elzinga, Farm Bureau Insurance Group representative in Charlevoix County, has earned the firm's top sales designation of All American and will be awarded an all-expense-paid trip to Mexico City. Elzinga and his wife will be leaving the last week in March.

With accommodations at the Maria Isabel Hotel, the All American will tour Mexico for four days, visiting shrines, archaeological zones, enjoying evenings of entertainment and the spectacle of a Mexican bullfight. Top All Americans will continue on to Acapulco and the El Mirador Hotel for an additional three days of sightseeing and relaxation.

Elzinga gained a birth on the All American team by combining high production in total new premium for 1968 and excellent policyholder service. A Farm Bureau Insurance Group representative for seven years, Elzinga, his wife, Bonnie, and their three children live in Charlevoix.

Farm Bureau Group, a multiple-line firm headquartered in Lansing, operates throughout Michigan in 49 offices staffed by 280 representatives. Policyholders number approximately 165,000.

Obituaries

Mrs. A.M. Drescher

CHARLEVOIX -- Services for Mrs. Anna M. Drescher, 84, who died Monday, March 10, 1969 at the Charlevoix Hospital where she had been a patient for the past two weeks, are pending at Winchester Funeral Home.

She was born Anna Greene on Beaver Island, September 30, 1884 and went to Chicago, Ill. as a young woman. She married Paul Drescher there in 1926. He preceeded her in death in 1957, in Chicago and she returned to Charlevoix to make her home.

Mrs. Drescher was a member of St. Mary's Church.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Andrew Gallagher, of St. James, Beaver Island and a brother, Edwin Greene, of Charlevoix.

Funeral services will be held at the Winchester Funeral Home Wednesday, March 12 at 10:00 A.M.

Burial will be in the Holy Cross Cemetery, St. James, Mich.

The Rosary was recited 8:00 P.M. Tuesday.

The body was at the Winchester Funeral Home where friends could call.

James D. Coulter

CHARLEVOIX -- Services for James D. Coulter, 42, vice-president and general merchandise manager of the J.L. Hudson Co., in Detroit, who died unexpectedly at his home in Birminghan, will be 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at St. Stephens Episcopal Church, in Troy. Burial will be in White Chapel Cemetery. The body is at the Bell Chapel, William R. Hamilton Co., 820 E. Maple-ave., Birmingham.

Coulter was found dead in his bed at his Birmingham home Sunday morning, a victim of an apparent heart attack. A University of Michigan graduate, Coulter had been with Hudson's for 20 years.

He is survived by his wife, Linda; two sons, James and Robert; two daughters, Julie and Janet, all at home and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Coulter, of Charlevoix and a brother, Donald, of Traverse City.

THEY KEPT FAITH IN GOD AND MAN!

The sculptor has reproduced many characteristics in the Pioneer Mother Statue. Courage, resoluteness, fortitude show in this work of art. Only the kind of people that are depicted in this statue could have carved a nation out of a vast wilderness as they did. They had one other characteristic not brought out by the sculptor's skill and art. They had faith, faith in themselves and faith in a higher power.

In spite of hardships, that would have staggered most of us today, they kept their faith. They held onto it in spite of everything. The pioneer mother took along with her a determination which enabled her to have a sustaining aid. No sooner had her home been erected than she and her husband began to see to the erection of a church to meet their needs.

The church which sustained the pioneers in their new homes is worth just as much to you. Are you realizing its benefits?

Tranquility is hallmark of Coulter home

THE NEW ENGLAND Colonial house of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Coulter of Park Avenue in Charlevoix.

THE FIREPLACE in the Coulters' living room is banked by shelves of books of every category. In front of the fireplace is a Moslem prayer rug and to the right is a table from India.

THE DINING ROOM is a room in which to dine graciously. Polished woods, sparkling crystal and white damask are appropriate for this room.

Homes of Charlevoix
by PAT BEGROW

by Pat Doyle Begrow

The traditional architecture of the colonial residence reflected an atmosphere of tranquility and comfort that was a hallmark of colonial American homes and can be found today in Charlevoix in the charming New England colonial house of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Coulter.

The balanced design of the center entrance colonial is continued in this house with the additional embellishment of a spacious sun porch and the unrivaled beauty of a Lake Michigan location.

The living room is on the left of the center hall and stretches from the front of the house to the back. Across the back of the living room there is a large picture window affording a view of Lake Michigan framed by a few birch trees. This room is so large that a grand piano and an antique melodian are lost in it.

In front of the fireplace there is a woven Moslem prayer rug which the Coulters have placed in the traditional eastern direction. Close by it is a delicately carved Indian table which is collapsible. This table was one given to Mr. Coulter's aunt who was a medical missionary and practiced many years in India. The table was given to her by a grateful patient and now enhances the Coulters' living room.

From the living room there is a door leading to spacious porch. This porch was once only a screened porch, but the Coulters have glassed it in so that it is usable for many more months of the year; yet during the summer it can be opened so the Lake Michigan breezes can blow through. This is a comfortable room with books, driftwood and sketches of northern scenes. The back of the living room fireplace is stone and rises against the only solid wall of this porch adding interest to the room.

Where the colors in the living room were soft beige and green tones the colors used on the porch are brilliant blues, perhaps to compliment the bright sunshine reflected off Lake Michigan.

To the right of the center hall is the dining room. This room is traditional colonial, elegant and comfortable. The dining room set is mahogany, and Mrs. Coulter did needle-point seats for each of the chairs. The background of each is blue, but each floral center is different.

Behind the dining room is the kitchen breakfast room and pantry. From the kitchen is a backstairs, a handy feature for any house.

The Coulters have five bedrooms and use them all during the summer months when their children and grandchildren visit. During most of the summer, they have a houseful of young guests.

Mr. Coulter has a paneled room in the basement which he uses as a study. It has shelves of marvelous books and a magnificent floor standing globe. During the summer months he often shares it with his grandchildren, for on hot days it can be a cool room in which to play.

The Coulter House is a place where three or four generations of people can live comfortably and happily and often do.

CONGRESSIONAL REPORT

By Phillip E. Ruppe
Our Congressman

Last Thursday I met with Mr. James Minor, of the Department of Transportation, regarding the proposal to move the Upper Peninsula into the Eastern Time Zone. Individual expressions of opinion on the proposal are coming in at a rapid rate.

One problem has developed. The law requires that the Department consider the affect on commerce and transportation created by a zone change. While individuals are expressing opinions, groups and organizations involved in commerce and transportation are not. It is important that the Department hear from Chambers of Commerce, labor unions, businesses and groups involved in transportation to get a total picture of the impact of the proposed zone change. Opinions should be sent to:

Docket Clerk
Office of the General Counsel
Department of Transportation
Washington, D.C. 20590

There also still seems to be confusion over whether Central Time with Daylight in the summer, like Wisconsin, is a legal time in Michigan. It is not. I have carefully analyzed the Uniform Time Act of 1966 and it is clear that an entire state either observes six months of Daylight or an entire state does not. Michigan has elected not to observe six months of Daylight time. I have gone over and over this with Transportation officials and there are no loopholes. There is no legal way a part of Michigan can observe six months of Daylight in the summer.

I am most sympathetic to problems that will be experienced by some of our communities near Wisconsin. I feel the Uniform Time Act is too rigid, and that there should be some local option for areas with special problems. However, I have always tried to be honest with the people of Northern Michigan, even when the news is not the happiest. To pledge to bring about Central Time with Daylight in the summer for our bordering communities would be holding out false hope-- promising something neither I nor the Department of Transportation can deliver. It is a difficult problem, but I am not going to advise any of our border communities to violate Federal law, even when I don't agree with the law. This could only create problems in the future.

Hot water costs less with Gas.

Today you need more hot water than ever before. And you can have it. All the hot water you want. Oceans of it. Hot as you like it. For just pennies a day with Gas.

Only Gas gives you so much hot water for so little. Saves dollars over electricity. In fact, a Gas water heater turns out more hot water in one day than an electric one twice its size.

So, if you've been running short of hot water at your house, check into the new fast-action Gas water heaters at your plumber's or your plumbing and heating dealer's. Or, if you wish, call us. You can have all the hot water you want for less than you'd imagine.

Gas makes the big difference . . . costs less too!

Drop 47-41 verdict in Dist.

Rayders fall to Boyne City

Charlevoix High School opened and closed post-season tournament play last Thursday in Boyne City, dropping a 47-41 verdict to the home court Ramblers.

For the Rayders, it concluded a less than spectacular season.

Boyne City put the game out of reach early, piling up a 12-4 first period lead. The local quintet had the shots, but was unable to hit the hoop.

Rayder shots from the floor found the mark only once in the opening stanza.

Charlevoix rebounded to outscore the Ramblers by one in the second period to cut the margin to 22-15 at the half, but coach Carry's dribblers turned to stone in the third quarter, managing to find the mark for just six points, while Boyne City iced the contest with 15.

From that point, the only question was the final point spread. The Rayders, who defeated Boyne City in both regular season meetings, came on with 20 points in the final eight minutes, but it was not enough.

Two players carried the scoring load for Charlevoix. Bruce Meggison and Stewart Coleman hit for 13 points each. Between them they accounted for 10 of the Rayders' 15 field goals. Coleman was perfect from the foul line, netting all five of his attempts.

Both teams hit 11 of 18 charity tosses, but Boyne City connected with 18 field goals, while Charlevoix closed with 15, seven of them coming in the final stanza.

The Rayders ended the season with a 6-11 mark. However, three CHS players were included among the top scorers in the MHSC. Coleman finished eighth in the scoring derby with 225 regular season points, good for a 14.1 average.

Other CHS players in the top 20 were Lieberman with 190 points and a 12.7 average, and Meggison who scored 167 points for a 10.4 average.

Bruce Meggison ended a fine season with the Red Rayders Tuesday night scoring 13 points. Meggison is one of the finest sophomore basketball players to come out of Charlevoix in recent years. He is a potential selection for this years all conference team. Courier photo by Dan Vreeland.

Area teams move to Regionals

When the smoke cleared from tournament action this past weekend, several local teams managed to keep up with the rugged tournament pace, and advance to regional play this week. Locally, Ellsworth, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Cheboygan, and St. Ignace won district titles.

But for the Red Rayders and Petoskey, the road came to a dead end. Even Central Lake folded in the D finals.

The Rayders were scratched from further competition by the same old team that did it last year--Boyne City, 47-41. Petoskey, the once supurb Class B giant, and holders of a splendid 17-1 mark fell to Cheboygan, 74-72. The Northmen had previously defeated Cheboygan twice during the regular season.

Ellsworth (11-6) advanced to regional play in Traverse City this week against a strong Kingsley team (19-1). Kingsley's only loss came against Manistee Catholic Central, a Class C giant. Waiting anxiously for the winner of this game will be Boyne Falls (11-11).

Other teams in this tournament include Atlanta (13-7), who will face Frankfort (13-5), with the winner facing Suttons Bay (18-2).

From this angle, it looks like Suttons Bay will be facing Kingsley for the championship, with the winner a toss-up.

In the Class C Regional at Grayling, Grayling (16-3) will face Traverse City St. Francis (10-9) on Wednesday. The opening round will pit Boyne City (6-12) against a weak team from Standish-Sterling (6-13).

Both teams have nearly identical records, but the Ramblers play in stronger competition, and they hope this will make the difference.

On Thursday night, the winner of last night's Boyne-Standish game will tangle with a strong Shepherd team (16-3). The championship game is slated for Saturday night.

Up in Marquette, the kingpins of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference, St. Ignace (16-1) will be highly favored to cop their first United Peninsula championship ever.

The Saints must defeat Ontonagon (14-6) then face the winner of the Crystal Falls (13-8) vs. Houghton (13-4) game. The championship game is slated for a Saturday morning.

For the Cheboygan Chiefs, things will be sort of rocky. Finishing the district tournaments by defeating Petoskey, 74-72, they now travel to Mt. Pleasant for their regional competition. The strong team here appears to be Oscoda (17-2) and likely champion.

But who looks at records when tournament time comes? Let's throw them out the window and play basketball, and perhaps we in Northern Michigan can find a state champion in our midst.

It's been a very long time since we had a winner, the last one coming in 1929 with Harbor Springs. And that's been 40 years.

In the Open

Days are longer, sunshine brighter and people keep talking about spring. A proper time to sift through the contents of a catch-all drawer filled with outdoor items. Preparing for a possible spring desk-cleaning.

The joys of outdoor sport are of four kinds; planning, participating, recollection--plus fantasy. Imagining trips that will never take place. Acquiring, in your mind, costly gear and equipment that you know you'll never buy.

An item from the clutter is from Quebec, describing, in both French and English, "waterfowl hunting and fishing on a scale beyond belief" from camps on James Bay, where 2,000 Cree Indians, encouraged by the provincial government, guide sportsmen from comfortable camps. There is excellent wildfowl hunting--snow geese, blue geese, Canadas--and superb trout fishing, accessible by short plane hops. The tab is $50 a day, plus transportation. Baggage limited to 40 pounds. Tote your own sleeping bag. Hunting season, Sept. 1 to Oct. 15. Three days is the minimum recommended for a hunting trip. For the average Michigan sportsman, a James Bay trip is something to dream about in front of a fireplace.

School budget

A major part in the proposed budget concerns a "materials center". Milligan asserted that "no single project is more important to the development of the school into an outstanding educational institution."

Basically, a materials center presents students and faculty with modern learning materials and teaching aids such as library books, movie projectors, film strips, and cassettes.

Estimates to the cost of this facility ranged as high as $170,000, but Milligan stated that the center could be put together over a five - year period for $135,000.

The Board then proposed the 1 mill levy, a portion of which would be used to establish the center.

In other business, the Board heard Del Terrill speak of the Community School Concept. Terrill stated the community school should have an advisory committee to guide the program and work with the director.

Guidelines for the relatively new concept have been minimal, and Terrill said the time has arrived to turn the job over to a fulltime director. When asked by the Board, he said he would be interested in continuing as director, but on a fulltime basis.

The Community School received a $2,500 grant this year from the Mott Foundation. Should it become a fulltime program next year, the Mott grant would increase to $3,500.

Terrill stated that approximately 13 persons would receive high school diplomas in the program this year. He added that 192 residents are enrolled in courses for the spring semester.

The Board discussed priorities for remodelling and equipping the middle grade building. It was noted that requirements of the fire marshal and electrical inspector must be met, and certain pieces of equipment should be purchased.

The board also approved installation of communications equipment at four stations which were omitted from the original specifications. Approximate cost of including the teachers' lounge, the furnace room, lunch room and multi - purpose room in the system totals $350.

Election inspectors for the April 7 election were appointed. They include Mrs. Arnold Copeland, Mrs. Franklin Cellner, Mrs. John Fratrick, Mrs. Gerald Left, Mrs. Clyde Cunningham, Mrs. Ronald Swanson, Mrs. Irene Seymour, Mrs. Vane Smith, Mrs. Richard Donaldson, Mrs. John Stebe and Mrs. Marvin Sugden.

language and customs."

When Linda returns to Charlevoix she hopes to apply her overseas experiences to understanding people better and to appreciating the United States a little more. Last summer, Cheryl Kenney and Tom Anderson went to Finland on the exchange program.

David Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hess, will spend the summer months in Germany. Dave feels that Germany is the most exciting place. "It holds a variety of interests, old customs, and famous places. Germany was also one of the centers of history."

Dave feels the best part in going will be taking off from Detroit and landing in a foreign country with a new and different life before you. He thinks the worst part is trying to get everything organized for the trip.

Dave hopes to learn as much as he can while in Germany and to see the parts of the country one always reads about.

When Dave leaves Germany to come home he hopes he'll be leaving the people there with a better picture and understanding of American youth."

This will be followed by a panel discussion of County Equalization, also moderated by McGuire, with Glen Hoopfer, director of the Antrim County Equalization Department, and Drew Young, of the State Tax Commission, as panelists.

After lunch there will be a discussion of Law Enforcement. D. Hale Brake, director of the Education Division of MSAS, will act as moderator. The panel will consist of Maj. John N. Brown of the Michigan State Police; Harvey C. Varnum, prosecuting attorney of Charlevoix County; Richard L. Zink, sheriff of Emmet County; and Ernest H. Kraus, chief of police of Petoskey.

Real Cost of Insurance

NEW YORK—In real terms, the cost of basic automobile liability insurance actually has declined, the Insurance Information Institute reports. Based on the median national family income in each of the respective years, the cost was equal to 1.38 per cent of annual income in 1947 and to 1.03 per cent of annual income in 1967.

FELLOW CITIZENS:

Once again the music department of the Charlevoix Public Schools is sponsoring an important musical event for Charlevoix. The Michigan State Symphonic Wind Ensemble, conducted by Dr. Harry Begian, will be appearing next Monday evening, March 17, at 8:00 p.m. in the High School gymnasium.

The appearance of this select 60 piece band will continue the effort to bring outstanding university groups to our city.

I hope you will support this effort by attending the concert. Tickets will be available at the door.

I can promise that it will be an unforgettable musical experience.

Sincerely,
Clarence C. Odmark

Let's save youth, money

One of the most urgent problems confronting America today is that of our problem youth. Just a few short years ago, the problem was confined largely to major cities across our nation. Today, no community escapes the dilemma.

Children's problems are serious and alarming. They effect the present and the near future. The small city is no longer immune.

The cost of such problem children to our moral and financial economy is staggering. The most effective immediate and long range strategy to combat these problems is one of prevention rather than cure.

As noted elsewhere in the Courier, if we forget the moral costs, the financial consideration alone is tremendous. All of us pay for the problem youth, whether or not we are directly related to the problem.

Here is where a Charlevoix County chapter of Big Brothers of America would be a productive tool of the community.

Every responsible study made clearly reveals the fact that maladjusted children come most frequently from homes in which there is no father or adequate adult male figure.

These same studies show that the incidence of juvenile problems among boys is three time as great as it is among girls.

The best method of preventing problems is to reach fatherless boys before irreparable damage has been done. A Charlevoix County chapter of Big Brothers would be dedicated to helping such boys develop into sound citizens.

And, there is no doubt of the need for such an organization in the area. Studies made so far indicate at least 65 boys in the county would benefit from the program RIGHT NOW.

The Big Brother movement has proven its effectiveness in hundreds of cities and counties, both large and small, across the country.

Why is the Big Brother concept important to Charlevoix County? Two basic reasons... it can save the boy...and the taxpayer.

One prime reason for the program's success is the highly personal, individualized friendship that develops between one boy and one man--a fatherless boy is given the opportunity to further his growth and development through friendship with a man he can admire and imitate.

The Courier fully supports the renewed attempt to establish a Big Brothers facility in Charlevoix County. Should it help but one boy, the entire effort will have been worthwhile.

Guest editorial
Love... and a King

(Guest editorial from the pages of the Northland Press.)

Once upon a time there was an old king who wanted to be loved, more than anything else in the world. He did everything he could to make the people love him. He helped the poor and educated the ignorant and cured the sick and spread largesse throughout the land. He even sent forth his wife, the queen, to beautify the countryside.

Unfortunately, the country became involved in a little war in a little land far, far away. The king, basking in the love of his people, told them not to worry, he would lead them to a glorious and easy victory in the finest traditions of their country. And the people, loving and believing, cheered lustily.

But the little land far away, unbeknownst to the king, lay under a spell. No matter how many soldiers or how much gold the king poured into the war, he couldn't win it. And, being proud, he couldn't lose it. Moreover, he couldn't afford it.

The people grew uneasy. "Victory is just around the corner," the king assured them. It wasn't true. "I can fight this war with one hand and distribute largesse with the other," he said. It wasn't true.

"Anybody who doesn't love this war doesn't love our country," he cried. It wasn't true.

Soon, no one believed him at all. Worst of all, no one loved him. He couldn't leave his castle, except in the dead of night under guard. Young knights hatched plots to seize his crown.

A good fairy whispered in his ear, and the next day, the old king renounced his throne. It hurt him to hear how the people cheered. But as time passed and the knights squabbled and the war dragged on, the mood of the people slowly changed.

No one attacked the old king anymore, for he was without power. No one questioned his decisions anymore, for he didn't make any. No one envied him his crown, because he didn't have one.

The day came when people remembered only the good things he had done. They laughed at his sallies and applauded his crustiness and began to venerate him as an elder statesman.

They came to love him once again. And, as that was what the old king wanted more than anything else in the world, he lived happily ever after.

Letter to the editor

Dear Sir:

As a former Pine Point resident and property owner, I was gratified to hear that Pine Point has finally risen up against the high-handed treatment they have suffered for years from the property owners along the lake front. Their infringements on the public beach area there has been uncontested too long.

Moreover, this is not simply a dispute between the two factions on Pine Point. . . .it is a dispute that affects the rights of every Charlevoix resident. . . .whether he lives on the Point or not.

The loss of public property in one small corner of the state soon threatens the loss of public rights everywhere. Soon it may be someone in your own back yard.

I lend my full support to the efforts of those residents on Pine Point who simply wish to enjoy the beautiful lakeshore privileges to which they are genuinely entitled.

Sincerely,
L.H. Moyer

Dear Editor:

I have read with great interest, your articles concerning the financial status of the Intermediate School District.

Approximately three or four years ago, I personally sat in a meeting of the P.T.A. at the Central Lake School, when we were told in lengthy detail what a "good deal" the Intermediate School Board was-how economically it could be operated and how very essential it was.

If a business today operated in the red as the Intermediate School Board is-what kind of business would we end up with?

It will be interesting to see just how long the people can stand this newly created business that requires such a huge amount of money. People as a majority continually complain about taxes and yet vote approval of a program like this. It supposedly, started out as a low cost-public spirited - operation of an administrative group over-seeing our education. And now look at the results thus far!

If people only could or would see how their money is being spent and for what? It appears that an un-reasonable amount of tax dollars are being spent-with few benefits being derived.

It is very evident that some newly created and lucritive offices are costly to those of us who must pay!

Sideburns..and my daughter

by Jim Fitzgerald

It was my 12-year-old teenage daughter who complained that I am the only man in the nation who is not letting his sideburns grow.

There is a reason. I have queer sideburns. So far, only my barbers have known for sure. Why should I let the whole world see?

Honest. I think those other guys look great with hair down their cheeks. They look like Scarlett O'Hara is waiting for them to come home-and they're not sure they'll go, the dogs. But such cavalier grooming is not for me. You see, ever since I can remember, I've had this thing. . .

"Hey Mac," said my barber to the 2 other barbers, "look at this kid. I never saw anything like it before. His hair grows straight down the left side and straight back on the right. Run across the street and tell Curley to c'mere. I want him to see this."

Why don't they go out and sell tickets, I thought. I didn't say it. I was only 8 years old. Instead, I cried and blew my nose into Mac's pin stripe sheet.

And that's how it's been all my life. I need a haircut on the left side 2 weeks earlier than I need it on the right. My left ear is covered with shaggy hair while my right ear is bare. That right ear has been washed twice as much as the other one.

When haircut money was hard to come by, I naturally didn't go to the barber until the right side needed it. In the meantime, Mother had me wear a peaked cap tilted rakishly over my left ear. In school, capless, I did my first elbow-bending. I put my left elbow on my desk and rested the left side of my head in the palm of my left hand. I even maintained this protective coloration while walking between classrooms. People stared but I told them I had an earache.

The ideal arrangement, of course, would have been to get 1 haircut in 2 installments. For a $1 haircut, I'd pay 50 cents for the left side on the first Saturday of the month, and the other 50 cents for the right side the third Saturday. But I could never find a barber to go along with this. Generally speaking, they are a surly lot. On their feet too much, I guess.

I have been in several friendly barbershops in my time. When I was a teenager, my favorite trimmer was named Milliken. He had several pool tables in the rear of his establishment. A guy didn't mind waiting to get his haircut if he could pass the time playing 9-ball. The only trouble was that I frequently lost and, by the time Milliken said I was "next," the haircut money was gone. I would pull the cap over both ears, and have 2 earaches, until the next payday.

After World War II, when I was a crusty veteran, I discovered the barbershop in the ancient Harrington Hotel in Port Huron. It was across a basement hall from the taproom. A guy could wait his turn at the bar. I used to go downtown for a haircut on Saturday morning and get back home Sunday morning. I kept generously allowing people to go ahead of me. "I'm in no hurry," I'd explain, "I'm waiting for my right side to catch up with my left side."

But I digress. I started to explain to my daughter why her square old man doesn't let his sideburns grow. It is because I would look lopsided. The left sideburn would grow down toward my chins while the right sideburn grew across my ear. To compensate, I would have to lower the heel on my right shoe. It is bad enough that I must buy a whole haircut when I only need half of it. I can not also afford special shoes.

Because she started it all, I am going to make my daughter read all this wisdom. And she'll say, "Boy, what a dumb column."

Well, I can't save the world every week. Onward and Upward.

'Private eyes' wanted!

Wanted! 100 or more private eyes! No experience necessary. Satisfaction guaranteed!

The Friends of the Library are hot on the trail of out-of-print books and pamphlets. Subject--early Michigan stories, with special emphasis on Northern Michigan.

The Michigan Historical Collection is already one of the most popular attractions of the Charlevoix Library, according to Miss Dorothy Olmstead, chief librarian. Many residents and summer visitors spend hours in the reading room, leafing through illustrated books which describe in great detail the trials of voyageurs, the adventures and life in old lumbering camps and the thrills that took place aboard old sailing vessels.

The Historical Collection was started many years ago by Earl D. Babst, summer visitor to the Chicago Club. At the time of his death in 1967, his family and friends established a fund so this collection would be perpetuated in his name.

But, rare books are not easy to track down, nor are comparatively recent out-of-print editions, and that's why we need our own "private eyes."

Here's how you can help. Check your own book shelves for any out-of-print books or pamphlets either written by Michigan authors or about our area. Talk to your friends and neighbors and ask them to look through their shelves. Browse through second-hand book stores, and talk to second-hand dealers.

Then contact Miss Dorothy Olmstead at the library. She has a long list of the most "wanted" books, compiled with the advice of Dr. Robert M. Warner, director of the University of Michigan Historical Collection. Every book donated to or purchased by the Memorial Fund has an attractive book plate placed inside the cover, giving the name of the donor.

Miss Olmstead would particularly like to complete the set of Michigan Historical Magazines. Missing from the set are the following issues: Sept., 1962; December, 1965; Fall, 1968 and Winter, 1968. The index volumes for 1956, 1961, 1962, 1966, 1967 and 1968 are also missing.

While gradually adding to rare and out-of-print book collection, the Friends are keeping up with the current books written by Northern Michigan authors or books written about this section of the country.

Charlevoix already has attracted a number of professional writers, including William Ratigan, Rev. Harold Kohn, Ellen Williamson, Bernice Wexstaff, James Elliott, Edith Gilbert and Fredicka Shumley Smith.

One of the aims of the Friends is to accumulate a rich treasury of local reference materials that future historians of the area may draw upon.

It's not difficult to keep abreast with current publications--this is being done--but the need for sleuthing on the part of all interested persons in order to add to the fine historical collection of Michigan material now available in the Charlevoix Library continues.

Among the books sought by the Friends are: Vinegar Pie and Other Tales of the Grand Traverse Region by Al Barnes; Timberland Times by Eugene Davenport; Chippewa Village by Vernon W. Kletz; Songs of Michigan Lumberjacks by Earl C. Beck; Michigan Copper and Boston Dollars by William B. Gates.

The Massacre of Old Fort Mackinac by Raymond McCoy; Pontiac and the Indian Uprising by Howard Peckham; The Life of William Woodbridge by Charles Lanman; and Every House a Frontier by Floyd R. Dain.

Obituary

Mrs. Daniel C. Bacot

CHARLEVOIX -- Funeral services for Mrs. Daniel C. Bacot, 84, were held at St. Mary's church Saturday, March 8, 1969 with the Rev. E. Francis Denay officiating. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Rosary was recited at the Winchester Funeral Home at 8 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Bacot, who had been spending the winter months in southern Michigan, died Tuesday at St. Joseph's hospital in Mt. Clemens where she had been a patient for two weeks.

Born at Atwood in Antrim county June 20, 1884, the former Inex M. Seymour was married to Mr. Bacot at Atwood in 1907 and lived in Charlevoix until 1921 when they moved to Flint. They returned here in 1946 to make their home. Mr. Bacot preceded her in death in July 1950. She was a member of St. Mary's church and its Rosary Altar Society and the Senior Citizens.

Surviving are a son, William J. of Owosso; a daughter, Mrs. Hilda McGuire of Madison Heights; eight grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. John R. Lawrence of Flint.

CHS publishes literary paper

Charlevoix High School's journalism class gave the school's other students an opportunity to display their literary paper named "Poems and Things."

Stories and verse written by the students were compiled and edited by the juniors of the class who are eligible for the editor's position of next year's Crimson Flash.

The finished product was handed out with the regular issue of the Flash. Another issue is slated to come out in the spring.

Students responsible for publishing "Poems and Things" are Chris Carey, editor; Julie Supernaw, co-editor, Tim Anders, Jeanne Smith and David Hess.

Violations Prove Costly

NEW YORK—Nine out of every 10 fatal highway crashes in 1967 involved driving violations, the Insurance Information Institute reports. Accidents attributed to speeding were blamed for 16,700 of the 53,100 fatalities.

Coast Guard drops LAVERS System

The U.S. Coast Guard will no longer operate a merchant ship following system on the Great Lakes.

The announcement was made last week by Rear Admiral W.F. Rea, III, Commander of the Ninth Coast Guard District, whose staff operated the Lake Vessel Reporting System (LAVERS) on a trial basis through the last two months of the 1967 navigation season.

"We have carefully studied the effectiveness of this system with regard to safety of merchant ships on the lakes and have found that the costs incurred by the Coast Guard in operating it have far outweighed the benefits received either by the Coast Guard or the Great Lakes maritime industry," Admiral Rea said.

An outgrowth of the sinking of the Daniel J. Morrell in November, 1966, LAVERS was designed to reduce the length of time a ship could be in danger and no one be aware of it because of a lack of communications.

If a participating vessel failed to check in within four hours of its announced time, the Coast Guard launched a communications search for the vessel.

If still not located by this means, a route search would be conducted by Coast Guard ships and aircraft.

"LAVERS," Admiral Rea said, "has unfortunately placed an awesome burden upon already overworked Coast Guardsmen who might be better engaged in providing services to the marine public."

According to the Admiral, LAVERS was utilized by those vessels operating on the lakes that were best able to care for themselves.

Admiral Rea also noted that LAVERS duplicated systems are already being operated by most vessel operators on the lakes.

"I want to reassure all concerned and particularly those who sail the vessels that the U.S. Coast Guard remains ready to respond to calls for assistance. Vessel managers are reminded that if doubt exists at any time as to the safety of a vessel, our Rescue Coordination Center is manned 24 hours a day. They will initiate a communications search and dispatch Coast Guard aircraft, boats and ships as needed to locate the vessel in question," the Admiral added.

Sherry Holborn on Dean's list

Miss Sherry L. Holborn of 220 Mason St. has been named to the Dean's list at Northern Michigan University, Marquette, for the winter semester.

Undergraduates qualifying for the honor must have attained an academic average of 3.25 out of a possible 4 points, and earned credit in a minimum of three full courses.

Employment shows rise

Charlevoix area industry continues to show steady growth. According to Don Anders, local realtor, the latest figures show almost 750 employees on the payrolls of 20 companies.

"Ten industries have built plants or moved into the Charlevoix area in the last seven years," Anders pointed out.

And, increases in the employment force are keeping pace. Latest figures indicate 745 persons are employed by local producers.

Light manufacturing dominates the region. The majority of plants are in the "medium" size range and produce a wide range of products which make their way to a variety of markets.

The three largest employers (Freedman Artcraft & Engineering, American Mold & Engineering, and Medusa Portland Cement Company), employe 401 persons or 54 percent of the total industrial work force.

Updated figures list the following industries in the area and the number of employed:

COMPANY	EMPLOYEES
Freedman Artcraft & Eng.	165
American Mold & Eng.	146
Medusa Portland Cement	90
Consumers Power Co.	52
Paul-Reed Inc.	45
Lexalite Corporation	44

Exchange student finds life 'fun' in Charlevoix

by Jeanne Mutz

Learning about a new country, its customs and ways of life can be fun, and it is just that for Yvonne Jacob, a sixteen-year-old youth from Ioung City, Uruguay.

Participating in the Youth For Understanding program, Yvonne is spending her months here with Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Dinwiddie, and their daughters, Dana, 17, and Janet, 13.

Yvonne likes living in Charlevoix. Compared to her home town, Charlevoix is considerably smaller. She says her home town is located on an important river in Uruguay and also on one of the main roads which makes it a business area that is continually prospering.

The climate in Charlevoix is also much different from her home. The major difference is snow. Uruguay doesn't have snow and in the winter it only averages about 40 degrees. In the summer it is very hot, averaging about 105 degrees. Yvonne claims this kind of weather is the reason her country has so many beautiful beaches and places where you can spend your vacations.

When asked what she thought was the most unusual and different thing about our country she replied, "In our country there isn't any law that forbids us to drink alcoholic drinks so almost all kids don't drink. Another difference is that we can't drive until we're 18. We can vote, too, when we are that age."

According to Yvonne, the school systems of Uruguay are much different from ours. First of all, she says they go to school from 8 a.m. until 12 a.m. All of the subjects they take are required so they cannot choose them like in our school system. Youths there must go to a preparatory school before they may go to college. They feel this makes it easier for them when they enter college.

In preparatory school, the students must take many more subjects than here. Ivonne took 12 subjects last year: biology, chemistry, physics, history, music, literature, English, French, government, philosophy, mathematics, and art sciences.

She says, "We have to study everyday because the teachers call us to give the lessons. You don't know when they are going to call you."

Testing in Uruguayen schools is also different. Teachers choose a topic and present it to the students. The students then must develop the topic and write as much as they can on it. Yvonne finds that, "If you find more material in other books you can get better grades."

Colleges in Uruguay are considered the best in all South America. Students come from many different countries to study in Uruguay. All schools and colleges are maintained by the government. Students from Uruguay and any other country may attend them without charge.

When Yvonne came to Charlevoix, she Prairie Conference Coach of the Year Deano Davenport.

Davenport named 'Coach of Year'

MT. PLEASANT, Iowa -- Iowa Wesleyan College Coach Dean Davenport, who led the Tiger basketball team to the Prairie Conference championship this year, was named the loop's "Coach of the Year" following a vote last week by conference coaches.

Davenport's squad rolled to a 10-0 conference mark and finished the season with a 20-7 overall record, the best showing of any cage team ever at IWC. This was the Tigers' first year in the Prairie Conference, which includes Blackburn College (Carlinville, Ill.), Greenville College (Greenville, Ill.), Illinois College Jacksonville, Ill.), Principia (Elsah, Ill.) and Rose Polytechnic Institute (Terre Haute, Ind.).

The Tigers advanced to the finals of the N.A.I.A. District Tournament where they bowed to Iowa's Wartburg College, March 3.

Davenport, a graduate of Central Michigan University, was an assistant basketball coach at Petoskey High School (1957-59), and later served as head cage coach at Grant and Traverse City, Michigan.

A native of Charlevoix, Davenport, 34, was an all-stater in basketball and all-conference in football at the local high school in the early 50's. He has been the recreation director for the city of Charlevoix during the past several summers.

Davenport, who also serves as Athletic Director at Iowa Wesleyan, has reorganized the athletic department, helped spearhead the planning for a new athletic complex and started a community Booster Club here.

3 countians are named to board

County Probate Judge John Makel has appointed three persons to the Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board for the coming year.

They are: Edward P. Hansen, 101 W. Lincoln, Charlevoix, as the representative of a municipality; Sherman O. Thomas, East Jordan, at large appointee; and Donovan S. Fox, 115 West Pine, Boyne City, representative of a school district.

In making the appointments, Judge Makel said, "Though too many people give too little thought as to how their property taxes are set, this important subject is most interesting and complex. The little known six member Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board pretty much controls tax rates in what is classified as rural areas.

"Taxes being the life blood of any government or school unit, this board can be, and probably is, considered about the most powerful in the County."

The tax allocation board is responsible for splitting up the state-authorized 15 mill tax limitation between the townships, schools and county. It determines how much of the 15 mills each unit will be allowed to charge its citizens.

Each unit must prove, by way of a true budget, its need for a portion of the 15 mills.

The three appointees will join three other ex-officio members on the board. Other members are the county treasurer, intermediate school district superintendent, and the finance committee chairman of the County Board of Supervisors.

Judge Makel added, "As your Probate Judge, I feel it is my duty to appoint well educated, level-headed, conscientious and sincere persons who are sufficiently versed in local, county, state and national government, altruistically minded and able to express his own ideas. I feel that these are the type of individuals that I have chosen.

"Politics, I contend, should have no bearing on who is selected, nor should this board be bogged down by ideas that prevailed years ago. . I am, and have been, proud to appoint the three members to the Board because of their outstanding qualifications and characteristics," Judge Makel concluded.

Davis pleased by Fochtman appointment

State Representative Robert W. Davis (R-106th District) today expressed his pleasure with Governor Milliken's appointment of Mayor William Fochtman of Charlevoix to the Great Lakes Fishery Advisory Committee.

The committee has the responsibility of advising the Department of Natural Resources on matters dealing with commercial and sport fishing in the Great Lakes.

Fochtman is the second appointee from the 106th District, according to Representative Davis. He joins Richard Hagen of St. Ignace on the nine-member committee.

"I feel that the state of Michigan is indeed fortunate to have an outstanding man like William Fochtman representing our interests on this important committee," Davis said. "Both William Fochtman and Richard Hagen are highly respected members of their communities and have the trust of both commercial and sport fishermen," Davis said.

Representative Davis said the Committee will hold their first meeting sometime during the next six weeks and will probably meet three or four times a year.

Grand Opening at K&A Dodge

The grand opening celebration at K&A Dodge is in full swing, and will continue through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

Ken DePew of K&A, has a variety of specials in effect this week, including price slashes on all cars, trucks and tires in stock. Service specials include front end alignment.

DePew came to Charlevoix from New Jersey last June, and opened for business July 1. He offers a complete line of new and used cars and trucks as well as Goodyear tires.

In addition, K&A has complete garage facilities, equipped to do mechanical and body work.

DePew invites all area residents to register for gifts and to see the large indoor display area and brand new sales room.

City Council remains undecided on Westcourt development plan

Charlevoix City Council heard a plea for a decision from local developer Jim Richey Monday night, but could not give him a definite answer concerning the proposed Westcourt subdivision.

Richey wanted to know if he could continue plans to subdivide a plot bordered by Grant and Carpenter Sts. The proposal calls for federally-subsidized units in the $17,500 price range.

Council told Richey that present plans for the tract are indefinite, as the County Planning Commission has indicated the area may be zoned for light industrial use.

Richey noted that the building season is here, and he must proceed quickly or drop the proposal.

Council will make a decision before its next meeting.

In other business, Council approved changes in the structure of water, sewage, municipal golf course and cemetery lot rates.

Effective April 1, the connection, or tapping, fee will rise to $135. Installation of a "readamatic" meter will be $15 additional, and the price of the first 1,000 gallons of water will be $2. However, the city will allow a 15 percent discount during June, July and August for lawn sprinkling.

Sewage rates also were adjusted by doubling the present minimum charge to $1.60.

Cemetery lots and charges were raised an average of 30 percent, approximately the same as operational costs. Council also approved the recommendation that no artificial flowers be allowed on the grounds.

Though still a bargain, it will cost more to play golf at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course this summer. Course revenue last year was $19,770, but operating costs are rising.

New rates for season tickets are: resident students, $15; non-resident students, $25; single resident, $30; single non-resident, $40; double resident, $45; double non-resident, $55; resident family, $50; and non-resident family, $60.

Rates for non-season ticket holders will be $2 for nine holes, and $3 for 18 holes.

Council considered a request from the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce for free rent on the Chamber building.

"After much deliberation," according to Council members, it was decided not to lower the rent from the present $100 per month.

The City Fathers also received two petitions from property owners to vacate alleys in the city.

Charter boat operation to begin in Charlevoix

Six Muskegon area charter boat operators are moving their base of operations to the Charlevoix - Traverse Bay area to take advantage of the big invasion of coho salmon expected this year, according to Harold "Red" Oosterbaan, secretary of the Great Lakes Charter Service.

Neff Brothers food store will handle charter arrangements in Charlevoix.

According to Bob Neff, the service will be available to residents and tourists for scenic and moonlight cruises and vacation charters as well as fishing charters. "We think these charters will be a big benefit to the area," Neff said, "We haven't had this type of charter service available in quite a few years."

In an interview with Dick Hedges, outdoor editor of the Muskegon Chronicle, Oosterbaan said he was predicting a "banner year for sports fishermen this summer, that is if mother nature will cooperate."

Oosterbaan said he lost considerable business last season because of the unusually warm water at deep depths, high winds, and heavy seas.

"Last year from early spring until late fall my charters took over 600 salmon anywhere from two pounds to 17, with men coming from all over the United States," he said. "I even had some from British Columbia who promised me they'd be back for the bigger ones this summer."

The licensed captains who plan to move north with Oosterbaan are Bob Ryan, Bill Tiolt, Mel Wantz, Jerry Ison and Bill Albrecht. They have secured berths for their boats on the south shore of Round Lake in Charlevoix.

In addition to their charter service, the men operate a fish camp on Hog Island, part of the Beaver archepelago.

In a recently published brochure, they list their rates at $30 a person for a seven hour day; $25 per person for a half day (five hours) and an evening rate of $20 per person (four hours). The Hog Island fish camp rate is $35 per person per day.

"We'll always have one boat stationed in Muskegon while the others will be along the big lake filled with fishermen," Oosterbaan said, adding that if there is a big rush of salmon in any spot they will concentrate their boats "where the action is."

He said the boats will fish for only one species of salmon at a time, since cohos stay in one depth and chinooks in another.

"If the fishing this summer is anything like it was between Muskegon, Whitehall and Ludington, (last summer), it's going to be one whale of a deal," Oosterbaan added.

Belvedere Club's Blue Bell Cottage.

Belvedere Club publishes summer history volume

by Berniee Wextaff

Ninety years of summer resort history in Charlevoix has been encompassed in a current publication compiled by the archives committee of the Belvedere Club, entitled BELVEDERE CLUB, 1878-1968.

Charlevoix citizenry may be justifiably proud that the Belvedere Club remains today the second oldest resort colony in the Northland, antedated only by the Methodist summer resort at Bay View, adjacent to Petoskey.

In fact, it was the success of the Bay View resort, established in 1875, which prompted Charlevoix businessmen of that era to promote a similar venture. When prominent men of the Baptist faith in Kalamazoo were approached on the plan it was quickly sanctioned by such leaders as Kendall Brooks, Doctor of Divinity of Kalamazoo, and Charlevoix's first summer resort association was formed.

Five cottages were constructed on the upper terrace overlooking the harbor lake as well as a boarding house on the lower terrace which gave a panoramic view of Pine Lake (later rechristened Lake Charlevoix).

The boarding house may have been added as an "enticement to the women folk in a persuasive attempt that surcease from household responsibilities would make the arduous annual summer trek more palatable."

It is true that travel facilities were extremely primitive a century ago; Charlevoix Summer Home Association members had three choices however, none of which were blessed with comfort or convenience.

There was the G.R.& I (Grand Rapids and Indiana) from the south with Boyne Falls as the terminal where a stagecoach made scheduled trips to connect with a steam vessel that traveled between Boyne City and Charlevoix. . . Or the Petoskey terminal of the same railway and a subsequent stage coach along the bumpy, sandy road that skirted Lake Michigan shores.

The alternative was one of the several steam vessels such as the CHAMPLAIN which made scheduled trips between Chicago and Michigan ports northward.

With conditions such as these, it is something of a miracle that the resort colony grew and prospered to continue to this day as the Belvedere Club.

Early photographs and paintings show the present resort grounds bare of all trees of appreciable size. Greedy lumbermen had taken a toll of the land beauty, but the skies and waters were blue and inviting and the breezes cooling to those land-locked patrons from the southern section of the state.

Three wells were dug on the resort grounds and the cottagers carried their buckets of drinking water from well to cottage. Water for bathing and cleaning was hauled in barrels by horse and wagon from the harbor.

Family records vary, but it appears that the Blue Bell cottage on the lower terrace, facing what is now Belvedere Avenue, was also one of the first cottages to be constructed. Certainly it is now the oldest cottage with a continuity of family ownership. Oscar M. Allen (grandfather of Glenn Allen who is presently Comptroller of the State of Michigan) is reputed to have built the 11-room cottage in 1876. Allen's great grand-

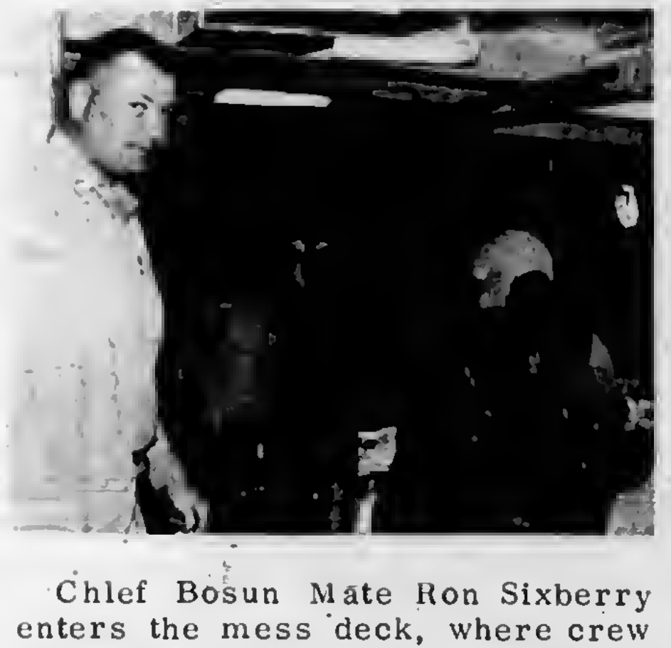
The Coast Guard's U.S.S. Sundew



Chief Bosun Mate Ron Sixberry enters the mess deck, where crew eats, relaxes.

Lt. Commander Len Garrett on the Bridge of the U.S.S. Sundew.

Buoy sinkers rest on Sundew's deck. Weight of sinkers ranges from 2,500 pounds to 5,000 pounds.

Sundew's crew busy during winter

It has been a light winter in some ways for Lt. Commander Len Garrett and the crew of the U.S.S. Sundew, but the busier navigation season is about to begin.

For the Sundew and her crew, winter means general maintenance, ice-breaking and training. "The ice this winter has been light," said Skipper Garrett. "We've only aided one ship, the Mobil Chicago, in Grand Traverse Bay two weeks ago."

So, this winter has been one of the "Bravo" status (at the dock, but prepared to move in between two to six hours).

Garrett stated the Sundew leaves her berth about once a week during the winter months. This is necessary to keep her from freezing to the dock. While out, the crew checks ice conditions in area waters.

When at berth, the Sundew's 42-man crew receives daily training in some phase of the ship's operation. Among the drills conducted, which are designed for the safety of the vessel and her crew, are fire drills, flooding (collision), and man overboard.

WINTER MAINTENANCE

When the navigation season concludes, the crew is busy pulling buoys and storing them for the winter. This duty normally ends just before Christmas.

Phase II of the cold weather operation continues until April 1, when it is time to replace the buoys for another navigation season. Ship maintenance during this period is high on the list of priorities.

"This size ship always has plenty of work to be done," Lt. Commander Garrett said. "In fact, we must establish priorities. It is advantageous to perform the work in the winter, because we have time we can't spare in summer."

In the next couple of weeks, around April 1, efforts will shift to opening the new season. Lighthouses must be opened, residual ice broken, and then the buoys go out. All this will be finished by the middle of May.

"SUMMER" SEASON

One the buoys are placed, the "summer", or navigation, season begins. The next major maintenance period is not scheduled until late July and early August. In the meantime, the Sundew will perform buoy-tending chores, schedule light maintenance and make an appearance or two at civic harbor functions.

In addition, some members of the crew will be called by the "Summer Duty Program", in which they are transferred to temporary duty with a shore station to help with added summer duties, including search and rescue missions.

47 ABOARD

Lt. Commander Garrett leads a crew of five officers and 42 enlisted men, 25 of whom are Petty Officers.

Skipper Garrett ran down the statistics of the enlisted men. "Thirteen of the men are primarily engaged in engineering duties, keeping the plant operating; 17 are involved in deck maintenance, working buoys and housekeeping of the ship; four are quartermasters, concerned with navigation, operating the pilot house, charts, standing watches and handling all communications."

Captain Garrett noted that when at berth, the crew is divided into three sections, with one group on the vessel at all times.

SUNDEW STORY

The Sundew, or WLB 404 as she is known to the Coast Guard, was built in DeLuth, Minnesota, and commissioned in August 1944. She is 180 feet long, and 37 feet wide at her beam.

Powered by a diesel-electric system, two, eight cylinder diesel engines turn generators which provide electricity for an 1,800 h.p. Westinghouse motor. The ship has a 12.5-foot draft.

Carrying 67,000 gallons of fuel, the Sundew also stores 11,000 gallons of water. Top speed is 16.5 m.p.h., and she cruises at 15 m.p.h.

To sum it up, the Sundew is a busy ship, both summer and winter. Obviously, she contributes to the economy and safety of the community.

Lt. Ron MacFee, Sundew's Executive Officer, attends to desk duties.

Tree of Liberty Is Watered by Blood of Martyrs

(Ed. note: the following essay was brought to our attention by William Dewey, history teacher at Ellsworth Community School. It was written by one of his students, junior Sharmon Boss)

by Sharmon Boss

A tree is the perfect symbol for liberty. Liberty is long-lasting, beautiful, and something that grows without us noticing it.

Liberty, like a tree, is hardly noticeable as it first starts growing. The seed of liberty is very small, first growing, unnoticed, in the minds of a small group of people. Before it is noticed, it has already developed roots to hold it firm.

But, in order for it to grow, it must have nourishment and water, as does any other tree. Only the tree of liberty is not watered as an ordinary tree, but by the blood of martyrs. Throughout history, people have fought for liberty, and have even given their lives for the previous freedoms that we in America often take for granted.

The tree of liberty is rare but majestic, growing strong and straight and stretching its leafy branches toward the sky. Without leaves, trees couldn't exist. People who have liberty are the leaves of the liberty tree. They are responsible for keeping it alive by respecting, instead of abusing, their rights and privileges.

The tree of liberty cannot branch out and be sturdy without deep-set roots stabilized by the ground in which it grows. This ground is history and the people who have preserved liberty and kept it alive.

The soldiers who fight for liberty are the bark of the tree of liberty protecting it from the storms of opposition. They stop the aggressors seeping into insecure countries and weathering their whole economy.

Throughout history the tree of liberty has been growing in different parts of the world. At times, its existence had depended on people who were willing to die to keep it alive. Two World Wars have been fought to preserve liberty in Europe. Martyrs have been the pure, clean water which has enabled liberty to be developed in our own nation. Our Revolutionary War won our independence, and our Constitution ensures the freedom which is the essence of our democracy. The Civil War was fought for equality and freedom for Negroes. Sometimes, I wonder if it isn't still being fought, and sometimes I wonder who is winning. The war in Vietnam may determine whether the tree of liberty can stand the beatings people give it. In every way to preserve liberty men have given their lives for this cause. What better water could there be for the tree of liberty?

I sincerely hope that the symbolic tree of liberty may never be split as a great tree can be split by lightning. I think that the lightning which could split this remarkable tree would have to be the highly developed weapons of the world.

I hope that the tree of liberty may not die for a disease like those that can kill even the greatest of trees. The disease that the tree of liberty could die from is apathy. Decay from within has caused the downfall of the great civilizations in history. Let's not let it happen again. Let's fight for it every day so that it may be preserved as one of our greatest resources.

MBT issues new report on service

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company reported today that in 1968 it spent more money than in any previous year "to make telephone service more useful and more valuable to more people."

William M. Day, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said in the company's annual report that last year's record $210 million construction program represented an intensified effort to keep up with the public's ever-increasing communications needs. The money went for new buildings, cable, microwave systems, switching apparatus "and for making service generally faster and better."

By the end of 1968 the number of telephones served by Michigan Bell totalled nearly 4,190,000--a net gain of 168,000. Calling volumes continued to rise. On an average day the company handled 21,237,000 local calls, 691,000 more per day than in 1967. Long distance conversations totalled 245,804,000--for the year, an increase of almost 20 million.

Day said that the construction program, together with the progress in introducing Electronic Switching and the creation of a Switching Systems Department, "added new strength to our part of the nationwide communications-switching network which offers made-to-order service for moving information of any kind from one place to another.

Financially, Day described the year as "somewhat disappointing." Earnings per share were down seven cents to $1.69, continuing a decline that started in 1966.

Among the factors contributing to higher operating expenses, Day cited higher wages, material prices, depreciation costs, federal, state and local taxes, and the all time high cost of new money.

In February 1968 Michigan Bell sold $125 million of 37-year debentures at 6 3/8 percent interest.

Commenting on the company's request that the Public Service Commission review its rates, Day said that "despite rigid economies, technological innovations and greater sales effort, operating costs soared sharply, depressing the rate of earnings to the point where, for the first time in nine years, the company had no alternative but to seek increased telephone rates."

In 1968, Michigan Bell pressed forward in its work with the inner - city disadvantaged. An urban affairs director was appointed to strengthen the company's efforts, principally in the fields of education and employment.

With Day as Detroit area head of the National Alliance of Businessmen, the company spearheaded a series of successful telephone canvasses of local business firms to obtain pledges of summer jobs for needy youth. Fourteen companies participated in the canvasses, which netted promises of more than 12,000 openings for disadvantaged young people.

On Nov. 1, a change in company leadership took place when Kenneth J. Whalen, vice president - operations of the New York Telephone Company, was elected president and a director of Michigan Bell, and Day was elevated to the post of chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

The Cost of Driving

NEW YORK--The cost of automobile insurance averages out to approximately 1.4 cents a mile, notes the Insurance Information Institute. The figure was calculated by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, which reports that depreciation, maintenance, taxes, parking and tolls run the total cost of owning and operating automobiles up to 11 cents a mile.

Legislative Report

LANSING --Lake Superior State College would be established as a separate four-year college rather than a branch of Michigan Technological University under provisions of a bill introduced last week by Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert (R-Petuskey).

In its introduction, the measure has bipartisan support since it was co-signed by Sen. Joseph Mack of Ironwood and Sen. John F. McCauley of Wyandotte, both Democrats, and Sen. Charles O. Zollar of Benton Harbor and Sen. John F. Toepp of Cadillac, Republicans.

Under provisions of the bill, the college would be governed by an eight-member board of control, at least four of whom must be residents of the Upper Peninsula appointed by the governor with consent of the senate.

"It is time that this fine institution at Sault Ste. Marie be made a separate entity from its 'mother' school at Houghton more than 260 miles away," said Sen. Schweigert.

"Administering a growing institution under the circumstances, especially when the 'mother' school is primarily an engineering school and Lake Superior State is a liberal-arts college, is extremely difficult.

"In its period of great growth, Lake Superior State would benefit from direction by its own board of control."

Sen. Schweigert noted that last September, the State Board of Education unanimously approved a plan to separate the two schools and less than a month later the Michigan Tech Board of Control concurred in the decision.

Lake Superior State College was granted full accreditation as an operationally separate four-year campus of Michigan Tech last August by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The college was organized originally as a two-year engineering and science curriculum in connection with Michigan Tech, with the expectation that many of its students would complete an engineering degree on the main campus at Houghton. But interest in recent years of many students has shifted to other courses.

"Lake Superior serves a large area in eastern upper Michigan and northern lower Michigan which is far removed from other four year colleges," said Sen. Schweigert. "The nearest university with developed library and resource facilities is Northern Michigan University at Marquette, 167 miles away. The closest state universities to the south are Central Michigan at Mt. Pleasant, 226 miles away, and Ferris State at Big Rapids, 224 miles away."

The college, which now has more than 1,000 full-time students, expects enrollment to exceed 3,000 by 1980.

"In addition to the advantage of better administration, Lake Superior as a separate institution would be eligible for greater federal grants than it now receives," said Sen. Schweigert.

Local bank sponsors Dinah Shore special

Charlevoix County State Bank will be one of the sponsors of the Dinah Shore TV Special, Sunday evening, April 13, on NBC-TV, it was announced by F.J. Payne, vice-president.

Joining Miss Shore on this one hour color special will be Lucille Ball, Rowan and Martin, and other top-flight stars.

This program is one in a continuing series of specials, sponsored by the Foundation for Full Service Banks and its participating members across the nation. Last year's shows won five Emmy nominations for programming excellence and four Clio nominations for unusual and effective commercials.

Library Notes

The library is proud to announce the arrival of the 15-volume set of the McGraw - Hill Encyclopedia of Science and Technology--one of the newest and finest and most up-to-date collections of science and technology obtainable.

The encyclopedia was purchased through the McGregor Grant Fund which makes it possible for small libraries to own valuable and expensive source material which they could not otherwise possibly afford.

Articles in the encyclopedia are written for the laymen rather than for the specialist in the field. An introductory article generally provides a broad survey of each branch of science, and separate articles cover the main subdivisions and more specific aspects. Cross references lead to related topics. Volume fifteen is a detailed index to the whole work. There are numerous charts, illustrations, black and white and colored photographs.

The Encyclopedia will be on special display so that patrons may examine it and become familiar with it, before it is placed on the permanent shelf where it will become one of the most important additions to the reference section of the library.

Already included in the reference library is Van Nostrand's Scientific encyclopedia. Prepared by outstanding authorities, it includes over two million words and over a thousand illustrations dealing with all phases of aeronautics, astronomy, botony, civil engineering, electronics, guided missiles, navigation and nuclear science among dozens of other sub-titles.

Gray's Encyclopedia of Biological Sciences is a one-volume source book prepared especially for the student and covering the broad field of the biological sciences.

Books which can be circulated and checked out of the library include "THE ROCK BOOK" by Carroll Lane and Mildred Adams Fenton. It is one of the most popular books on the subject and unmatched for its authoritative information on the rocks of the world.

"MOLECULES, TODAY AND TOMORROW" by Margaret O. Hydge is an attractive study of molecules for the young scientist. "MEDICINE FROM MICROBES" by Beryl Williams and Samuel Epstein presents the story of antibiotics for the young reader who is interested in learning about miracle drugs.

"THE WORLDS OF SOUNDS" by Irvin Stambler discusses familiar sounds and the fascinating and alarming world of high - speed sound waves that move too rapidly for us to hear. The author has written many well - known books on scientific subjects for the young reader.

"FUN WITH SCIENCE" by Mae and Ira Freeman presents simple experiments for children with large photographs to illustrate each one. The experiments which any child can do alone deal with things in motion, with liquids; with sound and music, with electricity, with light and sight and with atomics.

Sonar finds white bass

The old saying that "anybody can catch white bass" is only true part of the time. First they have to find them. White bass, a schooling fish of the big lakes and rivers, are worth the search. A slashing school of the silvery sides "stripes" will feed on minnows with no caution at all.

Fishermen within casting range of this frenzied action pick off white bass as fast as they can cast. If they run out of the light-colored spoons and spinners, which always seem to work, they can let their imagination run wild.

Fishermen have successfully caught them on everything from bits of yellow cloth to shirt buttons fastened on hooks. Sinkers bent over the shank of a hook and scraped shiny will work wonders.

But, the white bass fisherman must first find his quary. Modern fishermen often solve this problem with the aid of miniaturized sonar fish-located outfits made especially for sport fishing. After the first of these hit the market some years ago, white bass fishermen could find the white bass schools with ease. Sonar turned the "fish anybody can catch" into the fish everybody can find, and white bass fishing was better than ever.

Heavy Coin Purse

In 1958, coinage consumed 2,700 tons of nickel. In 1968, more than 10,000 tons were used.

Rep. Davis speaks out on split

State Representative Robert W. Davis (R-St. Ignace) has added his voice to objection to Governor Milliken's proposed split on the $100 million recreational bonding monies. "Those of us who supported the bonding program sold it to the people of Michigan on the basis of dividing the funds on a 70 to 30 formula with 70 percent going to state conservation projects. I very definitely feel that Michigan's citizens approved the bonding program on this basis, and we in the legislature have a clear responsibility to see that the 70 to 30 formula is carried through," Davis said.

Governor Milliken urged the legislature to administer the $100 million on the basis of $30 million for a local grant program, $30 million supplement to the local grant program, and $40 million for state conservation projects. "I am sympathetic with the pressures the Governor must be receiving from the large cities, particularly from Wayne County," Davis said. "The voters of Wayne County voted down the bond issue. Now after their lack of support, under the proposal the Governor submitted last week, the big cities will receive most of the money."

Davis said that he was aware of the needs of the core cities. "I know they have a unique and serious problem. But this particular bond issue was not sold on the basis of solving all their problems."

Representative Davis said he had re-examined the statements and brochures utilized in presenting the bond issue to the public and they spell out clearly that $70 million would be spent on such things as State Park development, forestry and wildlife development, and fisheries.

"Michigan has made great progress in her once defunct fishing industry, both sport and commercial, and these funds should go to continue these programs so valuable to the entire economy of the state," Davis said. "We also need to purchase and set aside forest lands now while they are still available and while costs are reasonable for enjoyment of both present and particularly future generations. We must also set aside wildlife preserves. This is what the money was originally intended for, and we must insist that it be used in that manner," Davis concluded.

Care Valentine Proceeds $1,200

CARE played cupid this year as it encouraged a match between the people of Michigan and our adopted country of British Honduras. Tangible expression of that engagement was sought in the form of a dowery-Valentine of $2,550. Thanks to the generous people of Michigan over $1,200 was received.

Why British Honduras? Exactly three years ago, through AID's Partners of the Alliance program, through which various states adopt certain Latin American countries, Michigan chose British Honduras.

Or, more exactly, Governor Romney called an organizational meeting after receiving a letter from Premier George Price expressing his country's interest in a partnership agreement. Thus was born the Michigan Partners of the Alliance with former Congressman Alvin Bentley as chairman and D.W. Varner, Chancelor of Oakland University, as vice-chairman.

CARE has operated in British Honduras since 1962 carefully researching projects basic to the needs of its people. Such things as woodshop and irrigation equipment, tractors, water supply systems, demonstration piggeries, school furniture and buildings are essential.

As a result of contributions through CARE, Michigan Partners of the Alliance projects can be designated and a special fund established. A bonus is that every dollar given to CARE has a purchasing value of $6.52. This is possible because of exceptionally low operating costs, gifts in kind, contributions made by host governments. So that $1,200 dowery-Valentine will actually be equivalent to over $9,650.

AND A LITTLE CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM

Before the world can be made ready for the time when "a little child shall lead them," that child and many children before it must be trained for leadership. Too many children are not being so trained. Too many are not being provided with a true sense of values. Too many cannot grasp "what it's all about."

The Church is a valuable instrument in helping a child attain the desirable qualities for the right kind of leadership. True, it cannot always do the whole job. There should be training and guidance at home and at school and the "must" in school training is inculcating the desire for regular attendance at some church.

Until we have such training for all children, the time will not be at hand when the "lamb shall lie down with the lion" and "A LITTLE CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM."

Ellsworth bumped 71-65 in D finals

Ellsworth High School, last local quintet in tournament play, was outscored 24-14 in the final period last Friday, and dropped a 71-65 decision to Frankfort at Traverse City.

The final four minutes of the game meant the difference for the Lancers. Leading all the way, it looked like their 51-47 lead at the end of three quarters would hold up.

But the lid went on the bucket, and the Panthers rallied to the victory and a spot in the quarter-finals tonight.

Steve Jeffs and Don Crawford led Frankfort with 26 and 23 points respectively.

Ellsworth produced more balanced scoring.

Senior Ron Boss took team honors with 25 points. Dennis Drenth added 16, while Randy Ruis tossed in 14, and Joe Donaldson chipped in with 10.

The Lancers were able to hang onto their crumbling lead, and with 2:10 left led 61-59. A bucket by Bob Blok tied it with 2:08 remaining, and the Panthers pulled away from there.

Twenty-eight points from Drenth led the Lancers to the Class D finals, as they stopped Boyne Falls, 79-72.

Ellsworth won the game from the foul line, holding a decisive 21-12 margin.

Boyne Falls outhit the Lancers from the floor, 30-29.

Olsen lands fish citation

Fishing in the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament on a recent vacation in Florida, Paul J.J. Olsen, Thistle Downs, Charlevoix, won angling recognition for landing a six-pound twelve-ounce Mackerel in the light tackle general division.

He entered his fish at Key Biscayne Marine Supplies, Inc. in Key Biscayne, Florida.

He will receive a citation.

Cribbage tourney won by I.O.O.F.

The 1969 Cribbage tournament came to a close with a win for the I.O.O.F. by 2,223 points. Captains for each team are the high point players for each team.

For the first time in the 39 years of play the same two players won again this year. Bill Bergman with a socre of 9218 points for the I.O.O.F. and Russell Lewis with a score of 9027 for the Masons.

At the close of the 39 years of playing, the I.O.O.F. lead twenty games to the Masons 19. The Masons will be the host for the dinner this Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

Better Homes & Gardens on College Financing
Reprinted From
Better Homes & Gardens
March 1969 Issue

"Life insurance also can do two jobs in your savings program. First, it gives you a systematic, semi-compulsory way to save cash you'll need for college. Seond, it assures you that the money will be there even if you aren't.

A $10,000 whole life policy taken out at age 30 will cost about $190 a year. After 10 years, it will have cash value of about $1,300. After 15 years, the cash value runs about $2,100. With a waiver of premium clause, the policy will continue in force--and the cash value will continue to increase--even if you become disabled. And, of course, if you die, the policy pays the face value."

Jim Marshall at the Charlevoix Agency and American Community Mutual are prepared to help you begin this sound plan of savings and protection.

Forensics team shines

The Charlevoix high school forensics team under the direction of Mrs. Connie Ford, made a good showing at the district speech contest held Saturday, at Petoskey high school.

Eight schools including Onaway, Cheboygan, Traverse City St. Francis, Leelanau, Elk Rapids, Petoskey St. Francis Xavier, Petoskey and Charlevoix participated in the event.

In the Boys Extemp. division, David Hess took a first place rating. In the girls division, Pam Fairbanks took first place and Liz Wimmer second.

Larry Anders and Linda Gill both took first place in the Girls and Boys Oratory competition. Marcie Mason placed as an alternate.

Jeanne Smith placed first in humorous reading and Mary Lynn Barnes placed second.

In the multiple reading competition, Beth Baldwin, Barb Smith, Kathi Klooster and Tim Anders placed second. Connie Smith, Dona VerWys and Julie Supernaw took an alternate position. (This is a group event where students compete as a group interpreting some type of literature.)

All of the students who placed first or second will have a chance to participate in the Regional Speech Contest to be held at Mt. Pleasant April 16.

Alternates are third place winners who will fill vacancies if first or second place winners cannot participate in the regional contest.

All of the students who participated in the event are first year participants, since Charlevoix is a first year school.

First place winners received Webster Dictionaries from the Detroit Free Press and second place winners received certificates of excellence.

Next year Charlevoix will be the host school for the District contest. Mrs. Ford, debate and forensics coach, will be chairman of the event.

Kimberley Kay Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Russell of Charlevoix, will be four years old Monday, March 24. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Miles Russell of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sorget of Hawks, Michigan.

Ironton

By Mrs. Ross Alexander
547-9878

We are all happy to see our friends and neighbors return home from their winters vacation. Mr. and Mrs. N.C. Christensen returned last week from St. Petersburg, Florida, and Mundelein, Illinois, and Mr. and Mrs. William Crowe from spending several weeks in Detroit.

The Ladies Fellowship will meet in the church Wednesday evening, March 26. This will be the annual meeting and everyone is urged to be present.

Mrs. Evelyn Vanderwall is spending several days with her daughter Carolyn in Ann Arbor.

Rev. LaVerne Steele of Boyne City had charge of the morning church service this Sunday, while the Rev. and Mrs. Harmon are attending church services in Kansas City, Missouri. They will be back for the Lenton Service Thursday evening.

Sharon Neilsen has returned to her school duties in Big Rapids after spending the past weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Neilsen.

Members of the local Farm Bureau enjoyed a potluck dinner in the church dining room Saturday evening.

The Snowmobilers were out last Sunday afternoon taking advantage of a beautiful day on our remaining snow and also on the lake. The ice in the lake hasn't started to go as yet, and with our cold nights, they may have several weeks of that winter sport. But, we are surely enjoying this wonderful warm sunshine during the daytime.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Parsons are busy making preparations and have tapped a few trees for their annual work of making maple syrup.

This spring work is almost a home project of the past due to the labor and cost of supplies. I remember a few years ago nearly everyone who had a Maple tree was busy each spring tapping them and making a little syrup for home use, but everything is being done in a much bigger way today. We are all losing out on the spring fun of making syrup and enjoying the Hot Biscuit and Pancake Parties we used to have a few years ago. I really admire those who continue in this spring project and the hard work that goes with it.

The men of our Church are busy making plans for a Pancake Supper to be held in the church Saturday evening, March 29. They will serve Pancakes and sausage with coffee, tea and milk from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., and they will appreciate your help and attendance. So, we hope to see you there.

Miss Kuebler chosen for Girl's State

Geraldine Kuebler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kuebler of Charlevoix, has been chosen by the American Legion Auxiliary, Leslie Shapton Post, as the recipient of a $50 scholarship to Girl's State this summer.

Geraldine is a junior at Charlevoix High School and was chosen on the basis of leadership and scholastic ability.

Girl's State is sponsored by the American Legion and will take place June 15-22 in Ann Arbor. Only 462 girls from the state of Michigan are chosen to go.

While on the University of Michigan campus, the girls have a chance to live in the dormitories and learn about government in action from instructors from the University of Michigan's political science department.

Darlene Sumner is bride of Sp. Frans V. Erickson

Darlene Sumner became the bride of Sp/5 Frans V. Erickson in an early evening service at the Bethany Lutheran Church Saturday, March 15.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Philo E. Sumner and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Erickson both of Charlevoix.

The double ring service was performed by the Rev. Duane Imig. Robert Hein was the soloist and organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor length gown of white nylon organza and chantilly lace with a chapel train falling from the waist. A double crown held a silk veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and deep pink rosebuds.

Sharon Kay Davis of Boyne City served the bride as maid of honor. She wore a pink gown and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

John McSweeney of Charlevoix assisted the bridegroom as best man. Mark Erickson and Thomas Sumner seated the guests.

A reception followed in the Church Parlor.

Following the wedding, the couple left on a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula.

The bride is a graduate of Charlevoix high school and attended North Central Michigan College.

The groom is a graduate of Robert E. Fitch Senior high school in Groton, Connecticut, and Northern Michigan University. He is presently in the U.S. Army.

Out of town guests attended from East Jordan, Boyne City, Newberry, Grand Rapids, Brick Run, Detroit, Petoskey, Traverse City and Harwood, North Dakota.

Obituaries

C.C. Coulter

Funeral services for Clark C. Coulter, 79, retired private attorney who died Saturday, March 15 at the Charlevoix hospital where he had been a patient for a week were held at the First Congregational church. The Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen, assisted by the Rev. Donald W. Ferguson, of the First Presbyterian church of Traverse City, officiated. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Born in East Jordan Aug. 16, 1889, Mr. Coulter came here as a child. He was graduated from the Charlevoix High School in 1905 and from the University of Michigan Law School in 1915. During World War I he served as a Major in the U.S. Army. He was a corporation attorney in Detroit until retiring in 1954 to make his home here.

He was a member of the First Congregational church here, the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, the American Bar Association, the Michigan Bar Association and the Charlevoix-Emmet County Bar Association.

He is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Dunlap; a son, Donald C. Coulter of Traverse City; his step-mother, Mrs. Elva L. Coulter of Charlevoix and eight grandchildren, a daughter, Constance Coulter English and a son, James D. Coutter preceded him in death. His son had died unexpected at his Birmingham home Mar. 9.

Miss Silberman

CHARLEVOIX--News of the death of Kathy Silberman, 15, a summer resident, at a Chicago hospital Saturday after a lengthy illness, has been received here.

She was the daughter of Mrs. Robery Sooy and David Silberman, Jr. of Chicago and Charlevoix.

Besides her mother and step-father and her father, she is survived by two sisters, Lore and Anna, and brother, David at home; her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Julian Saks of Chicago and the Loeb Farm here and Mrs. David Silberman, sr. also of Chicago and Charlevoix.

Food programs help 195,000 in January

Nearly 195,000 low-income persons in Michigan received food assistance from the U.S. Department of Agriculture during January, according to Dennis M. Doyle, Midwest district director of consumer food programs.

The total included 94,613 in 51 commodity distribution program projects and 100,165 in 31 food stamp program areas.

In 11 Midwest states nearly 1,171,000 persons received USDA food assistance. Of the total, around 465,000 were in 374 Commodity Programs and 706,000 in 417 Food Stamp projects.

The commodity program provides some 22 USDA-donated foods to supplement the diets of needy people. The foods are shipped to the Michigan Department of Social Services which, in turn, arranges for the storage and transportation to local distribution centers and social servce agencies.

The food stamp program enables low-income families to buy more food by exchanging the amount of money they normally spend on food for coupons worth more than they paid. The food coupons are spent like cash at authorized retail food outlets for any domestic foods. Michigan recipients bought around $1.3 million in coupons during January and were given over $581,000 in bonus coupons. The average bonus per person was $5.80.

White collar crime

(The following is a guest editorial from the pages of the Lapeer County Press.)

We are cynical about the almighty cry from politicians against crime-in-the-streets. It is not that we discount the real threat of getting mugged in Detroit. But we wryly wonder why, especially at campaign time, we do not hear a similar cry against much bigger crimes - the "white collar" crimes, for instance, which cost Americans millions more than is stolen by the petty thugs who jump out of bushes.

Mostly, we wonder why the breast-beaters don't harrangue against injustice. A court system where the rich man gets bail and the best lawyer while the poor man is jailed and gets the worst lawyer - and the stiffest sentence.

But we're afraid the answer is as simple as it is sad: The Average Joe Citizen gets what he wants. The demagogs and opportunists say what Average Joe wants to hear. Average Joe wants to punish the poor slob who steals his wallet. He's all for the candidate who will lock up those crummy bums. But Joe feels sorry for his friend who embezzled $10,000 because he was behind in his Cadillac payments. It wouldn't help society any to put his friend in jail, Joe says. Slap his wrists and let him go. He has a nice family.

And a lot of high class thieves don't even get wrist-slaps. The past few months we've received many letters, phone calls and visits from people who have been victimized by a local businessman. Through ignorance, carelessness, stupidity, crookedness - take your choice, one or all - he has gypped several people out of thousands and thousands of dollars. He's run up tremendous bills which will apparently never be paid in full. His office has written several bum checks. He's sold an inferior service, causing many customers much trouble and anguish.

Two lawyers told us several weeks ago they didn't see "how he can stay out of jail."

But he has stayed out. No charges or arrests have been made. No suits have been filed. How come? That's what some of his victims ask us - the "little" victims who can't afford to take him to court. The answer is easy. The businessman's big creditors know they can't get any money out of a man in jail. Chances are almost as nil that they will ever get their money if he remains free and able to work. But what the heck. What's to be gained by calling the cops?

We don't argue with the logic of this reasoning. Nor do we argue that the man should be punished for sheer revenge. This should not be the purpose of our penal system. But we do argue with the injustice.

Any one of these big creditors would holler loud for the police if he had his pocket picked of 1% of the amount he lost to the slippery businessman. The pickpocket would go to jail for stealing $100. But Mr. Businessman, who got away with $50,000 worth of material, remains a free citizen with the respect of all (except those he stung).

There's a moral to all this, Mother. If you are going to raise your boy to be a crook, raise him to be a big crook. Tell him to wear a white collar and stay off the streets. Those streets are dangerously full of people warring against crime-in-them. Tell him to steal big, but incorporate first.

Tell him about Louis Miriani who still functions as a Detroit councilman even though he has been convicted of a $200,000 tax fraud. But 9 lowly Detroit policeman have been suspended because of unproven charges that they roughed up some kids.

Tell Sonny if he keeps his nose dirty, but his collar clean, he might even make the Mafia someday.

Millage hike needed

(Editor note: the following editorial was written by CHS senior Beth Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Baldwin, for the Crimson Flash.)

What will happen if the millage isn't passed? According to Mr. Milligan, Superintendent of Schools, the usual procedure is a cut in staff personnell and elimination of classes that will cause the "least damage to the youngster." It will also mean that no extra classes, programs, or teachers can be implimented. It has been estimated that we need at least three to four new teachers in order to keep the student-teacher ratio approximately the same as it is now.

We are not living in the past. It is not ten years ago. This is 1969 and our school system should but does not reflect the age we are living in. At present, the millage is 19.95; 14.7 for operation and 5.25 for debt retirement. This is less than most schools in the surrounding area.

The higher the state equalized evaluation, the less state aid we receive. At present, we are given $177 per student. The assessment is $24,307 per student now. When this reaches $30,000, we will receive no state-aid. Then Charlevoix alone will be responsible for the financing of the schools. If we cannot support our schools now with state-aid, will we be able to do it in a few years without it? The public must be convinced now to pass the millage because it isn't only a future problem that we are concerned with, but a present one.

The public must be informed that under present conditions we must have additional money to maintain the educational system as it now stands.

Some of the questions posed if the millage does not pass are these: Are we going to require our teachers to take an overload of students--crowd our already crowded rooms? How are we going to determine which classes should be cut and which teachers dismissed? How do we improve our curriculum if there is no money to pay for the additional courses and teachers to teach them. Extra-curricular activities also will be affected, since spending will have to be kept at a minimum. The new elementary school will need money to operate. These are all questions that are pertanent and should be thought of when voting on this issue.

It is the students not the parents that suffer because of lack of money. The students cannot vote for more millage, but they can inform their parents of the conditions and what is needed.

on the Flip Side

(Ed. note: On the Flip Side is designed as a potpourri of information and tale. . .occasionally serious, most often light in nature. It will appear weekly in the Courier.)

"You are now in Charlevoix the Beautiful", the sign said, and our almost-800 mile journey was over. And, from what we have been able to determine in our first two weeks in the North, the brochures told no tales.

We have spent the majority of our years in small communities, and Charlevoix has to rank in the top two or three.

It's possible that residents might forget just what a pretty area this is. . . it's too easy to forget when it surrounds you constantly.

So many people have gone out of their way to make our transition hardly noticeable. To list all those who have been so kind would be impossible. . . but may we publicly say "thank you" for making our first days here so enjoyable.

The State Chamber of Commerce brought us up to date on a Bill in the Senate which should be of interest to area residents. Senate Bill 53, introduced by Senator Zollar, deals with Community Schools.

You missed celebrating Pancake Tuesday on February 18? You let Sprengldague (Bursting Day) slip by, without joining the Icelanders feasting on salted mutton and thick pea soup? Don't despair, there's still time to eat special foods, procrastinate, and wait for the buzzards to come back to Hinckley, Ohio.

All this month is a salute to the pickle-hamburger combination. Throw on some musterd, and then reach for the Alka-Seltzer.

We procrastinated and missed Procrastination Week and Buzzard Day (officially observed March 16). Personalty, we think the day is for the birds.

Just in case you're impatient with all these special days, weeks, and months, you might like to join us in the celebration of Intolerance Day, April 1. . .a day dedicated to the concept: "MY way is the ONLY way."

Speaking of special days, there was a lot of green in evidence Monday, when everyone became Irish for a day. Trust you lifted a cup of grog with us.

With the end of the baskelball season at Charlevoix High School, we learn the only spring sport for boys is track. Which leads to the question, how come no baseball team? The "national pastime". (though football execs would argue with you). . .and the area has a fine softball program in the summer.

On the National Scene: The President's approval of a "thin" ABM missile system will be watched closely as it moves to Congress. Opinion polls indicate it is an unpopular proposal, and experts say it will not only cost the taxpayer a fortune, but will be obsolete by the time it is completed.

The "power of the press" always displays itself when least expected. Last week, we noted that a supply of the new state highway maps were available at the Courier office. Within 48 hours after the paper was delivered, more than 100 persons took time to stop by the office and request a map. We still have a few left, but they're going fast.

If it Fitz

No living allowed in living room

by Jim Fitzgerald

If I want to see a lucky man, I said to myself, I just have to look in the mirror. So I turned to the large mirror which is part of the new, outrageously expensive bedroom suite my wife snuck into the house one day while I was at work.

Which reminded me again that this may be a man's world, but they build the furniture for women.

In the mirror I got a beautiful view of my belt buckle.

With my usual good nature, I galumphed into the dining room, slamming doors and muttering, to peak into the mirror over the china cabinet.

"What is wrong with you now?" my wife asked.

"Nothing," I said, "except I am looking for a lucky man and I can't find him."

The second mirror was better. I could see the third button from the bottom on my shirt.

"I am only 6 feet tall," I told my wife, "but I have to kneel down to tie my ties in my own bedroom. Every mirror in this house is hung to tie shoes by. Why is that?"

"You can see your face in the bathroom mirror and, with your face, that should be enough," my wife said.

"I do not keep my ties in the medicine chest," I said. "How would you like it if you could not see your own face in your own bedroom mirror?".

"That mirror is supposed to be low," she said, "I sit down to put my make-up on."

"Goody," I said. "How many men do you know who sit down to tie their ties?"

"I wish you would buy some turtle-neck shirts," she said.

Boy.

In the corner of our family room is a beat-up leather chair which is known as "Daddy's Chair." It is called this to distinguish it from every other stick of furniture in the house, all of which belong to Mummy. My chair was purchased 2 months after we moved into the house, which is a pretty long time to lean on the fireplace mantle. The kids told Mummy that all the other dads in the block got to sit down when they came home. This stung her conscience and she bought a chair a man can open a can of beer in without hiring a divorce lawyer.

But when I leave my chair, it's similar to Godzilla calling on The Little Women. One bathroom is purple, from soap to tissue. The other is pink, from dinky towels to plastic ducks. In the purple bath there's that wicker chair which would mark a man for life. There are also wicker shelves, so help me. To sit on the wicker chair, I must park my head on the second wicker shelf.

I am not allowed to sit on any of the living room furniture until it is paid for. The newest addition is a marble-topped coffee table big enough for one coffee cup if you hold your saucer in your lap. This table is unique in that the marble top slides off easily and falls on your foot.

The first time this happened to me, I was able to get a splendid view of my swollen toes in my bedroom mirror. As I sat there on the floor, tieing my tie.

Onward and upward.

Letters to the editor

Bring Us Together

Dear Editor:

"Bring us together" is the prevailing theme on the national scene. This might also be the motto for those in Michigan seeking a change in the way our public schools are financed. For while the needs are clear and the interest is vast, we require now a united approach.

The Citizen Advisory Committee of Financing Schools of Wayne, Mich. has been meeting weekly since September, 1968 when our School Board appointed 30 local citizens to consider school financing problems. The conclusions of this group are summarized in the following position statement.

The set of principles is intended to unite the many factions supporting change. No person will endorse every point--but almost everyone will support the direction in which these principles would lead us.

You will notice that the principles are general rather than specific. Intentionally, no amounts, dollars or percentages have been recommended because we recognize that deriving these is a function of the legislature.

Join with us in supporting these principles. If we pursue a united approach, legislation will follow. Make your concern known through three steps.

1. Endorse these principles yourself and have your organization provide an endorsement. Let us know of your views so that the total response can be assessed.

2. Distribute copies of the position paper to all concerned citizens, especially to those with the greatest interest in achieving change.

3. Let your State Legislatures know that you endorse this plan. Urge their action toward legislation that embodies these principles.

Citizen Advisory Committee on Financing Schools, Wayne Community School District, Wayne, Michigan; Position on Financing Public Education.

This Committee believes that the education of our youth will determine the future of our country. Like all efforts that benefit the entire society, education must be paid for by the entire society. An acceptable system must assure an adequate education for each child with costs shared equitably by all. Toward these ends, we recommend that:

1. Amounts raised by the State of Michigan be sufficient to provide an "adequate" public education for each child in the State.

2. The proceeds raised by the State be allocated proportionately to individual school districts based on student headcount. Minor adjustments should reflect cost differences between various areas. This might require the reorganization of certain school districts to attain optimum size.

3. Funds would be appropriated by the Legislature out of the General Fund to the extent that special needs of individual school districts exist.

4. Control of the school program continue to be maintained by local school districts under the direction of local School Boards.

5. Additional funds required by the State to finance an "adequate" education for each child be raised through a flat-rate income tax imposed on individuals and corporations.

Ronald F. Scott, Chairman

daughter, Shirley Hollingsworth Simpson and her husband, Frank, of Cincinnati, is the present owner and except for such modernization as indoor plumbing, running water and electricity, little has been changed in the old home built in the form of a Maltese Cross in compliment to Allen's Masonic affiliation.

The Blue Bell cottage today is in reality a museum piece in its own right, and tha family plans to keep it so.

Of the original five summer homes on the upper terrace, one has been torn down and the others, such as the Fraser home, modified externally and internally so there are only faint reminders of the home's original design.

The original boarding house grew like topsy with many additions until its first two bathrooms which sarved dozens of roomers were supplemented by baths for each suite. The solarium facing the lake was the final glory which gave the hotel a distinction that appealed to those folk of culture which eventually changed the atmosphere of the "Kalamazoo Resort" to the sophisticated Belvedere Club.

Today's cottagers hail from all quarters of the compass--New York, Tennessee, Arizona, Florida and Nebraska but only two are still owned by Kalamazoo people, and the Baptist faith has disappeared completely from the scene. However, while there are no longer Sunday evening hymn sings on the club grounds, members still attend local churches of their choice, many taking an active part in the summer church activities.

There are presently 88 cottages on the Belvedere Club grounds--all but one built prior to W.W.I. Of course, many external as well as internal improvements have been made from tima to time but nothing has been changed so radically as to conceal tha original architectural designs--they are all, with the one exception, (the B.P. Douglass cottage) ara obviously "turn - of - the - century" models.

The Gay Nineties designs serve a truly useful purpose in our present age of lookalika pre-fabricated suburban developments. The Belvedere Club has a look of permanence, dignity and elegance unique in the Northland's summer resort, matched only by Harbor Point, Bay View, and our own Chicago Club and Sequanota Club.

The exclusive Belvedere Hotel which avolved from the old primitive boarding house felt tha wrecker's bar in 1960. It became like many other resort hostelries, a victim of steadily rising maintenance and operational costs. Its fall has been widely debated, and its placa on the Belvedere scene cannot be easily replaced in the social life of the club.

However, the Casino still stands. Built in the early 1920s from materials salvaged from the old Beulah Home for Homeless Boys in Boyne City, it serves today as the only meeting place for youth and adults of the Belvedere Club.

Charlevoix is indeed most fortunate to still host the two foremost resorts of the Northland, and there is no doubt but that Charlevoix citizenry join in wishing for the Belvedere Club, another 90 years of successful operation.

Belvedere Club Casino still stands. Behind Casino is the harbor.

District Court

The following cases were heard in District Court this week.

Travis E. Sager, Ellsworth, fined $18, for operating a motor vehicle without a valid license.

2 CHS players get 'mention'

Two Charlavoix High School basketball players have been given Honorable Mention nods on the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference team.

Kraag Lieberman, 6-foot junior, and backcourt man 5.9 Stewart Coleman were named to the team today. Lieberman averaged 12.7 points per conference game, while Coleman netted 14.1 in league play.

Both players are juniors and will return to the Rayders next season.

Miss Reibel visits museums

Miss Kimberley Reibel of 4 Thistle Downs, Charlevoix, recently visited the state - owned Ringling Museums while vacationing on Florida's lower west coast.

The Hingling Museums are the foremost cultural center in southeastarn United States. Situated on 68 tropically landscaped acres in Sarasota, they were a gift of John Ringling to the state, and arc oparated in the cultural and education interests of Florida residents aod visitors.

They consist of the Museum of Art, famed for its outstanding collection of Baroqua art; the Asolo Theater, only original 18th century Italian theater in America; the Ringling Residence, "Ca'd'Zan," a $1,500,000 Venetian Gothic palazoo; and the Ringling Museum of the Circus, the first museum dedicated to the history of the circus.

In addition to exhibiting the permanent collection, the Museums' functions include a diversified program of temporary art exhibitions, art education services, lectures, films, concerts, chamber music, a winter opara season and a winter and summer festival of plays by the Asolo Theater Festival company, the official state theater of Florida.

School Board lowers request to 3.75 mills

Charlevoix School District's School Board recinded its original budget request Monday evening, and will ask the voters April 7 for less money than originally sought.

The surprise announcement was made by Superintendent Rex Milligan.

Two weeks ago, the Board approved a proposal calling for a 4.5 mill hike for operational expenses, plus a one mill levy for material centers and teaching aids to be used directly by students.

The Board has kept the single mill request intact, but has chopped the 4.5 mill request by three-quarters of a mill to 3.75.

According to the Board, the lower amount was made possible by a larger-than anticipated increase in revaluation rocently completed in the district.

What it means is that lower state aid will be received by the district because of the higher valuation. However, increased revenue from local taxes will more than offsel the decrease. In fact, present figures indicate the increase would reach near the $50,000 mark under the original proposal.

With the three-quarter mill reduction, monies would be very much the same.

The Board briefly considered leaving the millage request untouched in an effort to build a balance in the general fund. This year, the district is operating at a $20,000 deficit.

Following the decision to request less millage, one Board member said the District would not ask more from the taxpayer than is absolutely necessary, but would stand firm on the amount that was needed.

In other business, the Board approved furniture purchases for the new Elementary School on the recommendation of the architect.

It was also decided to make minor changes in the kitchen at the new school at a price increase of $470. Two larger kettles and a larger steam boiler will be installed at the suggestion of the school dietician.

The sound system of the new building was discussed. The Board stressed the necessity of an "all call" built into the system. Before a final decision is reached, more information will be secured from the architect.

The Board announced that bonds in the amount of $1,595,000 for construction and equipping the new school and remodeling and equipping the present elementary building for middle grades were signed. Funds should have been available by this morning.

Changes in the driver education rules of the school were announced. To meet state requirements, the local school removed the rule that a student must have sophomore status and replaced it with selection based on age, giving older students first priority.

It was noted that many students were receiving the course from other districts as young as 14. It was also suggested that the course start before school is dismissed for the summer and conclude in June.

Vane H. Smith named New CHS principal

Vane H. Smith, a Charlevoix native, was named Charlevoix High School principal Monday night, replacing Raymond O. Carr, effective for the 1969-70 school year.

The appointment was made at a special session of the Charlevoix School Board.

Vane H. Smith

Born and reared in Charlevoix, Smith was graduated from the local high school in 1950 and enrolled at Central Michigan University.

After one semester, he enlisted in the U.S. Navy and served for four years before spending a term at the University of Montana. He returned to graduate from CMU in 1958.

Smith's background in education includes five years as a teacher in Belding, Mich., from 1958 to 1963. He was then named principal of Pottersville H.S., remaining in that post until he came to the local system in 1966.

For the past three years he has taught industrial arts and world geography at the high school.

Smith is active in Charlevoix, serving the Boy Scouts and Kiwanis Club. In addition, he is a member of the Professional Study Committee of Charlevoix Public Schools and belongs to an industrial arts association.

The son of Capt. and Mrs. H.E. Paddock, Smith lives on Carson Ave. with his wife, the former Kathleen Fessenden, and their two children, George, 4, and Patricia, 6.

Carr will become principal of the new Middle School next year.

Govt. Day at Boyne City

Boyne City will host seven area schools for Senior Government Day, March 31. They are Boyne City (98 seniors), Central Lake (31), Charlevoix (105), Ellsworth (21), East Jordan (51), Beaver Island (8), and Boyne Falls (13).

The purpose of the meeting is "to make local and state government more meaningful."

Prior to the meeting, all seniors have given preference as to which area of topics they wished to discuss. These sections range in subject matter from juvenile problems, law enforcement, conservation, education, area development, political parties, employment relations, recreation, welfare, civil rights, taxation, local government, courts, legislation, elections, health to highways.

Each senior will be assigned to one of 13 sections with Charlevoix sending no more than 9 students to each.

The schedule for SGD is as follows: 9:40 to 11:30, General meeting of all schools in gym; 11:30 to 12:30, lunch; 12:30 to 1:55, Section meetings in classrooms; 2 to 2:30, closing meeting in gym.

Charlevoix is responsible for finding authorities for the areas of area development, juvenile problems and political parties. Discussion leader and recorder for area development are Paul Fiedorek and Ric Peterson; for juvenile problems, Chuck Pease and Randy Penn; for political parties, Georgia Lusk and Mary Plum.

Big Brothers are here

Some 15 persons attended the recent Big Brothers organizational meeting, and a county chapter of the organization became a reality.

From the meeting came four members of a six-person screening committee. A fifth will be named tomorrow at the group's second meeting in the high school at 7:30 p.m.

Named to the committee thus far are Dr. William Ratigan, guidance counselor at Charlevoix High School; Dale Fassett, a teacher at the school; local businessman Bob Elliott; and school board member Dale Boss.

James Marshall, local insurance man with a background in counselling work, will be named to the committee tomorrow.

Also planned for the meeting are the first big brother-little brother matchings.

Forensics Team to present 'Evening of Entertainment'

The Charlevoix high school forensics team will present an "Evening of Entertainment" on Wednesday, April 9 at 8 p.m. in the high school study hall.

The students are presenting this program in order to acquaint the community with the forensics team and also to help raise money for the regional meet downstate April 16.

Students participating in the event will present original oratories and extemporaneous and humorous readings. Some of the students will present the material used in competition in addition to new material.

The charge for the evening will be adults: $1.00; Students, .75 and children, .50. The community is urged to attend and help support the forensics team.

Donkey BB set Saturday at CHS

The Charlevoix High School faculty will play donkey basketball with the Petoskey high school faculty at 7:30 p.m. March 29 in the high school gym.

The Donkey Basketball game is being sponsored by the Charlevoix high school Athletic department for the purpose of raising funds for track uniforms and equipment.

During halftime a gymnastic show will be presented under the supervision of Mr. Bos, Gymnastics Instructor at Boyne City.

Over 200 attend Brownie banquet

The Brownie Girl scout father and daughter banquet was held in Charlevoix High School cafeteria last week, with over 200 persons attending.

Charles England served as master of ceremonies, the Rev. Mr. Harris led the group in song, and guest speaker was Mrs. Virginia Warner of the Traverse City council.

Six troops were represented with skits, songs and an Irish dance.

108 attend picnic

The Charlevoix-Antrim County picnic held March 12, in Phillipi Park on Tampa Bay, Florida, attracted some 108 guests. Attending from Charlevoix and vicinity were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bennett, Charlevoix, Mrs. William Symons and Alice Shuman, Ironton.

Elected president for next year was Fred Vogel, East Jordan; vice president, Allen Walton, East Jordan; and secretary, Alberta Vogel, East Jordan.

They voted to continue meeting on the second Wednesday in March.

CHS Girls Glee Club in concert tonight

The Charlevoix high school girls glee club under the direction of Robert Hein will present a spring choral concert, tonight, at 8 p.m. in the high school study hall. There will be no charge for admission.

Those participating in the event are Claudia Black, Becky Browe, Ruth Ann Browe, Terry Buzzard, Martha Cook, Peggy Falting, Wendy Gothro, Vickie Gustafson, Diane Hinebauch, Shelley King, Karen Martin, Cathy Otto, Linda Smalley, Dena VerWys, Linda Wilson, Connie Wojan and Patty Smith.

The first part of the concert will feature famous songs by di Lasso, Bach, Mozart, Haydn, Brahms and Vaughan Williams after which will follow a brief intermission. The choral group will then sing Edelweiss and Climb Ev'ry Mountain.

The second part of the contest is made up of bits and pieces from the four corners of the Broadway Musical presented in duets and solos.

The following people will sing duets: Claudia Black and Wendy Gothro; Shelley King and Linda Wilson; and Terry Buzzard and Linda Smalley. Wendy Gothro, soloist, will sing Sunrise, Sunset.

Since their organization this fall, the girls glee club have performed in their own fall concert, for the Women's Club of Charlevoix, for the Kiwanis Club and in school concerts with the band.

H.P. Parmalee Cottage featured unusual early stones, beacon

By Bernice Wexstaff

Like the Blue Bell on Belvedere avenue, the H.P. Parmalee cottage on Breezy Point of the Belvedere Club grounds also had a tower overlooking the Bayou. But the latter was used not so much for view as for utilitarian purposes.

Before the turn-of-the century, night time lighting in Charlevoix was about as effective as a lantern in a barn so the owner of Breezy Point's first summer home had a beacon installed to light his surroundings from dusk to dawn.

All went well until a sailing vessel trying to make Charlevoix port in a storm on Lake Michigan, confused the beacon at Breezy Point with the North pier light on the channel and nearly went aground on Lake Michigan beach.

At that time there were no high trees between the Parmalee cottage and the town to break the view of the beacon and sailors were often confused, it was then revealed, so Mr. Parmalee was required to remove his beacon light and endure the blackness of the night along with others in the town and the resort grounds.

The first Breezy Point cottage had also a second unique feature: Its stone pile to the west of the cottage. Mr. Parmalee, a top-flight insurance career man by vocation was also a knowledgeable geologist by avocation. The pile of rocks was his personal collection gleaned from world travels.

The rock pyramid remained at Breezy Point until 1932 when the cottage was sold to the Leland S. Bisbees of Jackson. The new owners soon discovered that the rock pile harboured snakes and Mr. Bisbee had it removed by Belvedere workmen who later used the rocks to bolster the terrace adjacent to cottage 45 on the lower terrace level.

Mr. Parmalee's avocation brought him fully as much glory as his vocation and far more enduring fame. Before 1900 he had published an authoritative volume on the geology of Northern Michigan wherein he proved that today's summer resorters are Johnny-come-lately in truth: The ancient Indian Mound Builders were the first resorters, stopping here on Charlevoix shores for rest and recreation on their long treks between the copper diggings of the Upper Peninsula and winter quarters to the south.

Earl Young, local realtor, recalls Mr. Parmalee vividly with a story that verifies that times have indeed changed in the past half-century. The era before World War I was far more decorus and four-letter words were used only in the vocabularies of the illiterate and the gauche.

According to Mr. Young, Mr. Parmalee asked to have the male proprietor of the J.L. Crane dry-goods store (which then adjoined the County Bank on Bridge street) serve him when he entered the store on a mission for his wife. What was purchased was 6 yards of outing flannel for a night gown for Mrs. Parmalee, but old-fashioned decorum forbade men talking about such unmentionables to lady sales persons.

The Parmalees and their out-moded modesty have long since passed from the scene, but the cottage still remains with one lone conglomerate left of the once prized stone pyramid. Later day remodeling relegated the tower to oblivion with the exception of the birch bark tepee that once graced the tower roof. While the bark cone has been removed from the lawn where it served for many years as a playhouse for the Bisbee children the charming cottage overlooking the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix remains essentially the same pleasant summer home nestled in summer greenery on what was once known as Breezy Point on the Belvedere Club grounds.

Carl Van DeCar wins design award

For designing an original model of a space pod from Tinkertoys, Carl Van De Car, a youthful resident of Charlevoix Route 3, has been honored as a recipient of a special citation from the Toy Tinkers, division of A.G. Spalding and Bros., Inc.

The award, a junior engineer certificate, reads: "In recognition of creative imagination, ingenuity and skill, the Toy Tinkers offers this certificate as evidence of this achievement".

With the citation, Carl received news that his model automatically will be entered in the firm's 1969 Scholarship Award Program to find the most imaginative creation of the year.

Fifty state finalists are to be selected at the close of the 1969 program, and each will receive a handsome-mounted, personally-engraved wall plaque. The designer of the most imaginative creation of the year, selected from the fifth finalists, will receive the scholarship award, a $1,000 U.S. savings bond and an expense paid trip to New York for both the designer and his or her parents.

Judging of all models is on the basis of imaginativeness and creativity of design. The awards program, now in its fifth year, is "in keeping with our line of creative and fun toys," says R.A. Christofferson, president of Toy Tinkers.

State finalists will be named in March, 1970.

Ruppe to visit

Congressman Phillip Ruppe will visit the Charlevoix area Friday, March 28. Ruppe will conduct office hours Friday morning from 10 until noon in the Petoskey Post Office building and 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Friday in the Community room of the Charlevoix City Hall. Citizens are invited to visit the 11th district Congressman to discuss issues and personal problems relating to the Foderal government.

Ruppe will also hold office hours in Gaylord Saturday morning from 10 till noon at the Otsego County Building before going to Hart, Michigan, to address a dinner meeting. Ruppe says he hopes to see as many Charlevoix and Petoskey residents as possible on Friday.

Cancer unit plans kick-off

The Charlevoix County Unit of the American Cancer Society will officially open its' 1969 Crusade with a Kick-off Coffee at the Argonne on the Boyne City Rd., Thursday, March 27, at 10 a.m.

April has been designated as Crusade month, and for the first time, all local unit chairmen are combining their kick-off activities. Crusade chairmen are Mrs. Harvey Varnum, Boyne City; Mrs. Edward A. Vogler and Mrs. Jerry Drost, Charlevoix; and Mrs. [illegible], East Jordan.

Ellis R. Griner, division representative of the Michigan division of the ACS, will be guest speaker for the event and will show two new films depicting the advances that have been made through research in the fields of the cure and prevention of cancer.

These advances have been made possible through the efforts of thousands of volunteers throughout the country that have participated in past crusades.

In the Charlevoix area the Crusade will be co - ordinated by the following captains: Mrs. Roger Pischner, NW Section; Mrs. Thomas Hanna, NE Section; Mrs. Russell Lewis, SW Section; Mrs. Conrad Klooster, SE Section; Mrs. James Fiedler, North Point; Mrs. Steve LaBlance, Pine Point; Mrs. Robert Kloosler, Norwood; Mrs. Robert Curtis, Barnard Rd. (assisted by the Barnard Home Extension Group); Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., M 66; Mrs. Ole Nielsen, Ironton; Mrs. Russell Green, Beaver Island; Mrs. John F. McDonald, Bay Shore; Mrs. Harold Gibbs, Trailer Park M66; Mrs. Guy Smith, Loeb School Rd.; Mrs. Robert Straw, Burgess Rd.

All Captains and workers from Boyne City, Charlevoix, and East Jordan are urged to attend the coffee on March 27. Local Chairmen have planned a program that they feel will be both informative and enjoyable.

Miss Charlevoix contest planned

The Miss Charlevoix Contest is being planned by the residents of Charlevoix. Anyone who is interested may contact either Mrs. Perry Smith or Mrs. Charles Carey.

Contestants must be at least sixteen years of age and reside in Charlevoix.

Anderson's All-Stars hit the firing line in action-packed contest at Elementary School. This attempt fell a little short of the mark.

Over a blocking attempt, this shot hit the twine for two points.

CHS players of future get experience today

It looks like a hefty throw...up and over for two more.

The Elementary School basketball tournament comes down to the championship. Up and down the court players raced for the precious points.

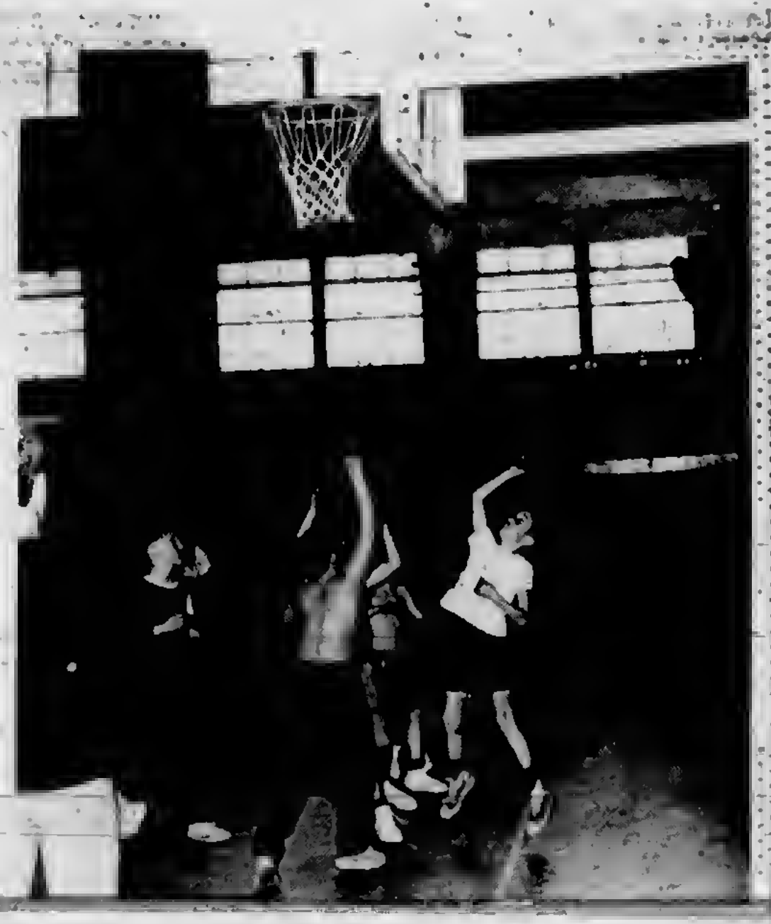
Halftime strategy is made, but disappeared as soon as the whistle blew for the third period.

Up, Up and Away...This shot chalked up two for the All-Stars. Who threw it skyward? With all those raised arms, who can tell?

They may not be able to claim the title of World Champion but Charlevoix Elementary School basketball players rounded out the season in style, with a tournament.

Play was exciting, action abundant, as the teams played their "pressure" games.

Glenn Snider, school principal, noted that the youngsters "took the games very seriously." For one man's view, see "on the Flip Side", page 11.



Defense tried in vain to stop this driving lay-up. However, the ball caught the bottom of backboard, and the fight for possession was on.

All-Stars at it again...shooting for two points is hard work. Form on this jump shot appears similar to Celtics' Larry Seigfried. Note fans and signs in background.

Complete with cheerleaders, all ages and sizes, this was a "jumping" place.

Library groups in Charlevoix

Charlevoix High School SLAAM club members are preparing for the regional SLAAM (Student Librarians Assistant's Association of Michigan) and MASL (Michigan Association of School Librarians) meeting to be held here on March 29.

Invitations were mailed out to approximately 100 schools in the upper half of the lower peninsula.

Teachers, librarians and student assistants are expected to travel from as far as Alpena, Rogers City and Alcona.

The Charlevoix club has been busy working out details for the regional meeting with the help of regional president, Rae Marie Szudzik.

Most of the details were discussed and approved by the SLAAM executive board, leaving the actual planning and finishing touches to Charlevoix members.

Recently the Charlevoix club voted to use "Around the World Through Books" as the theme. They plan to decorate the library, lunch room and any other rooms used with foreign displays.

Tape recordings of music from the different countries will be used as background music around each display. They have already begun collecting different and interesting items to use.

The program for the day consists of a coffee hour upon arrival. The two organizations will then go their separate ways. While MASL members partake in their own affairs, the SLAAM group will tour Consumers Power Company.

After returning from the tour, both MASL and SLAAM members will hold business meetings and elections of officers.

Following lunch in the cafeteria, both groups will go to the gym to hear John Carson from Central Michigan University and author of such books as The Coach Nobody Liked and The Twenty-Third Street Crusaders.

At this time the SLAAM club will also present a traveling book award to the school that has traveled the farthest with the most number of students.

The meeting will end about 2:30 p.m.

"Life insurance also can do two jobs in your savings program. First, it gives you a systematic, semi-compulsory way to save cash you'll need for college. Seond, it assures you that the money will be there even if you aren't.

A $10,000 whole life policy taken out at age 30 will cost about $190 a year. After 10 years, it will have cash value of about $1,300. After 15 years, the cash value runs about $2,100. With a waiver of premium clause, the policy will continue in force--and the cash value will continue to increase--even if you become disabled. And, of course, if you die, the policy pays the face value."

Bridge crossings rise 40 percent

LANSING -- A 40 percent increase in February traffic over the Mackinac Straits bridge was hailed today by Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert of Petoskey and Rep. Robert W. Davis of St. Ignace as a bright economic shot in the arm for Northern Michigan communities.

The Mackinac Bridge Authority recently announced that 43,607 vehicles crossed the bridge last month, compared with 32,367 for February a year ago. This was far greater than any other winter month in bridge history.

"It is quite apparent that the reduction in bridge fares resulting from a share of the gas tax increase being allotted to bridge operations is going to pay big dividends for northern Michigan," said Sen. Schweigert and Rep. Davis, who represent areas surrounding the magnificent span.

"It had been evident for a long time that bridge tolls had been stifling inter-peninsula traffic. January and February figures indicate that traffic increases resulting from the toll reduction are likely to be much greater than anticipated.

"Northern Michigan communities can expect an economic shot in the arm as a result. We are sure that when word gets around the United States about the lowered fares that we can expect a heavy influx of out-of-state tourists willing to make the complete trip through Michigan, instead of only stopping to look at the bridge and then turn back."

Sen. Schweigert and Rep. Davis particularly noted the fact that truck traffic in February showed an increase of more than 27 percent.

"Some persons have complained that, while the bridge tolls were reduced, the increase in the gasoline tax by one cent and the increase in the automobile license plate fees more than offset toll reduction," said the Straits area legislators.

"In the first place, the automobile license plate fees do not go into the Straits bridge fund.

"The gasoline tax increase was necessary for state highway construction and operations and northern Michigan legislators worked hard to get a share of the increase to reduce the bridge tolls because of the help it would bring to that area. If this money had not been obtained for the bridge operations, northern Michigan would have had to pay the tax increase just the same.

"We felt that, since the tax increase was going to pass anyway, it was imperative that our section of the state get a share of it rather than have it go to other parts of the state by default."

District Court

The following cases were heard in District Court this week.

Judith Potter, 17, Charlevoix, charged with forgery, waived examination and was bound over to the April term of Circuit Court.

Charles H. Gilmore, 19, E. Jordan plead not guilty to charges of assault and battery. He was found guilty by trial and was fined $25 plus 90 day sentence suspended.

Enos D. Shomin of Petoskey, charged with being drunk and disorderly, entered a plea of guilty. His sentence was reduced to time served.

Rudy Rebec, 20, of E. Jordan, charged with indecent liberties with a female child, [illegible]-manded examination and was bound over on $200 bond furnished.

Training program opens to 100

LANSING (UPI) -- Applications are being accepted for a three-year technician training program sponsored by the Michigan Department of State Highways, it was announced this week.

The program, open to 100 students, includes on-the-job training and classroom study. Students will work for six months beginning in July on various Highway Department jobs and then attend one of four schools for six months.

They will be paid from $216 to $240 every two weeks while working, but will not receive compensation while attending school. Graduates will receive associate of applied science degrees.

High school graduates, including those of next June, up to and including 40 years of age, are eligible to apply. Acceptance will be based on examinations.

Applications can be obtained from county clerks, the Michigan Employment Security Commission, the Michigan Civil Service Commission, all Highway Department offices, or by writing the Department of State Highways, Personnel Division, Post Office Drawer K, Lansing, Michigan.

Cooperating schools are Ferris State College, Lansing Community College, Michigan Technological University and Schoolcraft Community College.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

What does the Cancer Society mean to you? If you were a cancer patient, it would mean weekly transportation service to a treatment center. Or a scientist, money for research. The Cancer Society can mean something to you, or a loved one.

Today, there is real hope against cancer — the American Cancer Society spends a tremendous amount of money on virus research, alone. But the ACS needs your financial support.

FIRST STATE BANK OF CHARLEVOIX

Masons note Scottish Rite

More than 8,000 Scottish Rite Masons in Western Michigan are now celebrating the coming of Scottish Rite to this part of the United States One hundred years ago, in 1869. In that year, members of the Order, emigrating largely for the more populous northeastern states, obtained a Charter to establish Scottish Rite bodies having headquarters in Grand Rapids.

These men had settled along the eastern coast of Lake Michigan, inland as far east as Lansing, for the Indiana line to the Straits of Mackinac.

Scottish Rite reunions, occuring three times each year, have always followed a pattern, being held on three consecutive days in the Cathedral of the Rite in Grand Rapids.

Also, a special presentation of the Master ad Vitam, Twentieth Degree, was in Traverse City March 21. The complete cast of 40 men, together with supporting technicians, traveled to Traverse City carrying special scenery and properties.

Preceding each performance wives were entertained at 6:15 p.m. dinners. Following dinner members viewed the degree dramatization. Wives were otherwise entertained during the performances. Because of its historical significance the Twentieth is often called the George Washington Degree.

Rev. E. Slep, a man of varied background is presently the Pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church of Grand Rapids, addressed the Traverse City assembly at the Park Place Motor Inn.

A commemorative Centennial Coin has been struck from silver metal and was issued only to members registering during Reunions and other scheduled events held in the Centennial year, 1969.

Lake Michigan Level to rise

Generally speaking, boaters, commercial shipping and hydroelectric power interests should be quite pleased with the levels of the Great Lakes for the coming navigation season.

Shore-line property owners, particularly those who built during the low-level period, 1963-64-65, may have reason to be a little apprehensive.

The U.S. Lake Survey's (Army Engineers) six-month forecast of levels for the Great Lakes indicates the lakes will be up to 11 inches higher than their maximum levels of last year. Higher lake levels, combined with storm - generated strong winds, have a tendency to tilt a lake's surface which, of course, can cause problems.

According to the U.S. Lake survey's six month forecast, the maximum level of Lake Michigan is expected to be about nine inches higher than that which occurred last summer.

This is attributed to recent above-average precipitation. These lakes are expected to reach their highest level about mid-August.

4-H scholarships for June grads

High school June graduates who plan to study forestry, plant or biological sciences in college may have a chance for a scholarship if they are or were 4-H Club members.

Four $1,600 scholarships will be awarded to students majoring or minoring in forestry. Candidates must have completed at least three years of 4-H work and be enrolled in their freshman year at an accredited college in the Fall of 1969.

Two $800 crop protection-crop production scholarships will be offered by Chevron Chemical Company - Ortho Division, to students with a major or minor in the plant or biological sciences.

Applicants for the $800 scholarships must have completed one year of 4-H work and be a college freshman this Fall.

Both Homelite and Chevron Chemical have provided 4-H scholarships for 13 straight years, through the 4-H scholarship fund program arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee, Chicago.

Scholarship applications should be submitted to the State 4-H Office. High school grade transcripts must accompany the application.

Final judging of scholastic and 4-H records will be done by a committee of extension personnel meeting in Chicago early in November. Winners will be announced during the National 4-H Congress held there November 30.

For further details, contact the State 4-H Leader or the 4-H Office of the County Extension Service.

Hospital plans open house

National Mental Health Week, which begins April 27 and continues throughout the week, will be observed at Traverse City State Hospital with special emphasis on Thursday and Friday, May 1 and 2.

These two days are "open house days" at the institution. Schools with junior and senior high grades are to be included as well as all college and adult groups. The hospital hopes this year that a large number of visitors will take advantage of this apportunity to see its program in action.

Included in the points of interest will be a large number of departmental displays, such as various types of handicraft, adolescent activities displays and hospital department information displays.

Also this year the Michigan Health Council's Health Career Mobile Unit will be on the hospital grounds and will be included in all tours. This is an extremely interesting and informative health careers display. It has always been most attractive to students of high school and college ages.

The hospital has waited for four years to be able to have this unit, and this year the Michigan Health Council will be able to have it at Traverse City. Members of the Munson Hospital Auxiliary will assist and provide hostesses during tour days.

All schools, colleges, churches, civic groups and any other interested groups are invited to make early plans to visit Traverse City State Hospital either May 1 or 2. Invitations and registration cards will be sent out to schools, but if these are not received schools should contact the Community Relations Department, and the material will be sent immediately. The institution hopes to make this year one of the finest in its Mental Health Week activities.

A WORLD BANK

A globe bank for the inhabitants of the world in which to deposit their savings—THE MATERIAL RESULTS OF THEIR PRODUCTIVE LABOR— would be a fine thing if at the same time this bank, composed of all the family savings banks, were not also stored with the hates, greeds, jealousies and avarices of the human race.

The savings which are the fruits of individual labor and thrift bring happiness but all the latter mentioned things, when stored up, breed discontent and war to the world.

In church, few people study war. The Church is the best assurance against the storing up and saving of those things that can cause it. You can do your part by attending the church of your choice and urging your friends to do likewise.

Evans takes NSR finals

HEAVENLY VALLEY, Calif.--First place honors in the Schlitz Giant Slalom-National Standard Race final event (Pro category) went to Bill Evans, 19, from Boyne City. Ernst Koeberl, of Heavenly Valley, Calif. took second place, and Hans Weissmuller from Alpental, Wash., came in a close third.

First place trophy is presented to Bill Evans of Boyne Country.

Snow and weather conditions were near ideal as 15 of the country's top ski school directors, instructors, and other professional skiers competed on the 27-gate slalom course under a handicap system similar to that of golf.

The leaders were followed closely by Manfred Krings of Mt. Snow, Vt., Hans Quahrenberger of Boyne Country, and Olympic Medalist Jimmie Heuga of Song Mtn., N.Y.

The National Standard Races (NASTAR) are sponsored by the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company and a national magazine to give recreational skiers their first opportunity to compete in a nationwide slalom competition.

The professional race has been added to the program as a means of recognizing the contributions made to the NASTAR program and to skiing by professional skiers.

This ad might save you about 500 bucks.

It's simply a matter of arithmetic. Say you're about to buy a new water heater. You have two choices, Gas or electric, right? Wrong. Once you read the facts you'll find that Gas is the only choice And here's why: Gas heats water faster for about ½ the cost of electricity. For the sake of argument, say you have two hot water heaters. A 40-gallon Gas heater. And an 80-gallon electric. Well, the truth is, that the 40-gallon Gas heater will produce more hot water than the 80-gallon electric for ½ the cost. That alone could save you as much as 50 dollars a year. And in ten years, that's roughly 500 dollars. Like we said: do you really have two choices? Bet you 500 bucks you don't.

Legislative Report

Rep. Robert Davis is concerned about the tendency of many of our Democratic colleagues to take an irresponsible approach to state spending of tax dollars.

"In 1965," Davis said "the last time Democrats controlled the House of Representatives, G.O.P. leaders predicted that additional taxes would be forced by their spening policies. And all of us know that is exactly what happened."

This year, with the Democratic Party in control of the House once more, there are strong indications that it's happening all over again. In an earlier report it was pointed out that certain key House committees had been heavily weighted in favor of big spending. Now there is a new hint of this philosophy which arises from studying the sponsors of the non-public school aid bill which was recently introduced in the House.

Governor William Milliken has repeatedly stressed that he would not approve significant new programs such as this unless the Legislature also adopted revenue measures to finance them. The plain fact is that there is not enough money to support new programs unless it is either taken away from existing programs, such as public education, or provided through new revenue sources. Therefore, it seems clear that legislators who support non-public school aid must also be prepared to support revenue measures to pay the bill.

Proceeding on that assumption, a check of House voting records is very enlightening. These records show that 30 of the current sponsors of the non-public aid bill were members of the House when the Income Tax bill came to a vote in 1987.

Of these 30, 24 are Democrats and six are Republicans. One of the Democrats did not cast a vote either way on the Income Tax. Of the remaining 23, fully 15 of them voted against the tax bill. All six of the G.O.P. co-sponsors of the non-public aid bill supported the income tax which served this state from financial chaos.

This instance pretty well summarizes a prominent theme among a great many Democratic legislators: commit the state on spending programs regardless of whether the money is available and regardless of whether taxes will have to be raised by someone else in the future. This is the basis for an irresponsible financial policy. It is extremely easy to vote for additional spending programs when you have no intention of supporting the taxation measures such new programs will make a necessity.

"These comments have absolutely nothing to do with the non-public aid proposal itself," said Davis. "My point here is based on an overall principal of fiscal responsibility and sound government."

"Democratic House members, who have led the support for non-public aid, have to wake up to the fact that Michigan is going to be placed in a serious financial dilemma again if they don't adopt a more responsible attitude. Whether they will accept this responsibility, as Republicans have repeatedly done, remains very much in doubt. Past actions would seem to indicate that they are willing to make the easy, popular decisions, but reluctant to back their actions up in a responsible manner," said Rep. Davis.

Official calls for improvement

James F. O'Neil, Treasurer of the State Board of Education, has written Governor Milliken and the state legislative leaders regarding Public Schools versus Parochiaid.

O'Neil pointed out in his letter while: financial aid to our public schools has doubled in the past ten years, and Michigan teachers rank 11th in the nation in average salaries, by contrast, our students rank 29th in the National Merit Scholarship Exams; the state ranks 23rd in its dropout rate (which has actually increased rather than decreased over the past five years, to the extent that 1 out of 4 ninth graders drop out prior to getting a diploma statewide and 1 out of 2 in Detroit; Michigan has the sixth worst crime record in the nation.

O'Neil also pointed out that the President's commission on "Crime and Delinquency" charges the schools with part of the responsibility for this condition because of: the irrelevancy of its curriculum; the mishandling of mis-conduct; racial, economic, and ability segregation; its negative attitude toward disadvantaged children; lack of realistic vocational education particularly in the secondary schools.

O'Neil said while he doesn't question the right of people in public education to oppose aid to non-public schools, he believes the more responsible thing is to so improve the public school system that people would not need to consider alternative systems. And, based on the above facts, it is obvious that improvement is needed.

O'Neil calls for greater emphasis on morals and values, particularly in the teaching of self-respect, respect for others, respect for the law, and good citizenship and the establishing of educational standards and accountability.

O'Neil has requested a meeting with the Governor and legislative leaders to consider specific recommendations for improving our public schools.

* Social Security News *

Two dates of importance are coming up. Gordon Sattelmeier, officer-in-charge, of the Petoskey Social Security Office reminds readers that March 31 is the last day of the 1969 general enrollment period for supplemental medical insurance (Part B) under Medicare.

Sattelmeier explained that the 1969 general enrollment period for medical insurance began January 1, and ends March 31.

For anyone born October 1, 1901, or earlier, who has not already enrolled, this will be the last chance to get the medical insurance protection. Those individuals now age 86 or 87 who have not signed up by March 31 will have to wait until the next open enrollment period in January through March of 1970.

Anyone just becoming age 65 is not affected by this March 31 date. They have a seven month enrollment period starting three months before the month of their 65 birthday and ending three months afterward.

The other date to remember is April 15. Anyone receiving social security checks in 1968, who worked and earned more than $1,680 during the year, is required to file an annual report of earnings with the Social Security Administration. This report is due on or before April 15.

If earnings were less than $1,880 for the year of 1968, no report is necessary. This applies only to those under age 72.

For further details, Sattelmeier suggests contacting the Petoskey Social Security Office at 2 Penn Plaza, Petoskey. The office is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday.

COLWELL EXCLUSIVES

We are now offering for sale a famous Charlevoix landmark. The Grey Gables Inn has established a reputation as one of northern Michigan's finest restaurants and has been featured in many national publications including Ford Times magazine. Because the owners wish to retire, this very profitable business is now offered. Many extras are included in addition to the main features that include a new kitchen, four dining rooms, a plush cocktail lounge (with 12 month liquor license) and wall to wall carpet. This business is completely equipped and ready to start earning profit. There are ten bedrooms on the second floor in addition to the restaurant and cocktail lounge on the main level.

Spaciousness is the key word in this four bedroom home. Living room, kitchen, dining room and bedrooms are all larger than usual. Plenty of storage area is provided in the kitchen with lots of cupboard space. Two bathrooms, one on second floor to serve the three bedrooms up, one bathroom (with new fixtures) on the first floor. There is one master bedroom on the first floor too. This older home is in excellent repair, with new roof and new gas hot air furnace. There is a garage too. All for $18,000.

Nothing to do but move in! This home on May Street has been completely remodeled. You'll love the richness of the wood paneling. A new bathroom and new kitchen built-ins will make this a dream come true for some lucky homemaker. Bedrooms and one bath on the second floor. Insulated and new gas furnace will make this a penny-saver in the winter months.

OUTDOORSMAN'S SPECIAL
Six miles from Charlevoix, situated high on a hill for a grand view of the beautiful countryside. This forty acre parcel offers the perfect location for the outdoorsman. Right in the center of some of Charlevoix County's best hunting this land includes a cottage and out-buildings with sewer and water improvements already made. There is a good amount of saleable gravel on this land.

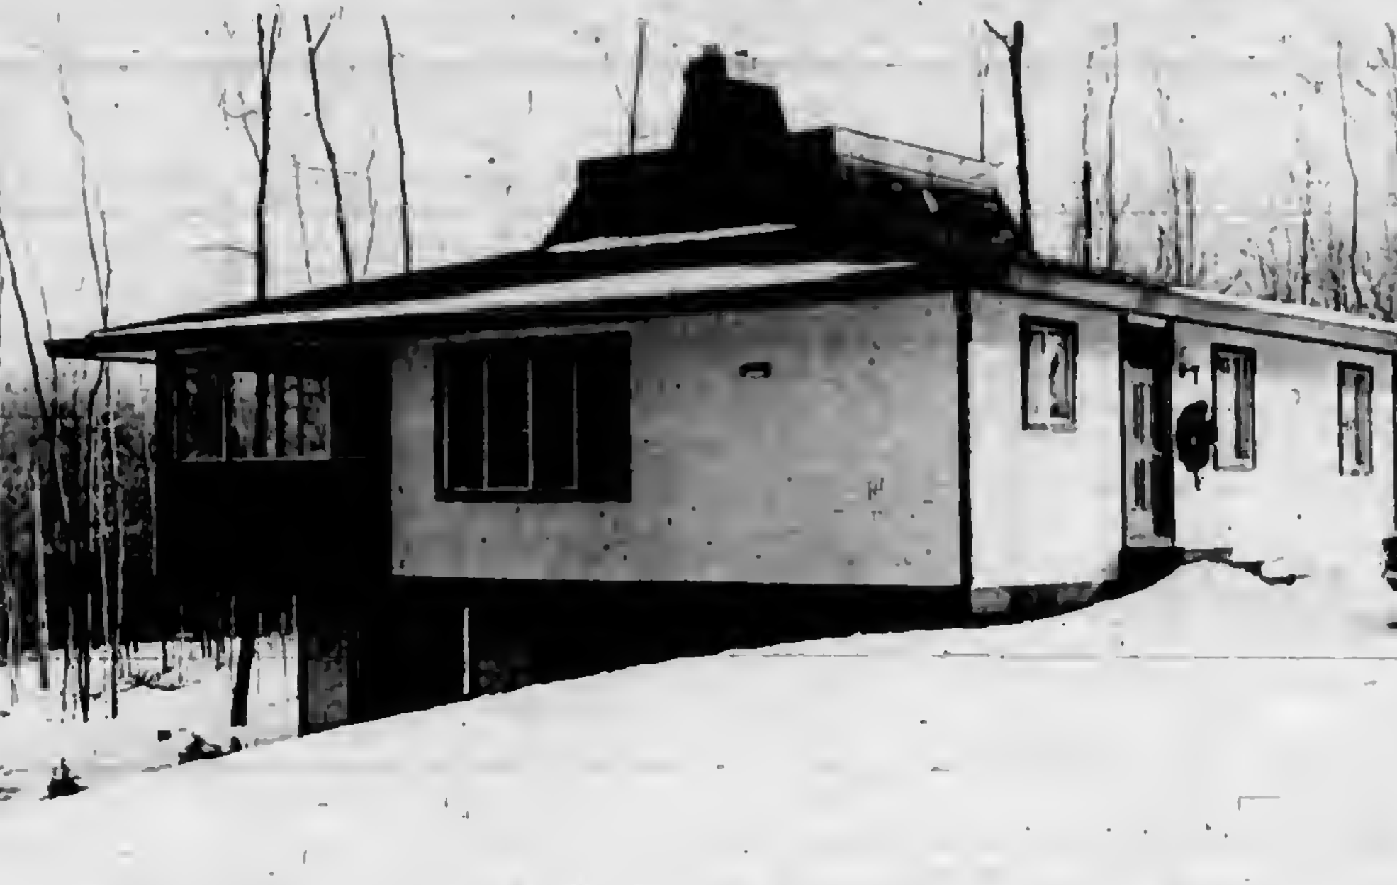
LaBlance home imaginative, elegant



The house of Steve and Becky LaBlance at Pine Point is built on a wooded slope.

For the past two years Steve LaBlance has been distinguishing himself as an imaginative and responsible builder. Now he has built a new home for his family at Pine Point, and he will soon have three more houses on that same block ready for occupancy. Each of these houses is different and each promises to add to the architectural beauty of the community of Charlevoix.

Steve LaBlance is a young man and his family is young, so Mrs. LaBlance has tried to decorate their home so that it would be both elegant and practical. The LaBlances have two boys: Dean, who is a year old, and Scotty who is three. They are both bright, lively children who should be relaxed in their home, not fearful of ruining something.

As for decorating the LaBlances have certainly succeeded in obtaining both elegance and practicality. Their living room, for instance, is a sweep of pale gold and green formal and lovely, but deceptively practical nevertheless.

Mrs. LaBlance purposely chose a coffee table with a distressed finish so that possible new scars would never show. Her pair of gold velvet chairs are scotch-guarded so that she can keep them beautiful for many years.

The boys can play freely in the recreation room on the lower level. This is a bright cheery room with windows on three sides and is carpeted so that a child can play comfortably on the floor. The room has a big fireplace which would be fine for a group of boys to use roasting marshmallows. Right now it is a good place for Scotty to play because it is adjacent to the laundry room where his mother spends so much time. Steve LaBlance's office is also on this lower level. Since the LaBlance house is on a slope, there is a ground level door from both floors.

On the upper level is the living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms and a sunroom. This sunroom is pure delight. It is on the corner of the house hung high over the hillside. From it, there is an everchanging view of the outdoors. Pine Point is a wooded area which has managed to keep its natural beauty. Steve LaBlance has taken advantage of this in designing his sunroom.

The dining room is adjacent to the sunroom and when they wish, the LaBlances can open louvered doors to give themselves this restful view when dining. Their dining room has a tiled floor to accommodate the many spills which are in store for the future. The dining room table appears to be carefully polished wood, but actually has a heat and scratch resistant finish.

The Steve LaBlances are fortunate to be moving into such a dream house when they are young enough to enjoy a lifetime of happiness there.

The recreation room is at ground level and makes a handy room for entertaining in the summer with a patio supper. In the winter guests can huddle around the fireplace.

Sharon Nielsen is spending the midterm recess from her school work in Big Rapids with her parents, Tom and Mary Nielsen.

Plans are progressing for the Mens Pancake Supper and tickets are on sale for Saturday evening, March 29. They will serve from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Bring your lady friend and enjoy their menu with us.

Rev. and Mrs. Harmon are the proud grandparents of a new grandson, Christopher Neal Harmon, who is the first grandson to bear the family name. Our Congratulations. Mrs. Harmon is spending several days with the family in Lansing.

Plans for the New Parsonage which were drawn by Ivan Parsons, are posted on the wall at the rear of the church. Perhaps this dream will come true, some day. Who Knows. The committee will meet Tuesday evening, March 25, and all members are urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Baker and Mrs. Hazel Jardine of Harbor Springs spent this Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Saunders, Mrs. Baker will be remembered as Ethel Ward, a former resident.

The first day of spring came with a flurry of snow followed by nice weather, making the ice look dark and the fisherman are taking their shanties off the lake. Just two left this Sunday afternoon, and we had an early Robin singing in our yard this evening, so it won't be long now before the grass will turn green, and we will hear the lawnmowers humming.

Student count down at Eastern

YPSILANTI - Enrollment at Eastern Michigan University for the spring semester is 13,503 undergraduate and 3,337 graduate students for a total of 16,840, Lewis E. Profit, vice-president for business and finance, announced this week.

This is a decrease of 193 from the fall enrollment. The total of undergraduates is up 100 from the September figure but graduate enrollment fell off by 293. There are 12,071 full-time and 4,769 part-time students studying on campus. Of the latter group, 3,126 are doing graduate work.

Off-campus education, directed by the field services division, has attracted 3,140 students for the current semester as compared with 2,344 last fall. This significant increase is due to a jump of 815, from 1,907 to 2,722, in the number taking graduate courses. Undergraduates went from 437 to 418.

The total of all students increased from 19,377 to 19,960.

Electrician Chanda returns to Vietnam

CHU LAI, VIETNAM--Construction Electrician Second Class Richard J. Chanda, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chanda of Route 2, East Jordan, arrived in Vietnam last month with Naval Mobile Construction Battalion 58.

MCB-58 is at Camp Shields, Chu Lai. This is the battalion's third Vietnam tour since it was recommissioned in 1966.

The Seabee battalion builds construction projects to support U.S. Army and Marine Corps units operating throughout the five northernmost provinces of the republic. This includes building airstrips, temporary housing, port facilities, fuel storage tanks, and drilling water wells.

The 740-man battalion is homebased at Davisville, R. I.

Locals

Sgt. and Mrs. Quinton Walker and children have returned to Fort Benning, Ga., after spending a leave with his mother, Mrs. Joseph Compo and Mr. Compo of East Jordan and with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Boss and family have returned to Spring Arbor following a recent visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Boss.

DUCKS ENJOY some of last week's spring weather with a swim and grooming work or Round Lake. Spring and winter joined hands recently, with both 50-degree days and light snow.

Obituaries

Louis H. Courtade

Louis H. Courtade, 71, of Charlevoix, a former Kingsley and Fife Lake resident, died late Tuesday afternoon at Ft. Pierce (Fla.) Memorial Hospital after a sudden illness.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at Smith funeral home in Kingsley, Rev. Gordon Terpening and Rev. Stanley Hayes officiating, with burial in Kingsley Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Courtade was born November 23, 1897 at Upper Sandusky, O., the son of John and Hannah Courtade, and on December 27, 1922 was married to Laura Voice of Kingsley. In recent years, the Courtades had traveled during the winter months.

Mr. Courtade lived in Charlevoix 19 years, since 1950.

Surviving are: the widow; two sisters, Mrs. Rose Miller of Caledonia and Mrs. Arthur (Agnes) Johnson of Kalamazoo; and a brother, Edward of Buckley.

A son, Robert, was killed in action in World War II while serving with the U.S. Air Force in the South Pacific. Two brothers, David and Adam, and a sister, Mrs. Nettie Price, also preceded Mr. Courtade in death.

The funeral will be held Saturday, 2 p.m., at Smith's Funeral Home in Kingsley, Mich.

Anyone who cares to contribute to the Heart Fund may do so in place of flowers, by contacting Fran Martin of Charlevoix.

Floyd Olney

Funeral services for Floyd Olney, 58, a retired Michigan Bell Telephone Co. employee and a former local resident, were held in Cadillac Friday. Burial was in a Cadillac cemetery.

Mr. Olney, who was widely known here, died unexpectedly at his home March 12.

Born in Charlevoix, he had moved to Reed City as a teenager and later made his home in Cadillac where he had served on the city council. He was a past president of the Michigan Bell Pioneers.

Surviving are his wife, Helen; two sons, Richard of Midland and Thomas stationed at Fort Monmouth, N.J., with the U.S. Army; a daughter, Mrs. Charles Durham of Mt. Pleasant; six grandchildren; a sister, Miss Valeria Ripley of Cadillac and his step-mother, Mrs. Guy Olney of Baldwin.

In Cadillac for the service were Mrs. Harry Gebeau, and Mrs. Arthur Paulson.

Library notes

Bright new book bindings have been popping out on the library shelves like spring flowers. The colors seem particularly attractive during the winter months, and the children's books offer particular eye appeal.

"Plants That Feed the World" by Rose E. Frisch is bound in a fresh summer green color. This easy-to-read and nicely illustrated book discusses which of our food plants are Old World plants and which are New World plants. The second section in the book describes accurately just why we must eat energy foods, proteins, vitamins and minerals with a special discussion of new foods which are being developed to meet the increasing food needs of the world. This is a juvenile but quite informative enough to be of interest to adults as well.

Another new book for children "Fruits We Eat" by Carroll Lane Fenton and Herminie B. Kitchen wears a soft peach cover. It is the third in a series that tells the story of living things which mankind grows. There are 52 attractive illustrations that contain over 150 of Dr. Fenton's delicate drawings.

One chapter deals with the citrus family, another with bananas, still another with olives and palms. Sixteen chapters in all with specific information about familiar fruits we eat and some which are not so familiar.

"State Birds and Flowers" by Olive L. Earle is ready for Easter in a cheerful yellow cover. Profusely illustrated, each page is devoted to a different state with a picture of the state flower and bird. This is an easy reference book with special juvenile appeal. The Michigan page shows a large apple blossom branch, a fat pair of robins and a small map of the state.

"Weather" by Frank Ross deals with the science of meteorology from ancient times to the space age. The author describes the major weather tools and the most recent methods of controlling weather. Anyone interested in meteorology as a career will find advice and information in the book, and young scientists will be especially fascinated with the numerous photographs of weather satellites, typhoons and experimental devices for controlling or studying storms.

"Oil", written and illustrated by Walter Buehr is a book for the young reader. From the first chapter, "What is oil? ", to the last chapter which discusses the many uses to which oil is being put, the book makes learning about this vitally important substance an exciting adventure.

"Plants in time" by Margaret Cosgrove is another book with a bright springlike binding. The author is no stranger to readers of nature books. In this, her newest, she traces the history of plants from their shadowy beginning when monsters moved among them to present-day dwarf plants which long ago were "dinosaur trees".

Her illustrations are delicately tinted with color. It is a book for young people, but it is also an entertaining read-aloud book for the entire family.

Books are not judged by their covers, but it is pleasant to see the bright jackets on the new books. Reading them will make the time pass a little faster for the young people who are waiting so eagerly for spring.

The school budget

In what appears to us a sincere effort to be completely honest with the residents of the school district, the Charlevoix School Board Monday night recinded its original budget request for a 4.5 mill raise for operational costs.

The new request, to be placed before the voters April 7, asks for a millage hike of 3.75, a drop of three-quarters of a mill from the proposal approved by the Board two weeks ago.

The cut, though not a large one IS important.

The ability to lower the millage was made possible when property revaluation exceeded the School Directors' expectations, bringing with it added revenue which would more than offset the accompanying drop in state aid.

At this point, the Board clearly had two ways to proceed.

First, they could have ignored the taxpayer, and not changed the proposed budget. The school system is operating this year at an approximate $20,000 deficit. Revenue at the 4.5 mill increase would have allowed the Board to build the general fund balance to a probable non-deficit level, saving a lot of accounting headaches as well as a considerable amount of interest dollars on borrowed money.

Their other choice was to lower the millage request, and continue to play the game in a very tight ballpark.

By traveling the latter road, they have displayed, we feel, a genuine desire to provide our youngsters with a good education, yet keep the ever-increasing costs of such at the lowest possible level.

Three-quarters of one mill will mean little difference in the school tax bill of the average taxpayer (75 cents for every $1,000 of assessed valuation), but with the bite of the Federal Tax Surcharge and increased property taxes locally, any amount, no matter how small, is appreciated.

Overall, we feel the budget is honest in its request for additional funds.

We do NOT feel an additional $60,000 for teacher salary increases is just, as it is inconceivable to us that students will receive a proportionately better education.

But, that increase is in the form of a "master contract", signed this past year for two years, and nothing can be done about it.

Under these circumstances, we cast a "yes" vote for the proposed 1969 - 70 school budget.

The rent check

In a little publisized move just over a week ago, Charlevoix City Council turned down a request from the Chamber of Commerce to allow the business organization to use the city-owned office rent-free.

According to Council, the decision to continue to collect $100 per month from the Chamber was reached only after "much deliberation"..

From the Chamber's point of view, the request shows an apparent belt-tightening. Our Chamber operates on a large budget in comparison with surrounding communities of similar size, but with tourism as important as it is, $1,200 worth of publicity could bring a few more visitors to the city.

Council, on the other hand, apparently feels they contribute sufficiently as a governmental body through low rent, utility payment and janitorial costs.

Both represent Charlevoix and its citizens. Council directly represents all the residents, and it could be argued that the Chamber does, too, in a more indirect manner.

However, we agree that the City Fathers have acted in the best interests of the populace by asking the Chamber to continue sending the rent check.

Higher Social Security

(Guest editorial from the pages of the Sun City, Ariz., News-Sun.)

Congressman Dominick V. Daniels of New Jersey has introduced legislation which would raise from $1,680 to $3,000 annually the amount of money a Social Security recipient may earn without penalty.

Long ago there was good reason to curb a Social Security annuitant's outside earnings. By restricting the sum he could earn to $100 per month in the 1930s and 1940s, the recipient could pick up a little pin money and that was that. Anything he earned over this sum came off the federal payment, so there was nothing to gain after this minimal point.

The lifting of the figure from $1,200 per year to $1,500 and now to $1,680 left the annuitant in virtually the same position -- the minor adjustment didn't even adjust adequately for inflation.

When the limit was instituted, however, the nation was just beginning to pull out of Depression. Jobs were scarce, and the earnings limit effectively removed senior citizens from the labor market. This worked to the advantage of younger workers, reducing the unemployment figure.

But times have changed. Unemployment, as a percentage of the total labor force, is extremely small. If we deduct the unemployables, those who constantly are changing jobs, and those who don't really want employment but are riding the gravy train of unemployment benefits, the problem is virtually nil.

Therefore, Congressman Daniels is on the right track with his new piece of legislation.

If the bill is faulty, it is on the upside. It would be better if the restriction were removed altogether. But that thought may be less realistic than Daniels' proposal, which no doubt has a better chance for passage than would a removal of the limit.

Hence, we recommend to Arizona's congressional delegation a favorable vote on the Daniels bill.

on the Flip Side

Spring just has to be here . . .anyway, that's what the calendar tells us, and last week at least, the weatherman cooperated also.

Sunny skies, 50 degree days and melting snow pull us outdoors. Our little five-year-old has taken to the backyard with the latest rage, something called a "Footsie".

This contraption, from what we can determine, has been produced by a national toy manufacturer to help lighten our pockets . . plus make us "over-20" types feel frustratingly inferior.

The grace with which the little one performs the act of spinning the plastic and rubber toy in circles with one foot, and jumping over it with the other makes the process look easy.

"Of course," we say when invited to try our hand (actually, our foot) at it. With budding confidence, we place the ring around our ankle. "If a five-year-old can do this on the first try," we think, "there's no way in the world the city championship can escape us, with our superior balance and agility."

The illusion ends with the first spin, as the rubber rope that connects the circle with the thingamajig on the end wraps around our jumping foot, and we end up sprawled on the driveway.

Championship dreams fade as we struggle to our feet, wondering how to explain to the wife that the new hole in our trousers was secured in the line of duty, footsling with our daughter.

As we limped to the house, it seems the offspring has the beginning of a smile on her face, as she sings a little song, footsling off to a girlfriends'.

Though the skiing season is over for all intents and purposes, perhaps we could again make a suggestion for next year.

Would it not be possible for one of Charlevoix's service organizations or fraternal clubs to donate ski equipment for youngsters to use in a "learn to ski" program at Mt. McSauba?

The cost of equipment keeps many youngsters from the beginner's hill.

We have been told that roller skates were made available to the youngsters, so why not an effort to provide ski necessities in a similar manner?

* * *

Glen Snider, Eementary School principal, invited us to the school last week to watch the finals of their basketball tournament.

Those youngsters really put all they have into the game. Not even a national championship could have brought out more desire in the players than this school title did.

We kept looking for the CBS color cameras to join the fans (schoolmates and parents). Young lassies became frantic cheerleaders, complete with pom-poms; and the players' mothers will all find one undershirt missing in this week's wash. . they were, with help from magic markers, miraculously transformed into basketball uniforms of great artistry.

Strategy sessions were continuous along the sidelines . . on the court, all plans were thrown to the wind, and it became a contest to see how many defensive players could jump on the boy with the ball at the same time.

Defense was the byword. One score at the end of the first quarter read 0-0; by the half, 3-2; final, 7-6.

When the littlest ones were on the court, it was difficult to tell if they were controlling the ball, or vice versa.

Lest anyone think otherwise, we enjoyed the games. We'll happily give you the NBA in return for an occasional trip to the Elementary School to watch a third or fourth grader try, with such enthusiasm and spirit, to throw that great, big ball through that little hoop.

FATAL FACTS: The Michigan State Police report there were 146 highway deaths in February . . one less than in the same month a year ago . . but delayed reports normally add slightly to the first figure. The February toll was ten more than the five year average and brought the state's death total to 281 for 1969, compared to 277 in the same period of 1968, which set a new record.

YOUTH BIT: Michigan 4-H clubs have announced a program to put "reflective tape between the ears" of bike riders rather than on their bicycles. Rather than sticking tape on fenders, young cyclists will use a programmed learning technique to acquire a step-by-step knowledge of safe cycling and to develop proper attitudes toward highway safety and courtesy while still in their formative years. Highway officials express enthusiasm for the experiment.

Pass the yak, Jack

Before the waitress arrived with the menus, my wife and kids had already decided to order the specialty of the house - Hot Dogs. Not me.

"I think I will have flaming filet of yak, Peking style," I said.

"Here he goes again," said my son.

"Dull men don't get heartburn," I said. "I am a swinger and I want heartburn."

"You don't even know what a yak is," my wife said. "How do you know it will give you heartburn?"

"The yak is the long haired wild ox of Tibet. I looked it up in my Funk and Wagnalls," I said. "And the Alka Seltzer man on TV guarantees that yak will give me a sophisticated burp."

"What is a sophisticated burp?" asked my daughter.

"That is the type burp that you burp into your clenched fist, pursing your lips gently against the circle made when your index finger is curled against your thumb. You then put your fist into your pocket and unclench it. The unpleasant sound does not escape until you hang up your trousers that night," I explained.

"What if you don't have a pocket?" asked my daughter.

"Use your purse," I said.

THE WAITRESS came then and I fell to thinking while she returned to the kitchen to see if they had any yak. I pondered the marvelous possibilities newly uncovered by this Alka Seltzer commercial which says: "It is better to have lived and had heartburn than to not have lived at all."

Beautiful. This is a completely new approach to huckstering. For years the medicine peddlers have been telling us how to stop headaches, relieve acid indigestion, erase soreness, cure aches and keep regular. Never have they said, "Go ahead, get drunk. It's fashionable. All the movie stars do it. And Mother Martha's Morning - After Spray Mist will kill your hangover pleasantly anyway."

The Alka Seltzer commercial shows the way. There is this incredibly handsome man, see. All the women give him hot eyes when he swaggers into this restaurant and fills his pretty face with filet of yak, Peking style. He says he ordered yak because it was there, and he'd never had any. Adventure. You just know he is going to climb a mountain on the way home.

The yak gives him heartburn, but so what? The women keep panting while he plunks 2 Alka Seltzers into a glass and glugs his misery away. I knew he was an unusual fellow when I saw him get 2 Alka Seltzers out of their tinfoil packet without crumbling them. It takes a good man to do that. Also, he had to wait only half as long as mortal man for the Alka Seltzer to disintegrate in the water.

The next step is for crutch manufacturers to encourage little old ladies to go skiing with the jet set. "No-Limp Crutches have non-skid tips, padded armpit rests, and built-in TV. So why worry about breaking a leg? Jackie Onassis doesn't."

The ultimate is obvious: "Jump out of a plane. All the best people are doing it. So what if you don't have a parachute? You should see our gravestones. . . . ."

The waitress returned to say they had no yak.

"Ok," I said, "give me a hotdog and stab me with a fork. I want to use the Bandaid the astronauts use."

Onward and Upward.

Letters to the editor

School Financing Bill

Editor, Courier:

The purpose of the Citizen Advisory Committee on Financing Schools in contacting you is twofold: First, to encourage your participation in a statewide conference in Lansing at 9:30 a.m., Monday, March 31, which is aimed toward solving the crisis in Michigan in the financing of public education; second, to urge any action on your part that will result in consideration by the legislature of the Spencer Bill.

The purpose of the March 31 meeting is to permit an open discussion of school financing problems. The meeting will be held at the Civic Center in Lansing. It will be attended by representatives of a number of groups throughout the state and several legislators will be present. This will be an excellent opportunity to hear and be heard on what's happening now on the topic of financing education. It will also be a demonstration at which those who are concerned about financing education can make known their concern through their presence. A goal is to have three persons from each elementary public school in the state attending.

On a separate matter, the Spencer Bill, co-sponsored by Representative Roy Spencer and 23 other legislators, is emerging as the soundest education Bill in the current session. To be passed, however, it will require terrific support from those who favor a change in the way our schools are financed.

The Bill cannot be discussed in a paragraph, but would result in the following:

1. A reduced level of property taxes.
2. Financing through a statewide income tax of 1-1/2% on individuals, 3% on corporations.
3. The spreading of corporate taxes on a statewide basis.

The Spencer Bill does not cover each of the points in the Position Paper prepared by our Committee last month. It does, however, cover the key points and is, without question, a vast improvement over the present State Aid Formula. The Michigan Association of School Administrators is supporting the ideas contained in the Bill. These include a reduction in the emphasis on higher property taxes and a substantial increase in the funds to support K-12 education from state funds.

A starting point is for the Spencer Bills (House Bills No. 2265, 2266 and 2267) to get out of committee.

It is apparent that to date the support in the House Education Committee has split mainly along party lines. It would be regrettable if political differences were allowed to endanger the prospects of this legislation.

We suggest that those who favor a thorough discussion of the merits of the Spencer Bill contact the seven legislators who have not co-sponsored the Bill. These people are in a position to "bottle up" the Bill in Committee, preventing it from reaching a vote in the House as a whole. If you want a thorough and open discussion of the Spencer Bill, let these men know as well as your own State Representative and State Senator. If possible, attend a legislative hearing on the Spencer Bill which will be held Thursday, March 27 at 7 p.m. in Chambers of the House of Representatives, Lansing. Act now. The time is short.

Sincerely,

Ronald F. Scott
Chairman

Cakes 'n Candles

Robert John Malison will be three years old, March 31. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Malison of Charlevoix. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kornely of Manitowoc, Wisconsin.

what's a funny place for a phone?

That depends a lot on your sense of humor. If making tracks across a clean carpet to get to a telephone leaves your wife a little less than happy, then perhaps there's nothing so funny about an extension telephone in the garage or workshop.

Extension telephones make sense. They save time by letting you use a telephone wherever you are.

Call your Michigan Bell Business Office or ask your telephone man. For as little as ninety-five cents a month (plus tax) you can put an extension in any funny old place you'd like.

Council awards $32,714 sewer contract to firm

City Council awarded a $32,714 sewer contract Monday night for work on May Street, from Belvedere Avenue to Garfield Street.

William A. Porter of East Jordan submitted the low bid on the project. Mayor William Fochtman said the contract is "the first step of sewer extensions to serve the southeast and southwest areas of the city." When completed, virtually all of the city will be served by sewers.

Other bidders were Bartlett Construction of East Jordan, $44,763.05, and Raymer Swart Company of Grand Rapids, $37,981.60.

The contract calls for completion of construction within 90 days.

Council also passed a resolution allowing the Weathervane Inn, Inc., to expand their operation. Zoning on W. Dixon Street, west of Michigan Avenue, was changed from R1 to C1. Weathervane officers plan to construct a convention center and additional motel units on the property.

Council noted that construction must be started within 18 months, or the property would revert to R1 zoning.

The proposed Westcourt development of Jim Richey was turned down by Council. Richey proposed a subdivision of low-cost housing units, federally-subsidized, in the $17,500 price range.

Council declined approval of the plan, noting that the Planning Commission feels that a portion of the area bound by Grant and Carpenter streets would be zoned light industrial.

Richey had asked Council for a decision so he could proceed with construction or drop the proposal.

The planners passed along a report to Council, including population estimates for Charlevoix.

According to the commission, the city will have 3,875 permanent residents in 1990. Seasonal residents will total 1,860, for a total population of 5,735. This is a 1,035 increase over present figures.

Monday's session was the final meeting for two members of Council, Mrs. Marie Webb and Jerry Whitley.

Mrs. Webb will be succeeded by Tom Hanna. Whitley, who resigned because of a change of residence, will be replaced by an appointee of Mayor Fochtman.

School Board, administration issue tax plea to residents

An open letter to the Charlevoix voter:

Your school board is asking for an increase in operational millage! We know that you are sick of hearing about an "increase in taxes" every time you turn on the radio or pick up a newspaper.

And, we know that you feel very intensely that here is the only time you as a taxpayer, and you as a voter, can say NO--and, boy, are you going to say NO!

Let's think for a minute what we are saying "NO" to. We're not saying "NO" to an increase in teachers' wages, because last fall the State fact-finder recommended, and the agreement was signed, granting an eight percent increase for the next school year. So what we are saying no to is:

"No, our kids don't deserve the same opportunity that other students in the area-or in the state-are getting."

You hear so much talk about assessed valuation, state equalized valuation, state aid, and mills per thousand, etc., until it all gets very confusing. But one thing is very clear. We need your "yes" vote for 3 3/4 mills on next Monday's ballot--to wind up with approximately the same number of dollars to spend per student as Petoskey has, or Harbor Springs has, or Boyne City has.

We feel that our students deserve as much as these other communities are providing. . .and really, don't you think sp too?

Charlevoix Board of Education

To the Voters of Charlevoix:

The Administration of the Charlevoix Public Schools urges the voters of the district to vote for the requested millage increase of 3 3/4 mills, or $3.75 per $1,000 state equalized valuation.

The revenues received from this levy will be used to improve our present program in the areas of guidance, special education, and physical education, to initiate an art program; to maintain our present pupil-teacher ratio in the elementary grades; to absorb the cost of opening the new building; to meet the constantly rising costs of education, and to eliminate the school's deficit.

The Administration is also urging the citizens to vote one mill, to be used exclusively for the purchase of materials and equipment to be used by our boys and girls. Knowledge has increased tenfold in the past twenty years. Our children must have the necessary materials and equipment to prepare themselves to live effectively and happily in their generation.

Lt. Don Luedke board president

Lt. Don Luedke of Charlevoix was elected president of the Board of Directors of Big Brothers of Charlevoix County last week, as the newly-formed group continued to organize.

Other persons elected to the Board include Dale Fassett, vice president; Mrs. Geneva Miller, secretary; and Mrs. Jackie Tompkins of Boyne City, treasurer.

Remaining positions on the screening committee were also filled. The full group consists of Dr. William Ratigan, chairman, Bob Elliott, Dale Boss, Dale Fassett, Jim Marshall and the Rev. Don Schorsch.

According to Lt. Luedke, the chapter has established a goal of three big brother-little brother matches by the end of the school term. No matches have thus far been made.

The organization will hold its next meeting April 22 in Boyne City.

Library groups meet at CHS

Librarians and student assistants from 12 schools in the upper half of the lower peninsula gathered at Charlevoix High School last Saturday for the regional SLAAM (Student Librarians Assistant's Association of Michigan) and MASL (Michigan Association of School Libraries) meeting entitled "Around the World Through Books."

The first order of business upon arrival was a coffee hour, a brief concert by the senior band and welcomes by high school principal Raymond Carr and director of school libraries, Mrs. Joy Mudge. Immediately following, the 77 students from the SLAAM group departed for a tour of Consumers Power Company while MASL members met separately.

After the return of SLAAM members both groups held business meetings and elections of officers. Elected chairman of MASL for the coming year was Mrs. Lucile Martin of Charlevoix; vice-chairman is Mrs. Grace Snyder of Northport and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Carolyn Peterson of Leland.

New SLAAM officers include: president, Mike Yarch of Cheboygan; vice-president, Barb Novotny of Charlevoix; secretary, Linda Kneetel of Alpena; treasurer, Ruby Kovarik of Northport and historian Lynn Spence of Bellaire.

After lunch in the high school cafeteria, author and professor at Central Michigan University, John Carson, entertained the group with a very interesting speech on his books.

Displays of objects from foreign countries which were collected by Charlevoix SLAAM members attracted considerable attention throughout the afternoon. Included in the guests attending were Menchu Tantoco, Philippino exchange student, and Ineke Romeyn, exchange student from Holland.

In all, approximately 104 people attended up from Alpena, Cheboygan, Petoskey St. Francis, Northport, Kalkaska, Mancelona, Gaylord St. Marys, Onekama, Bellaire, Leland and Alcona.

Townships plan annual meetings

Area Townships will be holding their Annual Meetings this Saturday, as the "town meeting" concept continues in the state.

Information about time and place of many of the meetings will be found in this edition of the Courier. For other details, contact your township clerk.

Primarily, the meetings are held to review the township budget, and to discuss any other business important to township residents.

13 Charlevoix teachers find positions closed

Thirteen teachers in Charlevoix public schools were dismissed from their jobs by the Board of Education Monday night.

According to the Board, some of the teachers probably will be re-hired if the school budget is approved by the voters next Monday.

School Superintendent Rex Milligan said teachers must be notified that their jobs will not be available the ensuing year at least 60 days prior to the close of the school term, June 6.

Should a teacher receive no notification, he or she is automatically re-hired for the next term. As the general election falls this year on April 7, the Board took action as if the millage increase had been turned down.

Milligan and Glenn Kenney, Board president, stressed that some of the dismissed teachers would be re-hired if the budget passes. They also added that some teachers were dismissed because they hold "special" teacher certificates, and not as a reflection upon their work.

Teachers who had tenure in previous positions and taught in Charlevoix this year who were granted tenure here were Pauline Moore, Barbara Wilson and James Jinsky.

In the same category, but dismissed at the close of this school year, are James Bystrom and Joy Mudge.

The following teachers are employed in the district this year and have been offered probationary contracts: Constance Ford, Mary Seaman, Pauline Austin, Barbara Berlage, Carolyn DeMoor and Dennis Carr.

Released teachers in that category include Berhara Cook, Emma Payne, Mary Haggard, Jill Deacon, Barry Anderson, Joyce Rypkema, Larry Ford and Gary Shanley.

Two teachers who have taught in the district for two years were given tenure: Duane Taylor and Peter Spieles. Two year teachers receiving dismissal notice were Robert Hein, Marie Osterberg and Sally McNamara.

Dorothy Richey, in the system for three years, also was given tenure.

On the above measure, three Board members cast "yes" votes, while Dale Boss voted against the move and Frances Hooper abstained.

Boss told the Courier, "I voted 'no' because I disagree with the Board, who through pressure, voted to put two individuals on tenure."

In other business, the Board approved a request by the junior class to hold the Junior Prom at Bay View Inn, Petoskey.

It was noted that the dance is not normally held away from Charlevoix.

However, due to repair work in progress at the Belvedere Club, scene of last year's prom, the Board felt no suitable location was available in the city. Band X will entertain the dancers, at a cost to the senior class of $400.

The Board also approved modifications in the new elementary building at a cost of $565, and a change order for the vacuum system totaling $4,539.

Approval of a total payment to Barnes Construction Company of $390,976.70 was issued. Remaining balance on the new building totals $837,553.90.

Also on the receiving end was the Charlevoix County State Bank, as notes for operational expenses in the amount of $100,000 were paid.

Record growth rate reflected in First State Bank's totals

First State Bank of Charlevoix reached a significant milestone last Wednesday, when, for the first time in the bank's 64-year history, it passed the five million dollar mak.

Jerrald H. Redeker, executive vice president, stated that this achievement was believed impossible just 16 months ago, when the total footings of the bank were only $3.4 million.

"The directors, officers, and staff are all justly proud of the 56 percent rate of growth in that short period of time," he commented.

To thank the community for their confidence and support, First State Bank will be giving away a beautiful AM-FM transistor radio to some lucky depositor, who will represent the $5,000,000 person. Further details will be published in next week's Courier; and are also available at the bank.

First State Bank of Charlevoix has a number of "firsts" to its credit, which prompted the change of name from The Charlevoix State Savings Bank on November 6, 1968. First State Bank was the first bank in the State of Michigan to offer $3.50 per hundred per year financing of consumer goods. Although this rate has been changed due to increased costs of money, First State still is a leader in the state with its $4.50 rate to customers of the bank.

Charlevoix County's first drive-up bank window was opened by Mayor William Fochtman in January, 1968. First State led northern Michigan banks in offering 5 percent 90-day time certificates in handy passbook form, and First State is one of the only banks in the entire state with no service charges on checking accounts, personal or business, regardless of number of checks written, or balances maintained.

"People are still a bit skeptical about our latest first", Redeker said. "They still don't want to believe that they can obtain a needed service free of charge, without some strings attached.

"Another first which our customers really appreciate are the longer banking hours," Redeker pointed out. The drive-up window is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday thru Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday. Busy people, on the go, like the convenience of this type of service.

First State Bank has had several inquiries about another of its firsts which won't be a reality for a few months. This is of course, the community room in the lower level of the new main office of the bank now under construction at 111 State. This room will be available to all interested groups in the Charlevoix area.

The new bank, which will be carpeted throughout, will have private loan offices, in addition to the familiar loan platform, board room, bookkeeping, and drive-up window. A heated red sidewalk under the north canopy will be a carry-over of the "warm red sidewalk" which now greets customers at the Bridge street office.

A raised hearth fireplace, and a receptionist located right in the lobby of the new bank will add to the warmth and cordiality which has become a trademark of the new First State Bank.

Band dinner set for April 10

The semi-annual Charlevoix High School band dinner will be held Thursday, April 10 at the High School cafeteria. The proceeds will be used to pay for the new band uniforms. They have $1,500 yet to pay. Donations may be sent to Mrs. Clare Martin at the First State Bank of Charlevoix.

Mrs. Marie Blissitt, food manager and the high school cooks will prepare the menu which includes swiss steak, mashed potatoes, green beans, cole slaw, coffee and milk, and pineapple upside down cake.

Kitchen chairman is Mrs. James Alspaugh; dining room chairman, Mrs. Clarence Smith; assistant dining room chairman, Mrs. Frank Schuch; clean-up chairman, George Lusk; and Mrs. Robert Hooper is in charge of coffee.

Dinner will be served from 5 to 7 p.m. Charge for adults is $1.25, and children under 12, $.75.

Junior musicians take festival honors

The District Junior High Solo Ensemble Festival was held in Gaylord last Saturday. It was the largest junior high function yet held, with 450 entries playing in ten different sections.

Nineteen events were performed by Charlevoix participants, and the following received I ratings:

Susan Pettis, flute solo; Sara Sweet, alto saxophone solo; Peg Berg, French horn solo; Diane Boss and Debbie Wolgamott, flute duet.

LoAnn Wolschleger and Diane Alexander, clarinet and oboe duet; Bonnie Majors and Jean Carey, clarinet duet; Terry Phelps, Nita Martin and Cathy Begrow, flute trio; Cathy Otto, Kit Lieberman, Diane Potter, Paul Klooster, Georgia Light and Marty Anders, brass sextet.

Susan Pettis, Bonnie Majors, Peg Berg, Jeanne Berry and Sue Way, woodwind quintet.

Receiving second division honors were: Jeannine Etienne, clarinet solo; Kitty Gergle and Ginger Berg, flute duet; Kathi Blissett and Sara Wilson, clarinet duet; Bonnie Majors and Jeanine Etienne, clarinet duet; Sue Way and Janet Dinwiddle, saxophone duet; Christy Potter and Chris Moore, snare drum duet; Debbie White and LoAnn Mason, snare drum duet; Jerry Wheal, Mark Kroll and Elaine Carr, horn trio.

A clarinet duet, with Sherry Wertman and Diane Curtis was awarded a rating of three.

Medusa returns to production

The Medusa Portland Cement Co. at South Point is back on the line after a two month maintenance shut-down, a spokesman for the company reports.

During the period, however, there were no lay-offs as company personnel continued the general maintenance of the plant and assisted with the installation of a new clinker cooler plant.

The new clinker cooler system, costing in excess of $600,000, replaces the original cooling system which proved unsatisfactory for use at the local plant.

Since resuming operation, the plant is manufacturing approximately 10,000 barrels of cement per day.

The Medusa Challenger, the company's cement carrier which was at Manitowoc during the winter months, was returned to service last week when it transported its first load of more than 50,000 barrels of cement to storage silos in Milwaukee. The ship opened the 1969 season three weeks ahead of last year.

On Tuesday, the Challenger made its way to the Penn Dixie dock on Little Traverse Bay to take on its first cargo for the Petoskey-based plant.

The U.S.C.G. Cutter Sundew and the CG Tug Arundel were called from ice breaking duties at the Straits of Mackinac to assist the Challenger through the ice to the dock. The Sundew returned to the Straits area while the Arundel remained in Little Traverse Bay to assist the Challenger through the ice to the dock. The Sundew returned to the Straits area while the Arundel remained in Little Traverse Bay to assist the Challenger to open water after taking on its cargo.

PTA fair set

Charlevoix's annual PTA Fair will be held Saturday, April 19 in the elementary school gymnasium.

Chairman of the event is Mrs. Douglas Bloom. Working on her committee are Mrs. Conrad Klooster, tickets, and Mrs. Virginia Cunningham, publicity.

Ruppe visits 'Sugar Shack'

Congressman Philip Ruppe toured the North last Friday and Saturday, and spent several hours in Charlevoix, talking to the voters and making a first-hand inspection of the Kiwanis maple syrup workings.

Ruppe was hosted by realtor Don Anders during his local visit and seemed to enjoy his respite from political activities.

His visit to the "sugar shack" was punctuated by questions directed at Kit Carson, chief syrupmester who was busy refining the clear liquid to a thick finished product.

Two large cans of fresh brew were firmly tucked under the legislator's arm when the visit ended.

Ruppe followed the tour with a session in City Hall, answering questions and holding conversations with any residents who stopped by.

Miss Joanne Hooker weds Sgt. Curtis

Joanne Hope Hooker daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William J. Hooker of East Lansing, and Sgt. Franklyn Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Curtis of Charlevoix, were united in marriage Friday, March 28.

The double ring ceremony was held at the Alumni Chapel at Michigan State University. The Rev. Jack Harrison officiated.

The bride wore a short white sheath dress with white lace sleeves. She wore a short white veil and carried a bouquet of white rosettes and hyacinth blossoms with ivy.

Mrs. F. Curtis

Maid of honor was Christina Cross of East Lansing and the bridesmaid was Mrs. John Russo of Lansing. They wore identical mint green dresses with long lace sleeves. They carried bouquets of yellow rosettes and miniature carnations.

Flower girl was Deborah Golob, niece of the bride. She wore a short green dress with lace cap sleeves.

Best man was Garry Balch of Charlevoix. Groomsman was Charles Carey of Charlevoix. Ushers were James Dennis of Dayton and Peter Carey of East Lansing.

The reception was held at the Michigan Automobile Dealers Association Building in East Lansing.

The bride will graduate from the University of Michigan with a Home Economics major in June.

The groom is serving in the United States Air Force and will be stationed in Taiwan.

Miss Williams weds Edward P. Davis

Shirley Williams became the bride of Edward Patrick Davis on March 8.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Williams of Petoskey and Mr. and Mrs. Perry F. Davis and Yvonne C. Davis of Charlevoix.

Rev. Burth Harris of East Bay View performed the ceremony.

Maid of Honor was Mary Renkiewicz of Petoskey and the best man was Edward C. Hammond of Boyne City.

The couple is making their home in Petoskey.

The bride is employed at Giles Restaurant and the groom at Little Traverse Hospital.

Miss McBride to wed Glenn Cunningham

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Reynolds announce the engagement of their daughter Betty Jean McBride to Glenn Cunningham, son of Mrs. Arthur Cunningham and the late Mr. Cunningham.

The bride-elect is a student at North Western Michigan College. Mr. Cunningham is an engineer draftsman at Freedman Artcraft. A wedding is planned for June 28.

Cakes 'n Candles

VICKI Falting won't be fooled on April Fool's Day when she will be six years old. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Falting, Jr. Grandparents are Mrs. Tony Boris of Boyne City and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Falting, Sr., of Charlevoix.

Dan Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hess Jr. will celebrate his ninth birthday Friday. His grandparents are Mrs. Ralph Hess of Charlevoix and Vincent Den-Braber of Grand Rapids.

Library Notes

In observance of the Holy Week of Easter, the Library will have special books of inspirational reading and prayer on display.

Of particular interest is the handsome volume "These Are The Sacraments" as described by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and photographed by Jousuf Karsh. The book contains nine splendid full-color reproductions and 32 black-and-white illustrations by the master photographer. This is the fourth in a series of works devoted to the rites and history of the church. It is, and will continue to be, a joy and continuing comfort to every Christian.

A new addition to the library is "Michelangelo" -- a biography of the great Renaissance genius. His life story is told though his own works of art which are reproduced in 31 striking photographs. There are examples of his masterpieces in the Sistine Chapel, the Chapel of Sam Lorenzo in Florence and beautiful reproductions of his most famous and well-known statues.

"The Lord Is My Shepherd" with stories from the Bible edited by Nancy Barnhart is an unusually attractive "take-home" book to be read aloud by the family. The stories are briefly told and the black and white ink drawings are noteworthy.

"The Progress of the Protestant" is another new addition to the library. This is a large pictorial history from the early reformers to present-day ecumenism by John Haverstick. The book contains 500 vivid and unusual pictures -- old prints, caricatures, cartoons and photographys. Church history has never before been presented in this way. It is an unusual example of what a picture book can accomplish. The author has been religion editor of Life and is now editor-writer for the Stewardship Council of the United Church of Christ.

"Pathways to Understanding" the familiar and beloved book of inspirational thoughts by Rev. Harold E. Kohn has special meaning during the week of Easter, because of the author's wonderful ability to combine the world of nature with the problems of our own existence. This slim volume of essays are adventures in meditation.

"One God" -- The Ways We Worship Him--by Florence Mary Fitch is the story of the three great religions of American and the different ways God is worshipped in this country. It is a rewarding and satisfying book for puzzled parents who will find answers to the many questions that children ask about God, prayer, religious differences and ceremonies. The book is divided into three sections--The Jewish Way the Catholic Way and the Protestant Way. Each section has been endorsed by leading educators and national organizations of these three religions. It is well illustrated with black and white photographs.

"Animals of the Bible" is a delightful book for children which is approprtato for the Easter season. Winner of the First Caldecott Medal, it was considered to be the most distinguished picture book for children. There are beautiful double pages of the Creation, Noah's Ark and full-page drawings of Daniel's lions and Jonah's whale. The Bible animals are interpreted with Dorothy Lathrop's great gift as an artist and her special love and understanding of animal life.

A new record album "Highlights from Handel's Messiah" conducted by Leonard Bernstein may be circulated from the library. Another particularly beautiful recording for the week of Easter is Menotti's dramatic work "The Death of the Bishop of Bridisti" conducted by the Boston Symphony with Erich Leinsdorf.

For the younger patrons, Bobby Bare's album "This I Believe" offers gospel-inspirational favorites in his special folk-country style. The songs include "Just a Closer Walk with Thee"--"When God Dips His Love In My Heart" and "He's Got the Whole World In His Hands."

Crooked Tree annual meeting

"The Men In Our Lives" will be honored at the Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council annual meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 8. This meeting, for delegates and all adult Girl Scout member of the 11-county council and their husbands, will be proceeded by a dinner at the Northwestern Michigan College Student Center. Election of board members and delegates will be included in the annual business.

Speaker for the evening will be Jack Barrows of the Girl Scout Regional Staff, Chicago. His topic will be "Girl Scouting in Tomorrow's World."

Girl Scouting is made possible through United Community Chest support in Mason, Manistee, Benzie, Wexford, Grand Traverse, Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. United Fund board member are particularly invited to attend this Girl Scout Annual Meeting.

Local cleanup costs $1,490

LANSING -- Like ambitious housewives bent on getting an early start on the spring season, Department of State Highway maintenance crews are busy with their annual "house cleaning" on 9,207 miles of state highways.

Michigan's capricious winter, replete with sub-zero cold and January thaws, may have been a pleasant dream of winter sport fans, but it was a nightmare for the men charged with putting our highways back in order.

There are potholes to fill, traffic signs to mend and replace, grass to sew and fertilize, and the repetitious, expensive chore of picking up tons of bottles and cans and other roadside trash thoughtlessly discarded along highways during the snowy months.

Roadside cleanup is one of the more expensive operations---a record $827,067 or $2,266 a day on state highways last year.

During fiscal 1967-68, a total of $1,490 was spent in Charlevoix County for state highway cleanup.

Drug abuse topic of farm meeting

A talk and movie concerning drug abuse will be the topic of a meeting sponsored by the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau Women's committee, next Tuesday.

Pharmacist David Fowler will serve as moderator for the program, to be held in the Top-O Michigan Rural Electric Building in Boyne City. There is no admittance charge and all interested persons are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

"Life insurance also can do two jobs in your savings program. First, it gives you a systematic, semi-compulsory way to save cash you'll need for college. Second, it assures you that the money will be there even if you aren't.

A $10,000 whole life policy taken out at age 30 will cost about $190 a year. After 10 years, it will have cash value of about $1,300. After 15 years, the cash value runs about $2,100. With a waiver of premium clause, the policy will continue in force--and the cash value will continue to increase--even if you become disabled. And, of course, if you die, the policy pays the face value."

Jim Marshall at the Charlevoix Agency and American Community Mutual are prepared to help you begin this sound plan of savings and protection.

Charlevoix County farm leader receives award

William Parsons of Charlevoix, well known Charlevoix County farm leader and active in rural electrification work, was cited for special recognition at the 21st annual meeting of the Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc., on March 26, at Boyne City.

Parsons, together with other Charlevoix and Antrim County leaders Clinton Blanchard of East Jordan, and two former directors, Peter Wieland, Ellsworth, and Herbert Ruggles, Ellsworth, the latter two now deceased, received citations for their contributions to area rural electrification.

Blanchard, Wieland and Ruggles served as incorporators of Northern. Blanchard having completed 21 years of service choose this occasion to retire from the Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative Board and will be succeeded by Walter Wiegandt of Johannesburg.

Delegates and guests at the annual meeting heard John Hodge, well known area resources agent, describe the problems with area power supply which lead to the establishment of Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative. He praised the contributions made by area leaders in making electricity available through out Northern Michigan.

Organized in 1948, Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative is the wholesale power supplier for Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Cooperative and other rural electrification associations serving over 40,000 farms, rural homes, commercial and other establishments in the Northern third of the Lower Peninsula.

5 MILLION DOLLARS

It takes a lot of change to make five million dollars. That's how much we have on deposit at the Red Carpet Bank. In the banking business five million bucks may not be a large amount of money, but to us it is.

To us at the First State Bank it represents the confidence of the people of Charlevoix and surrounding areas who have come to us for full bank services.

The rapid growth of our deposits (from $3.3 million in Jan., 1968) is the result of leading the bankers of northern Michigan in paying the highest rates of interest on savings, charging the lowest rates on loans, giving free checking accounts to all, providing drive-up banking and Red Carpet service.

The officers, directors and staff of First State Bank would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped us hit the five-million dollar mark.

Charlie Pischner of Green Bay, Wisconsin has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McDonough.

Leon La Freniere of Ludington visited at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry La Freniere.

Mary Ann Palmer was in Charlevoix for a few days last weekend.

The Dominican Sisters held open house in their new convent home for the Islanders Sunday afternoon, March 23.

The new seven bedroom Convent, located toward the beach from the Church, is a beautiful building both inside and out and a credit to all who have participated in any way to have this building built. The sisters served coffee, punch, donuts and cookies during the affair. Later in the season another open house will be held so others may see the end result of a noble effort. The tentative date has been set for the dedication on May 31.

Mrs. Bess Haynes has returned to her home here after spending the winter months on the mainland.

Mrs. Kate Connaghon returned home this week after spending the winter months in Charlevoix with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Max Selfridge.

Phyliss Gregg has been home from Grand Valley College for the past week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Gregg.

Mrs. Joy Green and Mrs. Jean La Freniere were hostess for a Stork Shower for Mrs. Jeanne Gillespie on March 25, in the home of Mrs. Jean La Freniere. Jeanne received many lovely gifts. About 30 women attended the affair.

Five seniors of the class of '69 attended the Government Day at Boyne City High School on Monday, March 31. They were Mary De Vogel, Judy La Freniere, Marie Connaghon, Eddie Connaghon and Ron Wojan.

A report from the Chicago-Beaver Island Party Committee to Father Louis Wren that the party netted $1,080. This sum will be sent to Holy Cross Church. About 325 people attended the party. The door prize of $10 was won by Bussy La Freniere, who donated it back to the fund. Bob Delaney won a blender, and Pet McCafferty, another prize.

Jewell Gillespie is on the mainland for a few days.

Library Assoc. sets workshop

The third 1969 annual workshop of the trustee section, Michigan Library Association is scheduled for April 26 in Harrisville, in the Alcona County Library, from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. The area coverage for this meeting is the approximate 18-county spread of the northeast and northern counties of Michigan. It is, however, open to the general public statewide. The final workshop will be held on June 14, in Houghton.

These meetings are held annually to bring to local library trustees as well as to all library-minded citizens up-to-date information about library improvements, developments, and even establishment. It is a 'refresher' session for trustees to learn more about their vested responsibilities to their community and about the services a good library should deliver to its patrons.

It should be of vital interest to all governmental authorities of these library areas since financial support for their operation is a part of every city, township or county budget or through their authorized millages. It should be of real concern to all citizens interested in library facilities to learn of the progress and future programs in this field and how these advantages can be obtained.

Legislation both statewide and nationally which is so essential to all phases of education - - and libraries are the heart of education - will be defined.' Also, the participation of the individual voter securing more favorable legislation.

Pertinent printed matter will be available for study and take-home, and competent resource personnel will be present to analyze problems and make recommendations.

Mrs. K. (Pat) Valentine, Chairman of the trustee division, will chair the meeting. She too has had considerable personal trustee experience in the public library in her home community of Clarkston, and willingly shares her experience.

Easter, A Time Of Joy

A noted pastor has said, "the matter of a joyful religion as part of a joyful life has been sadly underrated." Certainly Easter is a season of joy and many people, some who attend infrequently, will flock to church services on that occasion to catch the happiness that prevails at that particular time.

Many do not realize that in church attendance and its activities there is a deep and abiding joy, manifest throughout all seasons of the year. The Church leads the way to a life of gratification by exemplifying the many passages in the Bible calling for joyful expression and living. All this is summed up so well by the author of Ecclesiastes when he wrote, "every man should eat and drink and enjoy the good of all his labor; it is the gift of God."

Yes, there are many joyous occasions in store for those who attend the Church of their faith this Easter Sunday, then religiously throughout the remainder of the year.

LOCALS

Among those who were in Kingsley for funeral services for Louis Courtade recently were Mrs. Gordon Moeller, Mrs. Steve Kowbel, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn B. Snider.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Curtis were their son, Sgt. Franklin Curtis of K.I. Sawyer AFB at Marquette and his fiance, Joanne Hooker of East Lansing.

Staley named conference VP

Leonard Staley of Charlevoix High School was named vice president of the Michigan Huron Shores Conference for the coming year at a meeting last week.

Other officers elected were Clifford Buckmaster of Petoskey and Jay Soderberg, Courier sports columnist, secretary-treasurer.

Outgoing president is George Pike of Cheboygan High School.

In business matters the conference went on record opposing the new state tournament format which will begin in 1971. The plan will extend tournament play one more week with the finals alternating between Ann Arbor and Lansing.

Golf was approved by the conference as a spring sport beginning this year as seven schools agreed to participate.

A conference meet will be set later and run off on a medal play basis with four golfers from each school taking part. Only Rogers City and Alpena Catholic will not have teams.

The conference basketball trophy was awarded to St. Ignace and it was decided to hold the fall meeting at Boyne City with the winter session going to Charlevoix.

Hospital Guild Items

The 15th annual meeting of the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Hospital was conducted on March 10 by retiring president, Mrs. Floyd Brown.

The reports given showed the expenditures for the year totaled $3,061.07 towards equipment and serivces for the hospital. The balance from last year $620.22. The receipts for this year were $2,756.50. The year closed with a balance on hand of $315.65.

The membership report showed 170 inactive members and 145 active members. The candy sales were $482.02. The profit of $151.84 is applied to the nursing scholarship funds.

The memorial and gift receipts were $192.00.

Mrs. Brown expressed her appreciation and thanks for everyone's cooperation and support. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Gordon Freedman, incoming president.

Plans were discussed for the summer project. A Kitchen Tour will be held on July 16. It is hoped that this year's tour will be every bit as successful as the Kitchen Tour held in 1967. Anyone interested in joining in any of the committee work please call Mrs. Freedman.

Candy is available by calling Mrs. Darrell Dinwiddie.

Memorial and Gift cards may be sent by calling Mrs. Harry Gebeau and Mrs. Byron Wright.

The next regular meeting will be held at the Charlevoix Hospital on April 14.

By Mrs. Ross Alexonder

We are happy to know that Madame Chevy Sevcik has returned to her home after spending several weeks in Little Traverse Hospital, and is much improved and looking forward to the many spring tasks in her beautiful garden.

The men of our church had a record attendance at their pancake supper Saturday evening. The tables were filled several times. They wish to thank each one who attended and also those who worked to make it such a success.

This weekend we are mourning and honoring one of the great men of this generation, Dwight D. Eisenhower. Few men have won the victories in a lifetime that he did. He was a friend of all mankind, and his biggest aim was to restore peace over the world. We have lost a sincere friend and leader from our Country.

Paul Fiedorek is one of Charlevoix's Finlest High Jumpers and hopes to set a school record this year.

Bill Carey one of the youngest track men on the squad will be running the lows hurdles and lend a leg-depth.

Ed Whitley will be one of the fine returning letterman. He will run the low and high hurdles, pole vault and also do some relay work.

Stewart Coleman reaches out to get his arms and legs in shape for the coming season. The first meet will be with St. Ignace and St. Francis.

MANY THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all the fine people of Charlevoix and the surrounding area who helped to make our Grand Opening Celebration a huge success.

Council Proceedings

COUNCIL MINUTES
March 17, 1969

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date with Mayor Fochtman presiding. Aldermen present: Gill, Mol, Sundberg, & Boss. Absent: Aldermen Webb & Whitley.

The Minutes of the March 3, 1969 meeting were approved as presented to the Council in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes book.

Water Rate Resolution offered by Alderman Boss and supported by Alderman Sundberg.

WATER RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED by the City of Charlevoix that in order to operate a more efficient water system, does hereby resolve:

The construction, alteration, repair and management of the Water System shall by under the direct responsibility of the City Superintendent. The City Council may make such rules, orders and regulations as it deems advisable and necessary to assure the efficient management and operation of the System.

The rates to be charged for water services furnished by the System presently in effect, shall remain in effect until March 31, 1969 or as near that date as practical. Commencing April 1, 1969, the schedule of rates shall be as follows:

Consumption Rates

First 2,000 gallons per month or any part thereof - $2.00 minimum.

Next 48,000 gallons per month - $ .40 per 1,000 gallons

Next 50,000 gallons per month - $ .30 per 1,000 gallons

Next 100,000 gallons per month - $ .20 per 1,000 gallons

All over 200,000 gallons per month - $ .10 per 1,000 gallons.

The above consumption rate shall be doubled for all residential water customers located outside the City Limits.

Connection Charges

Charges for connections to the System for three-quarter (3/4) inch connection shall be $135.00. Plus $15.00 extra for Read-o-matic meter. Larger size connections shall be charged a connection charge equal to the actual cost of labor and material.

DEPOSIT

A cash deposit of $25.00 as security for payment of water rates shall be required of each user in such cases as the City Council shall deem such security to be advisable, or in such cases where a deposit is required by the provisions of Section 21, of Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended.

Billing

All bills shall be rendered to users on a monthly basis and said bills shall show the amount due and, if not paid within fifteen (15) days after the date rendered, five per cent (5%) of the bill shall be added thereto as a penalty for failure to make prompt payment.

Enforcement

Charges for water services shall constitute a lien on the property served. On or before October 1st of each year, the officer in charge of collection of such charges shall deliver to the tax assessing officer a certified statement of all water charges the six (6) months past due and unpaid. The tax assessing officer shall then place such charges on the next general tax roll and the same shall be collected as part of the general City taxes.

The City shall have the right to shut off and discontinue the supply of water to any premises for the non-payment thereof when due of water rates and charges and said water shall not be turned on until the sums then due and owing shall be paid in full and a turn-on charge of $2.00 is paid.

No free service shall be furnished by said System to any person, firm or corporation, public or private, or to any public agency or instrumentality.

Resolution adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Gill, Mol, Sundberg, & Boss. Nays: None. Absent: Aldermen Webb & Whitley.

Sewage Rate Resolution offered by Alderman Boss and supported by Alderman Sundberg.

SEWAGE RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED that effective the first day of April, 1969 or as near that date as practical, the following rules, regulations, and rates shall be effective. The Same general conditions and terms as set forth for the Water Department shall prevail where applicable, plus the following conditions:

1. To compensate for water used in sprinkling lawns and gardens, a discount on bills rendered for June, July, and August will be allowed in the amount of 15%. Any customer who desires may install a separate water tap and meter at standard charges and the water used through this tap and meter for sprinkling purposes only shall be billed at a standard water rate, but shall not be billed for sewage disposal services.

2. Any customer who owns his own source of water but who discharges such water into the City Sewage System shall provide for a meter to measure such water and shall pay for the same at standard sewage disposal rates.

The following Sewage Disposal rates shall apply and be billed monthly:

Minimum Bill: $1.60 per month.

Well, just as we expected, March is going out like a sullen stubborn lion with a cold, cold wind. . .the sun is trying desperately hard to shine this Sunday afternoon. But, who knows, we may be able to wear our Easter Bonnets next Sunday after all. Everyone in our community extends the blessings of Peace to all our friends and neighbors both far and near this Eastertide.

Mrs. Effie Arthur has returned home after spending the past month with relatives in Detroit; also, Mrs. Pauline Canfield has returned from her winters journey to St. Petersburg, Florida, and in southern Michigan.

The annual Good Friday Service will be held in the new Baptist Church in Charlevoix, Friday afternoon at 1 p.m., and this Thursday evening will be our annual Maunday service with the Communion Service. The Easter service will be next Sunday at 10:30 a.m. with Sunday School, and there will be no break before the regular service at 11 a.m. So come early and be sure of a seat, as we usually have a full house.

Bethany Church plans services

Palm Sunday was the occasion for confirmation at Bethany Ev. Lutheran Church, Charlevoix. Accepted into membership by the rite of Confirmation were Carol Cunningham, Cindy Funk, Brenda Forbrig and Darcy McCandless.

Joining the class were two adults, Mrs. Josephine Werner and Betty McBride. In the morning meditation the pastor took the opportunity to remind the confirmands and worshippers the importance of remaining faithful to their God.

For the sermon, Pastor Duane Imig choose the various memory verses of the confirmands. Following the service, a reception for the new members was held in the church basement. Coffee and coffee cake were served by the ladies of the congregation.

Schedule of Holy week services: Maundy Thursday, April 3, Bethany Ev. Lutheran Church will hold services beginning at 7:30 p.m. Remembering the institution of the Lord's Supper, services will celebrate Holy Communion. Members of the confirmation class of last Sunday will celebrate their First Communion.

Commemorating the Death of Christ, Bethany will hold Good Friday services at 1 p.m., Friday. Pastor Imig will be the liturgist for this service. George Krestik, a student at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, will be the guest speaker. Krestik's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Krestik are members of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Mancelona. St. Matthew's congregation is also served by Pastor Imig.

Easter Sunrise services at Bethany will begin at 6:30 a.m. The theme that will be considered is "Safe and Secure". Following the service, an Easter breakfast to which all are invited will be served in the church basement. The breakfast will be served by the congregation.

At 9 a.m., the congregation will hold regular worship services with the celebration of Holy Community. The text for this service will be John 20: 1-10. The theme suggested by the text "The Sermon from Emptiness" will be considered.

LOCALS

Mrs. Mary H. Goodenough, daughter, Mary Beth and sons, Bryan and Robert, a student at Ferris State College, and his fiance, Carol McWain a student at Central Michigan University returned from a visit in Chicago and Morrison, Ill.

Mrs. P. R. Ross returned home last week from Holly Hill, Fla., where she has spent the winter months. Her daughter, Mrs. Betty Creede of Cadillac, went to Florida for a visit and returned home with her. She will make her home at 202 Nettleton-ave.

Farm Bureau members attend Lansing seminar

Farm Bureau members from Charlevoix, Antrim, Kalkaska, and Manistee counties were among the area representatives at the annual Legislative Seminar for the Northwest Region held in Lansing last Wednesday.

Reports of the Bureau's legislative program and its progress were heard at the morning session, followed by a luncheon with state legislators.

Several persons from this region and from urban areas discussed issued vital to farmers and rural residents.

The group adjourned in the afternoon to attend sessions of the Senate and House.

Robert Smith and Dale Sherwin are working for the Bureau to develop policies and principles.

GVSC Band to tour

Sixty - seven Grand Valley State College Concert Band members will tour northern Michigan April 8 and 9 with a unique musical program entitled "History of Music In Six Pairs." The presentation will feature selections by two composers representative of the classical through the contemporary period.

Included in the program is the music of Bach and Handel, Mozart and Hayden, Brahms and Mendelssohn, Cole Porter and LeRoy Anderson, and climaxing the presentation, the contemporary music of MacBeth and Kabalevsky.

Charlevoix resident Kristin J. Lieberman, is a clarinetist with the band.

Miss Lieberman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.G. Lieberman, 216 Park Ave., Charlevoix.

The GVSC tour will commence April 8 at 8:30 a.m. with a concert at Kenowa Hills High School, Grand Rapids; then north to Kingsley High School for a 2:30 p.m. program, and following dinner in Traverse City, an 8:30 p.m. concert at Ellsworth High School.

Overnight accommodations at homes in Ellsworth have been arranged through the generous invitation of local residents. Conclusion of the tour on April 9 will be a 9:30 a.m. concert at Mancelona High School.

The band, under direction of Daniel Kovats, GVSC assistant professor of music, will feature a string section for the tour. Two narrators, Cynthia J. Richardson of Onsted and William W. Glover, Muskegon, will describe historical influence prior to each musical segment.

Garden Club hears about new plants

Members of the Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Darrell Dinwiddie for their March meeting. An interesting program was given by Mrs. Connie Raymer on "What's New in Plants for 1969."

We are all interested in the new-seed and garden catalogs when they arrive each spring and are amazed at the new varieties and colors in flowers, vegetables, and shrubs. Each year there are additional plants entirely new or greatly improved which are offered for the first time.

These are usually pictured in full color and are introduced with the same kind of fanfare used by auto dealers to present their new cars.

How are all these new creations brought into being and how were they discovered? I thought it would be interesting to take a peek at what goes on behind the scenes in producing something new for our gardens each year.

There are some genetic breakthroughs by plant breeders that touch on the daily lives of all of us. These breeders need to be versed in genetics, evolution, the underlying chemistry of life, the mystery of the living cell, plant mutations, cross pollination or hybredzation, chromosomes, as well as have infinite patience and do extensive research.

There is an old saying, "There is nothing new under the sun," but in the plant world there is something new under the sun. It may be a new plant or flower found growing in our own garden. It is possible for a white flowering branch to appear on a pink crabapple, and if this white bud is removed and propagated, a new white flowering crab comes into being. Burpees Spring Catalog has a new one that flowers but does not produce fruit. Nature, like an artist, is not satisfied with the masterpieces, so with the help of man tries to make them a little better.

The master switch that starts a plant to flower is yet to be discovered. We do know a plant must reach a certain state of maturity before it is ready to flower and reproduce and also environment governs a plants development.

Withholding water from a Cactus for a period of time and then supplying it will cause it to bloom.

An overfed Nasturium won't blossom. The poorer the soil the more profuse the bloom.

Gardening this summer can be a more fascinating hobby if we watch for mutations or natural hybredization in our gardens. Who knows but one of us might find a new rose or petunia.

But these rewards are secondary a far greater compensation is the enjoyment we experience and the appreciation we feel for all the new creations we are given each year.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. Pearl Rowe, Tuesday afternoon, April 8, and our lesson will be on "Vines and Ground Covers for Accent, Interest, Beauty, and Service" by Mrs. Jeannette Cameron.

Ruppe and ABM

U.S. Congressman Philip E. Ruppe visited Charlevoix County last Friday, and the personable legislator from the U.P. told the Courier he was in favor the "thin" ABM system.

Though our Washington representative did not go into great detail concerning his stand, he did make the comment, "I guess I'm trying to be talked out of it, but right now I am in favor of the thin system."

Ruppe feels the system will serve as a deterrent to our enemies...a physical "look here, don't attack us because we'll retaliate with more missiles than before."

From our view, the ABM will in fact do little more than prove that the military has taken control of our country over the howls of our few enlightened Congressmen.

Though we rarely take a stand on a national issue (there are enough local subjects to keep us busy), this is one time we are so moved.

We urge all area residents to write Congressman Ruppe and tell him to vote against appropriations bill which includes ABM funding.

Our Representatives listen to the voices of their constituents. We feel Philip Ruppe will heed the call of the North.

The bond dilema

President Nixon and Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy can't make restitution for the E-bond shortcomings of the Johnson Administration. But they can start being fair to future buyers.

The government has cheated E-bond buyers in 2 ways:

First, by conducting its affairs in an inflationary manner. The purchasing power of the interest and principal has been eroded.

Second, by paying a niggardly, below-the-market rate of interest.

Recently, the Treasury offered 15-month notes to yield 6.42% and 7-year notes to yield 6.29% in a refunding deal. These are the highest U.S Treasury rates since 1865.

If the government pays large scale investors -- insurance companies, banks, mutual funds, pension funds -- such rates, can it honestly offer only 4.25% to Mr. and Mrs. Everyday Saver?

When the Treasury sells a major issue, the price--the rate--has to be right. If not, the offering will flop. And the Federal Reserve Banks will be embarrassed into bidding for the new issue.

The small saver is a victim of habit, or ignorance, or his employers who urge participation in payroll savings plans. He isn't wily. He doesn't search for the best return. He doesn't know the market.

He relies on the government -- his government. He takes what he gets. And he has been getting a wretched bargain. The Secretary of the Treasury has a fiduciary responsibility. He sits on both sides of the table in setting interest rates on E-bonds. No negotiation, no haggling, no arm's length bargaining. His guideline is his conscience.

Today, investors in high-grade public utility bonds get a return of 6½% or 7% and sometimes more. Treasury issues pay 6%. And 5% to 5¼% rates are commonly available on certificates of deposit at savings banks and savings and loan associations.

A Paradox

(Guest editorial from the pages of the Christian Science Monitor)

Consider this paradox:

Today a larger percentage of the American population than perhaps ever before is aware of the need to help one's neighbor secure a greater measure of social justice, and economic well-being.

Yet seldom, if ever, have so many Americans been ready to engage in lawlessness, inflict pain and injury, and mock the rights of others in order to "do good," and accomplish such change.

Instead of greater order and tranquility having come with this growth in social conscience, there has come a decline. In short, what we see in an increasing willingness to do harm and hurt in order to achieve what many feel are worthwhile ends.

Clearly, when such a situation arises, something has gone badly awry. Indeed, society is even justified in asking if the good being sought through today's violence and agitation may not be canceled out by the volume of injustice and injury being perpetrated.

When, as an example, a whole university is upset, teaching suspended, individuals assaulted, in order to correct some wrong or some negligence, can we really say that the end-result will be a gain? When student militants reassert the old, discredited claim that the end justifies the means, who can truly state that not more harm than good is being done?

There are few more dangerous doctrines than that which says that, merely because one believes ardently enough in a goal, one has the right to use almost any means of winning it. This is the argument of the assassin, the warmaker, the mass-murderer.

There are times, as during the patent and immoral denial of civil rights, when vigorous action is called for, and when an improved situation can result. But such action seldom requires the activists or the militants to step on the rights of others, to run the risk of killing or maiming either their opponents or guiltless bystanders.

It cannot be said too often that in a democracy there are means of making oneself and one's group heard without recourse to undemocratic action. Colleges and universities, say, can be made well aware of student demands without the seizure of buildings, the wrecking of property, the denial to others of the right to go to classes. Indeed, when authorities acquiesce in such actions, they themselves are showing a lack or regard for others' rights. No rights can be permanently or honorably won through infringing the other man's liberties.

Don't let anyone ever tell you again that an individual's own vote is worthless.

Noticing a complete lack of candidates for the office of Justice of the Peace, Bartel wrote in his own name.

Does a vacation--or a weekend--far from city crowds in an island paradise of sparkling waters, abundant fishing and unspoiled forests appeal to you? If so, there's a treat in store for you within easy driving range at Michigan's picturesque Beaver Island.

The March "Outdoor Living" issue of Motor News, official publication of the Automobile Club of Michigan, calls our state's "Emerald Isle", "An ideal vacation spot for those looking for unspoiled Americana and a momentary escape from the harsh realities of city living."

This issue will go into the homes of 835,000 Triple-A members in Michigan. Motor News continues:

"Located in Lake Michigan, 25 miles northwest of Traverse City and 35 miles southwest of the straits of Mackinac, Beaver Island boasts dense pine forests, sunny meadows, spring-fed lakes full of trout and bass, plant life to delight a naturalist and exceptionally friendly natives and summer residents. Deer graze in the meadows.

"A passenger ferry, the 'Beaver Islander,' with a capacity of 11 cars and 200 passengers, makes the pleasant 2½ hour trip twice daily on weekends and makes one round trip each weekday and three round trips on Sundays for June 22 through September 4. The fare is $3 one way ($5.50 round trip) for adults and $1.50 one way for children. If you want to take your automobile, the fare is $10 each way. Detailed information on schedules and rates is available from the Beaver Island Boat Company in Charlevoix."

"Picturesque St. James Village, the island's only settlement, is strung along Paradise Bay. Its motel, stores, post office, restaurant, bars, fishing sheds, and marina are interspersed with residences, open spaces and abandoned buildings dating from the mid-1800's. Paradise Bay, at the north end of the island, is said by sailing folk to be one of the snuggest anchorages in the Great Lakes.

"The Erin Motel, less than a block from the boat landing, is one of the island's newest accommodations, and as good as many you'll find on the mainland. Rates start at $8.50 a night--a room with two double beds costs $14.50 a night. For those who have a bent for picturesque accommodations, there is the older King Strang Hotel, with a large, comfortable front porch and a high-ceilinged, airy lobby. Rooms here are $4 and up.

"There are plenty of other facilities on the island--lodges, cabins, cottages and tourist courts, as well as a number of good eating places. A resident physician is subsidized by the state and four women residents are registered nurses. There is a small clinic for medical service.

"If you wish, you can leave your car in the police-patrolled Charlevoix dock parking area, where parking is free, but be sure to ask about the proper area in which to park if you do so.

"Rachel Field wrote a poem that begins 'If once you have slept on an island, you'll never be quite the same.' Visitors to Beaver Island soon learn what she meant."

I've got a problem, Ann

Dear Ann Landers:

I certainly never thought I'd ever write to you. Then I got married. Since then, I've wanted to drop you a line at least once a week. But I've been too busy. One of the things I've been busy at is reading your column every day.

"Did you read Ann Landers today?" my wife asks me at breakfast. I always know what this means. It means you have again punctured huge holes in the head of some dumbo husband who made a twitchy move toward daylight. And my wife is telling me I will benefit from your wise advice because, by an amazing coincidence, I am the same kind of a dumbo. These amazing coincidences occur once every weekday and sometimes twice on Sundays.

If I do not read your column by dinner time, I will be reminded again. Have you ever eaten a layer cake with one of your columns between the layers? It is something to chew on.

Listen, Ann, I don't really mean to be critical. You give a lot of stupid answers but this is not all your fault. You are asked a lot of stupid questions. And besides, these complaining women usually don't give you all the facts to work on. Take that women who was worried because her husband wore her nightgown to bed. You advised her to bundle Dumbo off to the funny farm. Your advice would have been different had you known that Dumbo's wife has somehow lost 63 pairs of his pajamas in the laundry in -- just 2 years. In Dumbo's pajama drawer there is nothing except her nightgowns and 26 jars of cold cream. Should he wear cold cream to bed?

However, Ann, please do not be discouraged by the nagging of just one dumb husband who can't stomach newsprint in his cake. Yours is a voice that should not be stilled. The world needs someone who deals publicly and intelligently with the important issues of the day. How else would Myrtle Housewife know it is socially acceptable to be slightly rude to a neighbor divorcee who borrows Myrtle's husband to do some plumbing and plumb forgets to return him? Gracious. Remember that divorcee who didn't even return the cups that Dumbo came in?

I'll admit, Ann, the biggest reason I've wanted to write you in the past was to give you heck for loading my wife's gun. But that's not the reason for this letter. The truth is, I've got a problem. . .

It's my wife. She is a backseat driver when we are not in a car.

This incredible truth struck me when I took the family to the movie in the big city last Sunday. Before sitting down, it is always my task to storm the popcorn counter for sufficient supplies to feed 4 fat faces for 2 hours. I get in line behind the brass rail which separates the spenders from the lookers. The kids get the seats. My wife waits on the other side of the rail, ready to help me carry off the booty. Only she doesn't wait. She leans over the rail and gives me directions.

"Not too much butter," she says. "Don't forget the napkins. Are you sure jumbo sizes are big enough? Not too much salt. The butter is right in front of you. You pay that girl over there. Don't forget your change."

Some movie day, for sure, she is going to fall over that rail. Which brings me to my problem, Ann:

If she does fall, should I put down the popcorn and pick her up? Or should I step over her and deliver the popcorn to my starving children? Please answer quickly, Ann. This popcorn is getting heavy.

Onward and Upward.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

"While a few of the rebellious and discontented are participating in riots, protest marches, and destructive action, a large majority of us are spending our time studying, learning, and preparing ourselves for the future. You don't hear much about us for we aren't violent, or drug addicts, or hell raisers. However, we, too, are concerned. We're concerned about those of our generation who are shouting obscenities and disgracing the American flag. We're concerned that the disturbance they cause has labeled all of us as "the hippy generation", "the disrespectful teenagers", and "the unmannerly group"."

These are the words used by Estelle Hunter, national president of the Future Homemakers of American, as she told of the 600,000 FHA'ers who don't participate in riots or protest marches or set out to deliberately break the law. And we are only one group! There are millions of young people like us who are practicing the principles of good citizenship, who ARE helping the underprivileged, and who DO respect our parents and our teachers and think of local police forces as our friends. We don't get much publicity because we don't get into much trouble. We're too busy doing worthwhile things!

The reason the FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA selected FOCUS ON POSITIVE ACTION as the theme for our National FHA Week is to encourage our FHA chapters to carry out projects and activities during this week to give exposure to what youth is doing in a positive way to promote the principles of good citizenship and work toward the improvement of our society. We believe it is time for us to begin protesting the protestors. We believe it is time for us to raise our voices loud enough to drown out the noise of the rebellious and the irresponsible.

We want to concentrate on the positive. We want a piece of the action, yes, but we want it to be positive action with constructive results.

Future Homemakers of America--from Maine to Hawaii--from Puerto Rico to Alaska---12,053 chapters the length and breadth of this land, are focusing attention on their twenty-four years of endeavor and accomplishment as a national organization. This organization, of home economics students, in junior and senior high schools, can be identified by their red and white, octagonal emblem showing a house supported by two hands suggesting that the future homes of America are in the hands of youth. Rays extending to and from the house indicate the influences of the home and the community on each other. The emblem bears our motto TOWARD NEW HORIZONS.

The young men and women who are members of FHA believe that the homes of the future ARE in the hands of youth. Through their concerns for better homes, for a better America, and through their activities and projects they translate into meaningful perspective the concepts they learn in the many phases of their educational experiences. Leadership and citizenship responsibilities take on new dimensions, and as they proceed toward their new horizons they are proving that youth does know, youth does care, and youth can do in a positive and constructive way.

Among the younger generation this is the year to "DO YOUR OWN THING!". And FHA Week provides a wonderful opportunity for each chapter to "DO its own thing" by giving public exposure to FHA projects, activities and purposes.

FHA'ers throughout the state are stressing constructive activities to snow that the more than 10,000 Michigan members are dedicated to improving life in America. As president of the State Association of FHA I urge you to use the week to give full recognition to this wonderful organization!

Thank You,
Jodi Goodrich

Issue telephone directories Fri.

New Charlevoix-Emmet County telephone directories will be delivered by Michigan Bell Telephone Company Friday.

Kenneth T. Harrold, manager, said some 24,200 directories will be delivered in Petoskey, Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Harbor Springs, Pellston and Walloon Lake.

The covers of the new telephone books feature a color reproduction of oil painting, "The Americans Take Over Fort Mackinac." This is one in the series of historical paintings done by Robert Thom under a commission from Michigan Bell.

Although the Treaty of Paris in 1783 formally ended the Revolutionary War, British garrisons remained in western forts to protect their fur trade. General Anthony Wayne's victory at Fallen Timbers in 1794 convinced the British that eventually the Americans could capture the forts.

Wishing to remain at peace, the British agreed to withdraw and Fort Mackinac was occupied by American troops on September 1, 1796.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

Howdy Friends! We enjoyed our holiday in the southland; however, it is very pleasing to be back here in Charlevoix.

Reverend Albert Mansen of the Community Reformed Church, in behalf of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, prevails on you all for observance of Good Friday. Of course, they would like to see businesses closed, or at least if they choose not to close for a couple of hours, make arrangements for bosses and employees, to attend this service I am about to mention.

The Ministerial Association is sponsoring "Union Good Friday Services" April 4, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the new Baptist Church about a mile south from downtown on M66. See you there, yes?

I wish to call to attention that it is the time of the year again when summer employment for our local young folks should be given consideration. Already, we are accepting local listings, as well as those writing in from out of town, the latter being mostly college students, male and female. Many of these express their ambition for further education and summer employment would help them foot the bill, so to speak.

There is a limited number of usual summer jobs, and maybe this year again there could be some jobs manufactured, so to speak, to get done some of the lesser tasks that have been put off.

By the looks of the minutes of the last regular Board of Directors meeting, Tuesday evening, March 4, they had quite a session. There was representation of the Charlevoix Women's Club, who has a committee very much involved in putting on our Waterfront Fair (Arts & Crafts). Practically all the detail this year, at their request, will be handled by this committee, which group is a hard working lot of gals.

Another item of importance, but nothing concluded on the matter, and that was fund raising, or financial support for the Chamber. I hope the Ways and Means Committee come up with an answer. Bear in mind our financial problems in proportion are no different than that of any other successful Chamber.

The annual flower, shrub, and tree sale for the area for additional beautification again is being sponsored by the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce. They agreed to tentatively hold a supply for the Charlevoixans, and I believe, the Charlevoix Garden Club will again participate in the allotment. At least, it is hoped they will.

We are pleased to announce we have a supply of applications having to do with the young boys and girls for Camp Daggett on beautiful Walloon Lake. If interested, we will be glad to hear from you.

A very special conference, state-wide, having to do with Solid Waste Management, Incineration, Sanitary Fills, and Scrap Recovery, sponsored by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, directed by the Natural Resources Committee, to be held Wednesday, April 9, at the Jack Tar Hotel in Lansing. This conference will be of particular interest to industry, private and municipal refuse services, town, city and county officials, manufacturers and distributors of waste management facilities, local health officials. I have the program here at the office, to which you are welcome to go over, which starts at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday, April 9, and will be concluded approximately 3 p.m. the same day, and from the closing of the session to 5 p.m. and will be interesting exhibits and individual conferences. The cost is $6.50, which includes luncheons and all sessions. You can make your reservations through this office or through the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce at 215 S. Washington Street, Lansing.

A different attraction is being scheduled, one of many, for this year's Venetian Festival, July 26 and 27, and that is a square dancing sponsored by Pairs and Squares of Charlevoix, of which group Mr. and Mrs. David Arnold are presidents. So, here is a chance for you heel-kickers for a good time. The dancing area will be a portion of Oleson Shopping Center parking space nearest the food store area in the corner of the lot. Further details will be announced later.

We have an announcement and invitation, particularly for motel and resort operators, from the Chamber of Commerce at Grand Haven, which includes Spring Lake and Ferrysburg, Michigan, to attend a seminar on tourism Monday, April 14, at the new Grand Haven Community Center. The program starts at 9 a.m. with registration and coffee hour and gets well on the way at 10 a.m. with adjournment at 3 p.m. Topics by authorities are "Modern Trends in Hotel/Motel Management", "Cashing in on Cohos", 12 noon luncheon, "Your 1969 Vacation Advertising Program", and at 2 p.m. is "Answers and Issues", a give and take session for the discussion of any and problems of the tourist and resort industry. A registration fee of just $3.75 covers the luncheon, coffee breaks and all incidentals. They urge early registration, which can be made at this office or direct with the Chamber of Commerce, 1 Washington Avenue, Grand Haven.

Bank will accept Heart contributions

Effective at once, contributions to the Michigan Heart Fund may be made at the First State Bank of Charlevoix according to H. Vincent Yinger Jr., of Traverse City, regional director for the Michigan Heart Association.

Mrs. Maurice (Dorothy) Dixon has been named as the receiving agent for funds for the organization. Contributions may be made to her. She, in turn, will mail cards to the persons named by the donor informing them that a contribution has been made in the name of a given person.

In making the announcement regarding Mrs. Dixon, Yinger said the service was being made available to residents of the area as the result of many requests.

For those who are not familiar with the service, a contribution to the Heart Fund may be made in honor of or in memory of an individual.

A suitable card is then mailed to the individual being honored or the family of the person whose memory is being honored, informing them of the gift in their name.

Mrs. Alice Sherwood of Charlevoix announces the engagement of her daughter, Millie, to Huston Van Hooser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van Hooser of Palmer, Tennessee. The bride elect is a graduate of Charlevoix high school and Davenport College and is employed at Butternut Bread in Grand Rapids. Van Hooser is employed at Model Coverale Co. of Grand Rapids. No wedding date has been set.

Boards Dress Up Garage Interior

Here's a quick beauty treatment for interior garage walls. Buy low-cost, knotty, rough boards of any western wood and nail them horizontally across exposed wall studs.

Then, using exterior-grade stain, finish the boards a warm gold shade. Add black-stained 1x2-inch battens vertically to cover joints where boards meet.

Four-foot lengths often go for scrap prices and are easily handled by a lone handyman.

Voters say 'No' to school millage requests

Both millage requests presented to the voters of the Charlevoix School District were turned down in the special election held Monday.

Two separate ballots were used for the double request. The larger measure asked voters for 3.75 mills for a period of one year for increased operational expenses.

This measure was turned down by a vote of 587-401, or nearly three to two.

The second request asked one mill for a five year period to equip material centers for students. This vote failed by 553-435.

Board President Glenn Kenney, after learning of the results, said, "It's a matter of communications. The people must know the facts. We were trying no 'scare tactics' when we released the 13 teachers. But now, we'll lose some of those teachers. Every delay costs money. The second special election will be extremely important."

Superintendent Rex Milligan commented, "It was the people's decision. We'll start working on the new request in the morning. I hope the 'no' voters will let us know what they want."

5.5 MILLS FIRST

The original budget request approved by the Board a month ago had asked for 4.5 mills for increased costs of education, and one mill for material centers.

At a meeting two weeks later, the Board was able to lower the larger request by three-quarters of a mill when it was learned that property reassessments had risen above expectations.

The district sought the increase for additional costs, including a $60,294 hike in teachers' salaries as provided in the master contract; $13,000 for the salary of the principal at the new Middle School; $33,500 for five additional teachers; $11,000 for two custodians at the new elementary school; elimination of the $20,000 deficit the district is operating under this year; and other expenditures for a total of $179,313.

NOW WHAT?

What happens now that the requests have been turned down?

The first step is for the Board and administration of the school system to sit down and try to pare the budget even further.

This could be achieved by dropping non-essential courses or activities. The interscholastic sports program could face the knife, but this is unlikely.

A decrease in the number of teachers is a definite possibility. This would mean that classrooms would have more students, with probable unfavorable consequences. Charlevoix schools have been able to maintain low pupil-teacher ratios, a necessity in education today. This desireable fact, of course, would be erased.

Another possibility is that the teacher corps in the district would relinquish their salary increases. Again, this is most unlikely.

So, the answer is a "yes" vote at the next election, or a decrease in the number of teachers and cutting the curriculum.

JUNE ELECTION

That election undoubtedly will take place in June. In the meantime, Board members must decide if they will present the same budget request, or pare discriminately and hope the voters respond in the affirmative.

Actually, there would be time for a third election should the second vote also fail. However, it would come up as the school doors opened for next term, so to speak.

CHS students will go to polls today to elect student officers

by Jeanne Mutz

Today Charlevoix high school students go to the polls to elect next year's class and student council officers. This year, candidates went all-out campaigning for office. Posters decorated the halls and mimeographed handbills were stuffed in every available corner. Never before has such spirit been shown at election time.

In past years, many students ran for office unopposed, but this year there are up to seven people running for the same office.

Last week candidates for class offices were allowed to present campaign speeches at class meetings. This is the first year that any such procedure has been followed.

Last Friday morning high school students assembled in the gym to hear the candidates for student council president and other student council offices present their personal views, and why they feel they should be elected. Students were allowed to ask the candidates questions at this time.

This year students will even vote differently. In the past, students were issued ballots in classes and voted then and there. This year, each different class will have a designated room for voting purposes. Students will be allowed to go there and vote during specific times of the day.

Candidates for Student Council are president: Tricia Young and Stuart Coleman; vice-president, Jeanne Smith and Bob Creal Crain; senior representatives: David Hess, Chris Carey, Geri Sanlek, Marcia Mason, Charles Novak, Norm Ostrum, and Dan Berg; junior representatives: Dick Bogart, Terry Elzinga, Diane Klooster, Kay Fiedorek, Debby Marshall and Cathy Baldwin; sophomore representatives: Paul Klooster, Diane Boss and Lauri Heeres; freshmen representatives: Sherry Westenbrook, Roy Rank, Glen Wertman and Cathy Begrow; 8th grade representatives: Tim Moerland, Susy McNamara, Nina Lundteigen, Debbie Brasnahan and Regina Borths.

Two representatives from each grade are elected. One must be a boy and the other a girl.

Those running for senior class office are: president: Mike Wood, Linda Gill, Becky Hansen and Kraag Lieberman; vice-president: Lynn Fiedorek and Mike Wheat; secretary: Sharon Boss; treasurer: Elaine Fulman, Russell Grunch, Lucy Lambert and Bob DeYoung.

Those running for junior class office are: president: Nancy Fochtman, Sandy White, Darlene Cunningham, Jim Wilson,

'Lois' to fish local waters

Lois of Lexington will be a new fishing boat plying local waters this summer.

Purchased by Don Cole, Beaver Island fisherman, the craft was dumped in local waters late last week.

As public launching areas are not yet open, the boat was brought by truck to the Beaver Island Boat Co. dock in Charlevoix. It was launched by crane, lifted from the dock and placed in Round Lake.

The boat was transported from Lexington, Mich., on Lake Huron. It is said the boat will be used by Cole for his fishing operation, and may be chartered to fishing parties as well.

Strike hits Consumers

Workers at the Big Rock Point plant of Consumers Power Co. struck the facility at 8 a.m. yesterday morning.

Details of the strike as the Courier went to press indicated that talks between the company and union were ended Monday at 5 p.m.

According to mediators, the meetings were "adjourned indefinitely as talks reached an impasse."

Plants struck include those in Flint, Fenton, St. Clare gas field, Lansing, Weadock generating plant near Essexville, and facilities in Bay City and Cadillac.

Talks had started in August of last year, and the three-year contract expired March 31. Employees continued to work on a day-to-day basis while negotiations were in session.

According to company spokesmen, the union was offered an 11 percent pay hike the first year of a new contract, and six percent the second year.

According to the spokesmen, the company and union cannot reach agreement on a cost of living escalation clause built into the contract.

3 CHS juniors to Boys State

Carl and Charles Novak, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Max Novak, and Jerry Fochtman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fochtman have been chosen by the American Legion to be Charlevoix's representatives to American Legion Wolverine Boys State this summer. All three boys will be seniors.

They were selected on the basis of "high moral character, good clean sportsmanship and potential leadership ability."

The boys will spend eight days on Michigan State University's campus, elect officials to learn through experience about self-government in Michigan.

This is done through actual control of city, county and state offices as organized by the boys. While there, each boy will hold an office and elect a governor for their "Mythical 51st State" with the use of actual voting machines.

Candidates elected in 'no contest' vote

Just 311 Charlevoix city voters turned out Monday to cast their ballots in the no-contest city election.

All candidates named on the ballot won office.

The city's Second Ward took top honors, with 125 residents voting. Voters from the First Ward cast 114 ballots, while the Third Ward turned up with 72 voters.

The light numbers reflect the fact that there were no contests on the ballot. There were a number of write-ins, including four votes for Walter "Doc" Hoffman for Mayor. Other write-ins were for Supervisor and Constable.

According to John Michael, city attorney, the only duty a constable would have in the city would be serving papers, which is adequately handled now by police officers.

The only duty of a city supervisor is sitting on the Board of Review once a year. In the past, County Supervisors served in the city position also, but a new law now forbids this.

Mayoral appointments, with consent of Council, now fill those positions.

In Monday's voting, in the First Ward, Mayor, William Fochtman, 105; Clerk, Hugh Mayne, 107; Treasurer, Annabelle Cunningham, 108; Alderman, Thomas G. Hanna, 100.

In the Second Ward, Mayor, Fochtman, 118; Clerk, Mayne, 111; Treasurer, Cunningham, 115; Alderman, Robert Gill, 112.

Third Ward, Mayor, Fochtman, 63; Clerk, Mayne, 62; Treasurer, Cunningham, 67; Alderman, Clifton F. Sundberg, 61.

Totals are: Mayor, Fochtman, 286; Clerk, Mayne, 280; and Treasurer, Cunningham, 290.

Special Board meeting affirms tenure status

The Charlevoix School Board met last Thursday night in a special session to reconsider the tenure status of drafting teacher James Jinsky.

Board President Glenn Kenney asked the 60-plus residents and teachers present to pick spokesmen.

The teachers chose Education Association head Vincent A. Chew.

Chew asked Board member Dale Boss if he had called or talked to parents of school children in Jinsky's classes. Boss said he had not.

He then asked Kenney if he had received complaints about Jinsky from any parents. Kenney stated he had received calls concerning the status of Jinsky.

"Did the Board present its complaints to Mr. Jinsky in writing as the master contract calls for?" Chew asked the Board.

Kenney stated they had not.

At this point Chew pointed out that every teacher has his own approach, methods, philosophy and theories. Chew said he felt that students were comparing Jinsky with the late Uno Suomela, who, until his death, held the position now filled by Jinsky.

Other interested persons present, including parents, had no official spokesman. Jack Maul did address the group, stating he felt he was indirectly responsible for the special session.

"I went to Glenn Kenney," he said, "and asked him to look into the matter. I have no cross to burn, but I felt justified in my action, right, wrong or otherwise."

The Board then stressed that a communications breakdown was probably responsible for the problem. "If there are any teacher problems," one member stated, "parents must go to the teacher and try to straighten it out. If a teacher won't cooperate, then the parent should go to the administration and find out why."

Kenney also revealed that of those parents whose sons had problems with Jinsky, and took the interest to confer with him about those problems, "the vast majority supported him" (Jinsky).

"In addition," Kenney said, "Vane Smith, high school principal next year, strongly recommended tenure for Mr. Jinsky."

Some good came from the special meeting, according to Kenney.

"We feel we have accomplished at least three things. First, we must have teacher reviews earlier in the school year. If there are any questions concerning a teacher, we have to find out about them earlier.

"The Board has learned it must insist on more complete reports from school principals to make better decisions, and we feel the lines of communication between the teachers, administration and Board have been improved."

Eyesores 'make scene' in 'Charlevoix the Beautiful'

"Clean up, paint up, fix up" time will soon be here, but two teenagers have gotten an early start.

Bob Stabulak, 13 of Cicero, Ill., and his cousin, Richard Wells, also 13, of 501 Sheridan Street, Charlevoix, spent their Easter school vacation, attempting to clean up Route 66 in the city.

"We were riding our bikes along the road, and all the junk just looked awful," said Wells. "So, we decided to do something about it. It looks like people had a bunch of beach parties along the road.

It was hard to argue with the boys. In a matter of five minutes, they had collected a rather sizeable pile of litter.

The most-often appearing items were empty beer bottles and cans. Assorted paper, cigarette packs and candy bar wrappers added to the eyesore.

Asked why he was helping to clean up a highway some 400 miles from his home, Stabulak said "because it looks so bad. We're going to call city hall and see if they can tell us who could pick up the piles of stuff we've found."

With warmer weather here, highway crews will be traveling the highways to clean up some of the litter.

To keep "Charlevoix the Beautiful" beautiful, it is going to take more and more effort to keep litter below knee-level.

And, there are not too many 13-year-olds who will donate a vacation to serve as unpaid clean up crews.

APR

It was Donkey Basketball at Charlevoix High School a week ago Saturday, as the faculty of CHS faced the teachers from Petoskey High School. The visitors came out the victors by an 8-4 score. It was rumored that their victory could be attributed to their ability to communicate more effectively with the donkeys.

Firing from the corner...The dribblers just couldn't find the range from atop the donkeys. Seems the animals had minds of their own when it came to direction.

Vane Smith, soon-to-be CHS principal, seems to be having a slight problem with his mount. Smith recovered in time, however, to set a record for falling off a donkey, on a Saturday night, under cloudy skies, with the temperature under 30 degrees.

Reaching for a buck...During intermission, the profs tried their hand at picking a dollar bill off a basketball on the floor. A couple of teachers rode away from the game a little richer.

Petoskey traveled to Charlevoix for the first annual basketball championship between the two schools. Final score: Donkeys 12, Petoskey 8, Charlevoix 4.

A near-capacity crowd laughed to the antics of the animals and players alike.

Oh, No!! This donkey was turned into dog food after Del Terrill made this leap from left field. Del made amends, though...he paid for the funeral.

Form on the court was somewhat less than graceful. CHS teachers provided many of the laughs, as the donkeys raced the length of the court, always at the wrong times.

At the half, a gymnastic exhibition rounded out the action for the fans.

The beginning of the end..this unknowing soul is about ready to climb aboard for a very short ride...

OOpps...It' goodbye, Charlie, as the donkey zigs when he should have zagged and away we go...

The frustration of it all...one hand still clutching, but the hope for glory is over.

Simplicity®

Farm & Garden Equipment
At Galmore's Ski-Doo Barn

Tom Galmore and his son, Tom jr., sell and service the finest farm & garden equipment on the market.

When it comes to changing attachments, Simplicity is compare-proof. Other brands of lawn and garden power equipment try hard to come close to Simplicity performance, but there's always one hitch that keeps them from matching its quality and convenience. . .that's Quick-Hitch. With Simplicity's quick switching you really can switch attachments in minutes. . .without tools. Changing attachments is almost as easy as changing your mind. Simplicity tractors and attachments are engineered to have a minimum of parts. . .so that fewer things can go wrong. Whereas competitive makes often use several different pieces to make one part, Simplicity engineers have found a way to do the same job with one.

Galmore's have a complete line of walk behind equipment on hand.

Simplicity recently made a large investment in just one machine to simplify a part. . .to assure you of trouble free operation. All parts used in Simplicity products are made to Simplicity specifications. Simplicity engineers don't just buy parts "that will work". . .each part is designed specifically for its job on a Simplicity machine. This makes the tractor and its attachments function as one unit. . .instead of a collection of unrelated parts that will hopefully work together adequately. Ask an owner. . . and compare.

Look to the long line...from Simplicity®...and pick the power that matches your needs and your budget

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sckolowski

Patricia Farrell weds S. Sokolowski

Atwood Reformed Church was the scene of the wedding of Patricia Farrell of Charlevoix and Stanley Sokolowski of New York state. Vows were exchanged March 28, with the Rev. Ronald VanderWerff officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Two bouquets of white gladiolas and yellow pom poms decorated the altar.

Organist for the ceremony was Mrs. Geneva DeYoung playing the traditional wedding march and accompaning Mrs. Eloise Klooster who sang "Each For the Other", "This is the Day", and the "Wedding Prayer".

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Farrell, of Charlevoix are the parents of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sokolowski of New York are the parents of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace and taffeta. A train of organza and lace trailed from the shoulders and accented the gown. A rhinestone crown held her shoulder length veil. Her bridal bouquet was a white Bible and Lace with yellow sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Dolly Louiselle, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Mrs. Suzanne Farrell, sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore mint-green A-line floor-length gowns with matching headpieces and carried single, long stemmed yellow roses.

Thomas Louiselle, brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man. Donald Farrell, brother of the bride, served as groomsman. Serving as ushers were Chester Farrell, uncle of the bride and Larry Brock, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother chose a blue dress with navy blue accessories and wore a corsage of yellow and white carnations.

A reception was held in the church basement following the ceremony.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a graduate of Petoskey Beauty Academy. She will be employed at Helene's Beauty Shop. Sokolowski is serving in the U.S. Coast Guard, aboard the Cutter, USS Sundew.

Pianist Richard Cass ends Community Concert season

One of the rising stars of the American musical scene is a personable young artist who will appear in the final Community Concert of this season, on Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in the Petoskey High School Auditorium.

He is Richard Cass, young pianist from Greenville, South Carolina, who rocketed into the national spotlight when he was chosen pianist winner of the Twentieth Biennial Young Artist Auditions of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and who has since gone on to win acclaim abroad as at home, to win important musical citations and to make his talents known to the public as a performing artist of rare talent and versatility.

He made his London debut in 1964, in Wigmore Hall, that city's equivalent to New York's Town Hall. In a very difficult program requiring his utmost in artistic perception and technical virtuosity, he quickly aroused his English audience to high enthusaism. The next day the London Times was lavish with praise and even headlined his playing of Debussy and Ravol, as well as Liszt. The London Daily Telegraph echoed the praise, and that newspaper's critic called him "an important pianist from America who offered a stimulating and satisfying recital. He is a complete artist."

While Richard Cass has made his greatest reputation in America as a recitalist in almost countless appearances during the last decade, he has also made notable successes as soloist with major orchestras - the Baltimore Symphony; the Detroit Symphony; the Milwaukee Symphony; three engagements with the El Paso Symphony; and two engagements at the Brevard Festival in North Carolina. Critics of these performances have stated that he seems superhuman at the piano keys, so well can he translate himself into sound through wood ivory and metal. Cass's style is always recognizable and entirely unique to himself.

Cass was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship for study abroad, and it was renewed a second year. Though he was ready for a concert career and engagements for a first tour were flowing in, he decided to take full advantage of this opportunity to broaden the base of his musicianship and to deepen the understanding of his art. He therefore spent two seasons at the Ecole Normale de Musique under such great teachers and musicians as Jules Gentil, Nadia Boulanger and Alfred Cortot. He soon won his 'License de Concert' at the Ecole Normale, and as a result was presented in his Paris debut - a highly successful event.

His first nation-wide American concert tour was in 1955, and he appeared that year both in solo concert and with many orchestras. He filled the remarkable large number of 41 engagements.

Cass returned for a summer of concerts in Europe in 1957, and later that year, made his Town Hall debut in New York. The New York Times hailed him as a "genuine musical personality."

As Richard Cass continues to grow as an artist and as more and more audiences throughout the country make the acquaintance of his penetrating artistry, he is emerging as one of the finest of his generation of American pianists, and his charm and good humor establish him as one of our more attractive concert personalities. The Community Concert Association audience can look forward to a rewarding evening.

Boyne Country builds villages

BOYNE FALLS--Two large condominium villages are currently under construction in northwest Michigan's recreational area of Boyne Country.

Boyne Country comprises the year around resorts of Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands plus the winter resorts of Thunder Mountain and Walloon Hills all in Mid-America's finest skiing, golf and recreation areas.

The first two condominium villages will be situated at the foot of Boyne Mountain and Boyne Highlands, both only minutes of easy access to resort complexes which offer 10,000 acres of pleasure--skiing, golf, salmon and trout fishing, sailing, motorboating, deer and small game hunting, swimming, waterskiing, horseback riding, retirement living, investment opportunities all under one recreational administrative organization.

With the extensive golf and ski developments underway in Boyne Country, obviously, it is destined to become Mid-America's convention resort mecca. It follows that the condominium facilities had to be built to house this expected tremendous influx of people. And, people will want a piece of the action and share in the opportunity.

To this end, after years of studied research and planning, the first of several condominium villages planned will make its appearance at Boyne Country in mid-1969.

Called "Boynestadt", this first condominium village is currently under construction at the foot of Boyne Mountain. Already, over two-thirds of the units allotted for this grouping have been sold. And, as expected, a condominium development will be under construction at Boyne Highlands in 1969 as well, to meet the demands of the recreation and investment - minded public.

Subsequent villages will be built, as well as private dwellings throughout Boyne Country to meet the need of buyers. "Engineering and design is the principle of success," says Everett Kircher, president and Boyne Country's master planner. "We have taken out northwestern Michigan resources and treated them gently. Then the key is turned and it lives better for all of us."

"It's developments such as these and with a sharp eye to the future that will make Boyne Country, 'Golf and Ski Country' happen," Kircher concluded.

Hospital Guild

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Hospital will meet on April 14, at 8 p.m. in the Hospital.

After a short business meeting, Guild members will have as their guest Dr. J. Van Dellen, who will show slides of the ship "Hope" and others from his travels around the world.

Plans will be discussed for the membership coffee, which will be held at the home of Mrs. G.B. Saltonstall, on April 29, from 10 to 12 o'clock. Everyone is welcome.

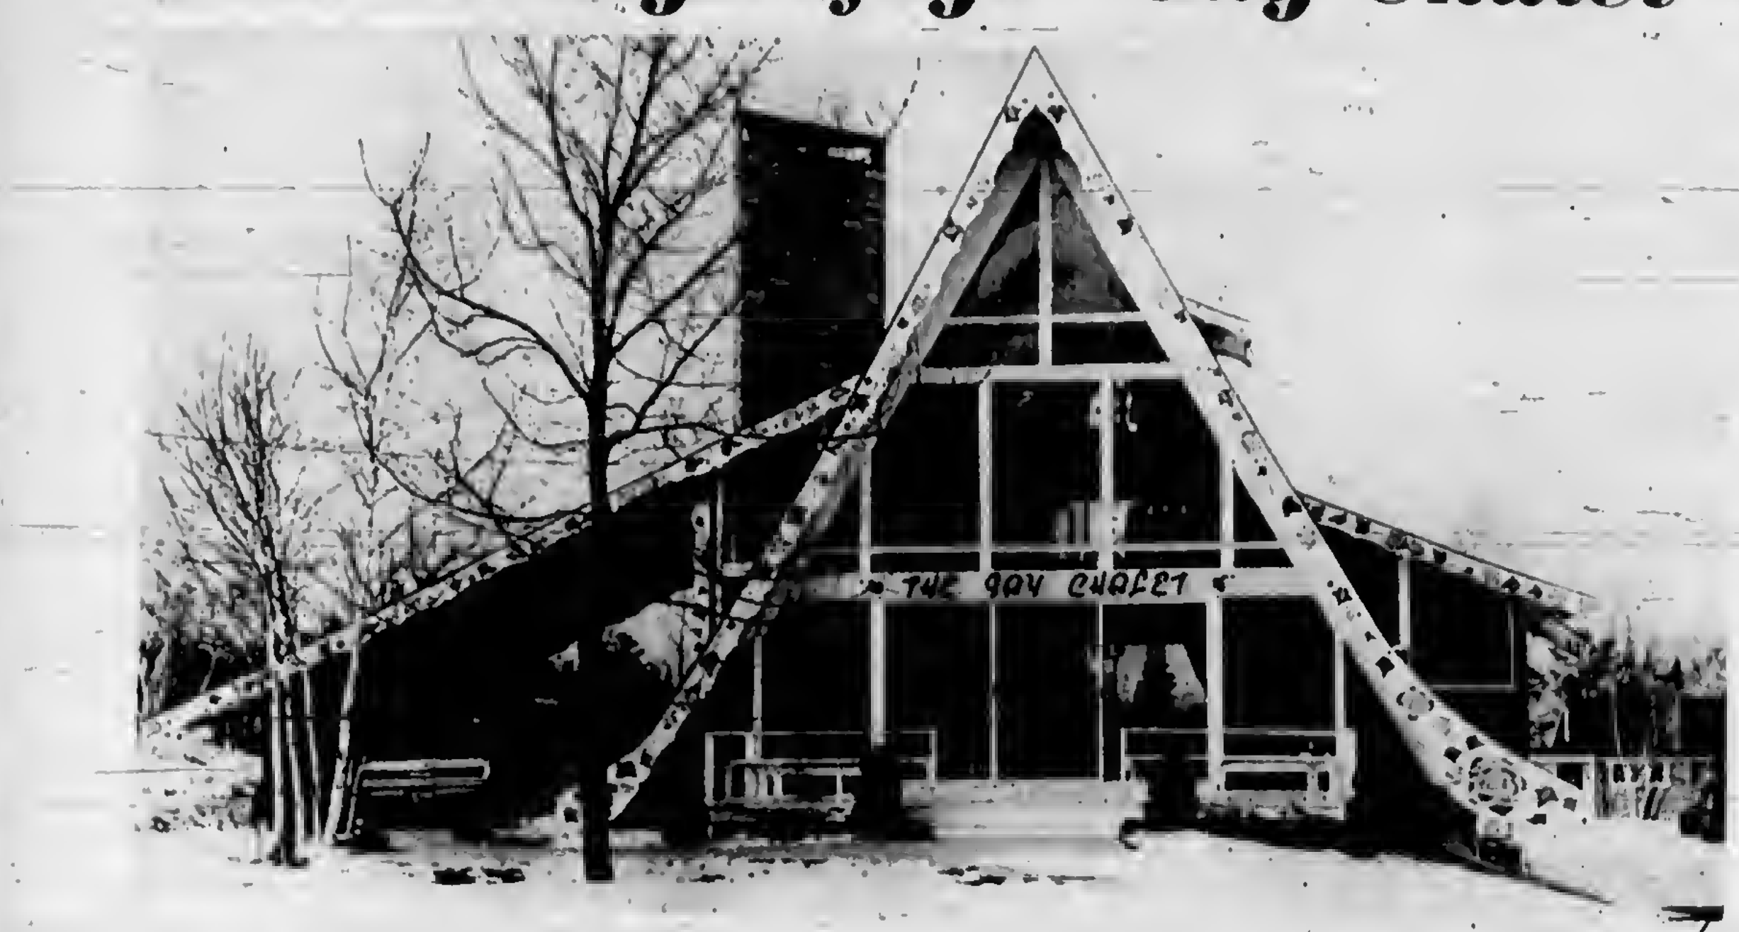
Boss family enjoys "Gay Chalet"



The Gay Chalet is the name of this picturesque house at North Point owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Boss.

The Dale Boss family thoroughly enjoys their house, The Gay Chalet. They enjoyed planning it. They enjoyed working on it. And now they enjoy living in it.

Dale Boss lived on the next street to his present home and he planned the chalet for a long time. Since the building is an enormous A-frame with large amounts of glass, the summer sun could have made it unbearably hot, but Boss situated the house so that the sun in the summer would sweep directly overhead, yet in the winter would rise and set at an angle so as to warm the house by direct sunshine during the noon and early afternoon.

The Boss family built most of The Gay Chalet themselves. This is surprising for the house has 3,600 square feet of floor space and is four stories high. It would have been a monumental task for Mr. and Mrs. Boss to have done alone, but fortunately they had seven helpers to do the job with them. Dale Boss contends that this is the only way that the family could have ever owned a swimming pool. To build the pool everyone worked including the foreign exchange student Hannelore Muller, who lived with them that year.

The main floor of The Gay Chalet is a sweep of active living space for this is how the family wanted it. The work area of the kitchen is hidden by the stairway and by a plant divider, but the dining area, living room and Grandpa's corner are one big room. Mr. and Mrs. Boss claim that with this arrangement they have been able to seat 36 people comfortably at one long table and could seat as many as 60, if the occasion should arise.

Dale Boss rescued this fine old Chickering grand piano from being discarded after it was charred in a fire and given up as useless. The original owner, Mrs. Fred Stecker of East Jordan, gave it to Boss on the condition that he would make it playable again. He has now refinished it into a lovely piece of furniture and a fine instrument.

The living room floor is of polished hardwood oak with handsome puddle rugs. Puddle rugs is the name that the Bosses have given for their own invention of free form rugs laid on two layers of foam rubber on a sub floor. These rugs are sunk into the floor to the same level as the floor and so are safer than large scatter rugs.

There is a corner of the living room in the Boss house that the family calls "Grandpa's Corner". Grandpa is Dale Boss's grandfather Morris Chew who as a Charlevoix pioneer born in 1870. Mr. Chew came to Charlevoix in 1879 by covered wagon and remembered fording the Pine River. Although he never lived with the family he was an intimate member. When he was 92 years old he traveled with the Boss Family to Niagara Falls, and when he was 93 he walked the Mackinac Bridge. After his death he was hardly a person to be forgotten and so his portrait in pastels and a few mementos from his house are in Grandpa's corner.

It's obvious that the Dale Boss Family have fun in their home and although most of the children are not so tiny anymore the quotation which they have placed over the fireplace reflects their attitude, "Cheerful voices, tiny feet, make a happy home complete."

From the living room two balconies can be seen. Off the lower balcony is the master bedroom and off the upper balcony is a boy's bedroom.

Recipe of week

Try Dried Beef For Quick Snack

Six ingredients make six sandwiches in a hurry! This one is different, too, because it uses dried beef from a jar or package with canned soup, cheese and buns, points out Reba Staggs, home economist with the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Dried Beef-Cheese Toastwiches

1 jar or package (4 to 5 ounces) dried beef
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ clove garlic, minced
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ pound Cheddar cheese, grated
3 buns, split and toasted
Butter or margarine

Shred dried beef. Heat soup with garlic and add pepper, cheese and dried beef. Cook slowly until cheese is melted. Serve on toasted bun halves which have been spread with butter or margarine. 6 servings.

Gordon Solomon will be counted on to boost the Red Rayders fortunes in the long jump event.

Track records may fall before season opens

As the Charlevoix High School Red Rayders near the start of another track season, Coach Del Terrill dusted off the track records.

Whether or not any of the records will be broken this year will not be known for some time. However, it is possible that one or more of the listed records may be broken before the season starts.

Terrill said that the records he was able to find may not be complete. "If anyone knows that a listed record isn't correct, and can document their belief, we'll be glad to correct any error," the coach added.

Area bowler is champ

Bob Noirot, of Gaylord, rolled a 682 series for three games, to win the finals of the second annual Bowling Proprietors of Michigan, Bowler's Charities Tournament conducted recently in Lansing. The 26 year old furniture salesman won a 1969 Mustang for his first place finish.

Entering with a 165 average, he bowled actual games of 224-173-213, this together with his 24 pin spot-per-game handicap helped him to edge Dawn Falkenberg of Westland, who rolled 665.

This competition, comprised of 108 bowlers from all the State of Michigan, marked the completion of this event which began back in January. Bowler's entered with their league scores and went on to area roll-offs. The top bowlers in each of the areas earned the right to compete in the State Finals. In all - 45,906 bowlers participated in this second annual event.

All proceeds, after prizes and expenses, will be donated to worthy charities, within the State of Michigan. Last year, over $28,000 was distributed through this event.

Library notes

spring means flowers, and flowers mean gardening. The Library will have a special collection of books on flowers and gardens within easy reach of patrons to assist with planting problems, arrangements and cultivation.

A new addition to the library is "Wild Flowers" by Homer D. House. This is a large and handsome volume which was originally published in two volumes. It was out of print for a time and was available only as a collector's item in rare book shops. Now, thanks to the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. V.Y. Tuttle, of Charlevoix the library is proud to own a copy. 400 wild flowers are described in detail and there are 364 full-color illustrations with complete descriptive text.

"A Picture Dictionary for the Home Gardener" by Andr'ee Vilas Grabe, offers valuable source material and contains hundreds of practical easy - to - follow suggestions and short cuts to a more beautiful home garden. Over 850 plans are discussed in this compact and attractive dictionary.

"The Complete Book of Bulbs" by F.F. Rockwell & Esther Grayson was donated to the Library by the Charlevoix Garden Club as a memorial and it is available for everyone who grows, or intends to grow bulbs of any kind in the garden or home. It is a practical manual written in non-technical style, and the book has many color and black-and white photographs.

"How to have a Green Thumb Without an Aching Back" by Ruth Stout, was also presented to the Library by the Garden Club. It's a delightfully readable little book with a great deal of practical information on mulch gardening. Mrs. Stout writes in the first person to describe her experiences and give the reader valuable tips.

"All About Rock Gardens and Plants" by Walter A Kolaga is a complete guide to rock gardens and the successful culture of all their basic plants. There are numerous illustrations and full descriptions throughout the book to give the gardener information on all kinds of rock gardens--from choosing the correct site to maintaining the garden once it is established.

"Roses" by Eric Bois and Anne-Marie Trechslin is such a beautiful book that it must be seen to be appreciated. The fact that it is one of the most comprehensive books on roses is almost beside the point, because the color plates are so exquisite, one forgets about the text. Everyone who loves roses should spend at least a little time with this superb book.

"A Treasury of American Gardening" is a luxurious volume with something for everybody. There are ten fascinating sections, each devoted to some interesting and informative aspect of gardening. It doesn't have to be spring to enjoy this book. There are many many color and black - and white illustrations.

For the young folks "Spring is Here" by Bertha Morris Parker is a tiny book which belongs to the Basic Science Education Series. It was especially prepared for little hands and little readers.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER
CHAMBER MANAGER

It was quite pleasing when returning from the vacation to notice the number of checks that were received for membership fees or less than $40 contributions. Just keep 'em coming, folks. There is a good cause, and thank you very much.

Having to do with more or less normal needs for this stepped up sports fishery here in Michigan, and affecting the Charlevoix area, Ed Rebman, County Extension Natural Resources Agent at Boyne City had made a marina survey of our county, such as boat docking, fuel storage, restrooms, dry boat storage, boats, motors, live bait sales, auto parking, camper and trailer space, house trailer space, tent camping, and camper sewage hook-ups, or dumping stations. I have the figures here if any of you care to look them over. To me, these indicated quite a lacking in sanitary facilities, restrooms and camper and/or travel trailer dumping stations, parking facilities, for autos and boat trailers.

Of course, we are continuing to receive applications for summer employment, from our local young people, as well as from all around the state. It is hoped we will soon be contacted by potential employers of our area so as to get these young people placed.

Would you believe it: in a release from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it is stated that employed Americans will work two and one half hours of each eight hour day in 1969 to pay tax bills--Federal, state and local, according to tax experts of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The 10 percent sur tax accounts for a big jump in Federal taxes, and state and local taxes are also showing a distinct upward trend.

At any rate, Charlevoix is a nice place to live.

Last, but not least, the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, through Reverend Albert Mansen, express their appreciation for the cooperation of all our merchants and businesses by closing for two hours Good Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Gamble

CHARLEVOIX -- Services for Mrs. Floyd (Lillian) Gamble, 66, who died Monday at Little Traverse Hospital where she had been a patient for the past five weeks, will be at the Winchester Funeral Home at 2 p.m. today. Rev. Donald Schorsch, of the Assembly of God Church will officiate and interment will be in Brookside Cemetery.

She was born Lillian Payne July 24, 1902 in Kentucky and married Floyd Gamble in Tennessee in 1921. They made their home in Detroit until coming here 25 years ago.

They resided in Marloo Township.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ernest (Mildred) Potter, of Charlevoix and Mrs. John (Betty Jean) Stamp, of Los Angeles, Calif.; a brother, Walter Payne, of Corbin, Ky. and a sister, Mrs. Lester Bolen, of Lexington, Ky.; three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Miss Linda Supernaw to wed D.H. Warner

Mr. and Mrs. H.P. Supernaw, 101 E. Garfield Street, Charlevoix, announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Ann Marie, to Dennis H. Warner.

The future bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Homer L. Warner, Barnard Road, Charlevoix.

Miss Supernaw is a graduate of Charlevoix High School, class of 1966, and is presently a junior at Central Michigan University, majoring in teaching the mentally handicapped. She is also a member of the university's student senate.

Warner was graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1965, and is a senior at Northern Michigan University, majoring in social science.

The couple plans a September wedding.

What a beautiful Easter Sunday. A few days like this and our snow banks will be gone, but it still hasn't done much for the ice in our lake.

Mable and Elliot Bird have returned to their home in Flint after enjoying this holiday weekend in their local summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Crowe are spending several days with relatives in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sullivan and family of Detroit were guests this Easter holiday of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Beene.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sudman and children of Lincoln Park spent this Easter vacation with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Saunders.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Emlund of Kalamazoo and Sharon Neilsen spent this weekend with their parents, Tom and Mary Neilsen.

Jack Jentzen spent this holiday weekend in Jackson with Mrs. Jentzen at the home of their daughter where Mrs. Jentzen is convalescing from surgery, recently in the Jackson Hospital. She has the very best wishes of their local friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gilbert are in Detroit with their children for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Myner have returned home after spending several weeks in Tampa, Florida.

Steven Kroll came from Lansing to spend Easter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kroll and family.

Mrs. Lydia Orvis and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Russell have returned to their homes after spending the winter in Arcadia, Florida.

It surely was nice seeing so many of our friends and neighbors this Easter morning to enjoy the program given by the little people of the Sunday School under the leadership of Mrs. Betty Cooper; and also the junior choir, Susan Saunders, Diane Alexander, Mark Kroll, and Mary Carol Neilsen. And the usual morning service. We would welcome a full house every Sunday.

Navy taking 17 year olds

Chief Petty Officer Disque of the Navy Recruiting Branch Station in Petoskey announced today that the Navy has started taking 17-year-old young men-something it hasn't done in 2½ years.

"The 17-year-olds are being offered the standard enlistments of four or six years provided they are high school graduates. Minority enlistments, one that the 17-year-old is released from active duty the day before his twenty-first birthday, are not being brought back at this time," Chief Petty Officer Disque continued, "principally because only about one percent of those completing a minority enlistment reenlist."

The Navy was encouraged to drop its enlistment age limit to 17 by recent census figures showing that students are graduating from high school at a younger age than ever before. More than half of the nation's 17-year-olds are high school seniors.

For further information, contact Chief Petty Officer Disque at the Navy Recruiting Station in Petoskey.

Mrs. McKenzie

CHARLEVOIX -- Funeral services were held for Mrs. Colin (Olive A.) McKenzie, 86, who died Wednesday at Grandvue Medical Facility.

The Rosary was recited Friday evening at 7 p.m. at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Funeral services were held at St. Marys Church Saturday at 10 a.m.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Born at Atwood in Antrim county Sept. 21, 1882, the former Olive A. Lord was married to Mr. McKenzie at Petoskey in November 1911. They always made their home here. Mr. McKenzie preceded her in death in August 1954. She was a member of St. Mary's church and its Rosary Altar Society and the Charlevoix Farm Bureau.

Surviving are two sons, Donald R. of Pleasanton, Calif., and Louis D. of Charlevoix; a daughter, Mrs. George (Mazine) Plumm; 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Ruppe Reports

'Impressions of Ike'

A little over a year ago, I attended a luncheon at which Dwight David Eisenhower was the speaker. He was introduced as "the greatest living American." During the question and answer period in lucid, quick and intelligent exchanges, Ike recalled in detail some of the momentous decisions of his Administration. During the course of the luncheon the thought continued to cross my mind, "This is indeed the greatest living American."

Here was a man of great strength and a man of tremendous compassion. This was a man of humble beginnings. Yet, during many dark hours of crisis the nation turned to him. As a military man, he led American troops. He made the hard decisions committing men and material into the inferno of war to obliterate the Thousand Year Reich and its promise of a return to a new dark age. This was a man of strength. Yet when he saw the atrocities of the Nazi empire, he wept. This was a man of compassion.

In time of peace, Dwight David Eisenhower was an educator, leader of the western defenses of NATO, and leader of his nation. Peace was his abiding passion. He ended the war in Korea. He established a meaningful dialogue with the Soviet Union while maintaining a posture of firmness at home. A career military man, he spoke longingly of the day when his profession would be obsolete.

When I attended the luncheon one year ago, I thought also of the Eisenhower who greatly enjoyed precious moments of leisure. Golfing at Palm Springs, bird hunting at Gettysburg, or casting his fishing line in what is now the Upper Peninsula's Sylvania Tract--this was a man who loved life. And he fought that others might live.

Indeed, he was the greatest living American. Now he is gone. But what he gave our country and the world will live as long as man is free.

Tilting a windmill

As most readers know, the budget request of the Charlevoix Public Schools was turned down by the voters Monday.

It is our opinion that the electorate wanted to say "no" for the simple reason they are dissatisfied with constantly rising costs and taxes.

Yet, the only people really injured by the vote are the pupils themselves..and they did not even cast ballots.

Turning down the request for 3.75 mills for operational costs and one mill for equipping material centers, we have said "No!" to the potential abilities of our youth.

We have gained little, save a few immediate dollars in our collective pockets. By turning down the millage request, we have asked...no, we have told ...the pupils of the school district to attain their education in crowded classrooms and relinquish what are called "non-essential" programs.

"No, Johnny," we have said, "we will not dig up the $20 or $30 extra to offer you films, projectors, and other equipment which might help you better compete with others in the years to come. Go sit in that classroom with 35 others, even though there should be no more than 24. We don't think you need a better education."

It is easy for us to say "No", rationalizing that our youngsters have more than enough in their schools now.

It is not surprising that both requests were turned down. The Courier predicted that last week. However, now let us benefit from the "No" voter's vast knowledge. Those who cast negative votes certainly must have better ideas which will afford equally good schools at less money, or they would have passed the requests.

Come forward! The Board awaits your money-saving ideas. Tell the administrators and Board members how to improve our schools and save money in the process.

Tenure...and the Board

Last week is one that members of the administration and School Board of the Charlevoix district will probably not soon forget, though they undoubtedly wish they could.

It all started calmly enough with a Board meeting, following an executive session at which, we understand, the prime topic was tenure.

By 10 p.m. that evening, the Board had decided to notify 13 teachers in the district that unless the millage increase request was approved, their positions next school term would not exist.

Apparently, the 13 took the news gracefully; at least no educators stormed the Board at the meeting (all 13 were notified of the decision beforehand).

But, the next morning, School Board president Glenn Kenney, other Board members, and the Courier office were bombarded with telephone calls and personal confrontations. "A mistake has been made" was the cry of a number of residents.

Teacher Jim Jinsky was voted tenure, and some thought he should not have received it.

One Board member felt the body was "pressured" into granting two teachers tenure. Other Board members told the Courier this was not the case.

The result of the outcries was a special meeting of the Board last Thursday night to consider the tenure status granted James Jinsky the Monday before.

Executive session was held, at which Kenney presented to the Board the statements of 24 parents whose youngsters were, or had been, pupils in Jinsky's classes.

The Board was, said Kenney, allowed to draw its own conclusion from the statements. No pressure was applied from any source, according to the president.

When they re-convened in open session in the high school study hall, a motion was placed before the Board to reconsider the tenure states of James Jinsky.

The motion received no support, and the matter did not come to a vote.

It is our feeling that tenure, at best, is an unfortunate and unpleasant fact of school life. But perhaps out of the special meeting some good will come.

The administration and the Board should now be aware that teacher reviews MUST come earlier in the term. If there is any question about a teacher's abilities in the classroom, they must be examined, and if the doubts are justified, the teacher should be released.

To present a crisis each and every time a teacher problem, or any other school problem, is found can be averted by better communications between the teachers, administration and Board.

It is apparent the Board was placed in a very awkward position this past week. The school system was forced to hang some dirty wash on the line. It would have been viewed in a better light had apparent uncertainties been brought to the fore prior to the tenure meeting.

Letter to the editor

Donkey basketball inhumane

Editor, Courier:

I don't know how many of your readers were at the Donkey Basketball Game Saturday, March 29, but I thought it was the most inhumane activity I have ever seen.

Why would anyone want to sponsor a Donkey Basketball Game if they knew how badly these animals are treated.

Let me tell you what I observed at the game. Before the game the donkeys are stuffed in a small, dark, smelly trailer and then hauled over to where they will be used. When they reach their destination, they are quickly shoved into a gym and rounded up with electric proders. Soon they are caught and mounted. The beasts are then made to slip, stumble and fall all over the gym floor. This lead to noses that are rough and bleeding shortly after the game starts. Because of their feet covering, which is not non-slip material, they are constantly on their knees, which anyone familiar with horses knows is bad.

They are continually being shocked by electric proders, and their flanks are bleeding by the time the game is over. Would you like these devices used on an animal you are fond of?

It is true that donkeys are a beast of burden, but must they be burdened so much?

A copy of this letter will be sent to the Michigan Humane Society and the ASPCA.

Sincerely,
Vina Lundteigen

on the Flip Side

In an editorial two weeks ago, we made the comment that we didn't feel a $60,000 teacher salary increase was justified. The increase is built into the "master contract" signed at the beginning of this school term, covering two years. The educator's raises for next year, we are told, amount to an eight percent hike.

As we made our "anti-increase" statement in a story about the school budget, we failed to explain our stand adequately.

Let us set the record straight. . . teachers as a group are no better or worse than any other professional group. . .no more or less worthy of salary increases than electricians, bankers, or even newspaper editors.

During our 16-plus years in schools from coast to coast, we were blessed with some fine people, "teachers" in the true sense of the word, who helped us gain what little knowledge we have tucked away in the gray matter.

By the same token, a portion of the men and women who stood at the front of our numerous classrooms had neither the ability or desire to teach or stimulate or motivate.

Here is where our complaint is based. A dedicated educator has been, and most probably always will be, underpaid. The man or woman who spends a working lifetime striving to impart knowledge cannot have a price tag placed upon his abilities and desire.

The teacher who looks forward to the closing bell and the regular paycheck, has been, and always will be, OVERPAID.

Now we come to the "nitty gritty", or whatever the in phrase is this week.

In business--and make no mistake about it, education is one of the most important and largest businesses in the nation--the professional is paid for the job HE ALONE is doing. . .as an individual. Bankers are not lumped into a group, and when the first of the year rolls around, no mediator is called into the picture to tell the boss how much each employee, AS A MEMBER OF A GROUP, must be paid.

If the fellow in the next teller's window is doing a better job; if he is more valuable to the organization, then he deserves a larger salary.

What we are obviously trying to say is a professional should be paid solely on the basis of his individual value to the group of which his is ONE member.

The $60,000 which has been arbitrated into the school budget for teacher salary increases would not be so hard for the public to swallow if it were a wage increase for the best teachers.

The public is well aware, however, that under the "union" system, the chaff is bundled with the wheat, and the community and the educational system are unnecessarily diluted.

We trust our position is clarified . . .we cannot condone that which actively seeks to destroy the competitive atmosphere in business. It breeds complacency and indifference, two ingredients we don't need in the school district.

We pass this suggestion along from the Department of State Highways:

"It is suggested that the Department of State Highways might purchase a fleet of hay wagons in an effort to cut the rising cost of picking up roadside litter along state highways.

"Cleanup crews normally use trucks, but three employees working out of the Department's maintenance garage west of Lansing have some evidence that hay wagons may be more efficient.

"Arnold Burke, Harley Barnes and Leonard Wartella received permission earlier this year to experiment with their own wagon and quickly showed that they could cover about twice as much ground in a day than they could with a truck.

"The reason, they said, is that heavy trucks must be left at the edge of the road, causing workers to spend much of their time walking back and forth with armsful of litter. Lighter wagons, pulled by medium sized tractors, can be driven right up to the litter.

"With the cost of roadside cleanup on state highways increasing annually, reaching a record $827,667 in fiscal 1967-68, the Department says it is willing to try just about anything to minimize the expense."

We note the following, also from the Highways Department, as a sure indication that spring must be here.

Highway maintenance crews have started the annual spring delivery of picnic tables to 1,500 roadside picnic sites and 101 roadside parks along state highways.

It's no simple job. At latest count, the Department owned 4,627 rustic picnic tables. There's no date for final distribution, but all will be in place well in advance of warm weather travelers with their bean pots, fried chicken and potato salad.

The Highway Department distributes several free brochures to aid picnickers and camping travelers. For do-it-yourselfers, it also has free plans showing how to build, for about $20, one of the sturdy picnic tables found along state highways.

Dancing at the Armory

Here's a hot one for the boys at the Alibi Bar. I've been asked to fill in for the society editor of the Port Huron Times Herald. She's taking a vacation and wants a guest column to run between the girdle ads and wedding stories.

Ordinarily, I don't have much to offer the society section of any newspaper. My peau de soie thoughts are few and soiled. But by a coincidence, I have lately been thinking about long-ago dance parties and other such fancy-pants affairs. And to complete the cliche and make the coincidence amazing, these social events occurred in Port Huron.

This fit of nostalgia grabbed me when I read they are going to tear down the Port Huron Armory. They need the space to park cars. Egad. The day is coming when the law will require people to walk sideways to cut down on the room needed between the cars. The first man on the moon will install parking meters. But that's another column. . .

In my boyhood, the Port Huron Armory was dance headquarters of the universe. They had one of those big crystal balls that spun from the center of the ceiling and reflected little lights all over the place. Real class. Once in awhile a name band would be hired, but usually the music was provided by a guy who could play the piano and 3 of his friends who couldn't play the radio without help.

What I remember most about the Armory dances is that they were usually sponsored by the LRT and the girls asked the boys. LRT was not an hallucinatory drug. It was some sort of a Greek sorority which flourished in the public high school. In fact, the LRT is probably still there, numbering among its members the daughters of many of the girls who used to berate their dates for writing my name on their dance cards.

I knew one dance step-the box. I still do it today. Forward, sideways, backward, sideways, forward, do it again, do it again, hot diggity. This is pretty snappy for a few minutes but it gets a little wearisome after a few hours (and a few years, my wife would add if I let her stick her nose in this column).

I remember one steady date who insisted we break the monotony by walking. That was a 1940 dance step where the couples simply walked along the edge of the floor, hanging onto each other loosely. To distinguish it from an ordinary walk to the john, or to the parking lot to neck, you were supposed to take a half step backward every so often. The trouble was, I could never learn when every so often was. I kept heading north while she was going south. She finally decided that was a good arrangement and I haven't seen her since.

A guy got dressed up for a dance in those days. I can even remember pressing my own pants. The girls wore long, crinkly dresses with necklines that teased, not shocked. Every school orchestra copied Glenn Miller or Tommy Dorsey and, with the right head snuggling on your shoulder, that's how they sounded.

For most of the dancing boys, a war was waiting.

Come to think, war is what armories are all about.

I will dance the fanciest box you ever saw on the day they can tear them all down.

Rep. Davis Asks...

Representative Bob Davis wants to know what the voters think about some of the most controversial issues in the legislative session. "As your representative," Davis states, "I will vote on many of these within the next few months. My decisions must be my own; nevertheless, knowing how you feel about these issues will help me reach conclusions that will be in the best interests of my constituents."

Public opinion is sought by Rep. Davis on the issues listed below. The questionnaire may be sent to the legislator at the House of Representatives, Lansing.

Please check the position which comes closest to your views on each of the following issues:

ABORTION LAW REFORM

The issue:
Our present state law permits abortion only when the life of the mother depends on it.

Would you favor:
____ Present law is adequate, permitting abortion when life of mother requires it.
____ Revising law to permit abortion in case of rape or incest.
____ Revising to permit panel of doctors to decide when abortion would be performed.
____ Revising law to permit mother-to-be to make her own decision on whether she wants abortion.

PUBLIC EDUCATION (KINDERGARTEN THRU 12TH GRADE)

The issue:
It has been proposed that public school curriculum and financing should be uniform throughout the state, and that financial support for local school systems should come primarily from the state rather than locally.

Would you favor:
____ A considerably greater share of public educational expense be paid with state tax dollars, even though greater state control of educational program might result.
____ Present system of local financing is adequate.

If the state is to pick up a greater share of educational expense, it has been proposed to be accomplished with an increase in state income tax and eliminating or reducing property taxes for operating schools.

I would favor such a program:

____ Yes ____ No ____ Don't know

Comments ____

AID TO NON-PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The issue:
Should public funds be made available to the non-public school system? What follows are the four principal concepts under consideration in Lansing.

Would you favor:
____ State provide funds to Intermediate School Districts who would in turn pay salaries of lay teachers in non-public schools.
____ State grant being made like a scholarship to student, instead of to school (this was the concept of the bill introduced last year).
____ Use shared time - teachers and facilities - thereby cutting expenses in both school systems.
____ Non-public schools should not be given state tax moneys.

Comments ____

PUBLIC EMPLOYEE STRIKES

The issue:
Should public employees such as teachers, policemen, firemen and public works employees be permitted to strike?

Would you favor:
____ All public employees having the right to strike.
____ All public employees except those providing essential services having right to strike.
____ Public employees not being permitted to strike.

Comments ____

The issue:
Should state spending be increased or decreased for each of the six welfare programs?

Would you favor:

WELFARE

The issue:
Irrespective of expense involved some people feel we should pass legislation which would encourage ADC mothers to take employment, while others feel the mother's place is in the home.

Would you favor:
Supporting a new work incentive program for ADC mothers?

____ Yes ____ No ____ Don't know

Comments ____

The issue:
Present grants to ADC mothers are based on 1961 cost levels. There are proposals to provide for increasing these grants as the cost of living increases.

Would you favor:
Legislation to increase ADC grants with costs of living.

Fireworks, fish contest are Chamber Board topics

by Wally Loder

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce was held April 1, and there was no fooling, either.

Answering roll call were Lyle Miles, Tom Acton, Gordon Neff, Dave Juilleret, and Ralph Hess, Jr. Larry LaGrow was confined at home because of sickness, Tom Hanna had to remain at home because of illness in the family. John Schroeder is still out of town.

Minutes of the March 4 meeting were read and accepted, as were the secretary's reports.

The matter of fireworks at the Venetian Festival was discussed, principally because of the increase in cost. There was much pro and con concerning all the events this year.

Gordon Neff spoke of a fish contest, and the idea seemed to meet with approval. Further plans will be made at the next meeting.

There were no reports from the different committees; however, Gordon Neff reported on the Great Lakes Charter Service to be based here at Charlevoix, indicating all looks very favorable for the group. They had made available two more boats in the 50-foot class, fully equipped.

It was with regret that Don Sheets' resignation from the Board was accepted. He resigned because of personal reasons. Wally Loder, secretary, was requested to contact the other three contestants in the last election for new directors for replacement for Sheets' unexpired term before a committee would appeal beyond this.

There was general discussion of different ideas, and being there was no new business, Tom Acton motioned to adjourn the meeting at 9:35 p.m.

Students to compete in arts fair

Thousands of junior and senior high school students enrolled in industrial arts classes are planning, designing, and building new projects to enter in the 1969 Michigan Industrial Education Awards Fair.

This state-wide competition will be held in two phases - regionals and state finals. A series of 21 regional competitions will serve as elimination fairs, with first and second place winners in each category eligible for the state competition to be held this year at Muskegon's L.C. Walker Sports Arena in conjunction with the annual Michigan Industrial Education Society Convention April 17, 18, and 19.

Region 14-15 competition, covering the northern part of Michigan's lower peninsula, will be held April 11 at Bellaire High School, and is open to public viewing at no cost Friday from 5 to 9 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting industrial education instructors in the area.

Fair shapes up

The annual PTA fair is coming to town. Enthusiasm is mounting as parents, teachers and children work on their special projects.

Sixth graders report good advance ticket sales. The boy and girl selling the most tickets will be crowned the "royal" couple.

Many activities are planned involving grades 1-12 for the fair, Saturday evening, April 19, in the Elementary School gym.

Room parent chairman by grades are Kindergarten: Mrs. Vane Smith; first grade, Mrs. Jas Williams; second grade, Mrs. Ken Boss; third grade, Mrs. Ray Wood; fourth grade, Mrs. Robert Timms; fifth grade, Mrs. Richard Donaldson.

Information? dial 347-411

Charlevoix phone users will dial a new number for Directory Assistance (information), starting at 2:01 a.m. Sunday, April 13, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company announced.

Kenneth T. Harrold, area manager for Michigan Bell, said the new number for Directory Assistance for Charlevoix callers will be 347-411 instead of 347-113.

Harrold said the number change for Directory Assistance is part of a statewide program to adopt standard calling procedures.

Music-maker Lawrence Welk is joined by Mrs. Maurice Dixon, treasurer of the Charlevoix County Cancer Unit, in holding up the "Sword of Hope" at the 1969 Crusade Kick-off, sponsored by the Society, Michigan Division, in Lansing, which was attended by 800 volunteers from the state.

Lawrence Welk's ACS work moved by personal loss

(Ed. note: While attending the State Crusade Kick-off in Lansing, March 30, Mrs. Edward Vogler had the opportunity to interview Lawrence Welk, while serving in the capacity as publicity chairman for the Charlevoix County Unit. The following is the result of that interview.)

by Mrs. Jean Vogler

A suntanned Lawrence Welk took time from his busy schedule, to come to Lansing for the 1969 Crusade Kick-Off, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, Michigan Division. With him were two of his champagne music makers, soprano Natalie Nevins and tenor Joe Feeney.

Welk served as the 1969 National Crusade Chairman, and says he will continue his work with the American Cancer Society because to him, as to thousands of others, the fight against cancer is a personal one.

He lost both his mother and a brother to cancer. "When it strikes close to home, you can't help but want to do something about it," said Welk.

He is grateful for his good health at age 66 and would like to be able to turn that figure upside down and still be working in the fight against cancer.

When asked if he had any thoughts of retiring, he commented that he is having too much fun with his "musical children", and wants to continue working with them as long as he can. The only symptom of age which plagues him is that he doesn't remember things as well as he used to.

When he started out with his orchestra he spoke only German and had quite a time learning to speak English and overcoming his shyness in speaking to an audience. The orchestra toured the small town circuit for 27 years, yet, in 1955, when he made his first coast-to-coast TV show, someone commented he had become an overnight success.

When asked by the American Cancer Society to be the National Chairman, last year, he hesitated because he was afraid he wouldn't have the time and he felt he may not be qualified to speak in front of large groups. "After all" he mused, "On TV we have idiot cards". But, his sponsors reassured him, telling him, he could "take Geritol in the morning and Sominex at night!"

He expressed gratitude to his sponsors for the amount of time they have allowed him to spend in working for the Cancer Society. They have donated time on his show for him to make comments regarding the Crusade.

The 1969 Crusade Chairman, Miss Virginia Graham, will appear on his show April 26. Thirty-million people will hear her story about how she fought cancer, and being "A Winner", is going on to encourage others that they too can be cured.

The slogan for this year's Crusade is "Help Yourself with a Check-Up and Your Neighbor with a check." It is estimated that 615,000 new cases of cancer will be detected in 1969. The encouraging fact is that there are now 1,500,000 Americans cured of cancer.

Airport rules reviewed by City Council

Charlevoix City Council played host to a comparatively quiet meeting Monday evening.

Jess Penn and Ray Wood appeared before the City Fathers to review the proposed Charlevoix Municipal Airport field rules and regulations.

The pair questioned the rule making insurance mandatory for flying and soaring clubs. They also asked what the fees and charges would be at the airport.

Council answered that fees and other charges have not yet been determined.

Penn and Wood also made several suggestions concerning the safe operation at the field.

AIRPORT RULES

The rules set forth by the airport owners cover a wide range of topics.

A review of the regulations shows that the owner or manager will maintain an iron hand on the operation of the facility.

A sampling of the rules shows:

No visibly damaged aircraft will be stored on any tie-down area or parking ramp;

Aircraft engines shall not be started when the air stream may throw loose debris at buildings, parking areas or spectators;

Daily, weekly and monthly tie-down fees shall be as prescribed by the airport owner;

The terminal gate area will be used only for aircraft loading and unloading, not to exceed a period of 20 minutes.

In addition, clubs come under rigid rules concerning membership, ownership and financial limitations.

LAND SALE

Council also reviewed the proposed sale of a tract of land to the Electra Machine Company. The local company wants to purchase approximately three acres for expansion purposes.

The city-owned tract lies on Petoskey Avenue, adjacent to Electra's present facility. Besides the three acres, the company wants an option of 17 more acres.

LAKE POLLUTION

Robert Cook went before Council, and questioned the circumstances surrounding the spillage of oil in Lake Charlevoix and its shoreline at the Ferry Avenue ramp.

Mayor William Fochtman said that oil was being pumped from a large tank into a smaller one. A valve stuck, and a small portion of oil overflowed onto the beach area and into the lake.

School Board lists possible budget cuts

As expected, finances were the main topic at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix School Board, Monday night.

The prime subject was what programs could be dropped if the millage proposal was turned down by the voters at the next election, scheduled to be held June 9.

Superintendent Rex Milligan stressed that he was presenting only possible cuts in the budget for next year, and was not suggesting or recommending that any salaries or programs be pared.

First, on the list of possible salary cuts was the Community School program. Supervised by Del Terrill, dropping the program would slice $4,000 from the budget. Dropping the position of administrative assistant would save $6,500.

Other possible cuts are:

Elementary teachers--remedial reading, $3,800; elementary physical education, $7,800; vocal music, $8,353; one section of kindergarten, $4,459; one first grade section, $7,800; and one second grade teacher, $7,800.

High school teachers--commercial, $8,035; co-op, $4,000; eliminate small classes, $7,800; athletics, $7,021; summer band, $1,200; club sponsors, $1,953; attendance officer, $315; nurse, $4,600; and bus mechanic, $3,000;

SALARY SAVINGS

Total monies would be $88,436 by dropping those positions and programs.

In the non-salary line, Milligan presented the following proposals as possible belt-tighteners:

Charge book rental (students in all grades pay for the use of school books), $4,500; cut travel and teacher and administrative expenses for conferences, $1,300; area vocational school tuition, $5,280;

By halting the bus transportation of youngsters who live less than one and one-half miles from school ("town" bus riders), the district could save $500. Halting extra bus runs to athletic contests would save $2,100.

If all night activities were dropped at the schools, $4,000 could be pared from the budget.

Non-salary savings above total $17,680, for a grand total of $106,116, or about the amount of the budget increase over this year.

The Board and Milligan took the position that none of the "savings" are beneficial to the school district, and expressed confidence that the millage would be approved by the voters in June.

CITIZEN GROUP

In an effort to popularize the budget increase, Donald Brown led a group of school district citizens before the Board. Purpose of the group is to act as a "sounding board" to relay the voter opinion to the Board.

Board President Glenn Kenney asked Brown what the group expected from the Board.

"We would expect favorable consideration of the proposals we bring you," Brown stated. "We want to act as a liaison between the Board and the voter."

30 DAY REPORT

After expressing approval and thanking the citizens' committee, the Board was told the group would report its findings within 30 days. It was also requested that an open hearing be held to discuss the findings.

RE-APPROVE BUDGET

Superintendent Milligan asked for and received approval of the 1969-70 budget for presentation to the Allocation Board. Two minor changes were noted: the estimate of students next year has been lowered from 1,542 to 1,500; and the percent of taxes collected has been lowered from 93 to 92.

GOOD REPORT

High school principal Raymond Carr reported that the North Central Report was received this week, and for the first time in memory, no advisements or warnings were contained in the findings.

"This is the first time in my years here that this has been true," Milligan added.

'Sounding board' formed

A group of citizens from the Charlevoix school district appeared before the Board of Education, Monday, to present a plan that would make the voters' feelings known to the Board regarding the recent turndown of the school millage increase.

Spokesman for the group, Donald Brown, stated that the citizens involved were vitally concerned by the apparent lack of voter response in the last millage election.

Brown stated that the purpose of the group was to gain assurance that the Board would react to the findings and conclusions reached by the group.

He further stated that the group would expect that the Board's reaction would be made known at a public meeting.

This information-gathering group proposed to set up a "center" so Charlevoix residents might come in person or telephone their concerns.

Brown stated that the group would "welcome any citizens who might devote their time to this effort." A location for this center will be announced next week. It was emphasized by the group's spokesman that, "we wish to supply the views of the entire Charlevoix school district".

Members of the group appearing besides Brown were James Hiller, Charles England, Mrs. Gerald Staublin, Robert Hoffman, James Feidler, James Marshall, Fred Payne, and Frank Gellnar.

Brown's prepared statement said:

"We as concerned and interested Charlevoix citizens propose to the Charlevoix Board of Education the following:

"That we serve as a sounding board for the citizens of Charlevoix so that we might reach some conclusions in regard to the turndown of the last millage election.

"If the Board approves, we will set up a center to gather information from Charlevoix voters at large. We will welcome any other interested citizens who wish to join us in this project.

"We wish to emphasize that we want the concerns of all Charlevoix school district voters.

"If this effort is made our group will expect that the Board will react to the conclusions and findings of the group in a public hearing."

The Board unanimously approved the formation of the citizen's group. (See allied story on Page 1.)

Obit: Golf dies

Charlevoix High School's ill-fated golf team bit the dust Monday night, as the School Board turned thumbs down on its creation this year.

"Too risky," said the Board, stating that the $250 it would take to field the team for the season would anger an already irate public.

Century of progress traced in Charlevoix County's growth

by Bernice Wexstaff

1969 is a very important year for Charlevoix County, as we look backward 100 years to its inception. Once included in Emmet County, 1896 saw the separation of the two areas and Charlevoix County's birth as a separate entity.

1869-1969 has seen progress almost beyond belief. Due to Charlevoix village's proximity to Lake Michigan shipping, its early growth was more pronounced than sister settlements of Boyne City and East Jordan. But when the Grand Rapids and Indiana (G.R.&I.) railroad finally penetrated the northern wilderness in 1873 from Traverse City through Boyne Falls to Petoskey, both Boyne City and East Jordan received the impetus that evidenced an immediate rivalry which has continued to this day.

However, the village of Charlevoix had the first school in the county. It was located on what is now Belvedere Avenue and was taught by Mrs. Morris Stockman who, with her husband, were among our first pioneers.

The second school was promoted by the women folk of the village in 1867, although the building was not completed until 1869. It appears from early records in the publication Traverse Region of 1884 that there were about a dozen white families in the village of Charlevoix and, as the men folk didn't move fast enough to suit the women in the matter of schooling for the young, the women had a fair to raise money for an adequate school building. The fair was a success and the munificent sum of $75 was raised which financed the new building near the corner of State and Antrim Streets. (For those historians who are interested in what happens to old soldiers who never die, the century-old school is now incorporated into the swelling at 403 Mason Street.)

April 24, 1869, saw the establishment of Charlevoix's first newspaper, the Sentinel by Willard A. Smith. That early building on the east side of Bridge Street, across from the present Henry Hogan property which houses the Sweet Shop, has long since been lost to progress, and the conservation of waterfront scenery adjacent to the Polly Kay shop. The Sentinel was finally merged with the Courier during the A.J. Usher era.

Early in 1867 a mail route was established as was a post office. Philo Beers was Charlevoix's first postmaster, and he kept the office at his house which stood just south of the river (channel). After Beers' death in 1872, Richard Cooper, who was deputy postmaster, moved the office to his own property, Fountain City House, the site of the present Weathervane Terrace.

The year 1869 saw the erection of the pioneer store of Messrs. Fox and Rose. It too was on the south side of the channel and was said to be of "mammoth proportions." However, viewpoint has changed with the times and it is a source of speculation as the how the "mammoth" proportions of yesteryear would stack up in the public image of today!

The year 1869 saw the establishment of East Jordan's first post office, according to records on file at the East Jordan Public Library. It was also the year the Bohemian Settlement was established on the eastern perimeter of East Jordan, when immigrants newly arrived from Europe came down the Jordan River from Antrim City to make their homes in the northern wilderness.

While technically these people were across the border in Antrim County still they made East Jordan their trading-post from the beginning and names like Votruba, Stanek and Trojanek and Swoboda are commonplace in East Jordan history.

Within a decade J.C. Glen moved his saw-mill from Leland in Leelanau County to East Jordan, due to the immense quantities of hard wood timber in the Jordan Valley, and the town was well established as a business center.

Walloon Lake Resort, situated on the eastern end of Walloon Lake in Charlevoix County was brought into being with the extension of the old G.R.&I. Railroad in 1873 as was also the village of Boyne Falls. Two men, known now only as William Nelson and Mr. Powers owned a large tract of land adjacent to the right-of-way and they promptly platted it and named it Boyne Falls. The first post office was established in 1874 with Will Nelson as Postmaster.

Bay Shore on the northern perimeter of the county developed with the extension of the Pere Marquette Railway in 1892, while Ironton came into being with the establishment of an early iron foundry on the South Arm shore. Hence the name, Ironton from Irontown. Horton Bay on the northern shore of Lake Charlevoix will, of course, go down in history as the boyhood home of Earnest Hemmingway.

The village of Norwood, renowned as the boyhood home of author Rex Beach, situated 12 miles south of Charlevoix on the Lake Michigan shore sprang up at approximately the same time as the village of Charlevoix. Norwood had a dock and Great Lakes vessels hauled supplies to Norwood port before our own Pine River channel was opened for lake traffic.

Charles Meier of Mt. McSauba receives $350 check from Les Payne, president of Charlevoix Lions Club. Donation is part of more than $2,200 given by the local club in the last month. Other local organizations receiving checks were Youth for Understanding and Camp Daggett. Checks were also made available to other Michigan Lions Club projects, such as Welcome Home for the Blind, Leader Dog School, CARE, and eye collection fund. Money was raised through projects undertaken by the local club, selling brooms, light bulbs, the annual Chicken Bar-B-Q, Coke sale and refreshments at the motorcycle races. Others above are "Corky" Meier and Dick Fochtman, of the Lions.

Arbor Week observance notes 90 tree varieties

LANSING--Michigan is the only state to observe Arbor Week instead of Arbor Day. This year by proclamation Governor William Milliken has made it April 20 to 26. The week observance started in 1966.

"Because of the increased interest in, and importance of, the state-wide "Keep Michigan Beautiful" program, one or two days no not afford enough time and opportunity for a full and proper observance of Arbor Day," Governor Milliken explained.

Moreover, Michigan's national tree leadership warrants Michigans extended annual observance of the importance of tree planting. Michigan grows 90 varieties of trees, more than any state in the nation and more than can be found in all of Europe.

With 59 national champion trees out of the total nation - wide of 117 species, Michigan leads the nation with more big trees than any other state. Fifth-four percent of its total land area is classified as commercial forest land.

There has been a tremendous increase in observance of Arbor Week on the part of schools, civic bodies, service groups and the public generally in line with the increased interest in beautification of residential and commercial property and our parks and cities.

As in the past the Governor will plant a tree on the State Capitol lawn furnished by the Michigan Association of Nurserymen.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources in cooperation with the nurserymen's association has prepared a special phamplet giving full information for the observance of Arbor Week. It may be obtained free from the department.

The five regional chapters of M.A.N. at Detroit, Lansing, Saginaw, Kalamazoo and Grand Rapids will atd groups and individuals with their programs. For information and program material contact M.A.N. Headquarters P.O.Box 5367, Lansing, Mich. 48905. Schools, municipalities, service organizations and other groups are urged to participate.

Poison prevention program planned

LANSING -- Pharmacists throughout Michigan are participating in a public education program on poison prevention, and preparedness in case of an accidental poisoning, announced Robert C. Johnson, R.Ph., executive director of the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association.

Over one-half million children are accidentally poisoned in the United States each year. More than 2,000 deaths could be attributed to poisoning by either solids or liquids, of which the largest classification is medicines.

In 1967, there were 72,661 ingestions among children under five years of age. More than half of the fatalities occur in children under four years of age.

To attempt to reduce these alarming figures, the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association is undertaking a program to educate the children and teach them to respect drugs.

The MSPA and its local societies have obtained copies of a six minute color-sound cartoon film entitled, "Sniffy Escapes Poisoning". The film was premiered on television throughout Michigan during National Poison Prevention Week, and it is expected that it will be shown in connection with children's programs throughout the year.

In this cartoon, a young boy attempts to give medication to his sick dog. When he gets to the medicine cabinet, the tablets and capsules become lifelike and explain to the boy that too much medicine can be harmful and that only Mom and Dad should handle medicine.

Following Poison Prevention Week, the film will be available for showing at elementary schools, nursery schools, and children's groups. Persons interested in viewing the film or showing it to a group of young children (suggested for ages 3 to 10) should contact the Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association, 1812 Michigan National Tower, Lansing, Michigan 48933.

This film was developed by Frederick J. Margolis, M.D., a Kalamazoo pediatrician, who has been very active in poison prevention. Dr. Margolis is also on the faculty of the School of Medicine at Wayne State University.

The MSPA introduced the Snake "WARNING" labels developed in 1964, to be affixed to particularly hazardous substances. These labels have gained international acceptance and distribution.

Other previous MSPA Poison Prevention programs were directed at educating the adults. In 1966, MSPA introduced the Poison Antidote Kit (PAK) which is distributed through participating pharmacies to Michigan families. Over 73,000 PAK's have been distributed since 1966.

Essentially, the Poison Antidote Kit consists of a plastic box, inside of which is a one-half ounce container of Syrup of Ipecac, U.S.P., and a 5 Gm container of Activated Charcoal. Both antidotes are held in high esteem by authorities on accidental poisoning.

A booklet entitled, "Poison Prevention and Treatment" was also developed by MSPA, and approximately 39,000 booklets have been distributed throughout Michigan.

The Michigan State Pharmaceutical Association has won two national Public Education Awards in 1965 and 1967 for its programs and involvement in public education on poison prevention.

Tough, new law in first impact

LANSING -- Lose your driver's license in Michigan because your lights aren't working just right? And have your insurance rates go up because of it? And to boot, spend three ignominious days in jail? And maybe lose your car in the bargain?

It isn't likely, but it could happen under a new Michigan law which is now making its first impact on the state's driving population.

Secretary of State James M. Hare describes the new law as "too harsh for the traffic violation involved.

"I opposed it when it was introduced in the Legislature last year. And its effects are worse than even I first anticipated," said Hare, in telling about the law commonly referred to as the "Maher bill" named after the former Detroit traffic court judge.

"I backed the so-called 'Illinois' system bill at that time and still feel it would have been far more effective in curbing the 'ticket juggler' in this state."

The Secretary of State traced a hypothetical case which might have occurred last January 1.

"Say a motorist received a Jan. 1 ticket for a burned out headlight. His court hearing is set for January 10. At the time of his hearing, he does not appear. The court under the new law then notifies the motorist of his 'failure to appear summons'. The driver makes no response. His failure to answer summons is mailed by the Court to the Central Records section of the Department of State. The motorist is then notified by mail by the Secretary of State's office that his license has been suspended. This becomes a permanent record in the file. All suspensions do.

"The motorist's insurance company upon learning of this either cancels or ups the premium on his insurance policy. Credit bureaus checking against driver files learn of the suspension and take adverse action against the driver's credit rating.

"And all the while, the motorist who may have moved and not notified the Secretary of State of a change of address may not know he is suspended.

"He cuntinues to drive, oblivious of the problem. He is stopped and charged with 'driving while under suspension'.

"Conviction fur this charge is two-fold. The first part is impoundment of the person's car if he owns it. And the second is a minimum mandatory three-day jail sentence.

"All, for a relatively minor equipment violation."

Hare admitted that this isn't likely to happen too often. But it could happen given the right set of circumstances, he said.

There were 100,000 equipment violators last year.

Games, food at PTA Fair, Sat.

Workers from the Kiwanis Club will move into the Elementary School gymnasium Friday afternoon to begin setting up booths for the annual PTA Fair, Saturday.

Proceeds from the community-wide event will go toward school equipment, improvements and scholarships.

The fair starts at 5 p.m. and concludes with a dance sponsored by the juniors and seniors.

Other sponsors and events are the penny pitch, kindergarten; fish pond, first grade; grab bag, second grade; "Ring the Thing", third grade.

Used books, records and games, fourth grade; sponge throw, fifth grade; tickets, sixth grade; cake walk, seventh grade; popcorn, eighth grade; novelty booth, ninth grade; darts, tenth grade.

According to the Kiwanis Club, there will be more than enough food to satisfy almost any appetite.

Food programs benefit 191,000

Nearly 191,000 low-income persons in Michigan received food assistance from the U.S. Department of Agriculture during February, according to Dennis M. Doyle, Midwest district director of Consumer Food Programs.

The total included 72,560 persons in 47 Commodity Distribution Program projects and 118,373 in 35 Food Stamp Program areas. Counties joining the Food Stamp Program during the month were Clinton, Genesee, Grand Traverse and Saginaw.

Michigan participants in the stamp plan received around $2.2 million worth of coupons during February of which over $784,000 were bonus coupons. The average bonus per person was $6.46.

Capsizing costs lives

Chief Petty Officer J. L. Wilson, officer in charge of the Coast Guard boating safety detachmont assigned the Western Michigan area has received word from Coast Guard Headquarters that boating accident statistics show that in previous years more lives were lost because of boat capsizing than any other single cause.

According to a letter received from the Coast Guard's Office of Boating Safety, many of these fatalities could have been avoided if the victim had known the right thing to do.

Often, a boat's occupants are not injured when thrown into the water. Most drownings that follow capsizings result from improper actions on the part of the victims.

"For your own safety," Chief Wilson says, "you should know emergency procedures." Here are a few rules: Use Coast Guard approved lifesaving devices, stay with the boat, and keep calm.

By staying with the boat, a person thrown into the water increases his chances of being spotted by rescuers. Statistics show that in most cases swimming ashore is the wrong thing to do.

Letters to the editor

School taxes

Editor, Courier:

Having been one of the voters and also a property owner in the city of Charlevoix, I would like to be one of those to list their reasons fur voting "NO" on the last special millage proposal.

First of all, I don't like the idea of nontaxpayers voting on a proposal to increase my taxes. This might be legal, but it doesn't look like it to me.

Second, I think too much emphasis is put on sports, especially when we have to travel hundreds of miles for competition. I realize the students should have some exercise but why couldn't they have, each class, an hour of calisthenics every day. This would benefit everyone in school, not just a few.

Third, I think this whole thing is going a little too far. It seems to me with a little foresight that the school board could look ahead a little in their planning. When we voted on the first high school, that was supposed to be the last. With a little foresight it could have been. This is like a newly wed couple buying a house with one bedroom on a small lot. When the first child appears they have to either build a new bedroom or buy a house with two bedrooms figuring there won't be any more children.

Next, I don't think that we are getting our moneys worth on the whole system when it only operates 180 days a year. I can see two or even three weeks shutdown but there are 365 days a year and the system doesn't even operate half of that.

Book mark contest won by 4th grader

The Easter book mark contest sponsored by the Charlevoix Public Library included entries from the first through the sixth grades.

First prize was awarded to Patty Fels, a 4th grade student, and second prize went to Jeff Skelton, a 4th grader.

Honorable Mentions were received by Kim Carter, 6th grade, and Sue Winchester, 4th grade.

Industrial Ed Fair nets CHS 32 ribbons

Charlevoix high school won 32 ribbons at the Top-o-Michigan Industrial Education Fair held at Bellaire last Friday. Awards were won in drafting, woodwork and metal work divisions.

Students taking firsts were Frank Cook, architectural drafting; Wilson Boss, Jerry Fochtman, Bill Carey and Victor Kantola, mechanical drafting and Randy Gustafson, metal work.

Students taking seconds were Dick Bogart, and Phill Skeel, architectural drafting; Dennis Crain, Bruce Cunningham, Ned Henley and Scott Blanchard, mechanical drafting; Glen Wertman, woodwork and Randy DeYoung, wrought iron.

Tim McCracken, a Charlevoix students who participates in the vocational machine shop at Petoskey Vocational Center, won a first place rating in machine shop projects.

Third place ribbons went to Frank Cook and Charles Meier, architectural drafting; Mark Erickson, electricity and Gordon Skeel and Gordon Solomon, mechanical drafting.

Honorable mention ribbons were won by Jeff Vetting, Greg Martin, Bruce McPhillips, John Miller, Albert Seese and Steve Smith, architectural drafting; Randy Gustafson and Bruce Cunningham, machine shop and David Gill, Mickey Gigg, Phill Skeel and Bruce McPhillips, mechanical drafting.

All the students in the industrial arts classes are taught by James Jinsky and Vane Smith.

Projects winning first and second places will be entered in the Michigan State Industrial Education Fair Thursday at the Walker Sports Arena in Muskegon.

Other schools participating in the fair were Petoskey, Cheboygan, East Jordan, Boyne City, Ellsworth, Alcona, Mancelona, Bellaire and Glen Lake.

School money troubles plague many districts

Charlevoix Public schools are not alone with their financial problems as many Michigan public school districts have a "balance sheet" problem they can't live with for long, a Department of Education finance expert said today.

"In simplest terms, school districts totally have been eating up their working capital," said Robert N. McKerr, associate superintendent of public instruction in charge of administrative services.

In the 1967-68 school year, spending for all districts outstripped income for all districts by $31 million. Despite this, the balance sheet for all the schools -- including 74 districts that actually ended the year with a deficit -- showed a general fund equity of $76.8 million.

"This general fund equity is roughly equivalent to what a business might call its 'working capital,' or 'operating capital,'" McKerr said.

"It doesn't mean that you've got spare money around, it just means that you'll be able to pay your bills as they come due."

The first state aid payment in a school year comes in August, the next in October. Local taxes, which provide about half of all school revenue, are seldom received by the Districts until around the first of the year. Salaries and other costs must be met when due.

McKerr explained that the 74 districts that ended 1967-68 in the red only give a hint of the problem. For several years now, school districts totally have had to meet costs greater than their total income.

"On the 1967-68 balance sheet," McKerr said, "general fund equity was 5.58% of total operating expenditures. Since we're talking about different amounts of money in different school years, this percentage is our best measure -- our only meaningful comparison, really -- of the total financial health of the schools from year to year."

The higher the percentage figure, McKerr said, the better the operating results.

"The indicator of trouble is that the percentage figure has been dropping so sharply in the last few years -- three and three-quarters percent in the last year alone," he said.

Year end general fund equity as percent of operating expenditures stood at 11.95 at the end of the 1964-65 school year. By the end of the 1965-66 year, it had dropped to 10.56%, and at the end of school in 1966-67 it was 9.35%. Then came the big drop to 5.58% at the end of the 1967-68 school year.

Over this period of time, of course, both school costs and school income -- from local property taxes, state aid and federal money -- had gone up tremendously, McKerr said.

"That's why the percentage relationship between general fund equity at year end and total expenditures for the year are the meaningful measure of the fiscal health of the districts," he said. "The change in percentages shows how much operating capital has been consumed.

Charlevoix School District has, as most other schools, been eating up the so-called working capital. The year-end general fund equity as a percent of the operating expenditure stood at 11.7% at the end of the 1965-66 school year. By the end of the school year 1967-68 it had dropped to 3.7%.

The general fund equity at the end of the school year will be completely erased.

"There is no way that you can say a certain percentage is 'right,' or 'wrong,' but when the percentage is going down it shows that expenditures are increasing at a faster rate than income is increasing."

McKerr also noted that some items that must be carried on the assets side of the balance sheet are not readily convertible to cash.

"For example, 1967-68 statewide assets included more than $36 million in taxes receivable -- even though time of collection on these is very uncertain. There was another $10 million in inventories.

"The schools had $107 million in cash on the assets side, too, but this was more than offset by just three items on the liabilities side -- short term loans, salaries payable and other accounts payable."

The TRAIL - BREAKER

It Goes Anywhere

Climbs up 60° slopes
Fords streams
Floats across deep water
Crawls over boulders & logs

Trail-Breaker is not a motorcycle or trail-bike. It's a new breed of wheels altogether. Trail-Breaker is the world's first two-wheel, two-wheel drive vehicle. This, plus the wide tractor-type tires can cover cross-country terrain like nothing else on earth. And, throw in the ride of your life in the bargain.

Mt. McSauba wraps it up for the year... spring-like weather has taken its toll at Mt. McSauba. The boards are away for another year, and thoughts of the sportsman turn to fishing, softball and water sports.

Spring here-boat time

LANSING -- Even with the vacillations of Michigan's changing weather patterns still much in evidence, one incontrovertible fact stands out. . .it's officially Spring and a good time of year to be thinking about boats and boating.

And, Secretary of State James M. Hare said this is the best time to get license plates for your boat if it qualified under Michigan law.

Sale of 1969 Michigan boat license plates began recently at selected branch offices of the Secretary of State.

Boat plates must be purchased each year. The boat plate law must not be confused with motorboat registration and numbering which is set up in three-year cycles.

Hare said about 40,000 boat licenses were issued in 1968.

"Even though this was an increase over the previous year, it doesn't appear very high in the light of the seeming thousands of persons enjoying the Coho fishing in Lake Michigan and its tributaries and the fishing in other Great Lakes and connecting waterways," said Hare.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Stramandi of Charlevoix announce the birth of a baby girl, Tonia Jo, born Wednesday, April 9, in Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

Stramandi is presently serving as an Ensign on the Sundew. Mrs. Stramandi is a third grade teacher at St. Marys School.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schultz of Flint, Mich., have a daughter, born April 14 at 5 lbs., 9 oz.

'Our Town' presented by E. Jordan juniors

"Our Town" will be presented tomorrow and Friday by the junior class of East Jordan High School.

Directed by Dennis Shepherd, the production will be staged in the gymnasium. Tickets are available at the door.

Ruppe Reports

Census law is unfair

Congressman Phil Ruppe stated this week he feels the 1970 Census questionnaire "invades the basic right of privacy". The Congressman has introduced legislation to eliminate all penalties for failure to answer personal questions in the form.

Under present law, failure to answer any census questions can result in stiff fines and prison sentences up to one year. "In my opinion," Ruppe said, "penalties should only apply to essential items such as name, address, sex, date of birth and so forth. The government has no right to pry into such questions as whether you share your shower with another household or if you don't have a bathtub.

Ruppe pointed out that all presently planned questions will remain in the form and, under his bill, may be answered if an individual chooses to do so. However, there would be no penalty for failure to answer personal questions.

"The Census is an important tool in Congress and the Government," Ruppe said. The 1970 Census is going to be helpful in locating problem areas and may lead to revisions in present government programs. However, in this age of computers and instant information retrieval systems, we must guard against the danger of creating the age of "Big Brother" and do everything possible to protect the American citizen's right to privacy. Personal census questions should be answered only as a result of an individual's own free will -- not under threat of punishment."

Ruppe said he feels it is imperative that this legislation be considered and passed during the present session of Congress before the 1970 Census is initiated.

Coleman, Crain elected to top student posts

By Jeanne Mutz

Stewart Coleman and Bob Crain were elected by Charlevoix high school students last week to be next year's student council President and Vice-President. Among all class and student council offices, this is considered the highest office a student can attain in Charlevoix high school.

Officers of next year's senior class are president, Kraag Lieberman; vice-president, Lynn Fiedorek; secretary, Sharon Boss; treasurer, Bob DeYoung and student council representatives Charles Novak and Geri Santek.

Officers of next year's junior class are president, Nancy Fochtman; vice-president, LeRoy Reed; secretary, Ruth-Ann Gengle; treasurer, Sue Kayner and student council representatives, Terry Elzinga and Kay Fiedorek.

Officers of next year's sophomore class are president, Bill Carey; vice-president, Lori Herzog; secretary, Laurie Engstrom; treasurer, Jean Carey and student council representatives, Paul Klooster and Diane Boss.

Officers of next year's freshman class are president, Elaine Carr; vice-president, Janet Dinwiddie; secretary, Lisa Wososki; treasurer, Sue Way and student council representatives, Roy Rank and Cathy Begrow.

Officers of next year's 8th grade are president, Jerry Skippergosh; vice-president, Connie Crain; secretary, Darcy McCandless; treasurer, David Mutz and student council representatives, John Osterberg and Debbie Bresnahan.

Chamber Chat

BY WALLY LODER

"Arbor Day", Saturday, April 26. The Charlevoix Garden Club is anxious to take orders for flowering crabtrees, hawthornes, burning bushes, lilac, etc., which committee is headed by Mrs. Jack Rader, 108 East Dixon, phone 547-6665.

This shrubbery was made available through the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce and to one degree or another, Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, and Walloon Lake Chambers are cooperating through their local Garden Clubs. The stock has always been right up to par, and it is part of a continued beautification program in the areas mentioned. The different participants will pick up their orders Saturday, April 26, and have them available locally for their various orders. We certainly appreciate the Garden Club's interest and urge orders early as possible, and the shrubbery and trees will be sold first come, first served. If any of you wish to get these trees, first try to get in touch with Mrs. Rader, and if she is not available, contact this Chamber, and in turn, we will make sure your order is given to Mrs. Rader. The committee is hoping to get their orders by Thursday, April 17.

We are continuing to increase our list of ambitious young students, male and female for summer employment with the hopes that the employers in this area can absorb quite a number.

How about much more displaying of our American Flag? Businesses, industries, homes, etc., mainstreet, public buildings. There comes Flag Day, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Veterans Day, and other national holidays. Let us show the colors of which we are proud. I know there are many places you can obtain flags, however, do not overlook the American Legion group here at Charlevoix have them for sale, and to learn more about it, contact Bob Nowakowski at the Capri Motel, or other Legion members. Let's Go!

Hi there gals! How many of you have entered the queen's contest? This is a pleasant and worthwhile effort, and we hope your cooperation will soon be made known to Dave Jolliffe or Mrs. Billie Smith. We are already getting calls for entering the queen and the beautiful street parade float, also to include the queen's court. Who knows, maybe one day you would be the National Cherry Festival Queen at Traverse City, Miss Michigan, or Miss Teenage America, who knows?

* * *

Again, I mention we at the Chamber, meaning the Board of Directors and myself, hope there will be more individual membership contributions, in an effort to create closer relationship, etc. As indicated several times, our voting right membership starts at $40, and contributions other than voting are most certainly welcome, which are in lesser amounts, anywhere from $5 up. So do not hesitate if you are not yet contacted and you have a feeling of support a function which is for the community and not designed for a few businesses and industries. Many of you have ideas, which we welcome. We have ideas also, but no matter whose ideas, somewhere along the line there will be dollars involved, and membership in one category or another the dollars are what we need. It was a pleasure today to accept a $5 contribution, because of the spirit and interest with which it was given.

Coeds can win home ec grants

CHICAGO -- A chance to apply for one of six $800 national 4-H scholarships is offered to coeds who plan to major in home economics in their junior year in the fall of 1969, according to the National 4-H Service Committee.

The scholarships are part of the 4-H College Scholarships Fund set up by the Cooperative Extension Service and administered by the 4-H Service Committee.

Girls interested should make application through the State 4-H office. Information also can be obtained from the County Extension 4-H office.

Applicants must have been a 4-H member for at least three years, be in good scholastic standing, and be enrolled in an accredited college or university.

The state finalist's 4-H and scholastic records will be judged early in November. Winners will be announced by the Extension Service during the National 4-H Congress held in Chicago, Nov. 30 through Dec. 4.

'These glasses'...may help

"These glasses were my grammy's, maybe someone else's grammy can use them."

The note was written in a childish hand, wrapped around a pair of eyeglasses and mailed to "New Eyes For The Needy," a Short Hills, N.J., volunteer organization staffed mostly by housewives.

Some 883,835 pairs of glasses were sent to "New Eyes" last year. They didn't all come with touching notes, but they came from every state and from people of all ages. And they came for the same reason--a desire on the part of the sender to assist "New Eyes" in bringing the gift of better sight to people who have no one else to help them.

The "New Eyes" volunteers have been on the job for 36 years, and donated reusable glasses have always been the mainstay of the operation. When the organization was incorporated in 1947, the treasury consisted of 47 cents.

Despite this, "New Eyes" has never solicited money. Besides glasses, virtually the only other assistance the 300 volunteers who make up the organization accept is precious metal scrap, silverware, antique and costume jewelry. These are melted down and the money from the reclamation, and from the sale of usable jewelry and silverware donors sometimes send, is used to supply funds established in 106 hospitals all over the country, Canada and Puerto Rico. They pay for new prescription glasses, or if needed, artificial eyes.

While the emphasis is on helping as many people as possible, as quickly as possible, "New Eyes" volunteers don't close their eyes to individual requests for aid.

In 1968 for instance, "New Eyes":

Answered the request of a Peace Corp volunteer and sent glasses to the natives of a tiny Pacific Island.

Provided glasses for a Vietnam civilian whose poor sight was the subject of a letter from that country written by a U.S. Army private.

Started a fund to aid a midwestern clinic created by medical students and their instructors to assist poor people not eligible for public assistance because of the limited period of their residence.

One of the happiest aspects of providing assistance is the thank you letters which come in from grateful recipients.

Wrote one ten-year-old Missouri girl, "I thank you for making it possible for me to get these glasses. I will thank Jesus tonight for having such nice people like you."

The "New Eyes" people invite individuals and organizations to help them continue the job of bringing better sight to those who need it most.

Discarded glasses, broken jewelry, and precious metal scrap are needed. Address them to New Eyes For The Needy, Short Hills, N.J. 07078.

Century of progress

Norwood boasted a hotel, known as the Eagle House, a saw-mill, a boarding house (primarily for itinerant lumber-jacks), a general store and a post office. William Harris was Norwood's first postmaster.

Charlevoix County is unique in history as having once had within its borders the only kingdom ruled by a bona-fide King in the entire U.S.A. The Mormon Kingdom of James J. Strang, a young lawyer who migrated via Wisconsin to Beaver Island in 1847. 1850 brought a large emigration of Mormons to the island much to the chagrin of the Irish fishermen who first claimed the island as their own.

At the height of Strang's power, President Fillmore happened to visit Detroit and heard of the "King" who was holding sway on a remote Island in Lake Michigan. President Fillmore dispatched a government cutter to depose him but later at his trial in Detroit, Strang defended himself on grounds of "freedom of worship" and was acquitted.

However, trouble was brewing in the Beaver Island paradise. King Strang ordered the women to wear bloomers! The women rebelled and when husbands were punished at the whipping post for failing to carry out the King's orders regarding wives, in 1856 an assassin's bullet brought Strang down and the end of the kingdom.

The year 1869 saw the establishment of Boyne City's first post office by John Miller who had come to Michigan from "York" state in 1856. This office like most pioneer postoffices was set up in home of the person willing to take on the responsibility. At that time the mail was brought from Traverse City to Petoskey by Indians with stop-offs at Central Lake. Later, a white man by the name of Mitchell LaCroix of what is now known as Advance on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix, was a faithful early mail carrier.

Boyne City's first school was established in 1879 on the Hugh Miller property, a board shanty, located near the corner of Elm and Pleasant avenue. Marietta Hickey was the first teacher.

Pioneer John Miller built the first dock near the present intersection of North Lake and Michigan avenues. With the by-passing of Old River in Round Lake at Charlevoix village by the new channel opening between Round Lake and the bigger Pine (Charlevoix) Lake, the eastern end of the county was now open to Great Lakes trade.

Charlevoix County's Board of Supervisors had made the first move to open the inland lake to Great Lake's traffic, but they found their resources unequal to the task and the Federal Government completed the project.

The first record of the organization of a fire-protection group was in the village of Charlevoix on July 17, 1883. By this date both the Belvedere (old Charlevoix Summer Home Association) and the Chicago Club were well established and it is understandable that with this additional home investment program there would be considerable concern in the matter of fire protection.

At this meeting committees were appointed and a constitution drawn up with 40 men in attendance. They named themselves the Charlevoix Rough And Ready Fire Company No. 1 and the roster sounds like a pioneer roll-call. To name a few: Horace Harsha (local realtor and father of Mrs. Earl Young) George W. Crouter (manager of the first telephone office in Charlevoix) John Nichols (builder and original owner of the Charlevoix Lumber Company) A. L. Coulter (father of the late Clark C. Coulter) Lyman Price (Uncle to Stanley Kellogg of Kellogg Studio of Petoskey), Levi Lewis (Charlevoix's first physician) as well as John Burns (father of Cecil Burns of 203 Grant street.)

Today's volunteer fire department boasts only 16 men with one man on duty on a 12-hour shift for the full 24 hours. This might seem like a wide disparity of service but we learn by research that of the 40 men who joined the original organization less than half showed up for regular drill instruction. Modern fire-fighting equipment undoubtedly assures more real protection from the 16-fire-fighters than was possible with double that number a century ago.

Charlevoix County has been blessed with spiritual benefits as well as material advantages: We have within our borders an example of the Red Man's Christian devotion in the church at Greensky Hill built by Indian converts some 125 years ago.

The White Man's church was the outgrowth of the work of the same gospel circuit riders and missionaries who were instrumental in converting the once Pagan Indians but the Indians were the first to organize a true church with a birchbark structure which antedated the present century-old log church at Greensky--- now an approved Michigan State Historical Site.

Although Charlevoix County's churches had a modest beginning of intermittent worship conducted by itinerant preachers supplemented by prayer meetings and Sunday School instruction in various homes, we are today supplied by 4 Roman Catholic churches plus all the well established Protestant denominations. Charlevoix City alone has 11 churches within its sphere of influence.

So Time Marches On and as the saying goes: The first hundred years are the hardest! Hopefully Charlevoix County will continue to prosper but this year, we should pause to reflect on the impact of our hardy pioneer forebears and honor our heritage in our civic activities and recreational programs.

BALLOONING skiers make winter ascent into chill winter air at Boyne Mountain Lodge.

Ascent made at Boyne

BOYNE FALLS--Some ten members of the Balloon Platoon Balloonist Club captained by Linden Harding, 28, of Bloomfield Hills, surprised and delighted Spring skiers at Boyne Mountain with a spectacular late winter ascension.

The balloon, piloted by Harding, was inflated to a five-stories height in the Boyne Mountain parking lot and was incongruously backdropped by the mountain and skiers. At his signal, the Balloon Platoon crew released guy lines, elevating the single-passenger craft to about 800 feet into the chill, cloud-dotted sky.

"The hot air for the bag is created by a butane gas burner mounted over the pilot's seat," Harding explained, "and has about an hour's fuel supply. A pilot is only able to control up and down flight depending upon the amount of hot air the burner generates." He continued, "Horizontal movement is controlled strictly by the direction of existing winds." Attesting to this, after floating to the desired altitude, the winds carried the unique, silent craft 5 miles easterly up the Boyne Country valley.

Landing in a field near a county road, the balloon was met by the Balloon Platoon crew and dismantled. Then, it was back to Boyne Mountain and the fine spring, corn-snow skiing on a 30-40 inch base. The skiing balloonists plan an ascent at Boyne Country again this month when both skiing and ballooning weather conditions are expected to be ideal.

The Balloon Platoon club has some 88 members from all over the world--including one member in Poland. The members hand-stitched the balloon from parachute nylon as a club project which took six months at a cost of $4,000. Harding has made about 30 ascents with it, one of them being over one-half mile high.

"Landings are the most dangerous part of ballooning," says Harding, "Aside from the obvious hazards such as trees and powerlines, since each landing is really a controlled crash." Making these "controlled" crashes more safe, he has devised a landing cushion which inflates with a CO2 cartridge and forms an air cushion ball under the gondola.

At the same time, a gigantic zipper along the gas bag is pulled to let out the air and prevent the balloon craft to be dragged along the ground.

When not ballooning or skiing Harding is assistant chief designer of General Motors Pontiac Styling.

There are about 100 balloons in the United States and the growing interest in the sport increases the membership ranks steadily.

In the Open

An ambitious plan to develop Peche Island as a real estate project has run into rough weather. The promoters seem confused and it might be possible to acquire the island at a bargain price. Although on the Canadian side of the border, the island is within the Detroit urban area. Over the decades vast numbers of ducks have been shot and tons of fish have been caught on and about the low-lying patch of land. The name, Peche, it is said, means "fishing", perhaps in the language of the original French settlers of the Great Lakes region.

After more than three and a half centuries of intensive exploitation the waterways between Lake Huron and Lake Erie continue to yield an abundance of fish and wildfowl. In the big days of market shooting professional gunners would set out at midnight to take over points on Peche Island -- and Belle Isle--and would, if ducks were flying, kill a hundred or more per gun per day, with an occasional Canada goose, also snow geese and bluegeese, which the old timers called "brant."

Two main continental flyways converge on the Detroit River, bringing a large percentage of the wildfowl produced on the prairies of the northwest into a funnel so that as long as ducks breed and migrate there will be tens of thousands of them winging south for the winter, north in the spring, pausing to rest and feed on connecting waters of the Great Lakes.

* * *

If a sportsman made Peche Island his headquarters and every day during the open season put out a hundred good decoys from the lower end of the island and put in full time in a shore blind, he would kill a lot of ducks. If he persistently fished in the gravel shoals just above the island he would bring in nice catches of small-mouth bass.

In the olden days Peche Island was used as a fishery by Wolfgang Feller, famous landlord of Wolf's, the most famous roadhouse in this part of the country.

In the spring the ice of Lake St. Clair carries down with it rocks of all sizes and, to clear the ground for seining, a net of one-inch manila line was hauled. Eager young Frenchmen heaved at the oars of a big flat-bottom scow, seining rocks and then seining whitefish when the run was on. The whitefish were stripped by Canadian government biologists to stock fish hatcheries.

The French oarsmen never lost their enthusiasm. They were excited to behold the catch enclosed in the first haul of the seine and as the plodding horse at the windlass drew in the last haul of the season, they were just as excited as at the beginning.

Fishing went on all night. The crew was sustained by hearty meals, based on boiled potatoes and boiled whitefish, fresh from ice-cold water. An hour or so pulling an eight-foot oar and no cocktail was needed to sharpen the appetite.

Now and then a sturgeon was brought in with the whitefish. The French people along Lake St. Clair made caviar which was kept in quart mason jars. A very special kind of salt was required for caviar, and home-made caviar had a very special flavor. The roadhouse price for a frog, fish and chicken dinner was 50 cents, and for regular customers, the dinner was preceded with unlimited caviar.

Of all the legendary sources of fish and game in North America none excelled the stretch of water including the Detroit River. Although the whitefish no longer swarm upstream in the fall, and although federal bag limits prevent the big duck kills, the region is still more fruitful than most people realize. Crafty natives continue to reap substantial harvests of canvasback, bass, pickerel, muskrat, catfish, perch within easy view of Detroit's skyline.

Terrill sees good track year at CHS

"We look for an above average year, if injuries don't shackle us, and if all our returning boys from last year come out," Charlevoix track coach Del Terrill said recently.

However, several of last year's standouts have not yet shown any indication they plan to hit the cinders, and a lot of new faces may be carrying the burden for the Red Rayders this spring.

Terrill, who has fielded some fine teams in his stint as track coach, has two or three returnees in most events, and is looking forward to four straight home meets before hitting the road for the Central Michigan Relays in Mt. Pleasant, May 2.

Among the regulars from last season Terrill is counting on are Dan Bergman and Bob DeYoung in the two-mile run; Don Livingston, Ed Whitley, Dan Berg and Terry Elzinga in the pole vault; Paul Fiedorek and Whitley in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Tim Doan, Kraag Lieberman and Livingston in the 100-yard dash; Roy Grunch, Kevin Swanson, Don Ward, Mike Lord and Terry Murray in the shot put; Jerry Parsel, Carl Novak and Mike Westenbrook in the mile; Greg Martin, and Frank Cook in the 440.

Gordon Solomon, Berg and Fiedorek in the high jump; Whitley and Fiedorek in the low hurdles; Doan, Lieberman, and Livingston in the 220; Solomon, Cook and Lieberman in the long jump.

Relays may pose a problem for Charlevoix. In the 880, only Lieberman returns from last year's group, while Martin is the only runner back in the mile relay, unless Ken Heeres decides to come out.

Terrill said about 80 boys are working out at the present time, preparing for the opener today, against St. Ignace and St. Francis.

The rest of the schedule looks like this: April 24, Gaylord, Alpena CC, home; 25, 29, Bellaire, home; 29, Boyne City, Rogers City, home.

May 2, Central Michigan Relays, at Mt. Pleasant; 6, Petoskey, Cheboygan, home; 10, Michigan Huron Shores Conference meet, at Petoskey; 14, Cheboygan Invitational, at Cheboygan; 17, Regionals at Traverse City; 20, Petoskey Relays, at Petoskey; 20, 24, State meet, at Mt. Pleasant.

CMU football 'stag' set

MT. PLEASANT--A football stag night is scheduled for Thursday, April 24, in Petoskey for all Central Michigan University alumni and their friends. The event will be staged in the Perry-Davis Hotel starting at 8 p.m.

Coach Roy Kramer will show films of the 1968 football season and discuss the prospects for the team this fall.

SMU alumni from counties in the northwest section of the state are urged to attend. There is no charge and refreshments will be available, according to Dr. Thomas Turcott, chairman.

Reservations can be made by writing or called Dr. Turcott, 312 Mitchell, Petoskey.

Bass is a fighter

Ask the freshwater fisherman anywhere what he thinks of the smallmouth bass and watch his eyes light up. Years ago the pioneering bass fisherman Dr. James Henshall called it "pound for pound" the hardest fighting fish of all. Today, decades later, anglers everywhere still insist that he was one hundred percent right.

Smallmouth bass specialists have their own ideas on the best way to take these bronzebacked trophies. Some will share their tips with you at the drop of a surface plug. If you sift through the ideas you find certain points surfacing time and again. These are the ones to remember this season as you head for the waters.

Look for smallmouth in the cleaner waters, especially streams with riffles and gravel bottoms. In big lakes, smallmouth are most likely living over the gravel bars and around the rocky ledges. If you're new to a lake, it is difficult to tell what the bottom might be like. In this type situation, sonar type devices can help.

Concentrate on deep and medium running plugs. In small streams use spinners, small spoons, plugs and plastic worms. You'll know when you hook a smallmouth. "You'll know," insist the smallmouth fans, "by the way he fights."

Biology course offered by CMU

MT. PLEASANT -- A new off-campus course in biology is being offered this summer at the Elk Rapids laboratory. Enrollment is limited to 12 men and the course will run from July 28 through August 15.

Titled Biology 435, Natural History of Fish and Aquatic Insects, the course earns three hours credit. It is open to undergraduates who have been admitted to candidacy and graduate students. The prerequisite is one year of college biology.

Teaching the course will be Dr. Herbert Lenon. Students will engage in extensive field study of the waterways surrounding Elk Rapids, with emphasis on the ecology of fish and their food sources, the aquatic insects.

The cost is $75 for tuition, plus a $20 laboratory fee. Students will furnish linen and own meals. Facilities for cooking are available.

We are proud to announce the end of the dirtiest, rottenest, crummiest, meanest, toughest, filthiest, most exasperating, backbreaking, thankless job you can think of.
Oven cleaning. What else? It's always been number one on the hate parade. But no more. Now, there's a Gas range with an oven that cleans itself.
And it's completely automatic. The oven does all the work. And the whole job costs about 2¢.
Now, that alone is almost worth the price. But of course, it's only part of the story. With this new Gas range you have the finest money can buy. An unlimited number of heat settings gives you complete control, at all times. You will cook faster. Cleaner. And with economy that just can't be touched.
Is there any other way to cook? See the new Gas self-cleaning ranges today at dealer or Michigan Consolidated Gas Company showrooms. It's perfect for people who like to cook, period. Cook with Gas . . . it'll serve you right.

Putting you first, keeps us first.
Foreground: Camaro SS Convertible. Background Left: Impala Custom Coupe. Right: Chevelle SS 396 Sport Coupe.
You have to have more pull to be first.
That's what it takes to be a leader.
And the 1969 Chevrolet Impala's got it.
With the largest standard V8 in Chevy's field. A 327-cubic-inch 235-horsepower job that thrives on regular gas.
With four big computer-selected coil springs that leave bumps where they belong. On the road.
With features like our Anti-Theft Lock System. When you lock the ignition on a '69 Chevy, you lock the steering wheel and transmission lever as well.
And if you think pulling a trailer or a boat is a drag, you haven't pulled one with Chevrolet's Turbo Hydra-matic. This three-range transmission is now available with most Chevy engines.
Let your Chevy dealer show you what it takes to be first. Then you'll know why the competition has to play our game.
Follow the leader.

THE ALLEGHENY, recent acquisition of Northwestern Michigan University, Traverse City, enters Charlevoix on its journey through the Great Lakes. The vessel will be used by the university to train students in nautical courses. A part of Charlevoix will travel with the Allegheny, in the form of dock particles. The ship collided with the dock as she berthed at the Beaver Island Boat Company.

The Beaver Islander left Charlevoix Monday, on its first trip of 1969. The boat will make one trip daily until June 21 when the two-trip per day schedule begins.

Camp leaders in training

Directors, Assistant Directors and Day Camp Planning Committee Chairmen from the eleven county Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council, met for an all day training session at Traverse City recently.

Included in the session was a film strip, "Because of Camping" which illustrated values of camping to the growth of the individual campers growth; slides of the various day camps operated last summer; responsibilities and duties of the day camp directors; how a day camp is set up and operated, state requirements to be met to be approved and licenses; program and the importance of girl planning of their own activities; nature crafts; use of consultants; exchange of successes and problems of experienced camp directors and a question and answer period.

Last year over 1,100 Brownie, Junior and Cadette Girl Scouts had day camping experience made possible by the efforts of over 250 volunteers adults.

Day camps this year will be operated at the following sites: Hickory Hills, Traverse City, June 16-20 and 23-27, Mrs. R. Hummel, director; Mrs. J. Rogers and Mrs. D. Reed, co-chairmen; Chimney Corners, Frankfort, June 9-13, Mrs. A. Ely, director; Mrs. F. Reed, chairman; Vacation Valley, Maple; June 16-20, Mrs. J. Barr, director; Mrs. R. PAs Compare county support

For the first time, a Michigan prosecuting attorney can systematically compare his county's commitment to the support of his office with that of similar sized counties and also his approach to his job with that of his counterparts in the state.

Further, he will be greatly assisted in briefing his County Board of Supervisors on the needs of his office.

These are several developments made possible by the completion of the first part of a three - phase study of Michigan's prosecuting attorney system. Scheduled for completion later this year, it will be the first study of its intended scope in the country. When the final data has been analyzed, the Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice is expected to make recommendations.

The report provides a county-by-county comparison of prosecuting attorneys' budgets, salaries, staffing and workload. In addition, the report gives a profile of the prosecuting attorney and his chief assistant and indicates whether or not the prosecutor engages in private law practice.

For example, in the 47 counties with populations under 35,000, only one prosecuting attorney had an assistant. Also, in those same counties, prosecutors' salaries varied from $3,600 to $15,000 and their workload ranged from six to 50 hours per week.

Prof to speak on pesticides

Dr. Gordon Guyer from Michigan State University, an outstanding speaker and authority on pesticides, will speak on the development and Use of Pesticides, at a joint meeting of all Service Clubs--Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary--in Charlevoix County.

The meeting will be at 7 p.m. dinner at Boyne Mountain on Monday, April 21.

Each service club member is inviting a farmer or sportsman to be his guest.

Dr. Guyer, is professor and chairman of the department of Entomology and director of the Interdisciplinary Pesticide Research Center at Michigan State University. He received BS, MS and Ph.D degrees from Michigan State University in 1950, 1952 and 1954, respectively.

In addition to administering the department, he teaches courses in applied and aquatic entomology and conducts research in the relationship of pesticides to the aquatic ecosystem and also in vegetable insect control.

He is an active member of the Entomological Society of America as well as the North Central Branch of the Society, having served on numerous committees. He also maintains membership in the American Fisheries Society, Sigma Xi, Michigan Entomological Society, Midwest Benthological Society, Canadian Entomological Society and the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters.

In 1965, he was a recipient of a Distinguished Faculty Award given by Michigan State University in recognition of outstanding contributions to the intellectual development of the University. He was a member of the Governor's Panel on Pesticides in 1968.

He has recently returned from a United Nations development program mission to Taiwan for the establishment of a plant protection center.
